Enrollment Shows Recession As 2200 Return To Campus

Total Shows Drop Of 100 From Last Year's Record;
About 500 Freshman Take Part In Orientation Program

Over 500 freshmen reported to campus last Thursday to participate in the orientation activities of Freshman Week, according to estimates released by the Registrar's Office.

Along with the incoming advanced standing students and the upperclassmen, these freshmen will make the College total near 2200 students. This is approximately 100 students less than last year's record enrollment of 2300 which was the largest in the history of the University.

Although no specific breakdown can be printed at this time, the unofficial reports from the Registrar's Office indicate that there are fewer advanced standing students than there have been in recent semesters.

As could be expected, there are considerably less veterans enrolled for the fall term. Also, the reports indicate that there are fewer advanced standing students than there have been in recent semesters.

Despite the fact that there are less incoming students than last year, Fifth Floor, East College, dubbed the "Cave" by former residents, and the Temporary Dormitory are being used again by freshmen men.

FRANC BROADAR, YOUNG JUGOSLAV DP, TO DO GRADUATE WORK HERE

A young DP from Jugoslavia is among the 10 students from foreign countries who will be enrolled this fall.

Franc Broadar, a graduate of Graz University in Austria, will do graduate work in either chemistry or bacteriology. Broadar will come to Bucknell on a scholarship to be provided through the joint efforts of students and the University.

During the war Broadar was held as an Italian prisoner. At the conclusion of hostilities, he entered Graz University in Austria, from which he was graduated this year.

W. S. G. A. MEETING

The first Women Student's Government Association meeting has been announced by Ellie Leiper, president, for tonight at 7 o'clock in the Baptist Church.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss and renew the pledge to the Honor System. After the meeting, the Junior Class will remain to choose a class representative.

Each woman student is on her honor to attend this meeting announced before, and if she fails to do this, she must assume one-third of a demerit.

Dr. T. V. Smith Will Address Fall Convocation After Procession

Annual fall convocation exercises will be held Wednesday morning, September 28, at 10:45 in Davis Gymnasium. Dr. T. V. Smith, noted philosopher, educator, and author, will be guest speaker.

An academic procession formed by members of the faculty dressed in caps and gowns will open the convocation ceremony.

Dr. Smith, who received his A. B. and M. A. degrees from the University of Texas and his Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago, is professor of philosophy and citizenship in Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse, N. Y.

Following his graduation from the University of Texas, he taught at Texas Christian University and his Alma Mater before accepting the position of Dean of the College at the University of Chicago. He was subsequently appointed associate dean of the college and in 1927 became professor of philosophy.

Dr. Smith, in addition to his work in the educational field, has also been active in civic and governmental circles. He was elected a member of the Illinois State Senate in 1935 and acted as chairman of the Illinois Legislative Council from 1937 to 1938.

Bucknell's Ninth President Assumes Duties At Start Of Freshman Week

President Hildreth

Succeeds Dr. Herbert L. Spencer Who Will Head Kress Foundation

Horace A. Hildreth, Governor of Maine from 1945 until 1949, began his duties as the ninth president of Bucknell University last Thursday when Freshman Week opened.

The recently elected president succeeded Dr. Herbert L. Spencer who left that position in July to become executive director of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation in New York City.

A graduate of Bowdoin College and of Harvard Law School, President Hildreth practiced law in Boston and in Portland, Maine, from 1928 until 1945. He was first elected to public office in 1940 when he was named to Maine's House of Representatives. The following year he went to the Maine State Senate and in 1945 began the first of his two terms as governor of Maine. In recognition of his distinguished contributions to public welfare, he was awarded honorary degrees by both Bowdoin and the University of Maine.

Family Man

President Hildreth, who is 46 years old, is married to the former Katherine C. Wing, a Vassar graduate, whose father, the late Daniel C. Wing, was for many years president of the First National Bank of Boston. President and Mrs. Hildreth have four children: Josephine, 19, who will be a sophomore at Vassar this fall; Horace A. Jr., 17, a student at Deerfield Academy; Anne, 15, and Katherine, 13, who will be enrolled in Lewisburg High School.

Two Students Die During Summer In Yachting Mishap

Patricia Dickinson '51 and Leighton Alenby '52 were drowned in the yachting disaster which took place off Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts, on September 9.

The two students were in a party of eleven who chartered the cabin cruiser Constance for the day. Seven other persons also lost their lives by drowning after heavy seas had broken up the craft.

A member of Alpha Chi Omega, Pat was active in several student functions. Leighton, a navy veteran, was an AB student.

Among the two who were saved was Hubert Alenby, brother of Leighton and fiance of Pat.

BU Student Contracts Polio While At Camp

Nancy Jenkins '51 contracted polio during the summer while working as a camp counselor in Spring Lake, N. J., and will be unable to return to classes this fall.

She is now in the Newark Crippled Children's Hospital and hopes to be home by Christmas.

Nancy is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and Junior representative on Senate. She was to be a counselor.

Many Improvements, Repairs, On Campus Completed During Summer

Many improvements, according to Mr. Walter Geiger, Superintendent of Grounds and Services, including the construction of service lines and painting and repairs within the dormitories, have been made in preparation of the fall semester.

The greatest number of improvements made were in West College, physics building, and also to the construction of built-in closets in each room, ceilings and furniture were repaired, floors refinished and the walls painted in tones of rose, gray and green.

Workmen Busy

The dormitory was painted on the outside and the main water system to the building was replaced in order that residents might get an adequate supply.

Rooms in the other men's dormitories and in Hunt Hall, largest women's residence, were also redecorated. Other buildings that were painted include the exterior of the houses in

Freshmen Firesides Offered For Second Year By C.A. Group

Freshmen fireside discussion groups will be organized very soon, according to Bud Bush, chairman.

These co-ed gatherings of about 20 students each are led by two upperclassmen, and consider topics such as dating, classes, fraternity situation, money, and religion in informal "pull sessions".

Firesides are sponsored by the Christian Association in an effort to help freshmen become better acquainted with members of their class, learn Bucknell traditions, and enhance one's sense of spiritual, social, and academic values.

Groups will meet once a week. There will also be recreation including a trip to Cowan, picnic, color parties, hay ride, or as many other projects as freshmen want.

CAP & DAGGER

Cap and Dagger will hold an introductory meeting Monday afternoon at 4:30 in Bucknell Hall to explain its purpose, history, organization and membership qualifications to freshmen and transfers. All new students are invited.

There will be a regular business meeting of the dramatic group Thursday at 8:30 p. m. in Bucknell Hall for all members and apprentices. Production sign-ups for the November play "Councilor at Law" will be held.

Tryouts for the play will be held Monday night 8 to 10; Tuesday night 8:30 to 11:00, and Wednesday night 7 to 9:30, in Bucknell Hall.

370 Make Dean's List As Class Of '49 Takes Honors

159 ON LIST ARE SENIORS; FOLLOWED BY FRESHMEN, JUNIORS, SOPHOMORES IN ORDER

The class of '49 ran away with the honors in the spring semester Dean's List, recently released by the Office of the Recorder. Out of a total of 370 on the list, approximately one-sixth of the student body—159 were seniors. The class of '50 was second highest with 87 representatives, while the classes of '50 and '51 followed in that order with 69 and 55 on the list.

Since the new grading system became effective only in the summer session, the following Dean's List is based on the numerical system in force during the spring semester. An average of 85% or better on a total of not less than 12 hours has been achieved by the students whose names appear below.

James Abelson, Jr.; Joseph Acas; Judith Agnew; Allan Albrecht; Catherine Albright; Matthew Ales; Chester Andrysk; Marlow Angell; Frances Asher.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1949.

Welcome President Hildreth

Congratulations to President Hildreth in his new post and a hearty welcome to his family and friends from the Bucknellian Staff. We feel sure that we have much to learn from a man with your background of experience and leadership.

To The Freshman

Although this year is probably the last full stride back to the pre-war status of life at Bucknell, some of you must still suffer the inconveniences of crowded dorms such as the "East College Cave" or the "Suburban Temporary Dorm." Others may not have the private rooms or breathing space that you might like. Actually the Class of 1950 is fortunate in seeing the last curve back to normalcy being taken. The facilities are better than they have been for the last four years. Plan now for your years here at Bucknell to be useful and pleasant ones and don't underestimate its importance in your future life. Have fun, enjoy yourselves, but stop, look and listen to others before every move. To the Class of '50, "Good Luck!"

The Campus Bu-tiful

The campus in all its natural splendor has rated many compliments again this year and old students alike. Let's keep it that way. Superintendent Geiger and crew, of Grounds and Services, have done a fine job over the summer to brighten the dorms to a livable standard. They also dressed the landscape to eliminate such scars as the "Davis Gym" path and laid new walks where it seemed necessary for a more direct route to that mid-morning cup of coffee. So far, the network of paths have been needed for the crowded between class shuffle. Many more, however, would make the campus look like a New Jersey traffic circle, so let's make use of these paths and keep our campus one of the most beautiful in the country.

Where 'Oh Where Did He Go?

Who? That "Hello" spirit that impressed so many of us the first time we visited the campus. Many still offer the friendly hello that was the trademark of our campus but many speak only to those whom they know very well. Explanations of why are futile and although none of us would care to take the blame, we all have been a little lax on carrying our part of the "Hello Spirit." So upper classmen and freshmen alike, it takes a little effort maybe, but it's worth it. A friendly "Hi" may make someone else feel more at home.

Exclusive Bucknellian Interview Reveals Variety Of Interests; Amusing Incidents In Lewisburg

By Ann Cooper

"I'll be the most eager freshman on the Bucknell campus," said President Horace A. Hildreth in a personal interview this week. Your reporter approached the house excited at the thought of the first interview with our new president and his family. Met at the door by the president's eldest daughter, "Dodie", I was ushered into a pleasant living room. Mrs. Hildreth graciously introduced herself and her son, "Hoddy", and explained that the two younger girls, Ann and Katherine, were in school at the time. During the conversation that followed, Mrs. Hildreth and the children were as eager to know about Bucknell as Bucknell is to hear about them.

Mrs. Hildreth is delighted with their new home, the friendly spirit, and the lovely town of Lewisburg. The entire family agreed that the two-fold campus and the views from the hill make this one of the most beautiful campuses they have ever seen. At this point, "Dodie" remarked that she had considered transferring from Vassar to Bucknell.

Ranck Reveals Budget Nears 2 Million Mark

"The period when the business transactions of a college could be carried in the proverbial vest pocket has long passed," says Dayton L. Ranck, University treasurer, in an article published in the August, 1949 issue of College and University Business.

Bucknell's budget is almost $2,000,000 annually, according to Mr. Ranck. Wage and salary checks go to 500 persons employed by the University in various capacities. In addition, the college also pays for the part-time services of 250 students.

"Today," exacting business executives who are members of college boards require the college affairs to be conducted on the same high plane as they demand from a department in their own business," writes Mr. Ranck in his article entitled "How to Organize the Business Office."

The main objectives of the business organization of a university are to keep the services of the college functioning smoothly, to handle and record the financial transactions of the institution, and to serve as a direct source of information to the board of trustees, the president, faculty and student body, according to the treasurer.

"The modern college," says Mr. Ranck, "not only must furnish instruction for its students, but also must provide housing, dining, medical and recreational facilities and, in addition, must furnish supplies and merchandise to patrons of the college."

Business Office Sound

"To meet this constantly increasing demand for service," he adds, "the business office must be built upon a sound basis in order that it may function as expected."

Mr. Ranck, whose article is one of the main features of the fall issue of College and University Business, outlines in considerable detail Bucknell's business organization. Under his direction, a staff of 14 is in charge of business office matters, and an additional 20 individuals serve as key persons in purchasing, dining service, housing, bookstore, service, and outside departments.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Mrs. Harold E. Cook, associate professor of French and Miss Mary H. Hunt, University recorder, have returned from Madison, Wisconsin where they attended a meeting of the Triennial Council of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity.

Mrs. Cook, president of the Bucknell chapter, and Miss Hunt, secretary, represented the University at the meeting which was held September 1 to September 4.

STUDENT CHOR

Anyone interested in joining a Student Church choir being formed under the leadership of Helen E. Kleinfelter, new assistant professor of music education, is requested to contact the C. A. office. There will be formal tryouts to weed out possible mountaineers—a willing spirit is all that is required.

TO THE CLASS OF 1953

Now that you have one day of classes under your belts, dear Freshmen, and the long road to graduation in June, 1953 has had its first footprints impressed in the cement, it's time that you heard the fabulous story of the Bison.

In just nine days the hunting season will be opened. It may sound a little weird that hunters still go out after Bison's, but that's exactly what will happen come the 1st of October. And the season stays open until late in November.

Bison hunting has been a popular sport in this area. The first Bison arrived here in 1200 A. D. First the local Indians took to the hunt. They managed to do a fair trade in Bison meat, oil, fur, etc., but it took the first white settlers to popularize the sport.

Within a hundred years after the founding of Lewisburg, Buffalo Valley had lost its reputation. Yes, the hunters all but wiped the many herds out. In fact, every Bison was killed—except one.

This lone remaining Bison is the subject of our fantastic story. There he was, our Bison, all alone in Buffalo Valley with no one to care for him. He got thinner and thinner until he couldn't be seen anymore. The townspeople, being a superstitious lot, claimed that he could be seen on a clear night, and that one or two people had heard him whimpering.

Well, our magnificent institution took pity on him, so the fable goes, and adopted the Bison in 1893. Under Bucknell's care the Bison grew strong again. But, and this is straight, he never again became visible. He was here all right, but to health again. Give them a chance! And when you walk out to the hunting ground next Saturday, give him all the encouragement you can muster.

With your help, our Bison can trample those Violets into the ground. This Bison doesn't have to become extinct!

STADIUM LIGHTS SET FOR GRID INAUGURAL

When the arc lights are turned on in Memorial Stadium next Saturday night for the season's opener against NYU, it will be the first time the Bisons have used their lighting system since 1908.

The Herd took up night football in 1931 and played 17 arc-light contests before reverting entirely to afternoon games. A 28 to 6 triumph over Furman in 1938 concluded the home night activities.

It has been announced that the lighting system has been improved over the summer in preparation for the clash with the New Yorkers. Although the Bisons have scheduled only one night game for the season, Bill Lane's Frosh will open their season with a night encounter against Lock Haven, Oct. 15, and local High Schools plan to take advantage of the lighting facilities here.

OLD TIMERS

Baseball, basketball and football were on the Bisons' intercollegiate sports program prior to the turn of the century.

ALL OR NOTHING

The Bisons haven't played to a tie on the grid since the 7-7 deadlock with Temple in 1944.

Gridders Gird For Season; Hopes Rest On Depth And T

"It looks as though we have more capable reserves this year," were the words of head coach Harry L. Lawrence after returning from the scrimmage yesterday with the University of Pennsylvania at Hershey.

The afternoon workout was the final dress rehearsal for the Lawrencemen who open the 1949 campaign here next Saturday night against the Violets of New York University.

But there are no waves of optimism in Bison camp, despite the strong showings made against Penn State and U. of P. The Herd's biggest worry, reserve strength, may have eased off, however, the team has weaknesses which must be cleared up before the opening game.

Weak Links

Coach Lawrence referred to pass defense as one of the weak links. "Penn State moved too freely through the air, and Pennsylvania completed many passes against us yesterday," another item bolstering the coach is play execution. Since the Herd is taking up the T formation, but with the first game in the near future, the tempo is beginning to taper off, the team is beginning to taper off.

Homecoming is slated for Oct. 22, when Washington and Jefferson will provide the opposition. Then on Nov. 10, the final home engagement, the Bisons will entertain their old playmates from Muhlenberg and Boy and Girl Scouts of the Central Pennsylvania area.

BISON BOOTERS BEGIN WORKOUTS WITH ZEST

It looks like the Bison soccermen are entering the pre-season drills with their usual enthusiasm, for the boys requested Coach Joe Dillin to open drills last Monday, rather than wait until today.

The Dillinmen are defending their Middle Atlantic Conference title which was won with a surprising upset over Swarthmore last season. The squad had so much spirit that they asked their coach for spring training last May, got it, and became the first soccer team in the history of the school to hold spring sessions.

EARLY START

Candidates for the Baby Bison grid squad are opening their pre-season drills tonight. Coach Bill Lane begins his second year as head coach of the Frosh and will be assisted by Jack McMahon, former Bison letterman.

Returning for their fourth season are Don Davidson, tackle; Charles Grunberg, end, and Ed Stec, halfback. Seventeen more veteran campaigners are on hand to form a strong nucleus.

Among the lettermen eligible for the season are, Robert Bucher, Alex Duplik, tackle; Bob Evin, Grunberg, Walter Hall, Jim Heaver, William Wratley, Richie Johnson, Doug Light, Bill Kiehl, Len Kiersasky, Jim Osterdarp, Arnold Peulue, Chel Leach, Franny Long, Alex Pullman, Cal Seaman, and Bill Szabo.

Other candidates for the varsity include, Bob Albert, Bob Irwin, Glenn Aspinwall, Larry Bacon, Flavio Scudone, George Young, Jack Maehy, Bob Davenport, Tommy Denn, Karl Heininger, Bill Franke, Joe Galla, Herb Grosswirth, Dick Hutsko, Van Wert Johnson, Keith Law, Phil Lichtenfels, Fred Murnane, Joe Mason, Spud Sperring, Mary McKibbin, Fred Reimensnyder, Bob Schmitz, Herm Simon, Herb Stiefel, Nick Yackanitz, and Andie Stabler.

Faculty To Edit, Publish Own Researches Periodically

The second number of Bucknell University Studies, a periodical publication begun in 1941 but suspended after one issue because of the war, came from the press late in May.

It was stated by Dr. Spencer at the time of publication that the magazine might be "the beginning of a program of university publication that will culminate eventually in the establishment of a Bucknell University Press. The trustees are strongly of the opinion that the resources of this university should be used in part to publish the scholarly researches of our faculty."

In the current number of the Studies are the following articles by members of the faculty:

"American Dramatic Theory Comes of Age," by Dr. Allan Halline, professor of English; "Jean-Paul Sartre's Doctrine of Human Freedom and Responsibility," by Dr. Gladys Cook, associate professor of French; "Treasure by the Grace of God," by Dr. Cyrus H. Karraker, assistant professor of history; and "Study of Blake's 'The Tyger,'" by Jesse Bier, assistant in English.

The Studies are edited by a committee of the faculty and the administration, of which Dr. J. Orin Oliphant, professor of history, is chairman. Other members of the committee are Dean William H. Coleman, Dr. Floyd G. Ballentine, Dr. C. Willard Smith, and Dr. Hilda Macgillhaes.

Outstanding Record

Bucknell's new president came to the campus with a notable record not only in public service but also in business, charitable and civic organizations in his home state. He has served as state chairman for the U. S. O. and infantile paralysis campaigns, director of the Children's Hospital and also of the Portland Community Chest. His business directorates include the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company, Emery Waterhouse Company and the Boston Herald-Traveler Corporation. President Hildreth is a member of the County, State and National Grange.

the I. O. O. F., the Portland Kiwanis Club and the Masons and Shrine Club.

Born December 2, 1902, at Gardiner, Maine, President Horace Hildreth, along with his twin brother Charles, received his early education in the public schools of Gardiner. As undergraduates at Bowdoin where they were on the football, baseball and track teams, the Hildreths caused considerable confusion among Bowdoin's opponents in intercollegiate athletics, since it was difficult to distinguish between the brothers. Both played end on the football team, but Horace was forced to give up sports in his senior year because of injuries suffered during the previous summer when he was a ranger in Yellowstone National Park. Other activities of President Hildreth's college days included debating, counseling in a boys' camp and one summer as a seaman on a Swedish freighter. He later went on a trip through Europe as a representative from the American colleges. While in college, he joined the Zeta Psi fraternity.

After his graduation from Bowdoin in 1925, he entered Harvard Law School where he was awarded his degree in 1928. He was admitted that same year to the bar in Massachusetts and Maine. From 1928 until 1936, President Hildreth was a member of the law firm of Ropes, Best, Gray, Condit and Rugg in Boston. He then returned to Portland where he joined the firm of Hutchins, Pierce, Connor, Scribner and Atwood. At the time of his election to the Maine Legislature in 1940, he was 35 years old.

Elected Governor President Hildreth's first term as governor began in 1945. While holding that office, he came into national prominence with his election, first as chairman of the New England Governors' Conference and then as chairman of the National Governors' Association. In addition to their home at Cumberland-Forsdale, a suburb of Portland, the Hildreths also maintain a summer residence at Saturday Cove, Northport, Maine.

Three Articles By Dr. Ross Appear In Psych Journals

Dr. Sherman Ross, associate professor of psychology here has published three papers in scientific journals over the past summer.

The first paper appeared in the Journal of General Psychology, and was written with Professor C. G. Mueller of the psychology department at Columbia University. This report describes some significant aspects of color vision test plate memorization. The experimental work was done by Drs. Ross and Mueller at the U. S. Naval Medical Field Research Laboratory at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina.

The second article, which appeared in the Journal of Genetic Psychology, was the final paper in a series describing the results of some feeding experiments on puppies. The experiment was performed by Dr. and Mrs. Ross at the R. B. Jackson Memorial Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Maine, during the summer of 1947.

Third paper was published in the American Journal of Psychology and dealt with an experimental analysis of the relation of the Crocker-Henderson Odo-Classification system.

PEP RALLY FOR WHAT?

There's at least two good reasons for the first Pep Rally of the year as we see it. One is to let the team and coaches know that everyone is behind them again this season, the other is a little pre-game celebration for the inevitable NYU's defeat. Many of the ball players are entering their last year of collegiate football and the best way for us to show our appreciation to them and all the others that go out there every day for almost half the year and work, is to give them some support. It's easy to cheer a winning team but they can't hear you when they're winning. It's when they're losing or behind that the noise or absence of voice floats down onto the field. So whether they're up or down on the scoreboard, let's stay behind them and make them feel like they're scrapping for something.

EVERY DOG HAS HIS DAY!

"Traditions make the school," a Princeton graduate once said, and how true that can be. We all know there is much more that goes into making a school but traditions do add color and spirit to any campus. Some of these here on our own campus reach far into the past and are still talked about wherever old classmates get together. Stories of the burning of the "dinks" after freshman hazing has ceased and the fresh-soph scrap seem to make the old grads enjoy telling them so much that we should maybe take a little mental note. Will some of us be sorry some day that we didn't take more of a part in some of the so-called silly antics of the Senior Tribunal or maybe be sorry that no one made us sing the Alma Mater, consequently, never learning it? Well, maybe we will and maybe we won't, but why take a chance of missing something. Spirit is created by good clean competitive spirit among classes. So sophomores get on your horses and whip up some of that stuff called "spirit" and we'll bet you get all the help you need from the freshmen and upper-classmen alike.

MISS LIBRARIAN, I'D LIKE TO SEE THE LIT EXAM

With the fine fraternal traditions of Bucknell there sometimes travels an obscuring cloud of forgetfulness toward the student who does not join a fraternal group. One of the disadvantages met by the non-fraternal group is not being able to "check the files" for past examinations. We may not have such files here at our school but again we may. Right or wrong, there has been evidence of such practice. Why then, should the non-affiliated student have to compete at examination time with those who supposedly have the scoop on past exams? Harvard University has found a possible solution. All past examinations, of importance, which could refer in our case to mid-term and final exams, are filed by the departments in the student library at Harvard. It would mean more work for the faculty and the librarian, but would also be to everyone's mutual advantage.

Jackie Smith To Share Feature
Twirling Show With Anne Cassell

When the band takes the field at half-time this Saturday night for the opening game of the season, Jackie Smith '33 will share the feature twirling with Anne Cassell.

The girls will do a double act and perform to opposite sides of the stadium. Jackie, who has made guest appearances with the band several times a season for the past three years, is in charge of the twirling squad, and Ann in addition to performing with the band, has taken over band signals and will act as field general.

Jackie is from Williamsburg, Pa., and is a freshman this year. Her father, Mr. Chilton W. Smith, is a Bucknell graduate, class of '21.

Was State Champion Jackie was drum majorette with high school bands for the past seven years, and in 1947, was Pennsylvania state champion of high school twirlers. She was also highest rated twirler in the state in 1948 and 1949. She has made guest appearances with many bands. Jackie was guest.

The Fire That Need Not Die!

"Freshmen are expected to have a fire not less than 1953 times bigger than this," according to a spokesman for Senior Tribunal. Wood gathering detail will report Friday at 2:30 p. m. in front of Phi Kappa Psi house.

To the Editor: Further praise is due for those responsible for keeping and improving campus grounds and buildings. Things are beginning to shape up. The Bison, the very well used path from the temporary building and the new steps to West College are all fine. The real feather in someone's cap, however, should be for the library lighting which went unmentioned in your column last week. Most of us realize these things take time but when we can see steps being taken in the right direction, someone should be complimented.

Name withheld by request

Right you are sir, Mr. Ranck deserves much of that credit. Ed.

WORLD WIDE

THE NEW MONROE DOCTRINE

For the past one hundred and twenty-five years the Monroe Doctrine has served as the framework of the United States foreign policy. During this entire period of time the undisputed position of this country in regard to the protection of the Western Hemisphere has been acknowledged by all foreign powers. The times preceding the present day apparently have not been urgent enough to force the United States to extend this "protective boundary" to include other continents. But within the past three decades the U. S. has been engaged in two world wars; with the result being a psychological awareness by the American people with the smallness of the world. Also, since the end of World War Two, this country has been actively engaged in a "cold war" against the spread of Communism, especially in Europe.

In four years the whole of Eastern Europe has been engulfed by the Soviet Union. Not only have such countries as Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary fallen under the yoke of Russian domination, but there is a distinct possibility that France, Italy, Greece and the Benelux countries will be subjected to the same fate. Such events have caused the American government to take definite steps in Western Europe for the protection of those countries, and even more so, greater security for this country.

Out of this desire to stem the sweep of Communism into Western Europe, the United States and eleven other nations have joined together in proclaiming a common interest in the defense of Western Europe. Early this summer twelve nations ratified the North Atlantic Security Pact. A pact which pledges their allegiance to be sovereignty of any member-state should they be attacked by an outside force.

Despite the existence of the Pact it was admitted by all the member-nations that this was not enough. It would be absolutely folly to expect the Pact to have a great deal of meaning if no provisions were made to back up the agreement with adequate military preparations. Thus we arrive at a present-day situation. If a military defense system is to be set up, one very important question must be asked. Just how great will be the military organization to make it assume a defensive measure rather than an offensive measure? That, of course, is a question which will be answered at a later date. But all the member-nations must keep this question in mind, or the whole move may prove to be a serious blunder. There is no question that the Pact is aimed at Russia; and Russia maintains that it is just another move of the United States in her imperialistic expansion throughout the world.

Last week the twelve nations created the framework of such a defense system of Western Europe. It comprises all the defense chiefs of the member-states and a Military Committee on which all the chiefs of staff would be represented. Also formed is a "Standing Group" of the Military Committee whose job it will be to see to it that the assignments of the Military Committee are carried out. The importance of this "Standing Group" is obviously quite great, since the makeup of the Group is composed of the representatives of Great Britain, France and the United States. Along with that, the United States will play the leading role in the building up of the military defense in Western Europe, since it will be this country which will shoulder the majority of the costs.

Now we may logically ask to what extent does the North Atlantic Security Pact obligate the United States in case one of the other member-states should be attacked by a foreign country. This same question was raised many times in the U. S. Senate when the Pact was before that group for ratification in July. If such an incident did take place it is most probable that if the threat were not withdrawn the United States and all the other signatories of the Pact would be committed to take up arms in the common interest of all. If this were not the answer, then the Pact is meaningless.

One noticeable result of the North Atlantic Security Pact has been the rise of common interest in other phases of life among the members of the Pact. Such common interest has taken place to such an extent that even in this country resolutions have been introduced in Congress to investigate the possibility of forming a federation of all the states in the North Atlantic community. Whether this suggestion will come to be is rather doubtful, since there exists a great many problems which will have to be dealt with before such an organic grouping could take place. But a greater bond of friendship and understanding should definitely result from the Pact.

One thing is certain—the United States is no longer committed in international relations just to the Western Hemisphere. She has assumed a much greater role in joining in common defense with the countries of the North Atlantic area against any and all outside forces which would threaten its independence. The Pact will serve as the keystone of the United States foreign policy from now on.

Dean Coleman's Office Announces
25 Additions To Teaching StaffFour Receive Degrees Here
Some Are Replacements
For Absent Faculty

Twenty-five new teachers have been added to the faculty, it was revealed by Dean Coleman's office recently.

The breakdown by titles reveals four associate professors, six assistant professors, and 15 instructors. Of the latter, four received their degrees here. These are Evan Boden, James Bortner, Anthony Krzywicki and Nathaniel Tremblath.

Many of the new faculty members are replacing teachers who have retired or who are on leaves of absence. Others are additions to departments which have long felt the need of more instructors.

Practically every department in the school is represented in the list of new staff members. The English department got the five additional teachers, while the C&P branch received three, and the electrical engineering, music, and geology sections received two apiece. The other 11 departments each received one new instructor.

The list of new faculty members follows.

Associate Professors

Paul M. Hoffman — Associate professor of economics. Formerly: associate professor of business administration, New Jersey College For Women, (Montclair, N.J., B.A.; University of Michigan, M.A.; N.Y. U., M.I.A.).

Kenneth W. Hooker — Associate professor of English. Formerly: assistant professor of English, University of Rochester. (Columbia, B.A., M.A., Ph.D.).

Harold W. Miller — Associate professor of Greek and Latin. Formerly: Furman University, associate professor of classics. (Wofford University, B.A.; Duke University, M.A.; Ph.D.).

Leonard A. Dargatz — Visiting professor of electrical engineering. Formerly: Penn State, professor of electrical engineering. (Harvard University, B.A.; M.E.E.; Penn State, E.E.).

N. Harry Camp, Jr. — Assistant professor of education. Formerly: Brooklyn College, instructor. (University of Chicago, B.A.; M.A.; University of California, E.D.).

Russell A. Headley — Assistant professor of economics. Formerly: instructor in economics, University of Pennsylvania, (University of Pennsylvania, B.A., M.A.).

Helen E. Kienfelter — Assistant professor of music education. Formerly: Knox School, director of vocal music. (Albany, voice diploma; N.Y.U., M.A.).

Francis D. Martin — Assistant professor of philosophy. (University of Chicago, B.A., Ph.D.).

Morton Smith — Assistant professor of chemistry. (Kansas State College, B.S.; M.S.; University of Wisconsin, Ph.D.).

Lewis E. Westinghouse — Assistant professor of religion. Formerly: pastorate in Wise, N.C. (Wake Forest College, B.A.; Duke Divinity School, B.D.; Duke University, Ph.D.).

Instructors

Men's Glee Club
Chooses Officers
For Coming Year

Jack Williams, Bill Miller, Tom Motheral, and Ken Stauffer have been elected officers of the Men's Glee Club according to an announcement made by Dr. Harold E. Cook, director of the group.

Jack Williams, the manager, has had three and a half years experience with the club. Another three and a half year man is Bill Miller, who will be assistant manager.

The librarian is Tom Motheral who has been on the club two years. Ken Stauffer who has been with the club two and a half years will handle publicity.

The Men's Glee Club will make its first appearance this year at the Dads' Day program October 8 at 8:00 p. m. in Davis Gym.

About 60 men have been auditioned so far and it is hoped that the try-outs can be completed tonight for all singers and accompanists. The meeting will be held at 7 p. m. in Vaughn Literature Auditorium.

Women's Glee Club To Hold
Second Rehearsal Tonight

A second rehearsal for the Women's Glee Club will be held Thursday evening at 6:45 in Bucknell Hall.

The Club held its first meeting on Monday and is desirous of increasing its membership. Any new students aspiring to a position in the organization are urged to attend Thursday's rehearsal.

The first performance for the year by the Women's Glee Club will be on October 8 as part of the Dads' Day program.

Alpha Chi Chapter
Cited Outstanding
At June Meeting

The Bucknell chapter of Alpha Chi Omega sorority was represented at its national convention by Ann Busch, Dorothy James, Leah Riggs, and Patricia Thomas. It was held in Pasadena, California during June.

Bucknell's Eta chapter was presented with a silver cup for being chosen the outstanding chapter in the national sorority. The award is based on participation in campus activities, scholastic average, and cooperation with the national organization.

When the actual convention terminated, the four Bucknellians took advantage of the tour that was offered. They not only visited the western United States, but went through the Canadian Rockies before returning to their homes.

OFFICERS OF B. U.
WIVES CLUB MEET,
DISCUSS NEW PLANS

A meeting of the Executive Council of the B. U. Wives Club was held Monday night, September 26, at the home of Mrs. Emily Carlucci, president.

The program for the year was discussed and the Council planned a "get together" for all Bucknell wives to be held at the Vaughn Literature Building Monday, October 10, at 8 p. m.

The regular meeting nights will be the second and fourth Monday nights of each month. All veteran wives are invited to come.

Flying Club Will Hold
Meeting On October 5

Bucknell's Flying Club, Incorporated, will hold its second meeting of the fall session on October 5, at 8 p. m. in room 124 of the Engineering building.

The Club has a limited amount of stock to sell by ballot of the new plane. Students interested in flying flying lessons, or purchasing stock should call telephone number 2091 between 8 and 11 a. m. or attend the meeting.

The new aircraft is hangared at the Milton Airport. Anyone desiring to view the plane may do so by contacting Mr. Nettie, the Club Operations Manager at the airport. Owning stock in the craft offers a considerable saving for anyone interested in flying it.

300 Hear Hildreth Discuss Religion At Student Church

"Give Religion A Chance," President Urges; Hildreth Family Introduced At Reception

"Give religion a chance," urged President Horace A. Hildreth in an informal talk to more than 300 students at Student Church services Sunday evening in Hunt Hall.

"You are passing by something very worthwhile if you do not make room for religion in your college life," advised the President, first in a series of speakers representing different phases of national and international life scheduled to appear at the Student Church this year.

President Hildreth asked the students to attempt to define religion in terms of what it means to them, adding that "this is something which each of us must decide for himself." "Religion," he pointed out, "is primarily a matter of faith in God."

"Don't Ignore Religion" "If you try to ignore the religious life, you will be making a grave mistake," he warned, adding that regular church attendance will give a person a better feeling, since it offers the individual a chance to align himself with those who are attempting to do good in life, regardless of any prejudices or pre-conceived notions which a student may have.

"Eventually," he added, "you will realize that religion has something really great to offer in the form of an inner strength which you will find nowhere else."

Smith Opens Services Enory W. Smith, president of the Christian Association, opened the services by introducing President Hildreth, who in turn presented the members of his family, Mrs. Hildreth and their three daughters. Their son, Horace A. Hildreth, Jr., is enrolled at Deerfield Academy in Massachusetts, where he has already begun the fall term.

Hildreth was invited to meet the Hildreth family at an informal reception in the Recreation Room of Hunt Hall after the services, where refreshments were served by members of the Christian Association and of Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa, senior honor societies.

DR. EUGENE BEWKES
AWARDED HONORARY
DEGREE IN AUGUST
Dr. Eugene G. Bewkes, president of The Lawrence University, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters in recognition of his achievements as "an eminent writer, stimulating teacher, and skillful administrator."

Presentation of the degree took place at Bucknell's annual summer Commencement, at which Dr. Bewkes was the speaker. His address presided over the granting of degrees to 161 students.

Dr. William H. Coleman, dean of Bucknell, presented Dr. Bewkes for the honorary degree, which was conferred by Dr. Joseph W. Henderson, chairman of Bucknell's Board of Trustees and then acting president of the University.

The Bucknell dean praised Dr. Bewkes' distinguished career as a teacher and administrator, first at Colgate University and later at St. Lawrence. "By virtue of his leadership, administrative capacity, and effective application of philosophical theories in the area of higher education," President Bewkes has steadily increased the prestige of the institution over which he presides," said Dean Coleman.

FIRST OF ART EXHIBITS
SERIES TO START NOV. 9

A number of exhibitions and personal appearances of foremost American artists at Roberts Hall has again been scheduled for the coming year, according to Bruce Mitchell, artistic residence.

Among the exhibits will be a showing of paintings by Joe Jones starting November 9. One of the contributing artists to the Gimbel Pennsylvania collection, Jones is recognized by art critics to be a leading young painter.

Another exhibit will be one of watercolors by Charles Burchfield, dean of American watercolorists.

Both Mr. Jones and Mr. Burchfield will appear at the openings of their exhibits and will present demonstrations of their painting techniques.

Thundering Herd Hopes To Reign Over Violets Saturday

"HOOKS" MYLIN

Memorial Stadium will soon be home grounds to Coach Edward E. "Hooks" Mylin when he brings the New York University gridders here next Saturday night.

The game will mark his first visit since becoming head mentor of the Violets, but Mylin previously fielded Lafayette and Lebanon Valley teams on the Bison home grounds. To top it all, he was head coach here for three seasons, 1934 to 1936.

In his first season with the Herd, "Hooks" skillfully guided the team through one of the best seasons on record. The Bison lost only two of 10 games and defeated Miami, 26-0, in the 1935 Orange Bowl classic.

OH, YEA!

Word out of New York City has it that the Violets of NYU have already recorded a victory against "Little Bucknell" this Saturday. The article can be seen hanging in the Bison locker room.

All students interested in officiating intramural soccer games please give names to George Stockhouse at Davis Gym. One dollar will be paid for the officiating of each game.

Bison Foes Fare Well In First Tests Of '49 Grid Power

By Craig Hall

The football season swung into action on all fronts last weekend. Seven of Bucknell's future opponents opened their 1949 cards—four with initial successes.

During the period when "king football" commands the sporting scene, this column will be devoted to a discussion of the past, present, and future of all Bison foes, and an attempt will be made to predict the results of their games.

A glance at the Bison schedule shows:

N.Y.U. — The Violets open their season here Saturday night. The early fall experts pick NYU. They're looking at last year's results. BUCKNELL by two touchdowns.

DELAWARE — A Delaware squad that gets increasingly stronger every year decisively whipped PNC last week, 29-0. This week's opponent, Richmond, was trounced by Duke, 79-0. It looks like an easy win for the Blue Hens from DELAWARE.

TEMPLE — The Owls ran into a rough game in their opener and were overwhelmed by a strong Texas team, 49-0. The outfit they face this Saturday, Rutgers, smothered King's Point, 29-6. Look out, Temple. RUTGERS by a decisive margin.

W.&J. — Washington and Jefferson inaugurated their season with a 15-7 win over Denison. It is apparent that Deacon Dan Towler was up to his old tricks. Although the game with Geneva must be rated a toss-up, strictly on a hunch we'll stick with W&J.

BUFFALO — The team from the shores of Lake Erie ran into a crupper in their first game, and lost to Colgate, 32-0. Niagara, a 26-0 loser to Cornell, will be on hand for the football festivities this Saturday at Buffalo. With regard to the Bison, a team which routed Bucknell decisively last year, our choice is NIAGARA on the strength of their season against Cornell, one of the powers in the east.

GETTYSBURG — The Bullets are building and apparently will field a successful small college team. Their 22-14 victory over Lebanon Valley is suggestive, but not conclusive evidence of their strength. Henry T. Bream and his men face their first test in Western Maryland. Sicking with the Penna. entry, look for GETTYSBURG to eke out a victory.

LAFAYETTE — Probably the toughest team the Bisons face this year. The Leopards gave Princeton a game battle before an interested pass led to a 26-14 defeat. The Clipper Smithmen face another formidable foe in Syracuse this week and will have to go all out in order to bring home a victory. LAFAYETTE, but it may be close!

MUHLBERG — If last week's 12-7 loss to Scranton is indicative of the '49 Mules, it appears that the Allentown squad is in for some rough Saturdays this fall. This week Muhlenberg runs into a Duquesne squad that gave Wake Forest a good battle two weeks ago. The nod will have to go to DUQUESNE.

Lawrencemen Seek Extension Of Inaugural Winning Streak

by Harry Staley

For the third successive year, the Bucknell football team will attempt to open the football season on a note of victory as they meet the New York University Violets Saturday night at 8:30 in Memorial Stadium. This will be the first meeting of the two teams since 1947, when the Violets won 19 to 6, and the sixth meeting since the two schools played to a 3-3 tie in 1915. The Palisaders hold a three to one edge over the Bisons, one game ending in a tie.

Directed by Edward E. (Hooks) Mylin, who was head coach at Bucknell from 1934 through 1936, the Violets will be out to spoil the opening day record of Bison mentor Harry Lawrence. In Lawrence's past two seasons as head coach, Bucknell has triumphed over Alfred in each initial contest.

Veteran Squad Although hit hard by the loss of six key lettermen, the foremost being the veteran end Irving (Moon) Mondshein, the New Yorkers are expected to start a veteran eleven led by co-captains Joe Novotny and Joe Rogoff.

The N. Y. U. loss in line strength was heavier than that suffered by Bucknell and could well be the deciding factor. The Violet forward wall will be composed principally of sophomores and juniors, but they are big and capable of giving the Bisons plenty to worry about on Saturday evening.

A veteran backfield will see action, and is expected to be the bright spot of the N. Y. U. offense. The razzle-dazzle T formation offense will be directed by two veteran quarterbacks, Joe Quinn and Jerry Eisenmann. Several shifts, speed merchants, namely Bill Payne, Jack Fogarty, Bill Matthews, Les Shulman and Matt Gonanno will round out a backfield which can prove to be dangerous on every play.

Switch To T Bucknell, after operating out of the single wing for several years, has switched to the Split-T formation. Regardless of the rough schedule ahead, the outlook in the Bison camp is one of optimism. Pre-season scrimmages against Penn State and the University of Pennsylvania demonstrated that the Bucknellians will definitely be stronger than last year, barring a wave of injuries similar to the one which plagued them with the Herd last season.

The lack of depth which plagued Lawrence last year has been eased somewhat by the addition of several members of last year's outstanding freshman eleven plus the return of most of the 1948 team. Coach Lawrence asserted that the Bison will be at full strength for the Saturday evening game with the exception of sophomore guard Herb Stiefel, who was injured in the Penn State scrimmage and will not see action. Veteran center Bob Ervin and quarterback Jim Hoover, who both missed the pre-season scrimmages because of injuries, have returned and will see action.

Air Power Another redeeming feature in the 1949 gridiron picture is seen in the strong right arm of sophomore quarterback Tom Dean and the pass catching ability of ends Marty McKibbin and Joe Gallagher. In both scrimmages, the aerial attack, centered around the aforementioned trio, was nothing short of sensational. Against the Quakers, Dean found the target on seven out of nine aerials: a fact which should be an indication of just what Bison opponents can expect this fall. "For the first time since the war," said Lawrence, "the team should be able to develop a fair passing attack."

However, if the aerial attack should fall short of expectations, the Bisons should be able to rely on a strong ground attack. Built around backs "Smoky" Osterlapp, Bob Albert, Jim Hoover, Ed Stee, and Cher Leach, the Bison possess the type of speed and power which should give the Violets many an anxious moment.

Defensively, Lawrence has stated that he will not attempt to use the two platoon system, but he does expect to send in from four to seven replacements every time the hall changes hands. For the first time in several years, the Bisons will possess the necessary strength on the bench to substitute freely without sacrificing too much power on offense or defense.

SAB MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Student Athletic Board Monday evening at 7:00 in Hunt Rec room. All representatives are urged to attend the opening meeting.

Bison Booters Prepare To Defend MAL Soccer Championship Again

By Belber Robinson

Seeking their third consecutive Middle Atlantic Soccer championship, Joe Diblin's Bouncing Bunnies will open their eight-game card at Temple Saturday afternoon. The Herd shared the title with Rutgers in 1947, and then in 1948 the Orange and Blue edged Swarthmore to gain sole possession of the trophy.

This will be Diblin's second year as coach of the Bisons, and he has seven returning lettermen to bolster this year's attack. Art Raynor, stellar wingman, will captain the Thundering Herd, while other monogram winners last year were Thomas Child, Robert Diedolf, Richard Freed, William Fuller, Peter Weidenbacher, and Martin Machamer.

This year's turnout of candidates was the largest in the school's history with 39 aspirants donning soccer togs.

The Diblinmen won six of their nine contests last season, but those three setbacks were against non-league foes. They triumphed in the important league tilts, and on numerous occasions rallied in the last half to win. The play-off with Swarthmore proved this when the Herd left the field at intermission time trailing by a score of 1-0. Never giving up, the Bouncing Bunnies kicked out a 2-1 win for their second title.

FLYING HOMERS The Bison gridders will play in three homecoming games in as many weeks. W & J opposes the Herd here on Oct. 29, while Buffalo and Gettysburg will be observing homecoming when the Lawrencemen visit them Oct. 29 and Nov. 5 respectively.

NO PARTIALITY In addition to the Army, Navy and Marines, the Coast Guard and Sea Bees are represented by veterans on the Bison 1949 football squad.

GEEK TENNIS An inter-class, inter-group tennis tournament is under way this fall for the semi-seniors. Each sorority may form a team and sign up. The tournament is also open to freshmen groups and independents. Sign-ups now at the WAA bulletin board in Larison.

A Couple Of Good Joes!

It will be two guys named Joe representing New York University Saturday night. Co-captains of the Violets, they are Joe Novotny and Joe Rogoff. Both seniors are experienced lettermen; Novotny with three years of fullbacking, and Rogoff with two seasons at center. Capt. Novotny is a rugged player who has been noted for his great defensive play in the last three years. According to press notices, "his line-backing ability would bring joy to any coach and his uncanny knack of anticipating enemy plays prevents many a gain." Joe is a senior and lives in Union City, N. J.

Which One Has The Phoney?

Jack G. Gouby, double as end coach and mentor of the varsity basketball team. Jack coached football and basketball at Owensend High School, Fremont, Ohio, and Canfield High, Ohio, for four years. He was also freshman basketball coach and later head basketball coach at Ohio Northern. Also a married man, Jack has one son.

Herbert H. Maack, line coach, played guard for Lou Little, at Columbia, capturing the team his senior year. While in the Navy, he played football with the North Carolina pre-fighters and after the war assisted Little at Columbia. Herb also was a lineman for the Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-American Conference. Mr. Maack is a good family man with two children.

This year Prowant's Men's Clothing Store is inaugurating a new policy for all football fans. Instead of running their usual advertisement, they are devoting that space to football's most accurate prognosticator, Joe Harris.

Prowant's has informed the Bucknellian that the predictions of all football games will be posted in his store window. As for Mr. Harris' prediction of the game here at Lewisburg, Saturday evening, he says Bucknell twenty and NYU six.

Joe Markey Is Elected Intramural Council President For School Year

By Bob Fryer

Joseph Markey, SAE, was elected president of the Intramural Council for the 1949-50 school year Monday night at a meeting held in Davis Gymnasium. The newly elected vice president is Andrew Mathieson, SX; treasurer, James Stumblough, PKP; secretary, Thomas Riddell, KS; corresponding secretary, John Rickard, PGD.

Mathieson will act as the fall sports manager. Rickard will be the first winter manager, Stumblough the second winter manager, and Riddell the spring manager.

HERD COACHES ENTER THIRD SEASON WITH EAGER ANTICIPATION

All three Bison football coaches are entering their third season at Bucknell, a season in which they are eager to prove that patience is always rewarded.

Head coach Harry L. Lawrence has had his troubles in the past two seasons. Lack of depth and key injuries have combined to give him a record that can hardly stack up against the ledger of his high school coaching days at Baltimore City College High School. Harry's teams there at one time had a winning streak of 54 games. And during his nine-year regime at Baltimore, his teams won 69, tied 6, and lost 10. A married man, Harry Lawrence is the father of two daughters.

Jack G. Gouby doubles as end coach and mentor of the varsity basketball team. Jack coached football and basketball at Owensend High School, Fremont, Ohio, and Canfield High, Ohio, for four years. He was also freshman basketball coach and later head basketball coach at Ohio Northern. Also a married man, Jack has one son.

Scratchy McClatchey, our class member most likely to succeed, once described the ideal job — one with hours from noon to 1 p.m. with an hour off for lunch. After three years' experience in my field, I can say with equal authority that the ideal home for a married G-I student is Bucknell Village. We are the fifty families set apart — and we love it.

When millions of G-I Jews are returning to their roles of College Joe — many of them having taken unto themselves James and even Junior — some thoughtful persons begin to ask why they worry but to do something about the housing situation. A site was selected, Navy barracks acquired, and Bucknell Village was the result.

Since the first families slouched across the muddy drives and yards in late fall of '46, much has happened here. These muddy drives are now paved, the yards are covered with grass and shrubbery, play pens have been built and equipped, many, many future Bucknellians have been here, and scores of men have taken their degrees. The last four of the original families were graduated in June.

Most of the village men have been natives of Pennsylvania, New York or New Jersey; but they gathered their wives literally from Canada to Florida, from Maine to California, and

by Becky Rogers

"All ashore that's going ashore" was the cry that echoed in the ears of the city's upsurge, the tinkle of silver and the clinking of glasses, or the confused sounds of life in a mental hospital became familiar sounds.

Among those who went abroad were Jane Kreider, who was traveling, according to reports, under the auspices of the N. S. A.; Pete Grossman, who accompanied her sisters on a World Study Tour from Columbia University; and Miss Chew of the Spanish department. Among Miss Chew's stops on her European tour was "Gay Paree" where she visited the parents of French House's beloved "house-mom," Cecile Constans.

Hospital Aides Far from the proverbial gaiety of Paris, however, were Rose Kalyas, Doris Wellcamp, and Beverly Dunstan; for these three spent their summers as attendants in mental hospitals — Rose at Philadelphia's notorious Byberry and Doris and Beverly at Rockland. In their capacity as attendants these girls came into close personal contact with the patients and assumed the serious responsibilities of caring for the mentally ill.

In the course of their work they found that sincerity, honesty, and a deep personal interest were the basis for understanding and helping patients in their charge. Unique is a word that may be readily applied to Gertrude Merkel after her summer as a member of the Students in Industry Project. During the summer she worked in the pottery industry, but competition must not have been too keen because Miss Merkel found herself so alone and only employee of her branch of the industry.

Another Students in Industry worker was Margie Haas who reports that Pittsburgh is quite some city if you scrape off enough dirt. Social Workers Giving up previous recreation time on Saturday afternoons, they devoted themselves to voluntary slum denunciations. The slums should be a lot cleaner, Margie figures, because she usually came away after an afternoon's labor looking as though she had transferred to the city from the mountains.

Industry Project really had serious purposes — the study of labor-management situations, finding out how people live on different social levels, and becoming familiar with the racial problem. Democracy At Work A fiery cry from Pittsburgh's smoke was the atmosphere at Silver Bay where Jane Mellinger spent her summer as a waitress. Here Jane had an opportunity to watch democracy in action, for at Silver Bay no social distinction is made between the employees and the guests.

There are just a few of the interesting activities the students and faculty members engaged in during the summer which helped to spread Bucknell's spirit a little farther.

Flash. Listen to World News at 5:55 each evening. At 9:00 on Monday night, don't miss Jack "Will" Williams and Jack "Red" Jefferson in a little dirty appropriately entitled "Requestfully Yours." Well, the old place has certainly undergone a face-lifting during the summer. Too bad that all these Second-Century innovations had to materialize during the summer. Now the freshmen will never be able to appreciate "Seeds of Tomorrow" at Student Church Sunday evening at seven in Hunt Living Room.

Dr. Oliver has just returned from Korea where he has served as a personal advisor to President Rhee. During last winter, he was Advisor for the Korean delegation at the U. N. meetings in Paris.

He is the author of three books on Korea, the last of which is "The Case for Korea." He also edits the syndicated column, "Perspective on Asia."

Miss Kinked is reported to have been collecting firewood on brisk winter evenings, nor will they be able to enjoy the classic opinions of former years which once so adequately adorned the dormitory walls. Here's to good old W. C. 831, a volume that will match "War and Peace" any day of the week.

Accompanying these developments is the revised registration system. Someone remarked, while floundering through it, that he felt like a rat in a maze. And how right he was! Prof. Harriman is alleged to have been seated in the bleachers with a powerful pair of binoculars.

Imagine the surprise of the upperclassman who wandered into the library the other day, flashlight in hand, to find that the candles had been discarded in favor of modern lighting.

Miss Kinked is reported to have the longest line at Bucknell this year. One freshman dejectedly forming a part of it last week soliloquized, "and my mother wanted me to join the army." I suppose he was among those four or five freshmen at the head of the line who fled pell-mell when some very but surprising upperclassman came behind dashed up to announce that the sophomore were on the prowl.

And there's the case of another freshman who politely accented a worried brother on the hill, inquiring, "Can you tell me where I might find the History Building?" Sorry, we can't, but contribute and you might find it in a few years.

Just the other night, two upperclass couples returned from the dance floor in a crowded Chet to find their booth occupied by a pair of apathetic freshmen, calmly smoking the cigarettes which they had left burning on the table. Not wishing to interrupt the valuable flow of conversation which the couple was enjoying, the four waited until the girl noticed them and asked humbly what they wanted. After receiving a lengthy explanation from one of the freshmen, the couple, who had been seated at the booth, decided to leave, but it wasn't until they had resumed their seats that the upperclassmen found that the '33 Galsbushes had also drunk their half-Cokes. The odd part of it was that not all of the empty glasses were on the table. Possibly they drank them vodka-style.

The semi-annual rivalry between Keeler's and the Bookstore is an example of capitalistic competition at its zenith. Small "follow-the-fox" arrows direct the susceptible to the Hill for supplies and free blotters, while more conventional posters speak for the town establishment where booklovers are awarded as consolation prizes with every purchase. This year they're using psychology in the great advertising campaign. We're informed that one of the stores has a poster on the high road to Red Rock. That's sitting back with a sure-on.

Let's hope that too many freshmen don't take seriously that typographical error in this year's Handbook: "—the Bucknell way of life." It was no doubt a disillusioned upperclassman that copied the article.

Placement Bureau News

Seniors graduating in February are presently being registered at the Placement Office. If you have not received a letter notifying you of the date that you should register you may come to the Placement Office, Room 109 East Wing, on Friday, September 30 and the necessary forms will be completed at that time.

Seniors graduating in June will receive letters and information concerning registering, within the next few days.

It is vitally important that a photograph be on file for every person registered. If you do not have access to a recent photo, make an effort to secure one at your earliest convenience.

It is expected that company representatives will be interviewing on campus starting the latter part of October. Notices of these visits will be made in four places. The central campus bulletin board opposite Taylor Hall, the bulletin board in the Engineering Building, the bulletin board at the Placement Office and through the Bucknellian students may learn of the companies and the dates that they plan to send representatives.

Persons who plan to register at the Placement Office are requested to take advantage of the literature on file in the office. It is not too early to start to consider the companies in which you may have interest. At a later date announcement will be made for persons to attend a lecture to be given by representatives of the Federal and State Departments of Labor on job opportunities and job interviews. Everyone is encouraged to take part in such forums as will be conducted from time to time throughout the year in an effort to help you solve your job problems.

WAA ELECTIONS

Former Professor Here Will Speak To Student Church

Dr. Robert T. Oliver, former head of the Speech Department here and currently Professor of Speech at Penn State, will draw on his practical experience and contacts in his talk, "Seeds of Tomorrow" at Student Church Sunday evening at seven in Hunt Living Room.

Debating Club To Hold Meeting; New Members Welcome

The Debating Club will have its first meeting of the year on Monday, October 3, at 4:30 p.m. in the Room Seminar on the first floor of the Vaughan Literature Building. Richard Arnesen is president of the club, and Professor Frank W. Merritt of the English Department is advisor.

Any student, freshman or other, who is interested in debating is invited to attend this meeting. Previous debating experience is not necessary.

The group finished an active season last May. Its activities included debates with visiting teams at Bucknell, participation in various intercollegiate tournaments, and a number of extended trips to other colleges.

For the coming season, the debaters plan trips to the New England area, the New York City and Philadelphia area, the Rochester, N.Y., and Ithaca area, and the Washington, D. C. and Virginia area.

Some of the more prominent schools to be visited are Annapolis, William and Mary, Georgetown, Harvard, Columbia, Princeton, and Cornell. The Club also hopes to be able to send teams to participate in various tournaments in Pennsylvania and other adjoining states, according to Ernest Kossler.

Two new members have been added to the faculty of the Department of Music at Bucknell, Miss Helen Kleinfelter will teach public school music education in the state-certified course leading toward the degrees of Bachelor of Music or Bachelor of Science in Music Education.

Miss Kleinfelter will also direct the vespers choir at Student Church.

Miss Janet Mae Wallin will conduct a completely new department for junior students of elementary and high school. Miss Wallin is a graduate of Fresno State Teacher's College, Fresno, California, and received her master's degree in music from Northwestern University. Classes in theory, dictation, sight singing, and rhythm will be offered by the new department.

Bison Scoring Threat Stopped

Marty McKibben, Herd offensive end, is tagged just 9 yards short of the goal as time ran out in the first half of the NYU game last Saturday night. Bonanza, No. 17, just managed to grab one of his legs, while Bonanza, co-captain, is coming in for the assist.

Herd Stops Violet Gridders, 14-0, In Inaugural Contest

by Harry Staley

A huge crowd of victory starved Bucknellians crowded into Memorial Stadium last Saturday night to witness the clash between the New York University Violets and the Bucknell Bison. When the final buzzer signified the end of the game and a 14 to 0 Bucknell victory, a tremendous roar arose from the Bucknell section in praise of Coach Harry Lawrence and his gridders.

For the first quarter and most of the second, both teams seemed to lack the necessary punch to carry the ball over the last stripes. However, with only two minutes remaining in the first half, "Smoky" Ostendorf, Bison halfback, brought the crowd to its feet when he broke away on the Bucknell 48-yard line and raced the remaining distance for the first touchdown of the 1949 season. Richie Johnson split the uprights with a perfect placement and the Bison assumed a 7 to 0 lead.

Time Ran Out

The Lawrencemen then kicked off to the Violets, and when the Mylinson found the Bucknell line too tough to crack, they were forced to punt. With the clock running out in the first half, Tom Dean, Herd quarterback, took to the air and flipped an aerial to end "Marty" McKibben who raced to the NYU eight-yard line before he was bumped out of bounds. At this point, with the crowd wildly cheering for a second T. D., the first half ended and the Bison left the field holding a slim 7 to 0 lead.

NYU came back in the second half with an attack that looked like trouble for the Bison as Fogarty took the ball on the first play from the NYU 20-yard line and raced to the Bucknell 20. At that point, the Bison line again stiffened and the Violets were forced to give the ball on downs to the Herd. The scoreless third quarter was marked by some very fine defensive play on the part of both teams.

Effective Defense

Doug Light, Bison guard, and Ed Stec, defensive halfback, both excelled on the defense. On numerous occasions it was Stec who came up from the secondary to stop Violet runners before they could get under way.

On the other side of the line, Alan Hopewell, 205-pound tackle for the New Yorkers played an outstanding game on defense. Captain Joe Novotny lived up to his advance notice by very capably backing the line.

Bisons Set For Anniversary Game With Undeclared Delaware Eleven

by Ronnie Unger

This Saturday Bucknell's high-flying Bisons will commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the construction of Memorial Stadium by meeting a strong University of Delaware team. Furthermore, Delaware will be the one hundredth home foe of the Orange and Blue since that fall day in 1924 when the Thundering Herd triumphed over Georgetown.

Appropriately enough the game promises to be a top-notch struggle between two unbeaten teams, both of which present veteran players and a depth of reserve material. The Delaware outfit, which lacked reserves last season, has been gifted with some outstanding material from their once-beaten freshman team. Accordingly this year Coach Bill Murray has installed the two platoon system.

Although Coach Murray has had seventeen lettermen returning, eleven members of last year's club have departed. Jack Miller and Ted Youngling, both guards, are the only returning first stringers on the forward wall. This has necessitated much experimentation on the part of the line coaches. However, in the first two games of this season it looks like the Herd's have whipped together a formidable forward wall.

Experienced Backs

The backfield situation, on the other hand, has been bright, with three of the top five men from last year's eleven returning. Co-captain Mariano Stalloni will be back for his fourth consecutive year at fullback. Hank Paris at left halfback and Charley Smith at quarterback leave Murray with the nifty boys. Only Bill Cole and Bill Nash at right halfback have departed.

Last season Delaware beat Bucknell on a mud-clogged field by the score of 7-0, after literally being pushed down from behind. On the next play Tom Dean handed off to Ostendorf who went over standing up for the second Bison touchdown. Richie Johnson again converted and the Bison started the 1949 season on the right foot, overwhelming a but completely outplayed N. Y. U. eleven. The win represented Bucknell's second triumph over the Violets. N. Y. U. has won three, and one contest ended in a tie.

LOCAL MEN'S CLOTHIER OFFERS MERCHANDISE FOR GAME PREDICTION

All right, you Sunday morning quarterback; Red Rouben, local haberdasher at 4th and Market streets, is going to give you a chance to tell him what's going to happen before the game. Red says it's worth ten dollars in merchandise every week to him if someone can predict the scores of the Bucknell game.

Just drop in the store anytime during the week, write your guess on a piece of paper there, and drop it in the Prediction Box. Just like that! No strings. In case more than one person guesses the right score the prize will be divided, and if no one hits it on the nose, the persons with the closest will get the nod. According to Red, this doesn't happen too often, though.

Herd Dribblers Face Test In Clash With State Saturday

By Harry Sheirr

The Bison Booters will attempt to make "There'll Be Some Changes Made" their theme song this Saturday afternoon when they face Penn State's Dribblers up at the Lion's Lair.

In the past the Herd has always found difficulty with State soccer squads. Of the 13 contests played, Bucknell has dropped 12 out of 13. Since the series began in 1930, the best the Orange and Blue soccermen were able to do was hold the Staters to a 0-0 tie in 1943.

Coach Bill Jeffrey and his men have blanked the Bison eight times, while allowing only four goals to be tallied against them. This year Jeffrey has fielded what he calls "one of the best teams in the past few seasons."

Veteran Outfit

Seven State lettermen are on hand, headed by a couple of 1948 All-Americans; Captain Ralph Hosterman and Dick Hannah. Hosterman is the third member of his family to play for Jeffrey and the second brother to win All-American honors.

Other holdovers from the 1948 Lion squad who are expected to fill starting berths are: Clarence Bass, Wilbur Kraybill, Ted Lieb, Harry Little, and Charley Margolf.

INTRAMURAL TROPHY PRESENTED TO LCA IN CHAPEL CEREMONY

Yesterday, for the first time in intramural history, the All Year Athletic Trophy was formally presented during Chapel services. Joseph Markley, President and Supervisor of the Intramural Athletic program, made the presentation to Lambda Chi Alpha's president, Irving Williams, III.

He complimented L. C. A. on its fine record in the 1948-1949 Athletic program. Competing at times against as many as twenty-five teams Lambda Chi won the golf, soccer and volleyball trophies; placed second in four other events and third in all others with the exception of one.

TUSTIN TALES

By the Sem Sports

Do you feel tired? Listless? more in the mood to sleep than do anything else? Then we have just the answer for you — Women's Sports!

Just think—a choice of hockey, volleyball, basketball, tennis, archery, bowling and softball, all yours.

It's a known fact that we students at Bucknell do too much work and not enough exercise. All work and no play makes Abigail a dull girl, you know. So why not start the year off right and go out for at least one sport per season. (And this will definitely help your figure, gals.)

While we're at it, we'll put a plug in for W. A. A. As you know, we're all members of W. A. A. and can participate in all sports and clubs as well as chalk up points for ourselves. Perhaps we'd better explain what we mean by "points."

A system has been set up whereby everyone who goes out for practices in each sport, or plays in games, is a captain of a team, or is an officer on W. A. A., gets a certain amount of points to her credit. At the accumulation of 100 points, a shield is awarded; for 250 points, a "B"; for 400, a key; and for 500, an identification bracelet.

So get on the bandwagon and start off now to go out there on that field, or on that team, and WIN—not only for Women's Sports, but for you.

Bruised shin bones, swollen ankles, and discolored knee caps are appearing on campus. The reason? Why? The Sem crew is out for hockey. This year great enthusiasm has been shown by the participants, and a spirited tournament is in the making.

The SOTAPER

It's a good thing Davy Meyer's tail-or-tot does not have a motor in it, because if it did, he would be a real trouble maker on two wheels. Better look out!

Ruthie Faint, a newcomer to the village, just celebrated her first birthday. Joyce Benjamin had a double celebration—her sixth birthday and entering school.

We welcome the many families who have moved into the village recently. And a hearty congratulations to the newest of all newcomers—Bobbie Badger, Jr., who came into the world September 10.

Little Charlie Peterson enjoyed the picnic and vesper held for the Methodist Student Group at the Harry McCormick. He did his part in preventing the vesper leader and minister from monopolizing the conversation. When the speakers were finished and the fifty serious students had made a friendship circle, the leader said reverently, "We will close by singing 'Best Be the Tie'." Before we could begin, high and clear came a voice—"Ring around the rosie."

Bill, Brenda and Patty Siegfried entertained Bill's mother last week. The Gordons Masters and the Paul Kreichers enjoyed a day at the Bloomsburg State Fair. Jack Peters fished for the weekend while Sally and Jeff were in Elmira. Jo and Henry Adler spent the weekend with their families in Leona, N. J. Ruth and Warren Lamm were home for the weekend.

Robert Bean caused a minor explosion when he released the cover on his pressure cooker too soon. The result was a conglomeration of vegetables all over their newly painted kitchen walls.

Butchie Hase just got the thrill of his life! He went to Grandma's on the Choo-choo. Hurry back, Butchie; the little fellows miss you.

Two Bucks 'Nuff' Cash For Date, Reports Survey

Charleston, Illinois—(ACP)—If you have two dollars you can ask for that date, because, according to a recent survey taken on the campus, 77 percent of the girls thought two dollars was all you should be expected to spend. If you're lucky, you'll be going with the other 23 percent who don't expect you to spend more than a dollar.

Financial Boost

Now that we have examined your financial status, how about your appearance? You had better slip into your slacks and sweater and pants combination; 60.5 percent of the girls on the campus preferred the combination. If all your sweaters are at the cleaners, then wear a sports outfit since the other 39.5 percent of the girls preferred this type of garb. Suits didn't even get into the race.

Where will we go? If there's a dance going on, it's your best bet because 60.5 percent of the girls preferred going to the dance. If there's no dance, then the theater is your next best choice (15 percent), with skating, riding and walking trailing the list.

No Tavern

Just in case you might be considering going away from the tavern, you had better forget it since only about 23 percent of the girls looked even tolerantly on drinking, and if there is a dance, do your best; 92.5 percent of the girls wanted to date good dancers.

If you're amusing your girl, you've got the girls behind you 100 percent and if your personality is one of those million-dollar personalities then count on a date. Contact Pat Weis, 202-1000, for more information.

Handbook stated, "At no time may you short a girl in dancing. The Counselor's Notes advocated wearing shoes and heels on dates, knocking over doors before entering, and bringing a raincoat."

He was entertained by C. Rajagopalachari, Governor General at Government House, New Delhi; toured the "untouchable" villages of Mysore with Thakka Bappa and had several interviews on world problems with Fundi Nehru, Prime Minister.

In March, Dr. Rustin was informed that the Supreme Court of North Carolina had upheld a lower court's decision that he should serve 30 days on the road gang for disturbing southern Jim Crow laws during a bus trip two years ago. He began sentence on March 21 and was released with eight days good time on April 13th.

An American Quaker by religious belief, Dr. Rustin was born in West Chester, Pa. After winning honors in football, track, tennis, speaking and debate, he was graduated magna cum laude from the West Chester public secondary school. He attended the State Teachers College at Cheyney, Pennsylvania.

During World War II he spent twenty-eight months in United States federal prisons for his religious refusal to accept conscription and war. Later he served as Youth Secretary and then Field Secretary of the American Fellowship of Reconciliation.

He was secretary of the Working Committee of the Campaign to Resist Military Segregation, an organization composed of colored and white people who carry on a non-violent program of civil disobedience against military segregation.

Concerning the topic of his Chapel address Wednesday morning, Dr. Rustin said, "I thought this would be particularly appropriate in light of the debates which will be going on at the time in the United Nations centering around the control of atomic weapons."

As far as the actual South American universities are concerned, they are similar in their methods of education to our universities in the United States. However, one difference is their lack of campus life, for most of the universities are in the large cities and operate as a day school rather than a boarding school.

During his travels, he had a wonderful opportunity to put Spanish to good use. He spoke it constantly and was often asked if he knew any English.

The primary function of his trip was for a vacation and to acquaint himself with the South American people who previously had been known to him only through a study of their language and history. He stated that the standard of living of these people seemed to be rising by the trends he observed in education and commerce.

Arrangements are being made by the Student Christian Association to employ the use of Dr. Rustin's time at several group meetings following his luncheon to be given in his honor.

Some of them are being reported for breaking rules rather than for breaking rules. The Tribunal is so set up so that there can be no appeal, nor should there be any. Freshmen must learn to take it, as well as to dish it out. They must realize that special rules are passed that they must follow without question. Frosh hazing is a part of Bucknell tradition, and the Class of 1953 has no more right to break this tradition than did any preceding class. Sure, it's hard to take it sometimes, but that's a part of college life, and any one who can't stand up under such mild hazing doesn't belong here. Remember, Frosh, that next year you'll be in the driver's seat. It's hardly fair for those who can't take it this year to be able to hand it out 12 months later.

Last week's Bucknellian had a fine editorial urging the sophomores to show some life. Come on Class of '52, let's bear down!

Professor of Rural Sociology at The Pennsylvania State College, Dr. William G. Mather will address the Bucknell Chapel Wednesday morning on the subject "Taking Life Straight."

Before joining the faculty at State College five years ago, Dr. Mather taught at Franklin College and De Paul University, both in Indiana. His fields of specialty for teaching and research are rural welfare and the rural church. In this capacity, he has directed several studies, some published and others in process of publication, of rural old age assistance recipients and of rural churches.

The noted guest speaker is a member of a number of professional societies including Phi Beta Kappa and for nine years has been chairman of the Council on Christian Science Progress of the Northern Baptist Convention.

"TAKES LIFE STRAIGHT"

On the Retirement of Professor Paul G. Stolz

It is with mingled feelings of commendation and regret that the faculty notes the retirement of Professor Paul G. Stolz, who for forty-three years served Bucknell University in the field of instruction in music. Beginning as a student in 1906 he assisted Dr. Aviragnet in the School of Music, and upon the death of the latter in 1908, he himself became the director, and taught not only the courses in music but also German and even Botany.

As Bucknell grew he assembled a faculty of specialists to teach the subdivisions of the music curriculum, including for seven years public school music. The instruction was carried on first in Larson Hall, later in Harris Hall and in 1929 the school was moved to its present quarters. During the year 1929 and 1930 Professor Stolz studied in Berlin, Germany, in the Hochschule für Musik and was a member of its ontario society. In 1911 he conducted the first of a long series of oratorios, namely Mendelssohn's "Saint Paul" in this building (Bucknell Hall), with a choir of forty student voices.

From that time on music lovers of this region have enjoyed the annual oratorios given by increasingly larger choral groups of students, faculty members and outstanding soloists.

In 1923 Professor Stolz received the honorary degree of Doctor of Music from the John B. Stetson University in recognition of his conspicuous attainments in promoting interest in the appreciation of the best in music. His untiring devotion to his alma mater and his gracious cooperation in his sphere of activity, endeared him to a host of devoted friends. It is fitting at this time that this brief account of his services to Bucknell be spread upon the minutes of the faculty meeting, and a copy sent to him with the hearty good wishes of his faculty friends.

Resolutions on the retirement of Professors Paul G. Stolz and Floyd G. Ballentine were adopted by the faculty at its October meeting in Bucknell Hall last week.

On the Retirement of Professor Floyd G. Ballentine

We of the faculty also miss from these meetings our colleague of many years, Professor Floyd G. Ballentine, who retired from active service in July of this year. In June of 1899 Professor Ballentine received his bachelor of arts degree from Bucknell University, and entering Harvard University the following autumn, acted as assistant in classics, and received his doctor of philosophy degree in 1903. In the same year he was appointed instructor in Latin at Bucknell, and subsequently Professor of Latin. From 1936 to 1949 he also carried on the instruction in Greek. From 1926 to this present year he acted as secretary of the faculty, which office he filled with meticulous care and devotion, and for over twenty years he also edited the university catalog.

Professor Ballentine acted as coach of tennis teams over a longer period than the term of service of any other athletic coach at Bucknell, and this without thought of remuneration.

In the field of scholarship he edited an edition of the play of Terence entitled, "The Self Tormentor." He contributed scholarly articles to such periodicals as The Harvard Studies in Classical Philology, the Proceedings of the American Philological Association and the Classical Weekly. He is a member of the American Philological Association, the Classical Association of the Middle Atlantic States, and a Foundation member of the Mu Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. He is also a past president of the Bucknell Scholars and was chairman of the editorial committee of the Bucknell University Studies.

It is fitting that this record of his long years of scholarly service to Bucknell be spread upon the minutes of the faculty meetings and a copy sent to him with the best wishes of his faculty friends with whom he labored so long and so well.

'Hospitality' Will Highlight All Homecoming Festivities

Reception Planned For President Horace Hildreth; Dorms And Houses To Compete For Decoration Honors

"Homecoming, Hospitality, and Hildreth" will be the theme of the University's annual alumni celebration on Saturday, Oct. 22, with the football game with Washington and Jefferson College as the highlight of the day's activities.

Students and faculty will cooperate in an all-out drive to welcome to the campus an expected crowd of several thousand alumni in whose honor three major events have been planned. These include the football game, a reception at which alumni will have an opportunity to meet the new president Horace A. Hildreth, and an alumni dance Saturday evening.

Dr. Davis Directs

Dr. Frank G. Davis, alumni secretary, heads the Homecoming committee, with Deane Malcom E. Musser and Mary Jane Stevenson serving in an advisory capacity.

Fraternities and dormitory groups will compete for an award for the most attractive decorations. The student committee responsible for this phase of the celebration includes Howard Dwyer, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council; Peg Smith, president of Pan-Hellenic Council; and Francis Fritzen, president of the Bucknell Independent Students Association.

Art Raynor, president of Men's Student Government, is chairman of a special committee to arrange for decoration and hospitality on the Hill. Eleanor Lieper, president of Women's Student Government, heads a group serving in a similar capacity on the women's campus.

In addition to the three major events, the Homecoming calendar includes meetings of a number of special groups, starting with an all-alumni pep rally Friday evening at Davis Gymnasium. Among the group scheduled to meet Friday night are the directors of the General Alumni Association and the executive committee of the Bison Club.

The club is composed of women members of the faculty and administration and wives of the male members of the faculty and administration. During the evening new members of the club will be introduced and Mrs. Frank A. Sprague will read a poem on the history of the organization.

Mrs. Mary Jane Stevenson, president, has announced that Mrs. Horace A. Hildreth has accepted the honorary presidency of the club. Mrs. James P. Whyte, acting president, is chairman of the committee planning the dinner.

A formal dinner at the Lewisburg Club October 17 will mark the inauguration of activities for the new year of the Bucknell University Campus Club.

Winners Victorious Over Field Of 78 Fresh Candidates

The class of 1953 held elections on Friday and chose the following officers: president, Melvin "Woody" Woodward; vice president, Katherine "Kitty" Bell; secretary, Janie Banker; and treasurer, Jan Jacques.

The votes, which were tallied by the Election Committee of Student Faculty Congress, were cast for one out of every seven freshmen. There were 78 nominees for the four offices.

President "Woody" Woodward, who defeated 16 other candidates for the presidency, is from Greensburg, Pa., and a graduate from Greensburg High School. He was president of the local Baptist youth group and secretary of his high school social fraternity.

Katherine "Kitty" Bell, who is vice president, is from Ocean City, N. J. She graduated from the Baldwin School in Bryn Mawr, Pa., where she was secretary of the school and active in sports.

Secretary Janie Banker is from Lewisport, Pa. She is a graduate of Lewisport High School and was feature editor of the school paper. There were 16 nominees for the office of secretary.

The treasurer, Paul Jacques, who ran against no less than 28 opponents, came from South Struthford, Pa. He graduated from Mt. Hermon School in Massachusetts and won several scholastic awards in history, English and music.

Joe Jones' Caligraphy Reviewed By Artist-In-Residence Bruce Mitchell

To indulge in a bit of alteration, it might be said that "Caligraphy Creates Campus Contraversy". Referring, of course, to the exhibition of "caligraphic" paintings by the noted young artist, Joe Jones.

Jones, in his talk and painting demonstration last Sunday at Roberts Hall, inspired mixed reactions among the large group that attended, some admitting that they didn't understand what it was all about and others saying that it was a very admirable new form of art.

Jones stressed the following points as his credo:

1. The first sketch made by the artist, after thoroughly studying the subject, is the clearest, freshest, and most telling conception, and that this sketch projected on canvas should be continued on page 8.)

Professor McRae To Give Classical, Modern Piano Recital October 18

A piano recital by William D. McRae, assistant professor of music, will be held Thursday evening, Oct. 18, at 8:15 in the Lewisburg Baptist Church. This will be the first in a series of musical programs to be offered this year by members of the Bucknell department of music.

Music by classical, romantic and modern composers will be featured in Prof. McRae's program, which the public is invited to attend. Compositions by seven different artists, including Beethoven, Debussy, Chopin, and others, will be presented.

DR. ROY E. NICODEMUS RE-ELECTED FATHER'S ASSOCIATION HEAD

Dr. Roy E. Nicodemus, of Danville, Pa., was re-elected president of the Father's Association at a luncheon meeting Saturday noon in the men's dining hall.

Other officers of the Association were also re-elected at the meeting, one of the main events of the annual Dad's Day weekend. The officers include: Fred W. Woods, of Bronxville, N. Y., vice-president; Forrest D. Brown, secretary of the Bucknell Christian Association, secretary-treasurer; and Malcolm E. Musser, dean of men at Bucknell, chairman of the steering committee.

MUSIC RECITALS

The Music Department will present its first student recital of the year on Wednesday, October 19, at 8:30 p.m., in the auditorium of the music annex. The public is cordially invited to attend all of these recitals, given on alternate Wednesdays at the same hour.

DR. NORMAN G. STEWART headed the committee which prepared the resolutions. Serving with him were Dr. James O. Oliphant and Dr. C. Willard Smith. The resolutions are as follows:

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1949.

Homecoming Hospitality

One of these days we'll shove all the gripes and complaints about the school into our hip pockets and brag about our alma mater with the best of any old grad. It seems a long way off right now but in reality we know it will happen. Homecoming Week is one weekend a year that is set aside for the alumni. When they come back here to see relatives, to see old friends, or whatever it is, they are here because they have some attachment to the school. It's our job then to make them feel at home, speak to them and offer them every courtesy that you would your own family. It won't hurt us this one weekend to show a little extra hospitality. We'll expect it some day and the alumni will enjoy it now.

For Men Only

"They can't do that to us," is a familiar cry that echoes from the walls of every dorm and fraternity house whenever a rumor starts to fly on a new restriction in the making, or threats of a change in present regulations. So far, few of these restrictions have affected the average men student to the point of disappointment. More than once, however, rumors have circulated on such subjects as car restrictions, deferred rushing, and other incidents directly concerning everyone of us.

Most of us realize that rules and regulations set-up by the school are necessary and that the students are not in the position to make them. Every once in the while, however, these rumors do not seem to "pop" until the new ruling is cut, dried and stowed away in the book of do's and don'ts.

This is probably unintentional on the part of the faculty and administration but what can they do? Actually there is no representation of men students through these problems could be aired with the concerned. The WSGA, however, has been very successful in many cases in deciding their own problems.

Why then, not have a representative group of men students? This group could be entirely controlled by the men students and could discuss, help direct, propose, oppose, or defend it's interests.

Such a group with representatives from every living quarter might be a powerful, efficient driver in the defense or molding of policies which affect the 1600 men students.

Comment Of The Week

The football team leaves Friday morning for one of the toughest games on the schedule. A good steady, especially by the girls, couldn't do any harm. The players all know the school is behind them, but the question in their minds might very easily be, how much!

The Friday Night Farce

The horns blew, the band played and the dinks bounced along with the lively spirit so well shown by the class of '53. Thus went the pep rally last Friday night as it drew spectators to the steps and sidewalks all along the way. And when the cheers pushed through the windows at the Sem, most of the girls stopped from their date-readying to glance out the window. All seemed to be going well as the crowd hustled toward the lighted bonfire. Then it happened. Seated there on the bank facing the fire, were at least 153 freshmen, a few, very few, upper classmen, about one-third of the band, and over in the shadows, most of the football team. It was all a terrific build-up-for-nothing.

The people who were there yelled their heads off, the band played its best and the cheerleaders tried to create the right atmosphere but there was just one thing missing—about 91% of the student body.

To bowl people out for not attending a pep rally is just like telling them they should go because it's their "rah rah" duty. If they don't feel like they should be there, then they shouldn't. That's profound all right, but suppose the team felt that way? Well, they won and the spirit Saturday on the field and in the stands was great. Maybe pep rallies are over-rated, maybe this was too close to the one the week before, maybe these rallies don't mean anything to the ball players. But, on the other hand, maybe a rally does mean something. That little pat on the back shown by a good pep-rally shouldn't be underestimated. It does mean something to those guys, if you don't believe it, ask them. One hour of your time Friday night isn't too much to pay for two hours of their time Saturday. There are just two more home games. What are YOU going to do about it?

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

by Becky Rogers

The Georgia Tech Technique recently ran an article about a French professor at U. of P. who tried an interesting little experiment with the co-eds in his classes. On one piece of paper he had them list all the names of the French authors on their reading list that they could remember. On the second he had them list all the brands of beer they knew. And guess what? Over 85 per cent of them remembered more brand names than French authors. And just what did he expect?

Found in the Mount Holyoke News is an item of apology to a certain Cornelia Clapp because the paper inadvertently reported the anniversary of her death instead of her birth. The last line of the apology reads: "We regret this error." Dr. Clapp, on the other hand, would probably regret it a lot more if it weren't an error.

RECORD CLASS DIPLOMAS TODAY reads a headline in the Ursinus Weekly. Sounds as though the only course the school offers is music appreciation.

And here are sentiments we're sure would never be felt by the husband of any Bucknell woman.

She: "You deceived me before our marriage. You told me you were well off."

He: "I was but I didn't know it."

WORLD WIDE

TITO AND THE COMINFORM

by Jack M. Thomas

As World War II drew to a close attention was centered on the Balkan area. Here were five countries which had actively supported the Nazi regime against the Allies. But as the breath of the advancing Russian forces became more pronounced the Balkan countries found it to their advantage to make an about face and help the Allies defeat their former partners. This change of heart, on the part of the Balkan nations, needs no explanation. They found it necessary if they were to remain sovereign states. But one particular Balkan state was of great interest to all. This was the south-western country of Yugoslavia.

During the war Yugoslavia had sided with the German war movement. This action was taken by the official Yugoslav government. But many of its nationalistic citizens failed to comply with the dictates of their government. They joined with one or the other of the rebel bands that were actively engaged in fighting the German occupation forces within their country. One of these bands was headed by a Russian-trained Communist Josip Broz (Tito). On May 8, 1945, as the Germans officially surrendered to the Allies, Tito and his guerrilla Partisans were in control of their country.

Because Tito was a trained Communist leader it was not too shocking when the announcement was made that Yugoslavia and Russia had signed a pact of friendship and mutual assistance in 1945. Later Yugoslavia signed similar pacts with the other Communist countries in Eastern Europe and joined the Soviet Cominform. At least on the surface Yugoslavia and Russia appeared to be in a state of close relationship. All in all it looked as if the Soviet Union had gained virtual control of all the Balkan countries plus most of the other countries in Eastern Europe.

But feuding had been underway between Tito and Stalin even before World War II had ended. The order of disagreement was over different interpretations of Communism. Stalin held that nationalism must stand in the way of eventual world Communism. The Soviet Union's interests are of supreme importance. Tito, on the other hand, believed in "national Communism" which should be within the boundaries of each national state. Since Russia was overwhelmingly more powerful than Yugoslavia it would be expected that Tito would have been forced to yield to the whims of Stalin and the Cominform.

But that was not the case. For in June, 1948, the official Communist Party organ, the Cominform, issued an order which expelled Tito and his "national Communist party" from the Cominform. The Cominform called to the Yugoslavs to overthrow the present regime and establish a "new internationalist leadership." This Cominform communique began attacks against Tito which are reaching a climax at the present time. Attacks which not only have come from within the Soviet Union but from all the other Russian-dominated satellite countries as well.

The Russians have used every method short of war to force Tito to either abide with the wishes of the Cominform or induce the Yugoslavs to rise up and overthrow Tito and his "national Communist" government. Yugoslavia has been in a continual state of "war nerves" for the past sixteen months. The people have not known from one day to the next whether they might suddenly be attacked. It is obvious that Russia could conquer Yugoslavia, at least its seat of government, in a very short space of time. Why has Russia failed to move in on Tito? What are the reasons that Tito and his people are able to remain obstinate to the Soviet Union's demands against such overwhelming odds?

The Russians have been using a potent weapon on the Yugoslavs. They have installed an economic blockade on Tito in the hope that Tito would be forced to come back into the fold by sheer necessity for survival. The Soviets have hoped that they could smoke Tito out of the use of actual military force. The Russians, who are exceptionally smart in their foreign dealings, know only too well that serious repercussions would occur from the Western world should the Soviets openly engage in a military maneuver against Yugoslavia. Tito has held the line so far since Yugoslavia is largely independent of imports. As to the bare necessities she could endure the Russian economic blockade indefinitely.

But the interesting question is how can Tito and the Yugoslav people withstand all the pressure that is being brought to bear on them from Russia and her neighboring states? There are several probable answers. For one thing Yugoslavia is a highly nationalistic country. No people in the Balkan area feel themselves so closely related to their national state as do the Yugoslavs. Proof of this can be seen in the fact that these same people were the only ones during the last war that could offer any substantial resistance to the Nazi occupation forces. They remain obedient to their leader, who upholds Yugoslav sovereignty, and to their government, which symbolizes their nationalism. This factor, separate of the state, is an obstacle which is almost impossible to overcome if tested by an outside element.

Another important reason or explanation for the stubbornness of the Yugoslav people in the face of Russian pressure is its geographical location to Russia. Yugoslavia is situated on the shore of the Adriatic Sea which can make for a possible link with the outside world. Yugoslavia does not find herself in the same position as do the other Balkan states. She is bordered on the west by Italy which, in the present international poker game, is held by the Western powers. All this adds up to the fact that Yugoslavia can assume a more relaxed attitude toward the Cominform than can any of the other satellite countries in the Balkans.

Within the past month the United States has announced that she is sending a complete steel mill to Marshal Tito for "post-war recovery purposes." This does not mean that this country is actively supporting Tito and his own form of Communism, but it does mean that this country sees an opportunity to aid in the defeat of Russian Communism without becoming too deeply involved. The U. S. has also approved a $25,000,000 loan to Yugoslavia for the purpose of buying badly-needed machinery in this country. Yugoslavia has found support after she has travelled her own way for over a year.

Just what the final outcome of this break with Russia will be is quite hard to comprehend. One thing is certain, Russia is fully aware that a few seams in her well-knit organization are slowly unraveling. If she is to continue her world expansion a quick mending job is in order. On the other hand, the West realizes the tremendous opportunity she now has to deal a severe blow to expansive dreams of the Soviet Union. Tito and the Yugoslav people are in the middle of the fray with the United States and Russia vying for top position. The peace of the world may well hinge on the outcome of Tito's break with the Cominform and what the Western world will do to encourage Tito to maintain unfriendly attitudes towards the Soviet Union.

C&D Formulates Plans For Radio Programs Over WKOK

Cap & Dagger's radio program staff, under the direction of Bill Billipp, held its first meeting of the year Tuesday, October 4. Sign-ups for work with the staff were held and plans for the presentation of programs to be given over station WKOK in Sunbury were formulated.

The program will be a continuation of that instituted last spring under the name of "This is Your Cap & Dagger", and will be presented for 15 minutes every week over station WKOK. The program time has not as yet been set, but the staff hopes to present its first program in two weeks. The program will take the form of a series of short skits dealing with the problems and headaches encountered by typical college freshmen and their hurried counsel.

The staff will hold regular weekly meetings on Tuesday afternoons at 4:30 in the Social Science building. Anyone interested in working with the group is invited to attend.

The program skits will be written by Sally Hitchens, Joan Anderson, Lynn Warner, Pat Fish, Nancy Valentine; secretary, Jo Ann Smolley; treasurer, Joan McInnis; social chairman, Bette Shellenberg.

The representatives were: Larison: second floor, Madeline Laher, Esther Horwar, Bernice Lou Ball; third floor, Nancy Schmeel, Mildred Taylor; Bucknell Cottage: first floor, Dot Bort; second floor, Jane Banker; third floor, Labele Harris.

Brownell House: president, Betsy Gibson; secretary-treasurer, Carolyn Gould; social chairman, Ginny Nelson; Stephens House: president, Betty Clark; secretary-treasurer, Pat Schwesler; social chairman, Penny Brown.

Sixth Street House: president, Joy Peterson; secretary-treasurer, Sue Miller; social chairman, Mollie Brown.

In the House of Representatives Mary Jane Mower was elected vice president and Barbara Blecker as secretary. Leah Chandler, vice president of the Senate, presides over the House.

NEWMAN CLUB TO HOLD COMMUNION BREAKFAST SUNDAY, OCTOBER 16

Paul Lotto, president of the Newman Club, announced that there will be a Communion Breakfast following the 9:00 o'clock Mass, this Sunday. At this time the nomination and election of officers for the forthcoming year will take place. All Catholic students are encouraged to attend this meeting. Lotto has announced.

In a brief statement of policy, Paul mentioned the Club's primary aim. "This is our Catholic Club on campus whose purpose is to give students an opportunity to discuss such interesting but controversial subjects as the religious, social, and educational aspects here at Bucknell. It should be clear that non-Catholic students will be more than welcome to attend these meetings in order to give their views points on these subjects."

Future Communion Breakfasts, dinners, and outings will be planned throughout the year. It is hoped that this club will continue to serve as a means of enlightening and broadening the views and attitudes held by students on any of their present questions, Lotto also said.

Tea Held By Faculty To Welcome Students From Abroad To Campus

Bucknell's students from abroad were welcomed by a Tea held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Brown at the beginning of the semester. There to add their greetings were Miss Mary Jane Stevenson, Dean of Women, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Tassler, Miss Virginia Werlein, Emory Smith, and Forrest Brown, Jr.

The purpose of the tea was many fold. The main objective was for these students far from home to meet each other and to bring them to a group closer to the school and town. It was hoped that through such a meeting the general attitude of the administration and the faculty could be explained.

Informality of classes and friendliness of professors amazed some of our European friends for their previous experience with schooling taught them that professors were unapproachable lecturers. Science and engineering laboratories also were new to them for they had known theory, not practice.

Perhaps the most appreciable feature of Bucknell, they said, is its size which is too small to permit segregation of groups. It places the student from abroad right in the middle of campus activities where he must learn English or be at a disadvantage.

At last official count, there are 13 students from abroad on campus representing 12 different countries in Europe, Asia and South America. Two of their number, Cecile Constant of France and Gertrude Merkle of Germany, hold the position of dormitory hostesses in French House and German House respectively.

Wilhelm Gack of Germany has been delayed in route but is expected in the very near future. Another member of the group, Melih Calikokoglu, is on a leave of absence because of illness and hopes to return in time for the second semester.

The remainder of the group consists of: Franc Broder, Yugoslavia; Mact Cigdemoglu, Turkey; Rolf Kristiansen, Norway; Andrew Mararjah, Trinidad; D. K. Nanavati, India; Miguel V. Ortiz, Columbia; Finn Peterson, Denmark; Ernesto Coses Reich, Argentina; Rose Paula Robijns, Belgium and Rosemarie Scherer, Germany.

It is interesting to note that of the 13, only three are here by scholarship drive. The W. S. S. F. scholarship drive is instrumental in this aid by providing $1000 per year. The University itself financially assists in some cases.

Noted Embryologist To Speak On Oct. 19

Dr. George W. Corner, noted embryologist of the Carnegie Institution, Washington, D. C., will speak on the "Ovary and Embryo: The Reproductive Cycle of the Rhesus Monkey," on Wednesday evening, October 19 at 8 o'clock in the Vaughn Literature Auditorium.

Dr. Corner is one of the outstanding scientists of our time. His work and that of scientists under his leadership have made many important contributions to the knowledge of the physiology of reproduction. His lecture will be adapted to a general audience interested in science and will be illustrated by remarkable photographs from the collection of the Carnegie Embryological Laboratory.

Dr. Corner's lecture, to which the public is invited, is sponsored by the Sigma Xi Club of Bucknell University and The Society of Sigma Xi, the Scientific Research Society of America, which each year invites America's foremost scientists to give lectures throughout the nation.

DEBATERS ORGANIZE, PLAN YEAR'S PROGRAM

The Bucknell Debating Society held its first meeting of the semester for new members, October 3, to acquaint them with the organization and present the program planned for the year. It was announced by Professor Merritt.

Among the colleges to be visited by the team are: Harvard, Amherst, Rochester, Rutgers and Princeton. The main topic for debate this year is "Resolved: That the United States should nationalize the basic non-agricultural industries."

Several hundred guests attended the faculty reception held in Hunt Living Room Thursday evening, October 6, given by Dean and Mrs. William H. Coleman in honor of President and Mrs. Horace A. Hildreth and the new members of the faculty.

The receiving line included President and Mrs. Hildreth, Dean and Mrs. Coleman, Dean Mary Jane Stevenson, Dean and Mrs. Malcolm T. Munser, and the new faculty members and their wives.

The wives of six members of the faculty and administration presided at the refreshment table. They were: Lester P. Fowle, Mrs. Robert L. Mate, Mrs. John W. Rice, Mrs. Clarence H. Richardson, Mrs. Dayton L. Rankin and Mrs. Harry W. Robbins.

Another tentative plan is "mixer" dances to be given one Wednesday a month from 7 p. m. until 9 p. m. This is having the permission of the Dean of Women's office.

Miss Mary Jane Stevenson, dean of women, will represent the University at the inauguration of Will W. Orr as president of Westminster College, Friday, October 14.

Before accepting her present position at Bucknell Miss Stevenson was dean of women at Westminster College.

Dr. J. Hills Miller, president of the University of Florida, formerly dean of students at Bucknell, will make the inaugural address.

Forrest Brown, Jr., who spent his summer in the Detroit Students-Industry project, will conduct the session.

Cheerleaders Pick New Members

Bud Norton, head cheerleader has announced that the following students were recently selected to the Bucknell cheerleading squad: Wilma Edwards, Nancy Carter, Barbara Roemer, Marilyn Naugle, Dahn Kappel, Bob Horn, John Harvey.

Lawrencemen Hope To Bring 'Old Shoe' Home Saturday

Trophy Will Be On The Line For Fifth Time In Owl Clash

By Harry Staley

The Old Shoe Trophy, symbolic of the traditional clash between Bucknell and Temple, will be on the line for the fifth time when both teams meet at Temple Stadium in Philadelphia tomorrow night.

Presented by the Temple Dental Alumni Society in memory of those who served from both institutions in World War II, the trophy has remained in Temple possession since it was given for the first time in 1945.

Owl Supremacy

Tomorrow's contest will mark the twenty-seventh meeting of the two teams since Temple and Bucknell opened the series with a 13-13 tie in 1927. Since that date, eleven games have gone to the Owls, four to the Bisons, with six ending in ties.

So far this season, the Owls have managed to equal their victory total for 1948, as they have won their last two games after dropping their first. The only blot on the Temple record came as the result of a 5-0 loss to a tough Texas team. However, the two recent victories over Rutgers and Syracuse have proven that the Owls will be tough. The Temple defense held Rutgers 14 to 7 and vaulted past Syracuse last week.

Veteran Eleven

Over 25 letters have returned to the Temple campus, and in his first year as head coach, Albert Kaway has found it possible to field a team with well rounded varsity experience. The Owls will be piloted by quarterback Paul Dubenetsky, a senior from Brooklyn who has a reputation as one of the best passers in the East. In addition to Dubenetsky, the Bisons will be faced with the problem of stopping halfbacks Hansen and Bernardo as well as fullback Tom Skladany, the latter being the leading scorer for the Owls in 1948.

Temple Schedule

A glance at the Temple schedule shows that it is a difficult one and one which must be respected. The Temple aren't expected to have even with such a tough road ahead, and they are fighting to win as many as possible. According to reports, the pessimism which has constantly shrouded the Philadelphia is vastly overrated. They are a far better team than they were given credit for earlier in the year.

Powerful Bison

On the other side of the fence, the Bisons are intent on preserving their unbeaten status and would like nothing better than to return with the Old Shoe Trophy for the first time. The hard-fought victory over Delaware last Saturday proved that the Lawrencemen are definitely not pushovers. They demonstrated an ability to come from behind to win and they looked noticeably better than they did in their first game.

"Smoky" Ostendap has been brilliant in both games and the passing of Tom Dean has left little to be desired. Bob Alberts has been very impressive, while Ed Stee continues to sparkle on the defense.

It is expected that the Temple forward wall will outweigh the Bisons but this fact has been true in every game thus far this season. Led by co-captains Bob Bucher and Bob Ervin, the linemen deserve a lions share of the credit for the Bucknell success thus far. However, the Herd linemen will be tested thoroughly tomorrow night when they meet the Owls.

Herd Booters Entertain Delaware In First Home Contest Saturday

by Harvey Sheir

The Bison Booters will open their defense of the Middle Atlantic Conference title this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 when they square off against Delaware's Blue Hens on North Field.

Pennants Of Opponents Ready For W&J Clash

In an effort to provide "stadium color" for Homecoming this year, the Bucknell Athletic Council has ordered eight pennants, representative of the Bison grid foes of '49.

The flags will be flown from poles extending 10 ft. above the ramp in Memorial Stadium. Schools to be represented are Gettysburg, Muhlenberg, W&J, Lafayette, Temple, Delaware, and two of the Herd's future opponents: Colgate and Lehigh.

Bison Has Edge

In the past the Herd has conquered Delaware seven times. Since the series began in 1932, the Blue Hens have only been able to gain two victories and a tie of the 10 contests played.

Own League

"We will be playing on our own level Saturday," he continued. Last year the Herd dropped their first three games, but finished the campaign by wrapping up the last six encounters and the MAL title.

CO-CAPTAINS

Bob Bucher and Ervin will serve as co-captains Friday night in the Temple game. Bucher is a senior with two years experience. He hails from Newton where he played three years of high school ball before entering the army. Bob is 6' 11" and weighs 190 lbs.

First Blood

The game was a tight struggle all the way with the home eleven drawing first blood on a brilliant Osterdarp run of 40 yards and a Dean pass to McKibbin for some 30 yards and a TD. The extra point attempt was no good.

Inspired Bison

As the third quarter opened it appeared as if Delaware was going to trample the Bison, as they drove from their own thirty to Bucknell's twenty-five. However, their attack sputtered.

Hens Threaten

The remainder of the game resolved into a bitter, bone-crushing clash of two well-conditioned lines which bottled up opposing runners completely. However, with just three minutes left to play Delaware, sparked by Hank Paris and Charley Smith, moved rapidly to the Bucknell 25 yard line.

Blue Hens Can't Fly!

The Bisons drew first blood last Saturday against Delaware with the above pass play. Tommy Dean, Herd quarterback, found his mark in End Marty McKibbin. McKibbin faked out John DeGasperis (32) and Joe Lank (15) who were unable to lay a hand on him as he went over for the first period TD. Bucknell won, 13-7. Another Dean to McKibbin aerial was ruled out by officials who ruled that Marty had stepped out of the end zone. The combination has accounted for four first downs and a total of 49 yards.

Veteran Penn State Eleven Blanks Bison Dribblers, 5-0

By Belber Robinson

Living up to expectations, Penn State's Nittany Lions outbooted the Bouncing Bunnies, 5-0, at State College last Saturday afternoon.

Coach Joe Diblin said that he never saw a smoother-operating soccer outfit. He wasn't too displeased with the Herd's performance because one must realize that the Blue and White of Penn State is probably one of the top two or three soccer teams in the East. The short passing of the Lions was especially well organized, and their team play was superb.

Coach Jeffries' outfit edged the Orange and Blue last season, 2-1, on a last-half tally. But this year's veteran squad could not be stopped. They registered in every quarter except the second.

Smash Opening

Little and Lieb scored a goal apiece in the initial stanza to send the Lions into a commanding 2-0 lead. After the intermission, Hosterman kicked in a goal, and in the final quarter Lane and Coleman chipped in with tallies to bring the final outcome to 5-0.

AIR POWER

Bison quarterback, Tommy Dean, may be headed for the top of the ranks in eastern collegiate passers. Dean has thrown 24 and completed half of them for an average of .508.

Tustin Tales

By the Sem Sports

"Come on team, let's go!" Yes, gals, that's the kind of cheering we want to hear this year. So why not have everyone who isn't participating in a sport be a "sport supporter." After all, there's nothing like urging your class on to a victory.

Round Robin

The Intramural Hockey Tournament will start October 17. The freshman team, captained by Rudy Knutzen consists of Mary Allen, Kitty Bell, Isabel Beers, Marge Bots, Nancy Carter, Joan Fraas, Ann Fustell, Barbara George, Isabel Harris, Stroudsburg, Juniata and Susquehanna will be able to attend.

Hockey Sports Day

Hockey Sports Day is being planned for November 12 pending the acceptance of the teams invited to participate. It is hoped that Penn State, Stroudsburg, Juniata and Susquehanna will be able to attend.

Round Robin

The W.A.A. picnics given for the freshmen last week were a big success. The weather for all but one was excellent. At least fifty girls went each night.

Temis Doubles

In the tennis matches played on far Zaan and Hill, PBP, defeated Scott and Anderson, PM; Hoshauer and Hind, DZ, defeated Cohn and Scheid, PAF.

Madison

In the second round play-offs Joanne Farnsworth defeated Mary Ann Fairchild 11-4, 11-1. Doris Potts defeated Doris McCroddan, 21-15, 21-12. Marylin Hind defeated Nancy Hoelst, 11-9, 11-4. Barb Small defeated Isabelle Geers, 11-5, 11-0, and Barbara Parrell defeated Canan, 11-7, 11-0, 11-8.

Dance Meet

From now on, Wednesday night at Tustin Gym is a must on every Bucknellian's list. A brush-up course of all the latest dance steps will be offered by Miss Von Schade, a new member to the Physical Education department.

Orchestra

Forty or more girls participate in the activities of the Modern Dance Club every Monday night under the supervision of Miss Bryan.

Homecoming Coming

Homecoming Day will be observed Oct. 22, with the Bisons entertaining W. & J. Since the first Homecoming was held by defeating Muhlenberg, 35-21, Lafayette takes a rest this week in preparation for the battle with Delaware the following Saturday.

Head Coach Bill Lane and his freshmen footballers are ready to go against Lock Haven this Saturday night. Little information about the team has been released, but rumor has it that the '49 frosh will have a few surprises in store.

sets the pace in sports

Intramural Program Starts With Soccer, Handball, Tennis

By Ray Stuenkel

The Intramural sports program really began moving this week with activity in soccer, handball, and tennis. Announcements of forthcoming activity in November in intramural cross country and bowling were made.

Craig Hall Predicts Bucknell Will Take 'Old Shoe' Trophy

By Craig Hall

With the possible exclusion of Muhlenberg, beaten by Lafayette, and W&J, who did not play, Bucknell's future grid opponents proved themselves capable of marring the Bison winning ways last weekend.

TEMPLE-BU FOOTBALL TO BE BROADCAST BY WVBU TOMORROW NITE

by Clyde McAvoy

If you loyal contributors to the WVBU cause want to find out what happened to your money, turn your dial 640 way Friday night about 8:30. Along about that time Jerry Olds and Bill Martin will be telling you just how badly we're beating Temple and how we are doing it.

GETTYSBURG — Undefeated but untested Gettysburg faces a formidable foe in Lehigh. The Balleus own successive wins over Lehigh Valley, W. Maryland, and Drexel, and the team from Bethlehem looks equally as strong, regardless of their 40-27 loss to Rutgers last Saturday. In a close game we look for Lehigh to knock Gettysburg out of the unbeaten ranks.

LAFAYETTE — Evidently weak in defense but strong in fortitude, the Leopards knocked their initial win last weekend by defeating Muhlenberg, 35-21. Lafayette takes a rest this week in preparation for the battle with Delaware the following Saturday.

W&J — After a week of rest the Presidents return to the grid wars and face Bradley at Peoria Saturday night. With both teams an unknown quantity, the game is rated a toss-up. But W&J still has Deacon Dan Towler. W&J.

MUHLENBERG — The Mules showed scoring punch in their losing battle last week. The team from Allentown is about due and should chalk up their first win of the season against Albright. MUHLENBERG, but it could go either way.

STATION WVBU will broadcast the Bucknell-Temple game at the Bison this Friday night, according to Mr. Chet Kender.

ated the living room. New shubbery has been added around the house and the floor of the front porch now has the new look.

Half the K. D. R. men reported back a week early this year to get a few jobs done about the house. The exterior of the house has been painted in its entirety, and the basement has been made into a club cellar decorated in knotty pine. Dining room and lavatories got the paint brush treatment. A new sanitation system and new roof gutters round out the work.

An yet no report is forthcoming from the Phi Gamma or the Theta Chi's, but it's a sure bet those boys are as hard at it as the rest. Phi Psi did a little improving, but as Whang Kearn says, "Just here and there!" So we're in for surprises at those houses.

Dr. Bond told the students, "Those of us who believe in the church have many other reasons for encouragement about our world and our future. We must recognize the faults but also the virtues. It is the largest single movement and the greatest single business in our country. It has the most creative and inclusive program in our national life. It guarantees more freedom than any other institution."

"There is a dream, but God and man working together have been changing the dream into a reality. What are we doing to help? Our aspiration lies in having a great and noble dream to live up to. Give us our dreams, especially if they are God's dreams!" he concluded.

Also scheduled for Saturday morning will be a ceremony during which members of the Sigma Chi fraternity will lay the cornerstone for their new house.

Louis Pursley, president of the Union County Alumni Association will head the welcoming committee for a luncheon meeting of alumni trustees, class presidents, club presidents, class reporters, and alumni fund managers Saturday noon. President Hildreth will speak briefly at the luncheon, to be held at the Lewisburg Club.

The kickoff in the Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon is set for two o'clock. The Bison Roundup will start immediately after the game, and the dance Saturday night will get under way at 9 o'clock.

the completed painting, without the addition of any further finishing. That great artists, past and present, did their freest work in their preliminary drawings, where the calligraphy (defined roughly as handwriting in drawing) was most evident. That color applied to the projected drawing should be an adaptation of what the artist sees and should be modified by his personal color taste. Calligraphy is undoubtedly an important slice of an artist's work but not necessarily the whole cheese, however convincingly Mr. Jones demonstrates his style in this show.

For the artist whose work is lacking in calligraphy, a study of these paintings should be most valuable as a possible means of achieving greater individuality or personal quality in his work. Arising at this freedom of drawing, will, of course, require much time spent with the pencil, pen, and brush.

As to the exhibition itself, the drawings, almost without exception were superb, showing Jones' mastery of flowing, yet incisive, "short-hand" writing. A number of these, notably the Rembrandt-like "At Henry's", seemed to have a bigger special quality than some of the large oils, such as "Elk Basin" and "House Boats", which appeared over-expanded and lacking in color.

On the other hand, "Virginia Swamp" seems to combine all of the artist's best qualities with a telling sense of mood, exquisite color, plus the aforementioned "calligraphy". "Spring Thaw, Alaska", "Air Strip, Nob Lake", "North of Harrisburg", and the portrait "Artist Barnum" were other favorites.

The executive council of the International Relations Club (the I. R. C.) at its meeting on October 6 discussed plans for the coming year. An invitation to its next meeting, which is to be on October 27, is extended by Adelaide Beatty, president, to all students, especially the freshmen, who are interested in world affairs.

There is a dream, but God and man working together have been changing the dream into a reality. What are we doing to help? Our aspiration lies in having a great and noble dream to live up to. Give us our dreams, especially if they are God's dreams!" he concluded.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1949.

Alumni!

Welcome Alumni! That old phrase has been used over and over again but we can't find a better one. Behind the words are a sincere "hello", a "glad to see you back", and "we hope you have a good time."

To Arms!

On Guard All Ye Greeks! Deferred rushing may be in the materializing stages. A recent recommendation by the faculty for a solution to the rushing policy now being used has gone onto higher headquarters. The reasons behind such a move are not hard to understand. The faculty must try to reach during rush week to many who will just not be taught. They must not assign exams during the big week because they will quickly be labeled an "anti-Greek" among us. On the other hand we hope the faculty does not become unreasonable in considering the economic values of having a full dining room, of financing social events sponsored by the houses and the rent or maintenance it takes to keep many houses above the break-even line financially. Many houses are operating on a minimum reserve and one lean year could set them behind the proverbial eight-ball. Before such recommendations as have been made by the faculty on problems directly concerning student groups, fraternities or otherwise, become unreasonable, why not ask these people for their side of the picture. Better relations will be created between students and faculty by mutual airing of problems or some sort of arbitrary board with both sides being heard.

Orange And Blue?

Just what are Bucknell's colors? Orange and blue, anyone knows that. The question might better be, however, what shade of orange and blue. The band has one color combination, the football jerseys are another, Jackie Smith wears one shade of orange, the flags are another. Its apparent that if there is a standardized color combination, someone is not enforcing it. The flag is a good standard to follow. Why not make anything officially sanctioned by the school and using the colors, follow this standard.

Comment Of The Week:

Jerry Olds and the WVBU crew deserve a lot of credit for the play-by-play game description last Friday. The engineering, as well as the announcing was an all-student project.

Empty Eye-Sore!

This week when everyone has a chance to look at the empty bowl of the stadium on the scoreboard end, see if this sounds feasible. Rutgers University has filled the empty end of their stadium with year-round green ivy which is colorful and fills in the huge eye-sore cavity of unused seats. This would include only the portion where the bowl begins to curve. Much of that emptiness could be made very attractive without losing the old horse shoe stadium effect.

Whodunit?

Sometime over the weekend the University flag was taken from Robert's Hall. This is an inside flag, an expensive thing, and is too big to hang in a room. If those responsible would drop it off some night where the watchman will find it, there won't be any need for everything unattached around here to be guarded and anchored as though we were not trusted.

"The honor system is one in which the instructor has the honor and the student has the system."

The most unique system we've ever heard of was manifested during finals at the end of last semester. Two students, one sitting right in front of the other were taking the same exam, which consisted of a number of true-false questions. The student in front had apparently studied and was feeling compassionate toward the hopelessly floundering fellow in back of him. Magnanimously he whispered, "Watch me. If it's true, I'll wiggle my ears once. If it's false, I'll wiggle them twice."

And he did!!

Can United Nations Provide Security?

On Oct. 24th United Nations Day will be observed throughout the United States. Enough time has elapsed since the U. N. began operations to closely analyze its ability to solve the problems of the world and to see if the United Nations is adequately prepared to deal with problems as they arise which might threaten the peace of the world. Before we can actually begin to analyze the adequacy of the United Nations as an instrument for world peace at the present time it is necessary to examine the provisions for security contained in the Charter, and also to investigate several cases which have been dealt with by the Security Council.

In regard to the security aspect of the United Nations as an instrument of world peace, the first article of the Charter under Chapter I contains the purposes and principles for which it operates. It states: "To maintain international peace and security, and to that end: to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace." This is the basis under which the United Nations operates for world peace.

Two chapters of the Charter are inserted in the hope for the maintenance of international peace. These two chapters are, VI, which deals with the action which the United Nations can take in regard to the peaceful settlement of disputes, and Chapter VII, which deals with action in respect to threats to the peace, breaches of the peace, and acts of aggression.

Under Chapter VI, provisions are made for the disputant parties to seek a peaceful settlement of their dispute by means of negotiation, enquiry, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, judicial settlement, regional arrangements, or other peaceful means of their own choice. Provisions are also made for the Security Council to investigate any dispute or situation which might lead to international friction. The Security Council, at any stage, may recommend appropriate procedures or methods of adjustment. If the dispute appears to be too great for the disputant parties to settle peacefully, the involved parties shall refer the matter to the Security Council for appropriate action.

Chapter VII, which deals with the action the United Nations may take in regard to threats to the peace, breaches of the peace, and acts of aggression, provides the Security Council with a more formidable means of enforcing the peace. Article 41 provides the Security Council with measures, not involving armed forces, to be employed to give effect to its decisions. Articles 42 through 46 give the Security Council the right to employ military sanctions against an aggressor if she fails to comply with the decisions of the Security Council.

Although the Security Council has quite wide discretionary powers in meeting a situation or a threat of violence, we shall notice in the following cases which have been brought before the Security Council that several inherent weaknesses do exist which will prove difficult to remedy under the present system. The existing conflict of ideologies between the East and the West makes the security function of the United Nations a near-impossibility. These cases will point out the difficult task which confronts the United Nations in its endeavor to lead the world to peace and security.

The first case which we shall examine in the Indonesian dispute involving the Dutch and the Indonesian Republic. This dispute first came before the Council in January, 1946. The Indonesian Republic claimed that the Dutch had begun full-scale military operations against them. The Security Council established a board of enquiry to investigate the charges. The British and Dutch maintained that it was a "domestic jurisdiction" question. The board of enquiry was dropped with the belief that the Dutch and the Indonesians would find a peaceful solution to the dispute. However, the Dutch again attacked the Republic and the Security Council was called into attempt a peaceful settlement. The Council, for the first time, issued a cease-fire order. The Council tendered to both parties the Good Offices Committee for the purpose of bringing about the peaceful settlement of their dispute.

Although the Security Council did override the Dutch plea of "domestic jurisdiction", the Security Council did nevertheless become dominated in their decision by the Big Powers. This dispute is still far from being settled.

Another very interesting case which we shall investigate is the Korean dispute. Korea was originally promised her freedom and independence at the Cairo Conference, which consisted of the Big Powers, in December of 1943. However, with the entrance of the Russians into the Pacific war certain claims were presented by the Russians. One important claim was the partitioning of Korea between the United States and Russia. The Security Council set up a temporary commission for the purpose of providing free elections for all the Korean people in order that they might have the opportunity to choose their own form of government. The Russians refused any admission to the U. N. commission. The southern part of Korea, under U. S. control, held a general election. Russia has still refused the commission access to the northern part of Korea.

This case clearly points out the existing clash of ideologies between the two great powers. The Korean case provides ample opportunity to analyze the security provisions of the Charter when one of the major powers refuses to accept a decision of the Council. The United Nations finds itself in a hopeless position when a major power decides to go its own way.

There are other cases which have come before the Security Council that continue to prove the inadequacy of the security provisions of the Charter under the present system. Such cases as the Greek Border Case and the Iranian dispute go to show only too well what the United Nations is up against. The security provisions of the United Nations cannot be denied its range and intensity of its activity, but its enforcement and cooperation of its members can be doubted to a great extent.

In the two cases selected at random you can see how ineffective the Security Council is when it is caught between the forces of the Great Powers of the world and the silent war of ideologies. We have also seen, in the Indonesian case, that when the Big Powers of the world have a direct or indirect stake at issue, the smaller countries must become the helpless victims of international power politics. The ideological conflict is just too great for the Security Council to cope with under its present setup.

One important note must be added here in defense of the United Nations. The very fact that the United Nations does exist gives added weight in helping or forcing nations to come to a peaceful settlement of their disputes. It still means practically nothing to the Big Powers that there is a United Nations. The United Nations cannot be denied that they are important in certain other phases of the world. Such functional bodies of the U. N. as the World Health Organization, International Labor Organization, and the Food and Agricultural Organization are doing much to alleviate the suffering and misery now racking the world.

As to the future security which can be afforded by the United Nations to the nations of the world, one obstacle is all too evident. The United Nations is called upon to ensure the peace and the security of the world in a very real more than ever by conflicting political and economic systems. Before lasting peace and security can come about, the major powers of the world must be willing to cooperate and consolidate their differences. Strength will come about only when the Big Powers begin to realize that the peace and security of the world depends, for the most part, on their willingness to allow the United Nations greater jurisdiction in disputes which threaten the peace and security of the world. As it now stands the U. N. is nothing more than an international debate society.

Gambling Habits Will Be Topic Of Ernest Blanche

Ernest C. Blanche, author of "You Can't Win," will address the Sociology and Mathematics Clubs on Thursday, Oct. 27 at 7:15 p. m. in the Engineering Building.

Dr. Blanche, Chief Statistician for the Logistics Division of the Army General Staff, and widely known as America's foremost authority on gambling, will speak on the subject "The Gambling Habits of Fifty Million Americans."

As a student here he began to examine the relationship of mathematics to games of chance, and went further into the study while doing graduate work at the University of Illinois. Lecturing at Michigan State College, the University of Buffalo, and American University gave him occasion to go into the subject in great detail.

"You Can't Win" presents a twenty-year accumulation of the facts and fables about gambling. By studying the odds on every conceivable game, Blanche has come to the conclusion that almost all of them are crooked, and even when they are honest, the odds are such that, over a period of time, the better cannot possibly win. All students, gamblers and otherwise, are invited to attend the lecture.

Architect's Sketch of Sig House

THE NEW SIGMA CHI HOUSE will be Tidewater Colonial Architecture in harmony with the other campus buildings. It is 105 feet in width and will provide living quarters for 31 persons. The dining room will regularly accommodate 50 but is built so that 250 can be seated with ease. In the area in which the house is located on the hill, the University will construct a new road which will front the house, providing a corner location.

Huge Pep Rally Planned; Students Urged To Root For 'Fighting Team'

"Get out and cheer for a fighting team," were the words of Bud Norton, head cheerleader, as he urged all students to join in the third pep rally of the season—this one tomorrow night at the eve of the Homecoming game with Washington & Jefferson.

The many fraternities, with ensembles or so-called bands are urged to participate, and it is hoped that more women than previously will turn out. Word for the bonfire will be gathered, naturally, by the freshmen.

As usual, the parade will form in front of the Phi Psi house at 7 and will march down the Hill onto University Avenue and past the Phi Kappa Sig and Sammy houses. Instead of turning, the parade will continue down Third Street past the Theta Chi to Market Street, where it will turn left.

Down Market Street to Sixth is the line of march, and then down Sixth past the KDF house into and through the Sem, and from there past Sigma Chi to the bonfire behind Davis gym. The band, Harry Lawrence, and the team will be there. How about you?

Sunday morning there will be breakfast, devotions, another short talk by Mr. Keen, and recreation. The group will return to campus in time for the noon meal on Sunday.

A small charge will be made to cover cost of meals. The schedule for the weekend can be picked up at the C. A. office. All are invited.

Sixth Street Open House
An open house will be held Saturday afternoon at the Homecoming game until midnight at the Dixie Diner (Sixth Street House). All are welcome.

Cornerstone Of Sigma Chi House To Be Laid Saturday

The cornerstone for the new Sigma Chi house will be laid Saturday morning at 10:30 as one of the highlights of Homecoming. Many alumni are expected to attend the long-awaited event.

Kappa Delta Wins Merit Award At June Convention

The Bucknell chapter of Kappa Delta sorority was presented the Merit Award at the 28th National Convention held in Duluth, Minnesota, in June. The Merit Award, the highest honor given by the Kappa Delta chapter, is presented to the most outstanding chapter. It is determined by the chapter's leadership in campus activities, cooperation with the national council, and scholastic standing for a period of two years. This is the second consecutive award that Phi Tau has won this honor.

The Bucknell delegates to the Convention were Sallie Angle, Jayne Lange, Betty Rae Houser, and Barbara Lewis. While in Duluth the delegates took advantage of a conducted tour of the Lake Superior region.

STUDENTS, FACULTY ATTEND RECITAL BY VIRGIL FOX, ORGANIST

On Thursday, October 13, students and faculty members of the Music Department attended a concert of organ music played by Virgil Fox, organist of the Riverside Church in New York City. The program was given in the First Evangelical United Brethren Church of Williamsport.

Mr. Fox played compositions by Handel, J. S. Bach, Tournemire, Cesar Franck, Robert Schumann, and others. The program concluded with the audience singing the hymn, "Church of the United Nations." Those of the Music Department who attended were: Bill Groover, Franklin Del Camp, Miss Kleinfeiler, and Miss Dorothy Wilson.

United Nations Week To Be Marked in Sem Dining Hall

The celebration of United Nations Week from October 24th through the 31st will be observed in the women's dining hall on Monday, October 24th. Foreign music will be played during the week. The room will be decorated with the flags of different nations.

Literature concerning the United Nations organization will be supplied and there will be cards on each table reminding the women students of the reason for the observance.

W.S.G.A. is in charge of the observance. Frances Mannheim is chairman of the committee composed of Larrie Roseman, Ann Latham, Jacqueline Mayer and Beverly Hall.

SIG ELECTIONS
William P. Kees was elected president of Sigma Chi recently to fill the vacancy left by Bill Allen. Art Troast was chosen as secretary.

Reminder To Seniors

You are requested to have your L'Agenda pictures taken as soon as possible if you have not already done so. Activity slips should be filled out and left at Ross' when the picture is taken. The deadline is November 15.

Bisons Set For Homecoming Tilt With Speedy Presidents

By Ronnie Unger

Last year at this time Bucknell's football fortunes were about as "wet" as that rainy homecoming day when Lafayette beat an undermanned, injury-riddled Bison eleven, 19-7. This year, a scrappy, hard-hitting football team is ready for both rain and the Presidents from Washington and Jefferson.

W&J had a poor start this year, losing two out of their first three games. However, this may be no indication of their true worth as they are a notoriously poor starting team.

Homecoming Captain

CHARLES GRUENBERG, Bucknell Ed.

Against Geneva and Bradley Tech their highly vaunted attack, spearheaded by the redoubtable Dan Towler, never got started, and they were held to just two touchdowns, but powerful Denison, which had won 18 straight was tripped up by the Presidents last week.

Scat Backs

The W&J coach Henry Luecht has every reason to smile when someone refers to his backfield. Three of the starting four backfield men run the hundred yard dash in ten seconds or less. Jack Sourbeer has shown so well both in practice and in early games that he has taken over the fullback slot. Then, of course, there's the aforementioned Mr. Towler whose 6'2" frame packs 240 pounds of brawn and muscle. His beefy frame covers 100 yards in the phenomenal time of 9.8 seconds.

In 1947 Towler led the nation in scoring until he was injured. Last year, he was the East's high scorer and third highest in the nation. Requests for information concerning Dan have come from three-fourths of the major football league teams in both the All-American and National Football Leagues. The fourth 10-second man is Walt Cooper, swiftest fullback.

Veteran Laden

Besides the returning backfield, Coach Luecht has stalwarts from the forward wall back this season. They include Joe Rodion, hard-hitting end; Bill Span, a three year man at center; Dave Faunce, the anchor guard, and many other capable operatives such as Bill Colligan, Sam Jamperio, and Tom Bushak.

If last year's excellent record of holding the opponents to a mere 60.5 yards net rushing per game is any indication, then the Bison runners are going to have a rough afternoon on their hands this Saturday.

Homecoming, 1924, Packed Memorial Stadium

FUTURE BU OPPONENTS SHOW .500 AVERAGE AGAINST OTHER TEAMS

by Craig Hall

With the football season approaching the point where the relative merits of individual teams can be established, it is interesting to note that Bucknell's future opponents have an aggregate total of 9 wins and 9 losses against 9 teams.

At this point, the Bisons made an about face and began to move. With "Smoky" Ostendarp and Bob Albert shredding the Temple line and Tom Dean directing the passing attack, the Herd moved to about the Temple 35. Bob Albert took a hand-off from Dean, spotted Joe Gallagher in the end zone, and patted for the first Bison score. Richie Johnson converted and Bucknell was back in the game.

The Owls were confused! An alert Bucknell line completely dominated the play, opening huge gaps in the Temple defense. Then the Herd moved into Temple territory, where Ostendarp, with good blocking, raced 14 yards around right end for a T.D. The conversion failed, and Bucknell led for the first time, 13 to 7.

Owls Ineffective

Temple again found itself unable to shake up the Bison defense and they handed the ball over to the Herd. A fantastic pass from Dean to Marty McKibbin on the Owl 7 set up the third score. Gallagher leaped high in the air to take the touchdown heave from Dean, Johnson missed the extra point try, and the scoreboard read: BU 19, TU 7.

Bison Falter

When the second half got underway, it was plainly evident that Temple team was rejuvenated, capitalizing on every break, and their machine really began to move. The Temple moved to the Bison 45 where Ed Bateman got loose and raced to the 7 yard line before he was brought down from behind. After two unsuccessful line plunges, Bateman bulled his way into the end zone. The conversion failed, and Temple led 20-19.

BUCKNELL - The Presidents came to Lewisburg with only a 1-7 success over Denison to show for their three outings. However, the big question is—Will Bucknell suffer a let-down after their tremendous showing against Temple? We don't think so. Before a Homecoming crowd the Bisons to use W. & J. as a springboard to a successful season. BUCKNELL.

GETTYSBURG - MUEHLBERG - This is a rough one. Gettysburg's winning streak was snapped last week by Lehigh, 33-20. The Buffs should be on the rebound. However, the Mules are improving with every game, and will provide Gettysburg with some interesting competition. Strictly on a guess we'll take GETTYSBURG.

BUFFALO - ST. LAWRENCE - Buffalo, rolling along in a schedule apparently loaded with weak foes and seeking their fourth straight victory, faces St. Lawrence at Buffalo on Saturday.

Denise Open House - Give the Owls full credit—they proved themselves a fighting unit in Philadelphia last Friday night. Although Lehigh, 33-20. The Buffs should be on the rebound. However, the Mules are improving with every game, and will provide Gettysburg with some interesting competition. Strictly on a guess we'll take GETTYSBURG.

Frosh Opener Reveals Power

by Chink Lavin

Bill Lane's current edition of the Baby Bisons continued the winning ways of their predecessors with a thrilling 33-26 victory over Lock Haven State Teachers here last Saturday night.

The Frosh combined a pulverizing ground attack and aerial offense to take a 26-13 lead at the half. Don Ament scored the first Bison touchdown on a quarterback sneak from the five. Meyer missed the attempted conversion and the score stood, 26-0.

Lock Haven quickly evened matters when Wooster sprinted 35 yards across the double stripes. The conversion by Consenski was good. L.H. 7, B.U. 6.

The Frosh quickly retaliated when Meyer plunged over from the one. He also added the extra point. Four minutes later, Ament scored again on a quarterback sneak, and the conversion by Meyer was square. B.U. 20, L.H. 7.

Roaring back the Teachers scored on a 65 yard drive culminated by a one-yard scoring plunge by Hager. The attempted conversion was blocked. Two plays later the Freshman eleven scored on a 55-yard pass from Ament to Meyer. The latter missed the extra-point and the half ended, 20, L.H. 7.

During halftime the fans were entertained by "The Bad Actors" and were dazzled by the intricate maneuvers the band went through.

In the second half the Junior Frofs cut down the Herd margin, scoring on the third play after receiving Powlison's blocked kick on the same track that carried them to the Conference title last year.

Coach Diklin probably will start the same lineup that started the Delaware game since that appears to be the winning combination. The line-men will consist of Widenbacher, Raynor, Machamer, Diodoff, and Keith. The halfbacks will be Shoen, Jackson and Brooks. Fuller and Roush will man the fullback slots while Freed will tend the net.

Then the Baby Bisons took the lead which it never relinquished. Meyer intercepted a pass and went to the Upstiver Boys' 24 before being handed. Four plays later Meyer scored from his five and added the conversion.

CETERAN CAPTAIN - Charles "Tip" Grunberg, Herd homecoming captain, is playing his fourth year of football.

Hen Goalie Does Split

Diblinmen Trounce Delaware, 3-1, To Open Defense Of MAL Title

By Harvey Sheir and Belber Robinson

Caging two goals in the second half, the much improved Bouncing Bunies halted a formidable Delaware crew, 3-1, last Saturday at North Field to successfully open their defense of the Middle Atlantic Conference title.

It was the Bison's initial victory of the season, and the first regularly scheduled game for Delaware.

Fast Start

The Diblinmen struck like lightning when Marlin Machamer, center forward, took a pass from Pete Widenbacher, outside left, and shot into the net at 15:30 to close the scoring of the day.

Lead Regained

The Herd took a 2-1 lead at 17:40 of the third quarter. Cliff Renner, inside right, headed a cross from Widenbacher into the left corner of the goal.

Then in the last stanza Don Strasser, outside left, passed to Machamer in front of the goal. Marlin kicked a grounder into the left side of the net at 18:30 to tie the score.

Drexel Next

This Saturday morning the Diblinmen will play their second home game at North Field against Drexel, a new opponent on the Bison schedule. Referees—Adams and Herman.

Remember when? ... there were only inter-society competitions, no inter-class ... all women students were not members in W.A.A., only those who qualified for membership ... they had that long-hockey tournament that seemed to never end — forty games in all ... there were no special interest clubs, such as Modern Dance, etc. ... they had the old point system which was so complicated that they practically had to hire a bookkeeper ... we were in the National Intercollegiate Tele-graphic for archery ... there was only one rotating cap for each sport, which the society winning it three times could keep.

Yes, girls, our sports certainly have come a long way. Used to be the time when there was no inter-society competition. Now our sportsmanship has soared way up. There are no more hockey teams with girls who don't know how to play.

Our tennis competitions have grown, and competitions in badminton are completely new. We now have a small trophy awarded to the team winning in each sport (there will be no more awards for individual sports).

For inter-class sports, the class team winning a tournament has its class numerals engraved on a plaque in the gym for such sports as hockey, volleyball, and basketball.

We have added a Social Chairman, Publicity Chairman, Intergroup Chairman, and class representatives to the four main officers. We even have booklets containing the rules in a handbook which is given to all freshmen.

Instead of a "little baby" our sports programs and activities have grown to a "1949-50" package, and we're mighty proud of it.

The Orange and Blue outran Delaware in the second canto, and the Hens tried steadily near the end of the contest. The Hens were outshot, 32-16.

This Saturday morning the Diblinmen will play their second home game at North Field against Drexel, a new opponent on the Bison schedule. Referees—Adams and Herman.

First Team Sits It Out

By Ronnie Unger

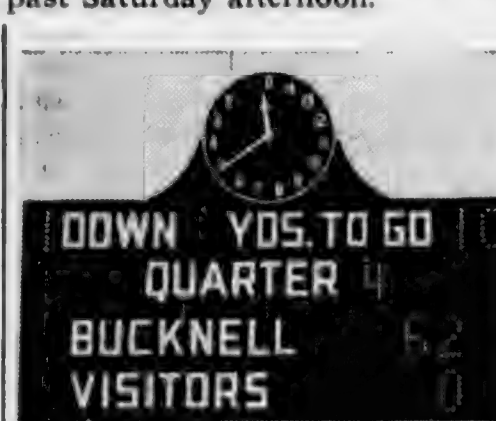

It took Bucknell's roaring Bisons just two minutes to score their first touchdown against W&J, and some 50 playing minutes later Joe Mason added the 62nd point by conversion in a real football donnybrook. As far back as the old-timers can remember never has Bucknell trounced an opponent with such thoroughness as the 62-0 pasting handed to the Presidents this past Saturday afternoon.

Coch Harry Lawrence played his first and second string teams approximately eight minutes of the first quarter; thereafter, they sat on the bench and watched a feeble team from Washington, Pa. absorb one of the most crushing defeats ever inflicted upon it. So helpless was the situation that the last two quarters of the game were shortened to twelve minutes each.

Field Day

In all, seven of Harry Lawrence's men hit paydirt, with Ostendard and Hasko both scoring twice to lead the parade. Joe Mason, who played a bang-up game at fullback in his first varsity start, kicked six extra points to add to the scoring total.

The first period saw the Bisons push across three touchdowns and add a safety on a blocked kick. At the half the score mounted to the phenomenal 49-0. The fans were beginning to envisage a 100 point game, but the President's defense tightened somewhat in the second half, permitting only two more scores. Just how pitiful the Jeffersonian's were can be seen by the minus yards rushing that they ran up during the game. In the first half they did not make a single first down. They made two in the second half on forward passes, while none were made by rushing throughout the contest. They had no sustained drive of over 20 yards, and not once during the entire game did they cross midfield on offense.

Towler Fizzled

The redoubtable Dan Towler was injured early in the first quarter, and sat dejectedly on the bench for the remainder of the game. The other W&J backs could do nothing against the teeth-jarring tackles, which the hard-hitting Bison forward wall, were making.

CROSS COUNTRY AND BOWLING ANNOUNCED AS LCA, KS TRIUMPH

By Ray Stuenkel

Plans for intramural cross country and bowling competitions were completed last week as action in Tennis, Handball and Soccer entered the final stages. November 11 was set as the date for cross country meet, with bowling scheduled to begin three days later.

Joe Markey, president of the Intramural Council, stated that the cross country meet will take place at 4:15 p.m. Contestants may sign up at the gym and each contestant must have eight workouts before competing. Four men must finish the race for a team to be eligible for the twenty points awarded for entering the race.

The bowling league will start Monday November 14 and will meet on Mondays and Thursdays at 8 p.m. The league will be held in the local alleys.

Temporary Dorm downed LCA 3-0 on Tuesday to clinch the intramural tennis elimination tournament championship. TD swept past SX, PGD, DS, and LCA in its quest for the tennis title. Previous intramural arrangements awarded the cup to the fraternity placing highest in competition; the cup therefore going to LCA.

In soccer, KS won the title in League A, with the winner of the LCA-SAE tilt determining the winner of League B. The playoffs for the soccer championship, a best out of three games affair, will be held on October 31 and November 1, and on November 2 if a third game need be played to decide the title.

In handball, KS wrapped up the title in League A, but a three-way tie exists among LCA, SAM and TKE for the leadership in League B.

opening kick-off and marched 50 yards for their first TD. The heavy running was supplied by Mason and Albert, with Ostendard moving the rest 12 yards for the score.

Coming right back the Bison's scored on Smokey Ostendard's brilliant 45-yard run for the second six-pointer. This was at the seven minute mark of the first quarter, and runways began. Touchdowns, few thick and fast in the remaining minutes of the half, Albert passed to Gallagher, who was 20 yards behind the secondary, for the third score.

Mopping Up
On the second play of the second quarter, Jack Masby scooted 60 yards with an intercepted pass for a fourth touchdown. The remainder of the game can best be termed "mopping up operations" with Richie Johnson, Dick Hasko, Chat Leath and Paul Sordone all chipping in with six-pointers.

PREDICTION
When the weekly statistics report of the Eastern Collegiate Football Association is released tomorrow, we predict that Bucknell will be one of the top offensive teams in the East. Furthermore, "Smokey" Ostendard will be one of the leading ground-gaining backs.

It was at this point when "Orange Juice" Dick Marston split the up-rights for the game-winning point. The final whistle blew some seconds after and the Baby Bisons had upheld their winning streak, by virtue of a 13-12 count.

As has been the case many times this year, the Herd forward wall will probably find itself outwitted considerably. The line has also shown that it is capable of accepting such odds and surmounting them. A great deal of the Bison success thus far is due to a hard charging, fighting line.

The Bison backfield continues to improve, with sophomores Bob Albert and Tom Dean looking better each game. "Smoky" Ostendard continued his high scoring pace by galloping to two touchdowns in the W&J game. Sophomore fullback Joe Mason was a surprise starter against W&J, and played a fine offensive game. In addition to several long runs, Mason took over the job of converting the extra points, and may have earned that job for the remainder of the season.

The high score of the W&J game gave Coach Lawrence an opportunity to look over his reserves, and he seemed very pleased with the results. The subs performed very well, and before the season is over many of them may have the opportunity to see more action.

Frosh Down F&M With Last Quarter TD & Conversion

By Chink Lavin

The Baby Bisons continued their unbeaten ways by defeating a strong defensive Franklin and Marshall freshman team last Friday at Lancaster, 13-12. It was the closest athletic contest of an all-victorious Homecoming weekend, with the deciding factor being "Orange Juice" Marston's talented toe.

Both teams were hampered by sloppy ball handling and frequent pass interceptions. Each team scored a touchdown as a result of these faults.

Diplomatic Start
In the first quarter the "Diapered Diplomats" scored on a 50-yard drive. The scoring run by George Wynna was a 10 yard sweep around end. The attempted conversion by Remson was blocked by the entire side of Pulanais' line.

Bucknell immediately started a drive which stalled on F&M's 30 yard line. It wasn't until midway in the second quarter that the Lanensmen finally scored on a 50-yard drive featuring line smashes by Talmadge and Meyers. Don Amant finally scored on a quarterback sneak from the two-yard line. And when Meyers' attempted conversion was blocked, the score stood at six all for the first half.

Bisons Behind
The Diplomatic Frosh forged ahead once again in the third period when they capitalized on a Bison miscue. Receiving a punt on his own 40, the Bison safety man fumbled and it was recovered by Long, F&M end, on Bucknell's five. Three plays later Fagg scored on a power plunge over right tackle. The attempt at conversion by Remson was blocked again, and the scoreboard read F&M 12-6.

The play settled down until the fourth quarter when Talmadge intercepted an F&M pass on the 50 and scampered to the 25 before being brought down. From here the Bisons marched the remaining 25 yards for a score. Meyers crashed over from the four.

It was at this point when "Orange Juice" Dick Marston split the up-rights for the game-winning point. The final whistle blew some seconds after and the Baby Bisons had upheld their winning streak, by virtue of a 13-12 count.

Herd Set To Tackle Buffalo; Both Teams Eye Fourth Win

By Harry Staley

The University of Buffalo will furnish the opposition this Saturday afternoon as the Bucknell Bisons "shuffle off to Buffalo" in search of victory number four. The Bucknellians will head north intent on avenging a 47-13 drubbing received last year at the hands of the Buffalo eleven.

Buffalo will be out to make it three in a row over the Bisons, and will receive the support of a U. of B. Homecoming crowd. The New Yorkers hold a 4 to 2 edge over the Herd since the series started in 1898 with a 36 to 5 Buffalo victory. The last Bucknell victory was in 1946 when the Bisons triumphed, 21-0.

Heavy losses in the backfield appear to be the only chance in the 1949 Buffalo gridiron machine. Coach Frank Clair lost six key backs last June, but welcomed back a strong, veteran line. Twenty-four lettermen returned, most of them to bolster the forward wall. Les Molnar and Al Tappier, tackles, who tip the scales at 235 and 230 pounds will anchor a Buffalo line which should average well over 200 pounds.

In the backfield only Jules Licata, starting quarterback, was a regular last year, but he will be back to direct the T-formation attack. The halfbacks will probably be Frank Nappo and Ray Wodarczak, with Howie Haderer operating at fullback. Inexperience in the backfield hasn't been too bad a factor in the Buffalo picture, since the New Yorkers have rolled up a total of 73 points in five games.

The Bisons will invade Buffalo with a much stronger team than they fielded last year, and they will be out to avenge last year's loss. With Coach Harry Lawrence's modified two platoon system in operation, the northern Bisons, should see an entirely different Bucknell eleven.

As has been the case many times this year, the Herd forward wall will probably find itself outwitted considerably. The line has also shown that it is capable of accepting such odds and surmounting them. A great deal of the Bison success thus far is due to a hard charging, fighting line.

The Bison backfield continues to improve, with sophomores Bob Albert and Tom Dean looking better each game. "Smoky" Ostendard continued his high scoring pace by galloping to two touchdowns in the W&J game. Sophomore fullback Joe Mason was a surprise starter against W&J, and played a fine offensive game. In addition to several long runs, Mason took over the job of converting the extra points, and may have earned that job for the remainder of the season.

The high score of the W&J game gave Coach Lawrence an opportunity to look over his reserves, and he seemed very pleased with the results. The subs performed very well, and before the season is over many of them may have the opportunity to see more action.

Booters Will Face Bullets In Middle Atlantic Tussle This Week At Gettysburg

By Harvey Sheir

Near the city where Abraham Lincoln made his famous address, the Bucknell Bisons will attempt to stamp out the Gettysburg Bullets this Saturday.

The Dillmen have met Gettysburg six times since 1929, and have been unable to down the Bullets more than once. Two contests ended in ties. The Herd's only victory came last year when they squeaked out a 3-2 win.

This season Gettysburg lost its first two encounters to Navy and the University of Maryland, and as of October 13 the team was still looking for its first victory of the year.

The Bouncing Bunnies have knocked over Delaware and Drexel in their last two games. The team appears to have hit their stride after losing to Temple and Penn State early in the season.

The Orange and Blue have finally found the scoring punch they so badly needed when they opened their slate, and it seems they have a good chance to defend their Middle Atlantic State Soccer Conference Championship.

The Bisons won the Conference Trophy last November 23, by shading Swarthmore College, 2 to 1.

"HOW'S THAT FOR A NAKED REVERSE?"

Future Bison Opponents Possess Football Machines Capable Of Pulling Upsets

by Craig Hall

With the season half over and the Bisons protecting an enviable record, each successive football Saturday places a future opponent in a position to mar the successful winning aspirations of the Thundering Herd.

Buffalo, Gettysburg, Lafayette, and Muhlenberg are all capable football machines, and not one can be bypassed in an optimistic fashion.

With a record of 18-9 in the prognosticating department (.667), here are this week's choices by your correspondent:

BUCKNELL-BUFFALO — The Herd is apparently primed for future gridiron engagements as evidenced by the touchdown parade against weak-kneed W&J. Buffalo was upset by small St. Lawrence. The New York team will be on the rebound, but that's not enough. BUCKNELL-DELAWARE — MUHLENBERG —

W&J — CARNEGIE TECH — W. Delaware, conqueror of Lafayette, meets Muhlenberg at Allentown this weekend. The Muhlenbers dropped their fourth contest of the season last week to Gettysburg and their fifth loss seems eminent. The Blue Hens are on the long end of a 4-1 record and shouldn't have too much trouble here. DELAWARE — GEORGE WASHINGTON — Lafayette's hopes for a successful season have gone by the wayside as their 1-3 record indicates. Delaware handed the Leopards a 7-0 defeat last Saturday in a mild upset. George Washington (2-3), a 21-19 victor over Washington and Lee, is the next opponent to be faced this

Bouncing Bunnies Defeat Drexel Before Large Homecoming Crowd

By Belber Robinson

The Bouncing Bunnies continued their winning ways last Saturday morning at North Field by defeating a scrappy Drexel eleven, 4-2, before a fine homecoming crowd.

TAKING A PASS from Capt. Art Raynor, Marlin Michamer, Herd forward, has just taken a pot shot that missed by inches in the Drexel game last Saturday. The unidentified Engineers were kicking at the ozone, for the ball went scooting past.

Both teams tallied in the initial period, with Bucknell's Don Strasser scoring from the right side, and Drexel's Linde counting from his center position.

Raynor Stars
Then the Orange and Blue got "hot" as the weather in the second stanza, and Captain Art Raynor displayed why he earned the distinction of being head man of the Herd power squad when he kicked in two beautiful goals.

Raynor's first point was a penalty kick in which he faked the Drexel goalie, Shafter, out of position and then kicked the ball into the extreme left corner of the cords. Raynor's other goal in this period was a kick into the right hand corner pocket of the net from around 25 yards out. Therefore, at intermission the Bisons

The same Mr. Linde came back in the third quarter to tally another score for the Philadelphians to bring the margin down to a 3-2 Bison lead, but Raynor wasn't finished with his day yet, so he booted in the final marker in the fourth quarter to make the final totals read—Bucknell 4, Drexel 2.

The Dillmen now stand with two wins and no defeats in Middle Atlantic competition. Their overall record is two up and two down. Drexel's record now reads, one victory and one loss.

Several years ago the Women's Athletic Association decided to award a trophy to that group which accumulated the most points in the intramural sports program. To win in this system a group had to place in just about every event, taking a first in at least one tournament.

In the first year of the trophy award honors went to Pi Beta Phi. The second year a circulating cup was awarded to Kappa Delta and last year Tri Delta was victorious. The ladies' committee competition will get under way shortly—let's hope for a season of good sportsmanship.

That Tustin formerly was the men's gymnasium before the increase of coed enrollment. At that time Harris Hall attic was used for all sports. In 1936, the women moved into Tustin and in 1947 the running track was finally torn down and the building redecorated. How times change!

Hockey has come, and hockey has gone, and with it a lot of fun and spirit from the sem. gems. Most of us were out there either at practices or cheering.

(It certainly looked like the freshmen were all for their team when it came to supporting them). A good time was had by all even though some of us had to lose. (After all it is impossible to have every class be a winner!) We'd like to say to all of our hockey players—nice going!

As a reminder to volleyball enthusiasts—the season will be rolling very soon. We needn't give you a pep talk about coming out, for practice, but just in case you've forgotten, we'll repeat, "Volleyball is a comin'!"

Placement Bureau News

June graduates who intend to register with the Placement Bureau are requested to do so at their earliest convenience. After November 10, June graduates will not be registered until sometime during the second semester.

Persons having already completed their application forms are reminded to turn in the answer to their question sheet so that their forms may be brought up to date. February graduates are requested to bring in a photograph at the earliest date possible.

A representative from the regional civil service will speak to students on junior professional assistant's work as was recently announced by the Civil Service authorities. The meeting will be held Thursday evening (this evening) October 27, at 7:30 p. m. in room 2 of the social science building. Senior students will qualify for taking examinations for this position who will have completed by June 30, 1950, a full 4-year course which has included or been supplemented by 24 semester hours of study in one or more than two of the following: sociology, economics, political science, psychology, education, history, public administration, social welfare, geography, international relations, statistics, social or cultural anthropology.

Persons interested in making a career of federal work in the department of state are encouraged to consider taking this examination and attending this meeting for further information.

Mr. O'Neil and Mr. Tensdale of the Civil Service will discuss and develop the work as junior professional assistants. All persons interested are encouraged to take part in this discussion Thursday evening.

CA-Sponsored Freshman Firesides Continues Second Successful Year

by Bob Laub

A couple of dozen freshmen men and women informally arranged around the room and firing at a couple of upperclassmen such questions as "To drink or not to drink?" and "Are fraternities and sororities a necessity?" "What makes a Phi Beta?" Thus has gone the successful Firesides for another year.

This is the scene in many a living room around campus these days as the Freshman Fireside program swings into high gear once again. For the second year the Christian Association is sponsoring this plan, which is designed to orientate the new student to the scholastic, athletic, and social procedure that goes to make up the Bucknell way of doing things.

Originated last year by Shep Shepard, Freshman Firesides are now under the direction of Bud Bush. The groups are composed of from ten to twenty freshmen, who meet each week for the purpose of ironing out any difficulties that may arise and also for the purpose of gaining from the experience of the two upperclass leaders, a man and a woman, who have been through such an introductory period in college life.

The meetings are conducted in an informal manner, with the leader slipping into the background once the discussion is under way. Such places as faculty homes and dorm living rooms serve as appropriate meeting places for the discussion of pressing problems or particularly interesting subjects. However, if the group would prefer to relax and enjoy a social meeting, a trip to the Bison or Sweet Shop is in order for cakes and dancing.

Since the Firesides were organized to help the student to become oriented to college life, the topics are slanted in that direction. Typical ones include "A Sense of Values and Where to Find Them," "How to Form Good Study Habits," "Is Going Steady Advised?", "Is Church Attendance Necessary?", "The Place of Extra Curricular Activities," and "The Senior Tribunal—An Asset or Liability?"

Over 350 Freshmen are members of the various groups, which are led by Shirley Cartmill and George MacPherson, Jan Lissenden and Paul Potto, Doty Jones and Bob Woolhouse, Betty Chance and Ned Johnson, Joan Bender and Gordon Raynor, Ginny Turroni and Bill Schwartz, Sally Baumgardner and George Stanton, Terry Jones and Forrest Brown Jr., June Simon and Dick Amsmann, Jane Gale and Andy Anderson, Ellen Erman and Bill Bucher, Lou Swetland and Mike Koster, Doris Wellenbach and Peter Weidenbach, Arlene Blank and Cappy Walsh, Marge Rauch and Woody Woodward, Bev Hall and Bob Laub, Marge Haas and Bob Carman.

Students who are interested in the club are urged to attend the meetings which will be announced later.

stating that the Senate did not vote the bill to become law, or that it was, politically speaking, too much of a political risk.

Several instances can be definitely chalked up on the favorable side of the 81st Congress record. The Congress reaffirmed its faith in the Marshall Plan, along with appropriations for aid to Turkey and Greece. Such a move is absolutely necessary since the United States has committed itself to "holding the line" against Communism in Europe and in the Middle East.

One of two major legislative successes of the 81st Congress was the approval of the North Atlantic Security Pact. The Pact was approved by the Senate by about a six to one majority. Not only was the Pact approved but the needed funds to give force to the Pact were also granted with not too much debating. This entire action should be heralded as a major success of the 81st Congress.

The other achievement of the past session of Congress is the series of measures which give the President wide powers to reorganize the machinery of the government, subject to Congressional veto. This Reorganization Act is the result of the Hoover Commission findings on overlapping and wastefulness within the machinery of the Federal Government. Out of federal bureaucracy should come a more orderly and efficient instrument for handling the increasing responsibilities that are located in the U. S. Capitol.

These seem to be the highlights of the first session of the 81st Congress. It is difficult and unfair to directly compare this Congress with the 80th Congress. It does seem obvious that the American people will not speak so critically of the 80th Congress after a look at the record of the 81st Congress. President Truman had a majority of his own party in both houses of Congress, yet he was unable to have enacted several of his campaign promises.

The coalition of quite a few Republicans and certain segments of the Democratic membership did garble up approval in certain instances. It will be interesting to get the reaction of the American people in the several Congressional elections which will be held on November 8th. That will be the test of whether the 81st Congress was a success or not.

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION DUE TO SMOKING CAMELS!

Cheerleader Leads Hard Life 'Win Lose Or Draw' No Noise

By Bob Woolhouse

"Let's have the B. U., the B. U. Come on, let's hear it, gang, let's hear it."

We're off again football fans—another season, another game. The whole rahl rahl process, hard as it is to define, must be placed in the category of school spirit, that nebulous concept involving such factors as alma mater, speedy backfields, ivy, baton twirlers, victory marches, and Fraternity stunts.

Are you ready? Hip! Hip BU-BU-BUCK! NE-NE-NELL, BUCK N E L L; BU-UNUCKNELL; Team, Team. That's funny, the only voices you seem to hear are those of the cheerleaders. Bad acoustics, no doubt.

The results may be discouraging, you may sound like a hog-caller at the end of the fray, but at least you can chalk it up to practice. Sort of keeps you in condition, too. If you can't run cross country every day, there's still cheerleading.

About this time when you hit the high jump at the end of the cheer, you find yourself coming down ankle-deep in a blob of mud that somehow or other missed your attention at the start. As you attempt to scrape the thick, brown stuff off of your nose, you find yourself speculating as to your daily consumption of vitamin pills.

The weather can always be counted upon to louse up the details. Those heavy little downpours just before game time provide the "Pause That Refreshes." Comes the first cheer, and "That Lucky Old Sun" breaks through in full force sending the mercury soaring. Your 100 per cent, all-wool sweater takes on the aspects of a fur coat, so you resign yourself to sweating off another ten pounds.

The next game finds you huddled against a bitter wind that sweeps down the stadium, turning that same sweater into grade B tissue paper.

An away game, however, provides the compensation. Not only do you find yourself cheering directly in front of 18,000 Temple rosters, but you leave Philly at 11:30 Friday night, arriving in the Lewisburg vicinity just in time for breakfast and the 8 o'clock class you didn't have time to prepare for.

The hard always comes through for a rousing chorus of "Go Bisons" or "Great Day", at which point the spectators make for the nearest coke and hot dog stands. So you hop around clapping your hands like the kindergarten crowd; it's good for your circulation. Last year, we lost no cheering. This year we won—still no cheering. The only solution obviously is to have a tie score and then fight it out in the last quarter.

At this point, the critic forum from Lewisburg High informs you in no uncertain terms that they have better cheerleaders for their Freshman pingpong title. On the other, the alumni can be counted upon for an amused smile, rather than a volume of noise, as they speculate as to your daily consumption of vitamin pills.

You figure a break is in order to give the stands a rest. What happens? The cry of "Why don't cha do something?" resounds in your ears. All kidding aside, this is really it now. We're on their one-inch line, the count is one and ten, what a game, what a fight. Smokey gets the ball, and everyone except the team takes time out.

In conclusion you ask why don't we quit. What for? We like it too much. Are you ready? Hip! Hip!

Prof Advises Men To Seek Mate With Plenty Of Brains

Marietta, O. (I.P.) — "Marry a woman who knows more than you do" is the advice given to college students by Warren Bruner, management consultant who is conducting an experimental course in career determination at Marietta College.

"A man's personality and mental stature tend to increase as he progresses in his occupational field," he told his class recently. "On the other hand, a woman starts going backward as soon as she enters a career as homemaker — unless she realizes the danger and fights hard against it."

"Causes Discrete" "Educate her less than the man, or start them even, and you provide one of several causes for the case of a man in middle life divorcing the partner of his early struggles to seek a more compatible mate."

Marriage as a career is one of many fields considered by Bruner in his course. The course is intended, he said, to "lead to a wide choice of specific careers by exposing students to comparable information about a number of career fields."

"College Obligation" These courses are the heart of a program of life planning, Bruner said. But he believes a college's obligations to students and society are not fully discharged until the courses are supplemented by individual career counseling and an effective placement service.

"A number of other colleges," he said, "are watching the experiment here with considerable interest. Many people think the time is not far distant when all colleges will be compelled by popular demand to offer instruction of this type."

Engineers Hold National Confab, Exchange Ideas

Stephen Dobenstein, chairman of Tau Beta Pi Association, National Engineering Honor Society, was the delegate to the Association's 44th Convention, held at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana, on October 18, 14 and 15. Undergraduate students from 32 other chapters of the society attended, along with national officers.

The delegates heard many excellent speakers, including President Frederick L. Hovey of Purdue. Convention social functions included four banquets, a concert by the Purdue Glee Club, tours of the University campus and a dance with Purdue coeds as partners.

At the business meeting, delegates defeated efforts to permit the admission of women to full membership in Tau Beta Pi. However, chapters are still empowered to award the Women's Badge to outstanding girls in engineering.

One of the most valuable features of Tau Beta Pi national meetings are the chapter coordination sessions and exhibits at which ideas for chapter projects and chapter administration are exchanged by the delegates.

Students are chosen for membership from the top 20% of their classes on the basis of character and service to their schools; alumni may be selected on the basis of their achievements in engineering.

Pre-natal Life Of Rhesus Monkey Discussed In Talk By G. W. Corner

Science is learning more about life before birth from an intensive study of the rhesus monkey, which now rivals the white rat, rabbit, and the guinea pig in its contribution to science's knowledge of reproduction.

Dr. George W. Corner, director of the Carnegie Institution of Washington's Department of Embryology told the Bucknell club of the Society of Sigma Xi.

Dr. Corner spoke as the national lecturer of this society Wednesday night in the Lit Auditorium to an audience of over three hundred.

The way in which the new baby grows before it is born, and the part that its mother plays in this biological drama is now fairly well understood in its general aspects, Dr. Corner explained.

Reporting his own investigations, he also reviewed 40 years of research in other laboratories in various countries.

Thereseus monkey, an Old World species, is very human-like in its sex life, and what is learned from it can be applied to understanding human physiology.

Two female sex hormones act as regulators of the processes that allow the embryo to get started and progress. One of them is called estrogen, and the other is progesterone.

Delta Phi Alpha, Gamma honorary society, is sponsoring a Halloween Dance on Friday night, October 28, at 8 P. M. in Tustin Gym. Admission is free and refreshments will be sold.

ONLY THE BEST CAN BE AVIATION CADETS!

Major Ed Wall, Harvard '40 - Flying Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Born in Newark, N. J., he moved to Boston at an early age, graduated from the public Latin high school in 1936, entered Harvard the same year, where he majored in economics and government.

"Active on the campus" — he played football, earned his letter on the boxing team. He worked part-time in a variety of jobs from bouncer to baby sitter, received his A.B. degree in 1940.

Back in the States with his English wife, he earned his Bachelor commission. Then he returned to Harvard under the Air Force college training program, receiving his LLL degree in 1943.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 30, with at least two years of college, consider a flying career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to meet the high physical and moral requirements and be selected for training as an Aviation Cadet trainee, now may return to civilian life or have opportunity to train at Officer Candidate School for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Aviation officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival—or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

U. S. AIR FORCE

ONLY THE BEST CAN BE AVIATION CADETS!

He enrolled in Harvard Law School, left at the beginning of the war to become an Aviation Cadet. In December, 1942, he won his pilot's wings, received a Reserve commission as Second Lieutenant.

Now, he is confident about his future and security. As a pilot and legal officer of Bolling Air Force Base, D. C., Major Ed Wall is a typical U. S. Air Force flying executive... with a challenging career.

Back in the States with his English wife, he earned his Bachelor commission. Then he returned to Harvard under the Air Force college training program, receiving his LLL degree in 1943.

Although Carnegie Tech evidently has a weak team, as proven by the 38-0 defeat by Case, they are in a good position to defeat the injury-riddled Presidents, in a close game. CARNEGIE TECH.

Jo Farnworth defeated Doris Potts, 11-3 and Barbara Parcell defeated Tinker Partridge, 6-11, 11-6, 11-8 in the quarter-finals of the badminton tournament. The finals will be held some time this week.

Doubles Continue

The Tennis Doubles Tournament continues this week with four teams still in the running. Craig and Dieroth will play Cathall and Latham for the semi-final position while Hind and Hoshauer will play Childs and Nisley.

Important!

During the week of women's rushing the Modern Dance Club, the Swimming Club, and the Dance Club will not meet.

Ever been a Girl Scout?

Had experience in handling groups? You have? Well, how about being an assistant leader of a Girl Scout troop in Lewisburg? As well as helping the community it is excellent experience for those majoring in psychology, sociology, or education.

Doris Wellenkamp, Nancy Cathall, Marjory DeWitt and Ely Duerig are among the Bucknellians who are helping in such troops during the afternoon.

So, if you have any free time between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m., why not call Mrs. William Miller, 220 South Third street, Lewisburg 5-8314.

Remember the Buffalo game broadcast on WVBU at 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

No, you weren't having hallucinations, there were girls on the Hitter End Program last week. Eloise Triggs and her associate really gave the show that woman's touch. And talking about the Hitter End show, some sophomores wonder why the freshmen girls get such terrific build-ups on the air (especially since they don't need any) while the poor sophomores (who are going through a rather static stage of development) are neglected. Well girls, don't give up hope. You too can air up up interest. A little publicity cures anything (?). So tonight call up 7152 and request anything (in music, that is). For results? Ask Kitty Bell.

Three cheers for the engineers.

Those kids are really what keeps the old station buzzing. No one knows the pains they take and go through. Why Flo Jesse has nightmares after spending Monday after Monday looking at the "Requestfully Yours" show. And Ziggy Lipinsky can't sleep at all after his job of engineering... but maybe that's because Ziggy engineers his own show.

Frank Fritzen will be conducting program engineering classes for the next two weeks in Rm. 6 of the C&P building at 4:30. It's the chance of a lifetime to learn your radio signals. Take advantage of the chance of a lifetime. If interested contact F. Fritzen at WVBU on Friday night.

Think about this one... our man of the week this time has money but is always broke. It's Homer Walters, the advertising manager. According to Homer the Station couldn't function without advertising (true). He also states he can sell any kind of advertisement to the right people, but the only trouble is the world is made up of the wrong people. Homer's worst failure this year is in his journey because he spends his time

Lawrencemen Rally In Final Quarter To Gore Bulls, 21-7

By Harry Staley

The Bucknell Bison rallied for two touchdowns in the fourth quarter last Saturday as they swept past the University of Buffalo, 21-7.

For three quarters, the ram-paging Bisons were held at bay by a hard fighting, defiant Buffalo eleven. However, it was only a matter of time before the inevitable happened and the victory-conscious Bisons were not to be stopped.

Eager Bisons

Following the opening kick-off to Buffalo and a punt by the Bulls to the Buffalo 45, it took the Bisons only five plays to score. "Smoky" Ostendarp, a thorn in the side of the Bulls all afternoon, carried the ball 18 yards on two plays while Bob Albert added four yards on two tries.

With the ball resting on the Buffalo 24, quarterback Jim Hoover flipped a touchdown pass to Marty McKibbin and the Bisons had drawn first blood. Joe Mason converted and it was Bucknell 7, Buffalo 0.

Neither team was able to start a sustained march until midway in the second quarter. At this point, with the ball resting on the Buffalo 37, halfback Sal Amico took a handoff from quarterback Jules Liska, found a hole in the Bison defense, and streaked 55 yards down the sidelines to the Bucknell eight where Doug Light brought him down from behind.

Count Evened

Fullback Ray Weser moved to the Bucknell 6 and next the remaining distance on the extra point and the score was knotted at 7-7.

The Herd then moved to the Buffalo 20-yard line where Joe Mason attempted a field goal. However, the ball was centered over the head of Mason and Buffalo recovered. Then in the waning moments of the first half, Ostendarp grabbed a pass from Tom Dean and raced 38 yards to the Buffalo 10. However, time ran out and the halftime score was 7 to 7.

In the third quarter, the Bisons gave indication of what was to come when they took over on the 20-yard line and moved to the Buffalo 40. But the Buffalo forward wall again rose up and prevented a Bison score. The remainder of the third quarter was played entirely in Buffalo territory, the Bisons being thwarted several times.

See Stars

Late in the third quarter, Ed Stee, playing in his home territory, thrilled the crowd when he intercepted a Liska pass and carried to the Buffalo 40. Hoover then passed to McKibbin, who lateraled to Heisko, and the ball was carried to the Buffalo 27. Bob Albert passed to Marty McKibbin for what appeared to be a score, but officials ruled that McKibbin had caught the ball out of the end zone.

Albert again passed, this time to Ostendarp, and he went over from the 5 for the second Bucknell touchdown. Joe Mason again converted and Bucknell led 14 to 7.

Buffalo took to the air in a desperate attempt to get back in the game and moved to midfield. Again it was Ed Stee who intercepted a Liska pass and returned the ball to the Bucknell 40. Heisko and Ostendarp carried the ball to the Buffalo 19 where Dean passed to Ostendarp who moved to the two-yard line before being bounced out of bounds.

Bob Albert moved the ball to the one-foot line and Heisko failed to gain. Then Albert crashed over for the third Bison touchdown and his first score of the year. Joe Mason converted and Bucknell led 21 to 7.

Seconds later the game ended and the jubilant Bisons celebrated their fourth victory by burning the limbs of the 47 to 13 loss of 1948.

Three Teams Left On Schedule Pose Threat To Bisons

By Craig Hall

Gettysburg, Lafayette, and Muhlenberg are determined to upset Bucknell on the three remaining Saturday afternoons of football. With the Bisons being rated one of the better teams in the state it would create prestige for any school to stop the Bucknell gridiron machine.

Gettysburg, as indicated by their record (5-1), is definitely a threat. Although Lafayette and Muhlenberg have had poor seasons to date, potentially they are capable of an upset on any Saturday and there is every indication that these teams will be "up" for the Bucknell game.

Our 697 average (23-10) shows improvement but it possibly will not be helped by such games as:

BUCKNELL-GETTYSBURG — As shown by their 66-6 trouncing of Johns Hopkins last week, Gettysburg is offensively powerful. As the Bulls end the season against two weak opponents they will attempt to look particularly impressive in their Homecoming game and they expect to win. Bucknell had a rough time with Buffalo but perhaps came out mentally primed for their game with Gettysburg. It might be close but you can't bypass the Bisons, BUCKNELL.

LAFAYETTE-UTAH — Lafayette (1-4) lost to George Washington 14-7 last Friday night while Rutgers (3-3) dropped their annual fray with Princeton 24-14. Both teams have faced Princeton and Syracuse and on a comparison of scores, Lafayette has a one touchdown edge. That's the way it looks to us. LAFAYETTE.

MUHLNBERG-LEHIGH — Lehigh has won four while Muhlenberg has dropped five. Last week Delaware won over the "Mules" 25-13, while Lehigh Engineers toppled NYU, 21-6. LEHIGH, with Gabriel leading the way, should take this game without much trouble.

BUCKNELL-W&J — The Bulls will be out to avenge last week's defeat and poor W&J will be the recipient of their revenge. The Presidents were soundly beaten by Carnegie Tech last Saturday 39-16. Look for BUFFALO to regain their winning form.

TEMPLE-BOSTON U. — Temple's one-sided defeat by Michigan State was expected. There is no rest for the Owls as they must face undefeated Boston U. this week. The Terriers are riding the crest of a winning streak and an upset here is quite possible. However, the Philadelphia don't seem quite capable. BOSTON U.

Gridders Journey To Gettysburg For Clash With Impressive Bullets

By Ronnie Unger

For the second consecutive week, Bucknell's high-flying Bisons will play away from home, meeting a well-balanced Gettysburg eleven in the Bullet's annual homecoming tilt.

Gettysburg has had a successful season thus far, losing only to Lehigh, while gaining impressive victories over Western Maryland, Lebanon Valley, Drexel, Muhlenberg, and Johns Hopkins.

Unriddled Bullets

Well stocked with veteran linemen and backs, and further bolstered by excellent soph, the Bullets are stacked. Only all-star Gene Hummel, Jack Schlegel, hard-charging tackle, Less Ginanni and Andy Aastle, two short but potent guards, were lost by graduation. Coach Bream has 14 lettermen from a year ago, and two from 1947 up front.

Bream also has a great depth of veteran material in his backfield. Headed by Ron Sack, who proved to be one of the most effective passers in small college ranks in 1948, there are eight lettermen from a year ago and another from 1947. Sack tossed 13 touchdown passes and completed 76 throws for 1036 yards during the 1948 season.

Featured Speaker

The individual running star of this team is a 146-pound scabbard named Dwight Speaker, who in the first four games of the season completed a total offense record of 431 yards. This boy will be one of the fastest men out on the field, as he is undefeated in intercollegiate competition at the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Speaker has an able supporting cast with such operatives as Tony Cervino, and Jack Jones, both of whom rolled up 420 yards via the ground last season. At fullback the hard-hitting Tom Faulkner, and the reliable Bob Johnson have been carrying the brunt of the duties. The backfield will be more dangerous than

Bison Soccermen Prepare For Western Maryland Fray

By Balber Robinson

Seeking their fourth consecutive Middle Atlantic victory, the Bison soccermen will travel to Western Maryland Saturday afternoon to engage a troublesome foe.

Although the Bouncing Bunnies have a 3-0 slate in league competition, the Western Maryland battle should prove quite interesting. The boys from below the Mason-Dixon line always seem to play their best soccer against the Orange and Blue.

Always Troublesome

As in the past the Green Terrors will play host to the Herd with a less enviable record than their guest, but that doesn't tell the whole story. In the 11 games played between the Rhinos and Bisons, the latter won only three contests, lost five, while three ended in ties.

The only common opponent that the two clubs met this fall was Drexel. The Thundering Herd topped them, 4-2, before a large homecoming crowd, while Western Maryland lost to the Drexel Dragons.

Green Supremacy

The series between the Bouncing Bunnies and the Green Terrors began in 1932 when the Herd lost, 5-0. In 1933, '35, and '36 the Bisons topped them, 3-1, 5-1, and 2-1 scores. Finally, after five years, in 1938, the Orange and Blue blanked the Marylanders, 4-0, for their initial triumph in the series.

Then followed two years of dead-locks, 0-0 in '39 and 2-2 in '40. Western Maryland won 2-2 in 1941, and then again in 1942 there was another tie, 1-1. The next five years were years and the two teams dropped relations with one another.

Booters Continue League Slaughter In Bullets Erasure

by Harvey Sheir

Rolling on to their third straight Middle Atlantic League victory last Saturday afternoon, the Bison Booters shut out Gettysburg, 2-0, on the Bullet's field.

Cliff Renner, inside right, broke the scoring ice halfway through the last stanza with a sizzling boot into the cords. The goal was all the Herd needed to win, for their defense remained impenetrable throughout the game.

But late in the last quarter Captain Art Raynor shot one in from his inside left position to wrap up the decision.

The early bitter taste in the Bison triumph was the injury of center halfback Tony Jackson. He sustained a fracture of the right leg in the opening period, and will be out of action for the remainder of the season.

PASSES TO PAYDIRT

Bob Albert has not yet completed a series which did not go for a T.D. He has thrown six passes, three of which were caught. The scoring aeriels have come in successive tussles against Temple, W and J and Buffalo.

A FINE SHORT-CUT, NOW, WE'RE LOST!

MAACK OPTIMISTIC AS EIGHT VETERANS RETURN TO WRESTLE

by John Curran

With eight out of nine of last year's lettermen coming back again this year, wrestling coach Herb Maack has just cause for optimism. Carl Stuntzer of the 128-lb. class, Wendell Stainly 136, George Staton 145, John Rickard 155, George Gravel 165, Jack Henderson 175 and Ed Kieley and Dick Johnson heavyweights will form the nucleus of a squad which includes many good prospects among the newly eligible sophomores.

The only missing member of last year's cast is Tom Fusia who wrestled in the 121-lb. class and won the Middle Atlantic State tournament championship in his division. His place should be adequately filled by either Ed Fusia or Marshall Goulding.

Maack's matmen enjoyed a very successful season last year, winning

KIERSAKSKY TO CAPTAIN BISON THIS SATURDAY IN GETTYSBURG CONTEST

Termed the "most improved offensive player of the year" by Coach Harry L. Lawrence, Len Kiersarsky, Maryland, has been picked to captain the Thundering Herd this Saturday at Gettysburg.

Kiersarsky came to Bucknell last year from Baltimore University where football is not on the athletic program. In 1948 he alternated from blocking back to tackle, and was used frequently as a replacement.

Len has been playing first-string offensive tackle since the Temple game. His position is the keystone for off-tackle slants by "Smoky" Ostendarp, and many of the open holes can be attributed to him. In the Buffalo game, Kiersarsky's downfield blocking was effective, and he consistently gave the Bull's safety man a hard time.

Market and Third Opposite Postoffice

by Hill, Turone and Morris

This week finds Tustin busy with volleyball practices. It seems every one is eager to get her eight practices in for playing class and sorority games. No doubt some of us have forgotten some of the terms and rules of the game, so we've summed them up for you in the simplest English we could find. (It really isn't complicated at all). So here goes:

SERVICE—A service is the putting of the ball in play by the player in the right back position, by hitting it over the net into the opponent's court in any direction with one or both hands (or with the forearm) and with both feet behind the net. The net is 6 feet high.

LET SERVICE—This is when there is a service in which the ball, after striking the net, goes over the net within bounds into the opponent's court. This does not count and must be taken over.

ROTATION—The shifting of all players in position for service. This is usually done in a clockwise circle.

SERVING ORDER—This is the order in which the teams are to serve.

Welcome Visitors

Penn State, Juniata and Susquehanna will play in Hockey Play Day, one of the highlights of girls' sports, at Bucknell November 12 at 2:30. There will be three 12-minute halves, allowing each team to play two halves with two opponents and to watch one half.

Following the games is a social hour for the teams in Hunt Rec room at 4:30. Refreshments will be served, and the visitors will be taken for informal tours of the campus.

Miss Smith is in charge of Hockey Play Day and Marianne Coleville is the student chairman. Registration will be from 1:45 to 2:15.

Juniata and Susquehanna will each bring 15 girls and Penn State will bring two teams (28). Bucknell's all-star hockey team consists of Marianne Coleville, Joan Housner, Mary Allen, Sandy Brooks, Dot Harvey, Lucy Harris, Kiley Bell, Trudy Knutzen, Bobby Wall, Molly Tompkins, Dottie James, Bobby Kaiser, Betty Hill, Pat White, Jane Deisroch.

The diminutive Herd struck again in the third quarter. Catching a punt on his own 30, Talmage faked a handoff, picked up speed and blocked, and he won't know about that until his cagers have a few games under their belts.

Now in the second week of practice, Jack Guy is drilling his 16-man squad in fundamentals, and expects to do so until the team is thoroughly grounded in them. When they are ready for scrimmage, several practice tilts will be arranged with nearby schools.

Due to the speed of the '49 Drifters, the coach intends to install a fast break for the first time since he has been at Bucknell. Although beginning his third season here, Guy

Bill Laneman End Streak Of Terror In Gettysburg Freshmen Loss, 22-18

by Chink Lavin

Fresh coach Bill Lane's string of eight consecutive victories was averted here last Saturday afternoon by a straight-shooting Gettysburg freshman squad, 22-18.

The Baby Bisons were handicapped by a weak pass defense and the sparkling performance of the Bulls' ace back, George Hess.

Initial Kill

Lane's charges opened up with a bang when they drove 59 yards to draw first blood. The death blow was a 10 yard and sweep by elusive Hurt Talmage. "Orange Juice" Markson, whose PTA's won the F&I game, missed the first of his three convention attempts.

In the second quarter the Baby Bulls shot ahead when a pass play covering 50 yards from Ware to Hess was good for a TD. Scott split the uprights for the first of his important conversion kicks.

Camels for Mildness!

Yes, Camels are SO MILD that in a coast-to-coast test of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels—and only Camels—for 30 consecutive days, noted throat specialists, making weekly examinations, reported

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

And now it's the girls' turn. Both sexes have their whirl at this bitter little game of ranshing, but the deadlier of the two seems to practice it with a greater degree of finesse. And why not? For a goodly number of the female sex, it's just a matter of capitalizing for a week on the attribute of the pancake-personality. What an asset that talent can be in this season. But if the finesse wears thin, even cinder has possibilities.

Here's a holdover from the glorious era of the Tribunal. When Bob George was condemned to wear that tux through the last days of freshman hazing, he was confronted with the uncomfortable task of finding the prescribed attire. He had no tux of his own, but it didn't take him long to find one. Despite an odd fit here and there, the tux he finally acquired was that of the Dean of Men.

And this was an s. o. s. conspicuously plastered on a dormitory bulletin board last week:

"Would the s-o-and-o who so inconsiderately spitited away my brown shoe polish many moons ago please return the same sometime in the not too distant future. If it isn't brought back soon, my shoes will rot away completely. Another month of this I'll settle for nothing less than a new pair of aforementioned shoes. G. K."

There is a freshman on campus who is currently hearing an extraordinary load of worry and frustration. Several days ago he received a letter from the Dean. At least it had all the semblances of a letter until he opened it and found nothing therein but a blank sheet of paper. He doesn't know whether he has been thrown out of school, elected to an academic honor, or is just supposed to be doodle on the sheet. In fear of the first of these, he has not checked with the office of origination.

Last week at the open house of Delta Chi Fraternity, the pledge became quite embarrassed when his girl remarked that the number of flies in the house was intolerable. With the best snap-comeback we've heard in some time, the pledge retorted, "Even the flies go 'Delta Chi'." (Keep names out of it, you know?)

The large and unwieldy box that was conspicuously situated in the front hall of Harris for some time inspired many conjectures as to its possible contents. This was obvious from the various bits of scribbling which adorned its surface:

"From: Sabu, Delhi, India. Contents: one haled elephant.

"Feed one bundle of hay every hour...one cup of prune juice every fifteen minutes.

"Do not open until Christmas."

Enigma of the week: What happened to that cornetone?

either one of these.

The nimble fingers of Frankie Carle are at it again. His latest, "You're Breaking My Heart," is in keeping with his usual standards. It stinks. Unless you're a C&F major, don't waste your time.

And T. Dorsey, I'm afraid, doesn't have much to offer either. With the exception of "Dag Buns," his handiwork lacks the old Dorsey polish. Since the price of living went up to $24 a bottle, T. D. hasn't been using the expensive side men he used to.

If you like Pop (now we're getting somewhere) give a listen to "Pop Look and Listen" by the George Shearing outfit from England. And the flip, "September in the Rain," is too great! He uses piano, bass, drums, and guitar and plays in the King Cole vein—but fuller.

Old Maudie-Nose Monroe, of course, is a complete loss. He tries—I'll give him that—but no matter what he sings I keep hearing "Ghost Riders in the Sky." Let's face it: Real Gene Vaughn has set music back 20 years.

It is no exaggeration that WBU has everything—dirt included. It won't be long before those initials will stand for the Wallowing Voice of Bucknell University. The question is who should clean up the place.

—some say that there should be a special janitor to come and do the work and also to make the fire (if there was any fire to make, but any way because of the inadequacy of the stoves it would probably burn the network down); while others think that perhaps the students should pitch in and help keep the place REASONABLY clean. If you are working for an MRS degree, then there is no better place to start your practical training than at the 'blue and white house' catty-cornered from the tennis courts.

Jim Daniels certainly did a fine job engineering that Buffalo game, especially since his mind was on a certain young lady in Walker House. Don't worry Jim, she was faithful.

Question of the Week: What happened to the pamphlet that Bill Thomson dropped from a plane advertising the football game and its sponsor Thomson Chevrolet? Answer: Due to the four winds, the pamphlet never quite reached campus, but they may be found anywhere within a fifty-mile radius, leisurely floating down the Susquehanna river.

Record of the Week: Irving Berlin's "Miss Liberty" on those terrific LPs. Maybe it's not Berlin at his best, but the song is fresh, fun, and catchy. Especially appreciated by college students will be "Homework" and "Let's Take an Old-Fashioned Walk."

The following sign was posted by Harry Felt after finding a few things missing when arriving at the studio. Does it honestly make sense?

NO alterations are to be made on the microphones. (can't the seams seen by let-out?) Leave the floor stand. (Is there anyone ambitious enough to tear the floor down, yet don't fool with the cabriolet connections. (Is he the brother to Excellence?)

Bobbie Hule's show "Songs To Remember" heard 7:00-7:30 every Monday eve is a perfect breather for an evening of cramming. It's smooth and scintillating.

There were goblins galore in Bucknell over the weekend, accumulating in particular at the Lowes, Keefers, Hammesfahr and Myers. Those enjoying Lowe's hospitality were the Bill Corgills and Emie Petersons from town, and the Youngs, Tracys, Hulst and Dericks from the village. Hammesfahr and Myers' guests remained incognito.

Couples enjoying Larry Kesler's surprise birthday-Hallowe'en party were the Zukauskas, Belts, Kochs, Metzgers, Krapps, Petersons, Fowlers, Lillaks, Haas and Moders. The cake was a work of art, especially where son Billy decided to "help" by contributing his originality to the decoration. Twenty-one candles did you say, Larry?

Pinoche fiendi Badgers and Faints had their own private party which to them is in season any season.

Wires in rows A and B, as hostesses, carried out the Hallowe'en theme at the last Wives Club meeting. Clever hand-made decorations, doughnuts, cider, candy apples and a ghost story told by Bill Bille made the party a big success.

Marianne Williams celebrated her third birthday with a party. Guests were Janey Holmes, Bonnie Karsten, Karen Kline, Carol Lee Marler, Davey Fowler, John Lillak, Billy Peters, Johnny Metzger, Geoffrey Keefers, and Charlie Peterson. Marlene's biggest surprise was receiving her first pair of "rattler" shoes.

Davey Fowler was two years old October 22. Johnny Metzger is beginning to talk. Bobbie Badger is not of sick age.

See Brenda Siegfried if you want to learn to brew tea with that English perfection.

Her best girl friend, also an Estonian, arrived in New York recently under the new D. P. program.

Is Lee Keefers color blind or does he just enjoy making Mr. Hofmann enjoy her driver's license?

The Pakets boast a new Bendix. Latest water heater casualty is Virginia Gunkert. It's been a long time since she's had a hot shower.

Who is this member of the Diaper Set who requires four baby sitters at a time? And where were the four when guests called unexpectedly?

Away recently—Masters in Bloomington—Williams in Williamsport.

Homecoming was a busy weekend for the Village. Guests that week and this were: Dot, Susie and Bob Hoke visiting Fowlers; Dorrie, Bill and Barbara Pikey, Jim's parents and several of Mary's relatives visiting Mary and Jim Holmes; no less than sixteen Kappa-Sig Alumni at Lamons; Irwin's grandmother; Scheldt's parents; Bill Bell's mother, daddy, and sister; John Gillespie and Lois Meyers at Krapps; John Williamson's parents and aunt; Emily Carlough's parents and sister; Bob's mother, daddy and sister; Joyce Bidack, and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Fraley at the Benjamins; Sally Peters brother and

Speaker At Student Church To Discuss Social Progress

"The Closed Door to Social Progress," will be Dr. Bruce J. Miller's subject on Sunday evening at Student Church.

Dr. Miller, former head of Bucknell's Department of Chemistry, later an Associate Director of Research on the Atomic Bomb Project, and is now Personal Administrator for the Research Laboratories of the Linde Air Products Company of Tonawanda, New York.

Since he left Bucknell in 1944, Dr. Miller has acquired a great deal of industrial experience, and now employs a large staff of chemists in one of the country's largest chemical industries.

He has found time to continue some of his outside interests in outdoor life and in public speaking. He has also been in demand as an interpreter of the values of science, and in this capacity, has spoken in a number of University Religion-in-Life Weeks.

He makes an occasional visit to Bucknell, seeking chemists for the Linde Air Products Co.

Dr. Miller graduated from Bucknell in 1927, and holds his Ph. D. in Chemistry from the University of Chicago. He was head of the department of Chemistry at Bucknell from 1931 to 1944. Dr. Miller is also president of the Buffalo Alumni Club which was host to the Bison last Saturday.

Jefferson Military College Declines Huge Endowment

"Trustees of Jefferson Military College at Natchez, Mississippi, turned down a multi-million dollar endowment which had been offered the institute by Judge George W. Armstrong under the conditions that it stress supremacy of the white race," according to an article released by the United Press last week.

The endowment of $50,000,000 the release indicated.

Judge Armstrong said the trustees had agreed to these conditions before a storm of critical comment aroused publicly over the proposal.

S. N. Murphy, chairman of the executive committee of the college, on the other hand, stated, "The trustees will close the institution before they will accept the money on those terms."

Tap Replaces Tackle As Texas Coeds Try Talents At Football

Austin, Texas (ACP) — University of Texas coeds ought to know football; — they've been playing a type of it themselves.

After experimenting with women's touch football last year, it has been put on the 1949-50 schedule for freshman girls.

Blue jeans and sweaters or shirts are the girls' football uniforms. A tap on the back takes the place of tackling.

Nick Gregorio, with Flo Jesse as assistant, has been selected campus representative for Chesterfield cigarettes. He will conduct all campaign activities, with current operations including the Chesterfield Super Club being broadcast from WBU every Wednesday night at 7:30.

Applicants (81 per cent), and even a little further—6 per cent—below the national average.

Northeast Hardest

"Evidently Jewish applicants were nearly as successful as Protestants — and more so than Catholics — in gaining admission to some college, and this despite the fact that 68 per cent of all Jewish high school seniors made application, as compared with a national average of 35 per cent, and that they predominantly lived in the Northeast where getting into college was harder for everybody," the Council points out.

Their success is clearly to be explained by their determination — as expressed by their exceedingly high average number of applications, 2.2 per individual. But this determination, while it got Jewish students into some college, did not get them into those they preferred. Only 63 per cent were accepted by the colleges of their first choice, as compared with 71 per cent of Catholic applicants and 82 per cent of Protestants.

Protestant applicants (86 per cent) remained most successful, but where as their rate of application acceptance (77 per cent) had been 5 per cent above the national average, that advantage was cut to 1 per cent. On the other hand, while the application success of Jewish students (56 per cent) had been 15 per cent below the national mark, as applicants these boys and girls rose to exactly an average position (87 per cent). This left the Catholic students, whose application acceptance rate (67 per cent) had been below par by only 5 per cent, most unsuccessful of all as

"Happy Hour" Will Help Freshmen Get Together

"Happy Hour," a get-together which will help freshmen meet more members of their own class, will be held on Tuesday, November 8, from 7:00 to 8:30 p. m. in the Hunt Room.

There will be dancing and other activities for the freshmen at that time.

Several students planned to stay over for the national sessions being held yesterday and today. Dr. D. M. Griffin, head of the civil engineering department, attended the faculty advisors meeting yesterday.

WASHINGTON FACULTY RECOMMENDS SUBJECTIVE EXAMS TO HALT CHEATING

St. Louis, Mo. (I.P.) — The faculty committee on discipline at Washington University has fully endorsed the recommendations of Student Senate Problems Committee on this campus, recommendations which seek a solution to the problem of student cheating.

The faculty committee made the following recommendations, based on the review of Senate's findings: The committee urges that the subjective or discussion type of exam replace the objective type and urges careful study of the possibility of such a substitution. It recommends that alternate tests or alternate seating arrangements be used in exams.

It is further recommended that final exams be used as a summation of the year's work but not be over-emphasized in weighing the total grade; that is, "no single examination should occupy a position of importance to the exclusion of the rest of the semester's work."

Student-Faculty Proctors

Again, the report advocates that at least one proctor be present at all exams and, preferably, one proctor for each 50 students. In a radical departure from the practice of recent years, the faculty committee recommends the appointment of two students, one man and one woman, to the faculty committee itself.

10 Bucknellians Attend Civil Engineer Meeting

The national Fall Meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers is being held in Washington, D. C., this week with the Eastern student chapter conference having been held on Tuesday.

Approximately 10 students attended and had the opportunity to speak to men from many companies regarding employment. Civil Service men were also on hand. Inspection trips were made to the Highway Research Laboratories, the Arlington Photogrammetric Laboratories, the Naval Research Labs at White Oak, and the David Taylor Model Basin at Carderock, Md.

Several students planned to stay over for the national sessions being held yesterday and today. Dr. D. M. Griffin, head of the civil engineering department, attended the faculty advisors meeting yesterday.

Burma Weekend...

salute to Burma, a new Republic in the world, now less than two years old. There are quite a number of young Burmese students studying in this country, and it will afford them an excellent opportunity to examine American life away from the larger cities where most of them are in residence.

Since it is such a young country, these students may have a very direct bearing on Burma's future, since many of them will later occupy important positions in the Burmese government.

It is an unusual opportunity for Bucknellians to enlarge their scope of understanding in international relations, as well as to meet some highly interesting and well-informed people. Hosts and hostesses for our guests are still needed, and anyone wishing to take advantage of this opportunity should contact Dick Lindy, Hospitality chairman, or report to the C. A. office on the hill.

Hosts Needed
Further information may be secured from Don Rickard or Virginia Turrone, who are in charge of the Friday evening program. Tentative schedules will be available at the C. A. office. Marian Bucher is in charge of invitations, special trips are being handled by Paul Lott, and Patty Hyatt is arranging the Saturday night banquet.

Sociology 219 is being offered for the first time this semester. It is a course designed to give the students an understanding of the social structure of modern industry.

HANDBALL FINALS

Lambda Chi Alpha and Kappa Sigma will fight it out for the Intramural handball championship. KS won this title in League A, while LCA broke a three-way tie in League B. The duo's will play a best out of five game series.

SOCCER PLAYOFFS

The Lambda Chi's lead Kappa Sigma in the intramural soccer finals at this writing. LCA won the first game on Monday, 8-1, while the second game ended in a 2-2 tie. Results of yesterday afternoon's clash were too late for publication, so a recap of the entire series will be printed next week.

Dangerous Misses
At the end positions are four returning veterans: Bob McCauland, Don Emert, Bob Court and Larry Johnston. McCauland and Emert caught 17 and 18 passes respectively, a year ago, to give the Bulls a dangerous overhead game.
In five games, the Harry Brown men have rolled up 100 points while holding their opponents to a meager 59. Word from the Bulls camp spells an all-out try to repeat their 15-0 upset over the Bisons last year in an effort to provide a real homecoming for the sons and daughters of the historic college.

At this year, success may be attributed to the rapid pick-up of interest in the sport on this campus. Any sophomore, junior or senior who wishes to wrestle will be welcomed at the gym on any week-day afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

FRESH SOCCER TRYOUTS

All freshmen who are interested in tryout for the varsity soccer team, are asked to attend practice on Monday, November 7 at 3:45 at the field. Bring your own equipment if possible, asks the coach. If it should rain Monday, come to practice on Tuesday.

Jackie has the distinction of being the first and only girl to participate with organizations at this all-state college.

WHAT A CHANGE!

The E.F.A. statistics released last Friday showed Bucknell to be one of the top grid powers in the East. The Bisons led the field in rushing offense, were second in pass defense, and third in both total offense and defense.
"Smookey" Ostendorf was voted fourth among Eastern college players in rushing offense, while Edgely Colgate, Gabriel, Lehigh, and Pennsylvania State were also in the Blue Hen's class. DELAWARE, NYU-KINGS POINT - Each of these teams have 1-4 records in their season's play. However, NYU has faced far rougher competition than the Cadets from Kings Point. Snatching from their loss to Lehigh last Sunday, the Varsity should revive and notch their second victory of the gridiron campaign. NYU.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA PLANS TO INITIATE NEW MEMBERS IN DEC.

Kappa Phi Kappa, national education honorary, made plans for the initiation of new members in December at its meeting Tuesday, according to Dr. W. H. Sauvain, advisor to the group.
The program for the coming year was also discussed at the meeting.

Scholarship...

The competitive scholarships are awarded upon the basis of the candidate's personal qualifications, academic record, and on the value of the study or project.
Candidates may enter the competition for more than one country, but Mr. Pearson warned that such multiple applications might suggest lack of focus and specific interest.
In addition to providing transportation, books, equipment and tuition, the scholarships also pay for the student's living expenses. In addition, veterans may at the same time receive benefits under Public Laws 546 and 584, or he may postpone these until he returns and depend upon the Fulbright funds entirely while he is abroad.

Offered in 19 Lands

Countries in which Fulbright scholarships are provided by the Federal government are: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Burma, China, Egypt, India, France, Greece, Iran, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Philippines, Turkey, and United Kingdom.
Interested persons are directed to write the Institute of International Education, Fulbright Division, 2 West 45th Street, New York 19, New York.

PREDICTIONS...

Sororities Pledge 132 Girls

At Completion Of Rush Week

Freshmen, Upperclassmen, Transfers Received Recognition Ribbons At Ceremonies Monday

Ribboning ceremonies Monday afternoon in the sorority suites for 132 girls brought to a close the 1945 women's formal rushing.

The quiet ceremonies were in sharp contrast to the hectic pace of the previous week, with its three parties a night, preferentials, silence rules, midnight meetings and no-telling bans.
Most immediate effect of rushing will be the new seating arrangement in the women's dining hall; all those chosen by a sorority will sit at that group's tables. The ribbons, which bear each sorority's colors, will be exchanged for pledge pins within the next few weeks.

Following is the official list of names taken by the sororities, according to Peggy Smith, president of the Pan-Hellenic Council:
ALPHA CHI OMEGA—13
ALPHA PHI—16

DELTA DELTA DELTA—12
DELTA ZETA—11

KAPPA DELTA—17

Dr. Theiss Chosen As Historian Of PSSA;
Author Of BU History
Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, author of the Centennial History of Bucknell University and president of the MacLay Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, was elected Historian of the Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at its annual meeting last week in Hershey.

Dr. Theiss was the delegate from the MacLay Chapter.

Dr. Walter Judd, Congressman From Minnesota, Will Speak At Chapel
Dr. Walter Judd, Congressman from Minnesota, will be the guest speaker at Bucknell Chapel Wednesday, November 15.

Dr. Judd is a nationally recognized authority on United States foreign policy and interests in the Pacific and the Orient.

After graduating from the Medical School at the University of Nebraska, Dr. Judd went to China as a medical missionary for the Congressional Foreign Mission Board for six years.

As a result of many organizations requesting his candidacy, he entered the 5th (Minn.) Congressional race and was elected to the 78th session of Congress, and re-elected to 79th, 80th, and present 81st Congress.

Dr. Judd is one of the few members of Congress who can speak with personal knowledge and unimpeachable authority of the sinister significance of what is now transpiring in Eastern Asia. He speaks of Chinese Communism from bitter experience of living under it during his years in China.

Dr. Judd is a member American Medical Association, Minnesota Medical Association, China Soc. Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Omega Alpha, Phi Beta Sigma. He is a 32nd degree Mason.

ORIENTAL AUTHORITY
The degree of bachelor of science in civil engineering was first awarded in 1905, when three students were graduated as civil engineers. To date, a total of 340 civil engineering degrees have been conferred. The first degree in electrical engineering was given in 1908 and the number of degrees in that field now totals 401. The first Bucknell chemical engineer was graduated in 1913 and the first mechanical engineer in 1914. Chemical engineering graduates number 381 and mechanical engineers 373.

Bucknell engineers, as listed by the directory, may be found in 41 states and in 11 foreign countries.

BOOSTER CLUB
The Booster Club fund drive yielded one hundred twenty-nine dollars, according to Wanda Sullivan, secretary. Part of the money will be used as a deposit on the Bison costume to be used at football games.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

Bison Club Junior Size

Unless someone in our family or someone we know well is an active Bucknell Alumnus we may not know much about the Bison Club. For those not familiar with the club and its activities, we shall explain. The group is made up of alumni especially interested in the fairing of all athletics here at school. They become active members by contributing ten dollars per year dues to the Bison Club. Similar groups at other schools go under the title of Alumni Athletic Association or a similar name.

Just how does this affect you and me? Well, this group at present is comparatively small and is going to or has started a drive for new members. Undergraduates are not eligible at present as seniors are given special joining privileges before graduating in the way of a two dollar dues fee for the first year. They still like to see our Alma Mater hold its own in athletic contests after we leave. It will take some work, organization and a lot of push but we'll bet the Bison Club would welcome such a group.

The Silent Campaign

That little old fellow who walks around campus picking up paper is doing a fine job as are all the rest of the service departments in keeping the grounds free of trash. Most of us however, unless reminded every once in the while, become a little careless in dropping cigarette paper or scrap paper wherever we happen to be. The time we might save the workmen in picking up our trash may be used in giving us something we want or need in the dorms or about campus, so let's have our own unannounced clean-up campaign.

Comment Of The Week

Once again if you please. Although the send-offs have not been the best in the world, the attendance and spirit at the away games has been terrific. Sleep if we must but let's make up for it at the Lafayette game.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

by Becky Rogers
MARRY SMART GAL, SAYS CONSULTANT reads a Tangerine headline. The article goes on to tell us that a man's mental powers increase as he progresses in his vocation, but a woman starts going backward when she enters her career as a homemaker. So, fellows, even if you do like your girls beautiful but dumb now, maybe you'd better look to the future and give the Phi Baks a chance.

We're not quite sure that this shouldn't be referred to the culinary department, but, anyhow—Before marriage—it's spooning around. After marriage—it's forking over.

A heading in The Hill-Topper reads WHY GRIPE? Jeepers! Take away our twelve o'clocks; make us eat at the sem all the time; even make us go to all our classes; but don't ever let anybody try to make college students go without griping. It's the backbone of the whole educational system. Just think how many neurones and manias and complexes we develop if we couldn't gripe. Just reading that headline nearly threw us into a state of nervous exhaustion. Why gripe? Why, to stay sane, that's why!

Here's an apt description we just couldn't pass up: He looks as happy as a guy with one foot on a banana peel and the other in Lana Turner's spelling. Drexel Triangle
And recently this column got the next thing to a fan letter. (No, it wasn't from mother. That gag's been used.) As a matter of fact, our letter was from the exchange editor of another college paper. The essence of its message was—you read my column and I'll read yours. Golly, what price glory?

To the Editor:
I would like to present a question which has been troubling me since the last issue of this paper to the students of Bucknell University. I think I can assume from talking to a number of people around campus that, in general, students agree with Don Heist's description of "this little game of rushing" in last week's Bucknellian. My question: Why does rushing of this sort with its hyp-

WORLD WIDE

by Jack M. Thomas
A DISUNIFIED GERMANY

Since the reign of Kaiser Wilhelm II during the First World War the world has been greatly concerned over the political and economic future of the German state. Loud cries were heard after the First World War that never again should Germany be allowed to rebuild internally to the point where she would be a threat to the peace and security of the world. We have only to reflect back to 1933 to notice that these proclamations were feelings rather than actions. In a period of thirty years the political entity of Germany has twice attacked her neighbors and the world.

When Germany surrendered to the Allies in May, 1945 the time was ripe to guarantee to the people of the world that the brutalities of World War I would never again result from the building up of a massive war machine by the German government. All the Allied Powers involved in the future of Germany, Great Britain, France, and more specifically, the Soviet Union and the United States, pledged themselves to keep Germany from ever threatening the peace and security of the world again. But what has happened in the ensuing four years?

It has now been four years since Germany capitulated to the Allies. No peace treaty has been signed between the Germans and the Allies. The situation leaves the entire world in a state of doubt and speculation as to the future status of Germany. We are probably farther away from settling the problem of Germany than we have been at any time since 1945. The United States and Russia have different and conflicting theories about the future of Germany—with the result being that neither country dare retreat from her position or she will most definitely "lose face" in the eyes of the other countries.

The United States and Russia have disagreed so vehemently over how the post-war administration of Germany should be handled that we are today confronted with two German governments, rather than an expected one. Each government is recognized by the countries responsible for setting up that particular government. This is a situation that must be corrected before any concrete program can be established in order to make Germany economically self-sufficient; yet not strong enough to make her a threat to the peace of the world.

This week the representatives of France, Great Britain and the United States are meeting in Paris to discuss further economic aid to their German government at Bonn. Talks will also center around the possibility of opening trade routes between Western Germany and Eastern Germany. Only recently have the two German governments agreed to a small scale trading arrangement. Both sectors of Germany are badly in need of such economic assistance. But the Soviet Union and the United States can not even come close to an agreement to a solution of the German problem—and so the world sits and ponders about tomorrow.

Some politically-minded persons have recommended that the only solution to the German problem would be for the United States to sign a peace treaty with the Western German government at Bonn, and for the Russians to sign a peace treaty with the Soviet-established Eastern German government. But there does not seem to be much of an advantage in such a move. There would still be a divided Germany which would remain divided forever. The United States and Russia would be confronted with the huge task of supporting the respective states of Germany.

The hopes of the world lie in a unified Germany. The Western German government at Bonn, and the Eastern German government must be integrated into one German government and one German state. The task will not be an easy one, but the Big Powers are slowly recognizing the stalemate of the present internal situation of Germany. Both Russia and the United States have stated that the only method under which they will ratify a final peace treaty with Germany is through a unified Germany with one definite government.

Again we see all too plainly the existing clash between the East and the West. Both countries have a valuable stake in the future of Germany. Russia would give anything to transform the whole of Germany into one of her satellite allies. The United States will do everything within her power to keep Western Germany on the side of the Western Allies. The room for compromise is slim. But if there is any possibility of the unification of Germany, every effort should be directed towards getting Germany back on the even keel—with the assurance that she will never again be in a position to build herself into a mighty war-making power, as she has been allowed to twice in the past generation and a half.

The PRAT RACE

by Don Heist

Well, it's all over, girls. Breathe a deep sigh of relief and count ten sheep. Much has transpired, but, as the Fourth Estate would say, little can be said just now. For instance, it wouldn't be discreet at this point to promulgate the name of the sorority that, three days after the season opened, claimed that they had the ten best girls of the freshman class. Better wait until these rumors subside, and then sift out the threads of positive fact. Fact and fiction have a strange way of merging in these Bucknell "sure-things."

Some of the finest mocking material available this week can be found in the Lit Building. Watch the many into German countenances leaving from the building museum at the change of the watch, and there's sufficient grounds for assuming that the first lot of themes have been returned. Oh, what that English department can do to the morale of the school. For example, there's the classic case of the girl who wrote a paper entitled "The Mad Hamlet," and after its return, is worrying about her own sanity. Boldly picking forth from the Rap was the following red-pencil criticism of the instructor:

"This has some amusing touches in the introductory passages, and you make out a plausible (though unconvincing) case for your lively interpretation. But alas, how about this schizophranic spelling."

Another case in a somewhat similar vein concerns a theme written in an advanced writing course. The author related the elaborate story of a person who had been struck by a subway car and lived. In the way of commentary, the teacher remarked simply but dogmatically that it couldn't have happened as described; it was too contrived, and, in general, it was unbelievable. Ironically enough, the writer of the paper had been run over by a subway car, and, to all outward appearances, is still alive.

How theatrical can you be? As the story has reached us, the fellow was sitting in a dormitory living room, conversing with his girl in a libellous fashion. Picking up his cue in the last scene, the would-be-theatrical had just blurted "Down, trumpet!" when the housemother wandered into the room, probably trying to discover just which of her charges had strayed from the straight and narrow. Worse than this, he was even pretending to throttle her. That's what happens to these girls who persist in taking a fraternity pin lightly.

Dr. Griffith, Ten Students Attend ASCE Convention

by Gerald Cavanaugh

Ten civil engineering students attended a convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers in Washington, D. C., last week. Department head Daniel Griffith, himself a committee member in the Society, also attended.

Beginning Tuesday morning, November 1, they saw engineering projects through guided tours, enjoyed a banquet for student chapter members, and heard President Truman and other speakers.

The ten CE's, all seniors, were John Connor, William Correll, Paul Doris, Dick Lugg, Bill Culp, John Fitch, Verline Campbell, Gerald Cavanaugh, Wayne Klenk and John Collins.

Excellent accommodations consisting of nine beds in one room were arranged for on the top floor of Washington's tallest building, the Cairo Hotel—which would be a fourth-rate hotel except that it is not quite good enough.

They found Washington full of thoroughly interesting engineering projects, from the six million dollar underpass intersection at Dupont Circle to repairs on the Capitol itself.

A choice of four guided tours was available, one of highways and bridges, one of water-works and sewage disposal, one of geodetic surveying and mapping, and the fourth of navy installations.

Convention headquarters was the luxurious Statler Hotel, furnished with several dozen intricate models of dams, bridges, dry-docks and other engineering works. Here President Truman spoke to assembled engineers on Wednesday morning. He remarked that engineers had managed what the Republicans had failed to do: they had moved him out of the White House—and described plans for raising the standard of living in European countries which, he said, would give more work to American industry than all its engineers could handle.

The CE's saw other interesting things in Washington during the convention. Seven of the Bucknell men were at the National Air Port when 55 persons were killed in the collision of a DC-4 and an army fighter. Several were at hand for the explosion Tuesday in the Post Office Department Building, and Campbell and Collins found an attempted suicide on the streets Tuesday night.

On Monday, October 31, the first meeting of the Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry and chemical engineering fraternity, was held. The officers of the fraternity are as follows: Roland Stoll, Master Alchemist; William Siegfried, Vice-master Alchemist; "Buck" Shott, Reporter; Jack Lynneberg, Recorder (Secretary); Robert Christy, Treasurer. The feature of the meeting was a speech by District Councilor, Dr. Sherman Grove, Jr., Head of the Chemical Engineering Department of Syracuse. His speech consisted of a short talk on matters pertaining to membership in the fraternity and of general remarks concerning his pleasure upon attending the meeting.

ADVANCED TRAINING
OFFERED TO LEIBY '48

D. W. Leiby '48, was one of 65 men selected to train in the General Electric advanced engineering program, according to a letter received by Dr. George Ireland, head of the electrical engineering department.

Leiby is at the present taking a two year training program in which he serves three month periods on different jobs. The men selected for the advanced program were chosen from a list of 400 applicants who are now two year trainees.

Dr. Gladys Cook Discusses
20th-Century Idea Of Man

In a 9000-word paper read before an open meeting of Phi Beta Kappa in Hunt Living Room Tuesday night, Dr. Gladys Cook, retiring president of the honorarium, traced the concepts of Antoine de Saint-Exupery as they matured in his successive works.

An audience of about 75 listened attentively for over an hour as Dr. Cook read her paper, entitled "A Twentieth-Century Concept of Man." Newly elected officers of Phi Beta Kappa for the ensuing year are: Dr. Harry W. Robbins, president; Dr. C. Willard Smith, vice president; Dr. Mary H. Hunt, secretary and Dr. C.H. Richardson, treasurer. Professor W.D. Mackie was appointed as a new member of the committee on nominations.

Works Quoted
All the volumes by Saint-Exupery, noted French aviator-philosopher, were quoted extensively in the essay, from his earliest to his posthumously published The Citadel.

In his philosophy, Saint-Exupery develops from the immature romantic through the humanist and finally to the sage and prophet, while his idea of what man is correspondingly matures.

Youthful Philosophy
After a brief biographical sketch of the life of Saint-Exupery, the paper continued with an analysis of the aviator's philosophy as exemplified in Southern Mail.

In Night Flight, his next work, he decides that life is action, not merely drama, as he had previously thought. Wind, Sand, and Stars, perhaps his best-known book, finds him in full maturity with the thought that man is man only when he feels the weight of responsibility.

Philosophy Matures
Succeeding volumes, such as The Flight to Arras, Letter to a Hostage, and The Little Prince, bring to fuller flower the author's philosophy. He decides that a man fights to live because his life is precious to others, not himself.

Mrs. Cook concluded that, according to Saint-Exupery's philosophy, the nature of man is creative and is fulfilled in his work.

Tuhy To Give Piano Recital
Miss Darina Tuhy will present a piano recital on November 21 at the First Baptist Church of Lewisburg. The program will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Included on the program are works by Grieg, Beethoven, Chopin, Piek-Mengualdi, Glinski-Balakirew, Rachmaninoff and Dohnanyi.

9:30 CLASS
This Sunday, November 13, 9:30 Class will have a combined group meeting in Hunt Rec Room at which time several of the Burness students will give informal talks as part of the Burness-Bucknell Weekend. Previous to the meeting, coffee and donuts will be served at 9:15. Everybody is welcome.

Hildreth To Address Wives
President Hildreth will speak to the Bucknell Wives Monday evening at 8 in Lit Lounge. This will mark the first time that a University president has spoken to the group.

The meeting will be carried out in the theme of Thanksgiving, with appropriate decorations and refreshments. All members are urged to attend.

TRAINER HAL BIGGS IS ONE ANSWER TO HERD FORTUNE IN INJURIES

by Clyde McAvoy

If anyone ever starts a poll to find the most worried looking man on campus, our vote is going to Hal Biggs. He's the man we see on the field every Saturday with the adhesive tape under one arm and an ammonia capsule in each hand. You see, busted up football players are Hal's business.

Trainer Hal Biggs

Now playing nursemaid to 2500 pounds of football players is a thankless job at best, so we decided to interview Hal's boy Hal, get him to answer some questions, and see if "those people down at the Bucknellian" wanted it. We did, he did, and they did, so here it is.

Hal was at Ohio State majoring in Physical Education when he first got the smell of rubbing alcohol in his nostrils. It seems the trainer of the Bucknells needs someone to carry a stretcher and promptly pitch Hal. Maybe that's what Hal was the trainer's younger brother had something to do with it. After serving his apprenticeship there for a year, he got the nod from Uncle Sam and ended up in—you guessed it—the Medical Corps. But two years went fast and when the whistle blew Hal traded in his O. D.'s for a sweat shirt with "Bucknell" stenciled on the front.

Steering the conversation around to shop talk we found that the new split T formation gives Mrs. Biggs' boy a little time to breathe this year. It seems the single wing has more power plays which, for some strange reason, are directly proportional to the amount of sprained legs.

So this Saturday when you see 30-odd specimens of health run out on the field at Lafayette, breathe a thank-you for the guy that made it possible. Some of the boys say he's got methyrate running in his veins instead of the usual stuff, but Mrs. Biggs and a set of twin daughters will tell you that isn't so.

Steve and Davidson 1949 Co-Captains Ed Stee and Don Davidson, both seniors, were elected co-captains of the 1949 Bucknell football team this week. Every senior on the squad has had an opportunity to captain the team but Stee and Davidson will officially be recognized as co-captains.

Stee, 26-year-old fullback from North Tonawanda, N.Y., is now playing his third year of varsity football and is recognized as one of the finest defensive backs in eastern football. His sparkling defensive work has aided the Bisons in compiling one of the better defensive records in the East.

Davidson, 22-year-old tackle, is now playing his fourth year of varsity football. The Harrisburg athlete anchors a brilliant Bison forward wall of which he is a principal part. Playing both offense and defense, Davidson has consistently been an outstanding performer.

Frosh Upset By An Astute Owl Eleven

By Chink Lavin

Bill Lane's freshmen suffered their second straight loss last Saturday at the hands of Temple Frosh, 27-13. The Young Owl's victory was a cheap one, for they capitalized on a miscue in scheduling by the Bucknell athletic department.

The Freshmen were forced by circumstances to take the field 15 minutes after they had arrived, tired from the six-hour "stagecoach" ride. Before the team had collected their wits, Temple had two quick TD's. After this scoring spurge, the Owls were not only held, but outscored the rest of the game.

Owl Advantage
Temple's Yearlings scored on the initial play of the game when "Duke" Wuzardo hauled in the kickoff and raced 101 yards for a touchdown. Parotta kicked the first of his three conversions.

Taking the Temple kickoff, the Young Bisons fumbled and lost the ball on their own 45. On the first play, Tyson faked and threw a 45 yard pass to McKernan in the end zone. Parotta missed the extra point try.

Bison's Turn
The Herd struck back in the second quarter when they rolled 60 yards to pay dirt. Myer scored on a 4 yard plunge, while Markson missed the attempted conversion. In the opening minutes of the second half, Temple's Frosh scored on a 30 yard pass from Tyson to McDowell. Parotta converted again.

Frosh Counter
Undaunted, the Bisons came back when they pushed 55 yards on the ground to score. "Pop" Amest scored on a 2 yard quarterback sneak. Markson's try was wide.

In the final quarter the Owls finally earned a touchdown, driving 35 yards on the ground to score. "Bull" Bovits bored over from the 5 for their final score. Parotta's kick was dead center again.

Still In There
The Bisons weren't finished yet. Five plays later "Pop" Amest faked back and connected with Able Powlson in the end zone for a 40 yard touchdown heave. The extra point was again inaccurate.

A few minutes later the final whistle blew and the frosh from upstate were on the short end of a 27-13 score. They had played great ball after the kinks from the long, hard ride had worn off. Deserving credit for outstanding defensive play were: Ray "Wahoo" Mendenhall, Frank "Rip" Kirby, and Bob Harbough.

Lambda Chi Garners Three Cups And Intramural Lead

Lambda Chi Alpha has made an impressive start toward the defense of their all-year trophy by winning all of the first three cups offered in intramural competition. After taking the tennis cup, LCA defeated Kappa Sigma twice in a best out of three series in scheduling by the Bucknell athletic department.

The day after the completion of the soccer finals, they again overcame Kappa Sigma to take the handball trophy. Lambda Chi opened defense of their soccer championship by facing the Kappa Sigs Monday, October 31, in the first game of the finals. The Big Green took the lead with a quick goal by Bill Taylor, and added two more by Dick Hammer and Paul Lotto in the third frame. In the darkness of the closing minutes, Bill Retz of Kappa Sigma tallied and the final score stood 8-1 in favor of LCA.

Kappa Sigma came back fighting in the second game to outplay the LCA's while settling for a 2-2 tie. A first period penalty kick by Lambda Chi's Jim DiGuglielmi and Bud Swengel's goal for Kappa Sigma tied the game up until the closing minutes. It looked like LCA had the game in the bag when Blaine Parrell scored, but Bill Retz knotted the game with but a minute to play when he headed the tying point into the goal. The Kappa Sigs drew first blood in Wednesday's game when Dick La Rue drove a penalty kick into the net for a 1-0 lead. LCA bounced back on a beautiful drive by Paul Lotto from far out in the field and the score stood 1-1 at halftime.

Bill Taylor headed Dick Hammer's beautiful corner kick into the goal and Paul Lotto added another to give Lambda Chi the game and the cup by a score of 3-1.

This was the season's climax for Coach Eddie Peash's Lambda Chi football team who won five games while losing none in the regular season. Lambda Chi has lost but one game in two years, that being in last year's playoffs with SAE. Kappa Sigma was also undefeated before the finals, however they were tied by KBR.

Facing the Kappa Sigs again in the final, Lambda Chi's Dick Hammer and Ted Brown won the opening game against Nick Danforth and Grey Rogers but dropped the next two. With Kappa Sigma needing only one game to win the play-off, LCA bounced back to take the next two games and the trophy. The

Are you one of those people who finds himself here this weekend, instead of at the Lafayette game? Well, there is another game you can attend with equal enthusiasm. It's the Hockey Play Day at Tustin Gym this Saturday afternoon at 2:30. The program is so arranged that while two teams are playing the others will be watching. So how about meeting some of these gals, take your choice from Penn State, Juniata and Susquehanna. You can make our guests feel at home by being there to welcome them even if you aren't playing.

Ready For A Swim
Each Wednesday night the Swimming Club goes to the Milton pool and tentative plans are that a life-saving course will be offered later this year. Officers of the club are Chris Riley, president and Jean Lowry, secretary.

Hall Widens Forecasts To Include Nationwide Games

By Craig Hall

During recent weeks our football survey has only taken into consideration the progress and future potential of Bucknell's opponents. This week we take a look at the football scene from a nationwide viewpoint in an attempt to improve our 700 average. (28-12).

BUCKNELL over LAFAYETTE — The Bisons will rebound after the last minute upset by Gettysburg.

MUHLBERG over YOUNGSTOWN — The Mules looked impressive last Saturday even though they lost to Lehigh 22-20.

N.Y.U. over RUTGERS — We'll pick the New Yorkers to pull an upset and down Rutgers.

PENN STATE over TEMPLE — The Nittany Lions, with a better team, should triumph in this one. BUFFALO over RHODE ISLAND STATE — Rhode Island had better stick to basketball because Buffalo has too much gridiron strength. OHIO WESLEYAN over W&J — The Presidents, still recovering from early season injuries are no match for the Ohioans. GETTYSBURG over ALBRIGHT — The Bisons should win this one in a breeze. No explanation necessary.

Lawrencemen Face Stiff Contest In Weekend Trip To Leopards Lair

by Harry Staley

What should be one of the toughest games of the season will confront the Bucknell Bisons this Saturday afternoon when they travel to Easton, Pa. to meet a powerful Lafayette eleven.

The Bisons for the 26th time in a series which started in 1923 when Lafayette triumphed 59-0. Since that time, the Bisons have dropped 14 contests, won seven and tied four. The last Bucknell victory was in 1946 when the Herd notched a 20-0 verdict. Last year's meeting found the Leopards on the long end of a 19-7.

New Coach
Maurice (Clipper) Smith, a former coach of the Boston Yankees football team, is now head coach at Lafayette and in his first year is expected to lead the Leopards to a better record than the 1948 team.

A comparison of the statistics concerning both teams shows a striking similarity, with Bucknell holding a slight advantage. In six games, the Orange and Blue defensive team has yielded 738 rushing yards while the Maroon defensive platoon has allowed 777 yards to be gained against them. In the Lafayette forward wall the Bison offensive team may meet their toughest opponent.

The highlight of this contest will be the personal grudge gained during Bucknell's "Smoke" Outland and Lafayette's Gordon Fleming. Both men are vying for rushing honors in the East. Fleming held third place at one time and Outland now occupies fourth place. Fleming has compiled an average of 5.2 yards per try while Outland has carried the ball 85 times for a total of 673 yards and an average of 7.9 yards per try. With two evenly matched lines pitted against each other, the running of these two should have a vital bearing on the outcome.

One misleading point in the study of the statistics is the season record of the Leopards. Although they have lost five times, no opponent has been able to completely overpower the Eastern team. For example, in last week's 14-0 loss to Rutgers, the Maroon rolled up 15 first downs while holding Rutgers to 10.

As if the return of two veteran ends should not cause them worry, the Lawrencemen will also face a veteran quarterback with a reputation as an outstanding passer, Jim Downing who masterminded the Lafayette T-formation offense and the serial attack concept around him.

Downing is an important factor. For instance, in last year's star-halfback Buck Germusa is ineligible, but his place has been taken by Larry Holden and Dick Thurston.

Bullets Rip Bisons In Second Setback

There's One Thing You Know--

--And That's 'You Never Know'

In the top view, Smokey Ostendard is crashing through the Gettysburg line to set up a Bison score. A few minutes later the situation is reversed, and the Herd waits for Bullet reprisal.

by Jack Williams

Once again, within the span of 86 years, a powerful fighting force was repulsed in battle at Gettysburg.

The invaders, this time from the North, fired two quick volleys to open the battle last Saturday afternoon. The defenders answered with two volleys of their own, and the struggle was on. Both forces advanced and retreated for the next hour, until only seconds remained.

Then approximately 10,000 onlookers experienced every emotion from the depths of despair to the heights of elation, while their champions fought to the death. The invaders mustered a final charge that seemed to mark the end of the campaign. But, with 40 seconds to go, the defenders made a quick counter-attack that scored and ended the bloodshed. Gettysburg had defeated Bucknell by one slim point, 34-33.

It was the final minute that climaxed the fray. The Bisons completed a 55-yard touchdown march with less than a minute left. Mason's kickoff was returned by tailback Bob McCausland to his own 31, where he ran out of bounds to stop the clock.

Passing ace Ross Sachs threw his first pass away, for the Herd line was changing fast. Then the break came. Officials declared interference on the next pass, and the Bullets were handed the ball on the Bucknell 47.

Sachs again faded back and fired one to Lee Snook, who went down the middle with three Bisons hot on his trail. He scored standing up and the count read, 33-33. The time had run out, but Ron Fitzkee was entitled to kick the placement. He did. When the smoke of battle cleared, Bucknell had received a shocking loss, considering the impressive start they had made.

Soccermen Ready To Battle F&M For League Supremacy Saturday
By Harvey Sheir

The Bouncing Bunnies will be looking for their fourth straight Middle Atlantic League victory when they tussle with Franklin and Marshall Saturday at 2:00 on North Field.

Last year the Herd booters nipped F&M, 4-3 at Lancaster. The Orange and Blue dribblers will be out to even the series which began in 1932. In the past F&M has taken Bucknell's measure five contests to four. Two games ended in 1-1 tie-mates.

Four of F&M's triumphs have come via the shutout route, and the Bisons hope to use the white-wash brush themselves this season. The Dribblers have knocked over Delaware, Drexel and Gettysburg in successive League tilts, and the team appears to have a good chance to come through with a sound 3-1 triumph over the Green Terrors.

Joe Diblin's charges were trailing 1-0, as a result of an early first period score. Then awakening quickly and playing almost the entire fourth quarter in front of the Western Maryland goal, the Bisons scored three times.

Marvin Machamer tied up the contest in the early minutes of the final stanza when he headed one in on a pass from Don Strasser.

HERD BOOTERS BLAST MARYLAND TEAM, 3-1
by Belber Robinson

The Bouncing Bunnies struck hard and fast in the final quarter at Western Maryland last Saturday afternoon to give them a total of 573 yards in the final game of the season. The Bisons led in the first down department, 14-12, gained 247 net yards rushing to Gettysburg's 82, and rolled up one less yard in total offense, 392-383.

Bullets Blast
Gettysburg then went into the lead early in the second quarter. Sachs fired a 10-yarder to Bob McCausland, and the Bullets were in the driver's seat, 14-13, after Fitzkee converted.

It was Bucknell's turn next, and the play was the same which the Bisons used to hit pay dirt on the two previous occasions. From the Gettysburg 23, Hoover passed out on the flank to Mason who heaved to McKibbin for the tally. Mason converted to make the score read for Bucknell, 20-13.

But Sachs wasn't through yet. A 37-yard aerial to Dwight Speaker knotted the affair at 20-20. Fitzkee's boot was wide.

Herd Hurdles
Harry Lawrence's men took the lead one more in the third quarter on Mason's plunge for the Gettysburg 2. His boot was wide and the score remained Bucknell 26, Gettysburg 20 until the first play of the fourth period. With fourth down on the one-foot line, the Bullets junked the ground work and went into the air. Sachs passing to Cervino for the marker. Fitzkee converted, and BU trailed 27-28.

The Bisons roared back, driving to the Gettysburg one-foot line before a penalty snuffed out the rally. On the next sure, Bucknell carried to the Gettysburg 8 where a fumble rolled into Gettysburg hands.

The breaks and the time were running against the Herd, but a Tom DeE flank pass to Ostendard put the Herd back in scoring territory. Ostendard ran down the sideline to the Gettysburg 2, and three plays later went over for Bucknell's fifth touchdown. Mason converted.

Sachs Connects
Trailing by six points, Gettysburg hung its hopes on the true arm of Sachs who justified the hope with his fifth touchdown pass of the day. Sachs threw 23 passes and had 16 completed for a total of 811 yards, more yards than all the of Bucknell's five previous opponents were able to garner collectively.

Ostendard, the flashiest runner on the field, picked up 118 yards rushing, giving him a total of 573 yards for six games. The Bisons led in the first down department, 14-12, gained 247 net yards rushing to Gettysburg's 82, and rolled up one less yard in total offense, 392-383.

Last Second Pass Climaxes Surprising Victory, 34-33; Placements Again Nemesis

by Jack Williams

Once again, within the span of 86 years, a powerful fighting force was repulsed in battle at Gettysburg.

The invaders, this time from the North, fired two quick volleys to open the battle last Saturday afternoon. The defenders answered with two volleys of their own, and the struggle was on. Both forces advanced and retreated for the next hour, until only seconds remained.

Then approximately 10,000 onlookers experienced every emotion from the depths of despair to the heights of elation, while their champions fought to the death. The invaders mustered a final charge that seemed to mark the end of the campaign. But, with 40 seconds to go, the defenders made a quick counter-attack that scored and ended the bloodshed. Gettysburg had defeated Bucknell by one slim point, 34-33.

Change In Subject
In the paintings that represent a midway period in the artist's life, there is a change in mood and subject matter. Landscapes and brighter scenes become more prevalent. "A Day in March" 1926, is one of the first of many landscapes in which the artist uses lighter colors in contrast with the darks. In many places the light is shown breaking through the scene in small opaque patches. This is particularly evident of the blue sky in "A Day in March". Scenes such as "Parade" 1932, and "Doorway" 1929, are to expand the light against dark motive with a concern for abstract effects. Especially in "Doorway" (a painting of the artist's studio), one sees the complex and varied uses of abstract patterns in regard to light. This technique presents an animated character that is often unique in watercolor. A later painting "Iron Bridge and Winter Sun" 1940, deals almost exclusively with abstract design and shows a personal approach reminiscent of the earlier works.

A striking change is seen in the recent paintings of Mr. Burchfield, although in them one is aware of the qualities of the earlier works. There is a metamorphosis in the color and variety of shades. The artist is not even aware of paint and color are fully applied. Sunlight fills the scenes and, the once mystical quality has now become allegorical. "Glenn Ford" 1945, and "Spring Landscape" 1949, are vivid renderings of colorful subject matter. "Sunlight on Snow" 1947, is an amusing interplay of snow and tree shadows against a bright sky. In these paintings we see universal, familiar scenes full of music and song. Mr. Burchfield's fondness of old frame houses is in evidence here.

One of the most beautiful paintings in the artist's life, "Springtime in the Woods" 1948, is a scene which becomes symbolic in its subject matter. As you stand before it, you are looking through a row of arched trees in a forest toward a distant opening where the sunlight and clouds are framed by a single band of golden light. The trees are inclined near the top in a gothic motif, and in one's imagination might represent a wooded cathedral with a distant altar, and this picture is a sun-filled window.

Public Speaking, which today exists in college only through the Debating Club, was then an important activity. The Alpha Sigma, the Everett Oratorical Club, and the Demosthenes Club gave would-be speakers opportunity for practice. The latter group, which boasted thirty-six members, along had for its motto "Speaking maketh a ready man."

PUBLICITY OFFICE...

A recent post card read, "Request that Bison Round-up be sent to us by air mail," signed University of Alaska College, Alaska. So it goes, the never ending requests—footballs, Bucknell pennants, sprigs of ivy, old uniforms, B. U. stickers, photographs, statistics, etc. The Publicity Office is just waiting for some wisewinner to write in and say, "Please send me Smokey".

ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT
HOST TO PENN STATE FACULTY HERE MONDAY

The Bucknell Economics Department was host to 23 members of Penn State's Department of Economics at a dinner held Monday evening at the Milton Country Club.

The dinner has been an annual custom for almost 20 years, according to Dr. Rudolph Peterson.

Mr. Robert Henderson spoke on the "Place of the Foreman in Industrial Relations" which was followed by a discussion.

In addition, the new head of Penn State's Economics Department was introduced. He is Dr. Leonard, formerly of Rutgers and is replacing Dr. Hasek who retired last year.

Former Assistant Dean Marries
The former Assistant Dean of Women here and Honor House hostess, Miss Ruth Lowther, was married recently to Marian J. Miller in Tempe, Arizona. It was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lowther of South Orange, New Jersey.

BUCKNELLIAN STAFF NOTICE

Bison Club President Addresses Students In Reply To Editorial
Dr. S. D. Spotts, Bison Club president has voiced the opinion of his Alumni group in the following letter to the editor received yesterday...

"I was greatly interested in your editorial, 'Bison Club Junior Club Size,' which appeared in THE BUCKNELLIAN, Thursday, November 10, 1949. You have touched upon a very vital problem in the growth of the Bison Club and set forth two very important questions.

You ask: 'Is it possible for the Bison Club to sort of join hands with the graduate club?' My answer to you is an emphatic 'Yes.' The closer the Bison Club can come to the graduate club, and the more solidly they are linked in bonds of a common purpose, the greater will be the growth and the more positive the force in reaching for a common goal. To insure its continued increased progress, the Bison Club must look to the great body of its alumni for a larger membership. There is no better way to insure this larger membership than to plant the seeds of interest in our undergraduate classes.

Secondly you query: 'Is it possible for us as undergraduates to become interested enough in such a group to continue our interests after we graduate by becoming Bison Clubbers?' This is really a difficult question to answer. We would have to explore the human mind and have some sort of supernatural ability to foretell the future in order to answer this query for everyone. We do know this—that as one works with an idea or purpose and invests in it a part of his income, it gradually becomes a part of him or her, and by early application as undergraduates, one may hold the answer to the future in the hollow of his hand. Interest in our group, stimulated in undergraduate years, may burn low as time marches on, but the coals of the fire seldom, if ever, entirely die, and often can be fanned into a bright and glowing flame by thoughts of affiliation in such a club as you proposed in your editorial. I would then add a word that I am sure is not one living Bucknell graduate who does not feel an inner warmth and sense of satisfaction when he reads of our success in the fields of athletics.

I shall personally see to it that this movement is brought to the attention of the Executive Committee of the Bison Club of Bucknell University. I can assure you that there would be a hearty welcome for the youthful and enthusiastic 'Bison' boys!

For your information, you might like to know that a committee has already been formed, with Ruth Kries as Honorary Chairman and Dr. Edward Fungberg as Chairman, for the purpose of increasing the membership in the Bison Club all over the United States, wherever there are loyal Bucknellians.

Yours very truly,
S. Dale Spotts, M. D.
President.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Thanksgiving Vacation Or Vacation For Thanksgiving

It doesn't make much difference which way we say it, it's still a vacation and most of us feel we need it. Some people have over-rated our generation of college students and others have called us a flighty bunch of rattlebrains. Let's not be guilty of falling into this latter group. When we take off for this vacation, let's not forget the THANKSGIVING half, remember it's more than a word.

Who Wears The 'B'

Athletes on our campus have always held their own off the field as well as during the games. We are fortunate in having the men that represent our school an above average group that could never be classified as "tramp athletes." We are also fortunate in not having them placed on a pedestal as little Greek Gods which we are expected to worship as is the case in some schools. Scholarly standards set by the school for these fellows are the same as they are for us and if there is favoritism toward a varsity man, we haven't seen it. If these things are true and we think they are, then these same men, in minor or major sports deserve a lot of credit.

The letter awards that should carry the prestige of a medal of achievement and a pat on the back from every student and alumnus sort of went underground during the last couple of "bad years." Why not then, have the letter awards made personally in chapel where all the students will see who earned that award. Another step in the right direction would be to support the "B" Club in every effort they make to earn money as hat checkers at the dances, when they organize intramural playoff programs and any other project where you see the attendants wearing their Letter sweaters. The money earned by the members is used by the club to buy sweaters which are presented to each new wearer of the "B." These fellows are not expecting any admiring stares from us or anyone else when they wear that "B" but just the same, remember—they earned that letter.

Who Me?

Once again the familiar "growl" of students can be heard when the issues concerning them seem to be in the process of adjustment by the administration or faculty. Until we students take it upon ourselves to correct evident problems or solve the conditions that seem distasteful to the school, they will do it for us. One of the most recent is the deferred rushing issue which seems to be about to descend upon us. If you think it's a good idea, fine. If you think not, fine again, but either way, unless a proposal or plan is offered by us, we shall probably have such a plan presented to us one day. We cannot unjustly blame the faculty for trying to right what they think is wrong, nor, can we blame anyone but ourselves if the final decision does not suit us. So you have something to say in this decision, now is the time to move.

Too Much To Do!

Another problem at hand, this one might be solved by the social committee through your suggestions, is the piling up of social functions all in the same evening. Unless we cooperate as social groups in scheduling events that fall on the same date as other events sponsored by the school, some of these dates might eventually turn up as "closed dates" which would prohibit our scheduling private affairs any time that would interfere with University sponsored programs. This Saturday evening, such a problem is occurring. The Artist Course Program happened to be an unforeseen event which could not be held any other time and several other social affairs are taking place that same evening. The hour has been set early enough for the Artist Course Program to be easily attended by everyone before a dance or party. If your function happens to be formal, go dressed for the dance. After all, Mr. Sved is a Metropolitan Opera star and we are sure he won't mind. By cooperating and planning our activities with the University we are helping ourselves.

Comment Of The Week

Three years ago, the Athletic Council which consists of Trustees, faculty and Bison Club representatives gave the students the right to represent themselves on this board. This group supervises and controls the entire Athletic Program of the school and will meet the first week of December. Your representatives to that meeting are Jack Henderson and Jack Bozarth. If you have anything that you would like carried to that meeting, contact your representative. The board is interested in student views and has given past representatives every chance to speak for you.

Placement Bureau News

Considerable material is available at the Placement Office on opportunities that arise from time to time with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Departments of the F. B. I. require personnel with backgrounds in the following fields: chemistry, metallurgy and geology, physics, mathematics, chemical, mechanical, and electrical engineering.

On Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. in room 122 of the Engineering Building, Mr. Asher J. McCabe, occupational analyst of the state department of Labor and Industry will speak to members of the junior and senior classes on present job trends, what to expect of certain occupations and how to go about finding your job. All men and women are encouraged to attend this session which will be of considerable help to seniors in their job recruiting problems and to juniors who are beginning to plan their careers.

Letters

Please feel free to publish this in the interest of engineers, and the roommates of engineers who listen to such garble from the time the alarm clock rings until the upstairs tenant drops his second shoe.

THE COMMUNIST TRIAL

Last January in the Federal Court Building in New York, eleven men went on trial for conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the Government by force and violence. These men were the leaders of the Communist Party in the United States. This long court battle, which lasted nine months, was the scene of some of the fiercest legal manipulations in the history of the American court. The real significance of the trial was whether the Communist Party could legally be deprived of its liberty to free speech and assembly.

The prosecution's case in brief was that the Communist Party, which was reformed in the United States in 1945, was set up for the sole purpose of conspiring to overthrow the present form of government in this country by force and violence. The model of revolution which they were using as a guide was the same as used by the Bolsheviks in the Russian Revolution in 1917. The Justice Department was operating under the Smith Act of 1940, section 2, which states that it shall be unlawful for any person to knowingly advocate the overthrow or destruction of the government of the United States by force or violence.

The main argument of the defense of the eleven Communist leaders was that the Communist Party did not advocate the overthrow of the government but was a bona fide political organization, not a conspiracy. It refers only to sharp social upheaval brought about by a reactionary counter-revolution. The definition they gave of the Communist Party is not only vague, but a denial of their actual function in many respects.

The trial was one of the longest criminal trials in American history—just a few days short of nine months. Altogether the prosecution called fifteen witnesses to the stand, while the defense had thirty-five (six of whom were defendants). There were long periods of delay, as witnesses and attorneys haggled over nearly every point of evidence. Often there were sharp words exchanged between the defense lawyers and the presiding judge, Harold R. Medina. During the trial Judge Medina sent five defendants to jail for contempt of court.

Certain questions should be asked about the presence of the Communist Party in this country and how it operates. First, is the Communist Party a conspiracy? The government produced evidence that showed that the Party meets secretly and that the members take assumed names. The Communists claimed that they had to gather under false names or they would be in danger of losing their jobs. Secondly, does the Party advocate the overthrow of the Government? The government introduced many Communist writings which advocated revolution by which the Communists would seize power and set up a "dictatorship of the proletariat." The defense said that if a revolution did take place it would be in the form of a "facist counter-revolution." Lastly, does the Party take its orders from the Kremlin? The prosecution said that when the Party was reorganized in 1945 the orders came directly from Dmitri Manuilsky, Foreign Minister of the U. S. S. R. The defense claimed that the American Communist Party took its orders directly from Moscow.

On the 14th of October the jury returned the verdict of guilty against all eleven defendants. Judge Medina in his instructions to the jury before they considered the weight of the case, told the jurors that the Communist Party was not on trial, only the eleven leaders of the Communist Party. The charge being that these men conspired with each other to advocate and to teach the overthrow and destruction of the United States Government.

This case will no doubt finally be decided by the Supreme Court as to its constitutionality. Also, the Smith Act, under which the Communists leaders were tried, will probably be questioned as to whether the Act violated the First Amendment of the Constitution. This amendment states: "Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." Past Supreme Court decisions have held one criterion on the suppression of freedom of speech and press.

In the words of the late Supreme Court jurist, Oliver Wendell Holmes, "The question in every case is whether the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create clear and present dangers that will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has a right to prevent." The question is whether the Supreme Court will find that these eleven men present a clear and present danger to the present system of government.

Dr. Jean Rivoire To Assume Post As Associate Professor In French

Dr. Jean A. Rivoire, who recently returned to this country from France, where he was decorated by the French government for his academic services, will join the faculty next semester as associate professor of French, Dean William H. Coleman announced today.

Dr. Rivoire will fill the post vacated by this fall by Dr. Lowell B. Ellis, who accepted a teaching position at another university.

Native Of Canada
A native of Canada, Rivoire was graduated from the University of Manitoba and received his master's degree at the University of California. He has just completed two years of study at the Sorbonne, University of Paris, where he was awarded his doctor's degree during the past summer.

Dr. Rivoire began his teaching career as a French master at St. John's College in Winnipeg, Canada, and then served successively as teaching assistant in French at the University of California, instructor in French at Stanford University, and professor of French language and literature at the University of Pennsylvania. While at the University of California he also served as graduate counselor in International House.

During the United Nations Conference in San Francisco, he served as translator for the French delegation to the Conference and was decorated by the French government for his services. Upon completion of his studies at the Sorbonne recently, he was awarded his doctor's degree with honors. His doctor's thesis will be published in the spring in Paris by Gilbert and Company.

Dr. Rivoire is also a member of the American Association of University Women and is a speaker M. Andre Kammer, senior interpreter of the United Nations, at its regular meeting held in the Literature Auditorium on Monday, November 14.

M. Kammer, in his talk, "The United Nations Today", was very optimistic in his views regarding the structure and accomplishments of the United Nations. He emphasized that the purpose of the organization is to maintain peace, but it is impossible to maintain something which does not yet exist.

He mentioned the recent political situations in Palestine, Greece, Kashmir and India, which have already been greatly alleviated, if not eradicated by the action of the group, and the success of the organization in preventing the spread of cholera from Egypt throughout the Mediterranean area.

He also described the intricate translating telephones used during the sessions of the organization at Lake Success, and the exceptional linguistic ability of the interpreters.

Dr. Frank Davis Publishes Book On Teacher's Guidance Programs

"Guidance Handbook for Teachers", a new book for teachers participating in guidance programs, written by Dr. Frank G. Davis, professor of education at Bucknell University, has just been published by the McGraw Hill Book Company.

Designed to implement the guidance work expected of teachers, the "Handbook" presents the philosophy of caring for the needs of the individual child and outlines a program and the tools necessary for such activity. A supplementary booklet entitled "Guidance Manual for Principals" prepared by Dr. Davis, provides for school administrators full instructions regarding the purpose and effective use of the "Handbook."

Discusses Text
In their newly-published text, Dr. Davis and Mrs. Norris discuss such topics as mental and physical health, keeping a pupil up to his ability, a new type of report to parents, cumulative records for counselor and teacher, a new scheme for rating personality traits and a cumulative plan for recording them, a new approach to the anecdotal record, and emphasis on the guidance clinic.

Previously published books of which Dr. Davis has been the author or editor include "Guidance for Youth" (1938) and "Guidance for Teachers" (1938). "A Course in Supervised Teaching" (1938), and "Pupil Personnel Service" (1948).

Scale model of a part of the Du Pont adiponitrile plant at Niagara Falls. Here furfural, an agricultural by-product, is converted into a chemical intermediate for making nylon.

Opportunities at Du Pont in many scientific fields

This is an excellent example of the interesting work in industrial organic chemistry carried on at Du Pont. It required technical knowledge and skill of highly trained research and development men, including organic and physical chemists; chemical, mechanical, civil and electrical engineers, and others.

Only a large company with ample resources in men and money could afford to engage in research of such magnitude. To the young college graduate, Du Pont offers the broadest opportunities in many scientific fields, along with the advantages of working directly with a small group of associates.

Keynote of Du Pont personnel policy is promotion from within on a competitive merit basis. A conscientious effort is made not only to choose college-trained people of promise, but to develop each individual as rapidly as possible.

In the new process, furfural is converted by a series of steps to 1,4-dichlorobutane. The next step explains in part why Du Pont undertook the project in the first place. As producers of cyanides, they had sodium cyanide available for converting the 1,4-dichlorobutane into adiponitrile. The final product, hexamethylenediamine, is then reacted with adipic acid to make nylon "salt." Still more processing and the salt becomes yarn, and the nylon flake used by the plastics industry.

It seems a far cry from corncocks to nylon, and it was. The development from the first full-scale laboratory experiments to the present full-scale plant cost

Soccer Eleven Primes For MAL Championship Playoff

Bison Opponents, Except Lafayette, Favored Saturday

By Craig Hall

The football game to a climax this week as traditional games and championship encounters mark the national scene. With possible bowl bids in the offing, upsets may be prevalent. Our battered '706 average doesn't seem too secure.

All of Bucknell's opponents close their campaigns on Saturday with the exception of Gettysburg, who clashes with F and M on Thanksgiving. Locally and nationally here are the big games:

Bucknell over Muhlenberg — A Bison victory might mean a bowl bid.

Delaware over West Chester — The Blue Hens to defeat one of the few remaining undefeated teams.

Lehigh over Lafayette — The Leopards don't seem to have it this year.

W and J over Muskingum — The Presidents are back in their own class.

NIU over Cincy — The Vikings are the favorite in this intensity clash.

Temple over Holy Cross — The Owls on the rebound after dropping three straight.

Gettysburg over F and M — The Bullets should recover after last week's surprising tie with Albright.

Buffalo over Ohio U. — Strictly on a toss of a coin.

Dartmouth over Princeton — Only the Penn loss mar the Big Green's record.

Michigan over Ohio State — Just to complete the Rose Bowl picture.

Tulane over Virginia — It looks like Tulane has recovered from the Notre Dame game.

Pittsburgh over Penn State — But don't sell the Lions short in this traditional game.

Stanford over California — The upset of the week.

Oklahoma over Santa Clara — The Sooners to remain undefeated although it should be close.

In other games: Brown over Columbia; Syracuse over Colgate; Fordham over Rutgers; Villanova over North Carolina State; Yale over Harvard; William and Mary over Arkansas; SMU over Baylor; North Carolina over Duke; Rice over TCU.

Illinois over Northwestern; Indiana over Purdue; Notre Dame over Iowa; Missouri over Kansas; Minnesota over Wisconsin; Kentucky over Tennessee.

Lambda Chi Clean Sweep Good For Large Margin In All-Year Trophy Race

Lambda Chi Alpha, by virtue of clean sweeps in every fall sport, holds a considerable lead in the All-Year Trophy race.

The Big Green is 33 points better than second-place Kappa Sigma, which has been the only fraternity to cause much trouble to the Lambda onslaught.

Loomis Field was the scene of very strenuous activity Saturday when the Bucknell coeds played hostess to Penn State, Susquehanna and Juniata in a six-game hockey tournament.

Though old man weather threatened to interrupt several times, all the games were concluded and an extra session was played by some energetic Penn State and Susquehanna.

Bucknell's first win both games, defeating Susquehanna 1-0 and then later scoring against a fast moving Penn State forward line to win 2-0. Winning goals were made by Mary Allen.

Team Two showing equal spirit and team work nipped out the Penn State II by 1-0. In their second match, the competition proved very close and the contest ended in a tie 1-1. BU's goals were scored by Timman and Jenkins.

The final results—Bucknell 3 wins, 1 tie; Penn State 1 win, 1 tie, 2 losses; Juniata 2 ties; and Susquehanna 2 defeats.

After the events the girls visited the dorms and returned later to Hunt Rec for a social get-together.

The tournament was not scheduled as intercollegiate competition but primarily to bring colleges together in the play hockey. The fine sportsmanship and friendly spirit exhibited by all the groups climaxed the success of the Sports Day.

One might say that the Tustin scale registers more surprises than any other item on campus.

For a long time there was a note on the scale: "Faddi four pounds please." Even with the four pounds, sem gema found without any outward warning that they'd become rivals of Two-ton Tustin, on 300-lb. times, equivalents of emaciated Gravel Guts.

The folks over in the gym are beginning to wise up. They removed the "four-pound" note and the battered scale remains blank with the exception of one piece of adhesive tape plastered across the crack in the lower half.

Frosh Fade In Penn State Thriller, 19-12, As Nittany 2nd Half Surge Decides

By Chink Lavin

In their final encounter of the season, Bill Lash's freshman squad went down to defeat in a hard fought battle with the Penn State J.V.'s, 19-12. The game was played at State College and was evenly contested throughout the first half.

Handicapped by an injury epidemic, Penn State scored the first T.D. when Brooks, on a cleverly executed end run pass play, hit Bill Key on the Bion 30. Key traveled the remaining 30 yards unmolested, Chamber's try for the point was blocked by Lucas.

The Bison's scored again before the half ended, but unfortunately stepped out of bounds on a 30-yd. pass play from "Pop" Amant to Ab Powellson. Markman's try for the conversion was to the left.

The Nittany Lion Juniors started off with a road in the 3rd quarter with two quick scores. On their second series of downs, Penn State drove 20 yards, for a score. Brooks scored on an end run from the 15. Chamber's second attempt for the point was blocked by Pettit.

The final results—Bucknell 3 wins, 1 tie; Penn State 1 win, 1 tie, 2 losses; Juniata 2 ties; and Susquehanna 2 defeats.

Dublinmen Meet Lock Haven To Finish Regular Season

By Harvey Sheir
The Bouncing Bunnies will be seeking their sixth consecutive triumph at the expense of Lock Haven State Teachers College this Friday at 2:30 on foreign soil. The tussle was originally set for Saturday, but the contest has been re-scheduled.

The engagement will mark the end of Bucknell's regular slate, and will be the first time the Herd has tangled with a Lock Haven soccer aggregation.

Still Undefeated
The Orange and Blue are undefeated in five Middle Atlantic League games, with two losses in non-league tilts.

In Middle Atlantic League competition, Swarthmore is playing Haverford Friday. The winner of this game will be tied with Stevenson, necessitating a play-off contest for the championship of the Northeast League. This tussle will be played sometime during the week of November 21-26.

Playoff Set
The winner of the Northeast District will then play the winner of the Southwest District during the week of November 28-December 3.

All play-offs must be completed no later than the first Saturday in December. Mr. Dunn, the coach of Swarthmore, will keep in touch with Coach Dillin, and let him know how these games come out so the Bison can plan a definite date for the championship of the Middle Atlantic League. The Bison have captured the MAL title for the past two years, and may have a good chance to repeat.

READY, WRESTLE
Members of teams participating in the wrestling meet to be held on December 12, 14, and 15, are reminded that the required eight workouts must be completed by December 9.

The State Collegers scored again in the 3rd period when Seffert cut wide to his right and chewed up chalk for 40 yards, and a score. Chamber's conversion attempt was successful.

The Bison juniors evened things up in the 2nd period when Myers crossed the twin stripes from 10 yards out. The score was set up on a 30 yard pass play from "Pop" Amant to Ab Powellson. Markman's try for the conversion was to the left.

Bisons Will Climax Campaign Against Aerial-Minded Mules

By Ronnie Unger

Bucknell's high-flying Bisons will ring down the curtain to one of their most successful seasons in two decades this coming Saturday afternoon when they engage the Muhlenberg Mules at Memorial Stadium.

The Orange and Blue, which has lost two games both by one point, will tackle an offensive-minded outfit from Allentown. Muhlenberg has whipped Bucknell on three successive occasions, and in doing so has scored 89 points to Bucknell's 14. The Bisons will be favored to break the jinx.

Unimpressive?
On the surface the "Mules" have been anything but impressive. Thus far they have played eight games winning one, losing six, and tying one. However, their competition has been on the rugged side with such teams as Scranton, Duquesne, Lafayette, Albright, Gettysburg, Delaware, and Lehigh being played on consecutive Saturdays.

Furthermore of the six games that were lost, four were scores in which a touchdown or less told the difference. The remaining two were lost by a margin of two touchdowns. Against Lehigh, which is one of the best small-college teams in Pennsylvania this year, the Muhlenberg eleven dropped a heartbreaker, 22-20. The Gettysburg game was a thriller all the way with the Mules pushing the Bulls all over the field only to lose on a field goal nine to six.

Offensive Power
The offensive power of this club can be verified by the statistics released last week concerning the offensive production of all eastern college teams. Muhlenberg stands second in total pass offense ahead of such ballclubs as Army, Columbia, Dartmouth, Cornell, etc.

The Cardinal and Gray has many fine all-around backfield men spearheaded by Captain Jack W. Crieder, the best-footed back from Canton, Ohio. Jack was selected for the All-Pennsylvania college eleven in his sophomore year, and has proven himself to be a thorn in the Bison's side on numerous occasions. The man chiefly responsible for the brilliant passing record of the Mules is their able quarterback, and prolific passer, George England Jr., who has directed the team from the "T".

The line, on the other hand, is somewhat inexperienced with sophomores and juniors playing in almost every position. Coach Howie Baughman has had to rely on such stalwarts as Warren Reed, veteran end, and Al Shoudy, tackle to maintain a steady influence on the younger players on the team. Nonetheless, Gettysburg's powerful ground and air attack which tallied five times against Bucknell, could only dent the Muhlenberg goal-line once.

This game is the final one of the season for both clubs, and unless Bucknell receives a bowl bid this will be the last collegiate game for such outstanding Bucknell stars as Ed Stee, Jim Hoover, Tippy Grunberg, Bob Irvin, Don Davidson and Bob Bucher.

The PAT RACE

by Don Heist

What these senior girls won't do to leave a lasting impression! Whether intentional or not, attention was certainly attracted by the coed who, last week, was doing acrobatics on Taylor Hall's fire-escape. It seems that the janitor had propped a ladder against the door of her classroom, and the only channel of escape was the fire escape. At ten o'clock in the morning, she crawled, sixty feet above the ground from the window of her classroom to that of Professor Savain's office. Needless to say, a large crowd gathered to witness this little feat, probably to find out if the fire escape would hold her.

Recently, one of those luckless souls who signed up for local blood donations last year became the victim of his own magnanimity. A local hospital called on her friend, A2 positive, for an emergency contribution. After he had dawdled away some two or three hours in the waiting room, the nurse is alleged to have entered, carrying to that of Professor Savain's office. Needless to say, a large crowd gathered to witness this little feat, probably to find out if the fire escape would hold her.

If you belong to the Bucknell Owl's Club, you're liable to catch some of the (faux pas) which attach chaos and humor to some of those early morning radio programs. For example, a few nights ago, one of the few stations which can be received in Lewisburg was broadcasting a program of classical music. With a strictly bohemian commentary, the announcer put on what he claimed to be Beethoven's (Eroica). However, by the time it reached Bucknell, it sounded identical with (Stompin' at the Savoy).

In another case, an announcer advertised: "Don't be afraid to write away for the Family Insurance Plan from the fear that your husband or wife might think you have homicidal tendencies..." Now I ask you! How blunt can one advertisement be?

And while we're on the topic of the radio, it seems that the bane of the airways these days is the notorious quiz program. In contrast to the big quiz programs which give away the world on a silver platter to the contestant who can write his name legibly, there are their small town counterparts which give away three dollars worth of merchandise at a local haberdashery if the contestant can recite the Britannica backwards. A clear case of this was heard last year over a nearby station when, for three months, the sponsor tried vainly to give away two neckties or so to the telephone-answerer who could ascribe an author to ".....the world is my idea." June arrived, and still no one had won the precious pair of neckties. Schopenhauer was resurrected on that one.

Behind The Mike

by Babs Fiedler

Discovery of the year.....a few lights ago some people made special requests on the Bitter End Show but (as usual) the station didn't have the records. So the enterprising director of the show, Paul Lotto, located a pianist who could play the request. What Paul didn't expect was the amazing reception that this certain young man, Downy Stacey, was to receive. The place was loaded with phone calls about this "terrific new-comer".

He had three contract offers, but WBUB signed him up for a program to be heard 10:15 to 10:30 on Monday evenings. Best wishes to a wonderful artist!

Lynn Warner does a marvelous job of writing scripts of a humorous nature. WBUB take note.

Program of the week.....Dick Swing and Dick Coleman are currently blending their talents in a unique program entitled Jazzways, heard 7:30 Thursday evening, concerning the history of jazz.

They have covered New Orleans, Chicago and Early Modern Jazz, giving a week to each. In the next three weeks they will cover Middle Modern Jazz, or Swing, Present Modern Jazz, and Ultra Modern, or Progressive Jazz, the latter including Bop. They are attempting to give the listener a clear picture of the development of jazz.

V. A. Says

By Rick Bloom

Insurance dividends usually get into any discussion among two or more vets these days and the main question seems to be "When will I get mine?" Nobody can tell yet the exact date on which the mailman will place that long brown envelope in your box, but the V.A. has explained the order in which the checks will be mailed.

The V.A. says that the checks will be issued on the basis of the last digits of the service serial number. The full serial number is of no significance in determining order of payment. On a certain portion of the applications, additional information will have to be developed. These will be handled separately.

Applications will be broken down into groups as they are received. These groups will be separated into ten processing units by the last three serial digits from zero to nine. The first large group of applications is now being worked on in this manner.

Thus a veteran whose serial number is 35489000 will be included in the first mailing because the last three digits of his serial number are zero; whereas, a veteran whose serial number is 100990 will be included in the later mailing because the last three digits in his number are 990.

There is a voucher-writing machine for each of the ten groups. The over-all number of accounts it is hoped to handle will be 200,000 every day. This total will be reached by drawing out 20,000 cards from each of the ten groups.

V.A. explained that this method of payment was selected after a careful study of all factors as the most non-discriminating system that could be devised.

For veterans who had more than one serial number while in service, V.A. will use the number in each case that appears on the NSLI certificate.

Subsequent applications received will be handled in the same manner. The dividend application number, which appears on the acknowledgment card returned to the applicant, has no bearing on the order of payment.

A lot of vets will be disappointed by the amount of their checks. More than a half million vets who owe the government money as the result of overpayment on government all-volunteer or other veterans' benefits or defaults on loans guaranteed by the Veterans' Administration may find it as part of their share of the forthcoming special dividend payment deducted to cover their debt.

V.A. estimated that somewhere between 20 and 30 million dollars of such debts may be collected from the NSLI dividends.

All of the individuals concerned are aware of their indebtedness to the government and know that it is (Continued on page 8.)

POP BOP

by Clyde McAvoy

Sometimes will somebody please point out to Pop the man who keeps chopping the last paragraph off his column every week before it gets into print. Take my right index finger if you must, but please, not my last paragraph. Three lashes with a wet noodle to you, sir!

Pop has had several requests this week for a Harry James record, "It's a Sin to Tell a Lie" and "Wherever You Are" show that that lady in the puke didn't hurt the Lady Day voice at all. Billie rates a B plus and a B.

As you persevering people who have read this far have probably noticed, Pop has howled to pressure from his public (Hah!) and is gonna institute a little grading system for those weekly record reviews. It goes something like this:

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

By Becky Rogers

Gayest headline we've seen in a long time is one in The Wilson Billboard which reads PARENTS HERE; STUDENTS HAPPY. A sequel might be PROFESSORS AWAY; STUDENTS HAPPIER.

And doesn't this sound just like Bucknell? Stud: "What do you ever do about that exam you were too sick to take?" Second Stud: "Sh, that's next week." Thank to The Bona Venture

Which reminds us, in case any of you have been noticing how many times quips from The Bona Venture have been appearing in this column, let us assure you that we are not an honorary member of the Bona Venture advertising staff. We just like their stuff. (And we're not being paid for this either.)

I HATE MEN I hate men because they take me to dances, bowling alleys, and even their bedrooms. Often they get me where they want me and hold me against my will and drag the life out of me.

Some abuse me something awful. When they get what they want out of me, they throw me away. Yes, then I'm only good for tramps. Why should they do this to me? After all, I am only a helpless, little — CIGARETTE Drexel Triangle

New 'Bonehead Reader's Digest' Psych 99 Course Offers No QC's

by Paul Beck

Something new has been added to the long list of courses available to students at Bucknell—Psychology 99. The intellectual on campus appropriately call it "Bonehead Reader's Digest". Just in case you are interested, here goes with a look at some of the objectives of this terrific new course.

Psychology 99 is primarily a study of studying. (Study habits to you.) The textbook consists of that friend to all, the Reader's Digest. This is the only course at Bucknell that changes texts every month. The purpose is to improve reading comprehension and speed. In a recent interview with some outstanding students taking this course, an interesting conclusion has been reached. According to this poll, ninety-nine per cent of the students find the jokes in the Reader's Digest better than those told by the instructor.

Speedometer Reading comprehension and speed are also improved by the use of the Metron-O-Scope. This amazing machine enables the student to read series of words and phrases at different reading speeds. Standard equipment to take to class when the Metron-O-Scope is in use is a bottle of aspirin, a pair of strong glasses, and an iceberg.

Each student is interviewed by the instructor at the beginning of the term, since both personal and financial worry have a lot to do with some concentration.

Problems Affect The student is encouraged to state any troubles (nearly women) which might be interfering with his studies. The instructor assists the student in solving problems which may be preventing him from doing his best work. During this interview a study plan is made up which is a tremendous aid in planning one's study program. Some lucky students find that they can squeeze an occasional meal in each week and possibly a smoke.

Another objective of this course is to fit the student into surroundings which are most beneficial to studying. Some people find that they can study best in a quiet atmosphere; others can study equally as well in a noisy atmosphere. Most of us require peace and quiet; a favorite spot should be chosen, free from distracting noises and interruptions. West Wing is an outstanding example of the perfect place; peace and quiet prevail at any hour of the day or night.

Objectives The main objectives of Psychology 99 have been pointed out. It is now up to you to decide whether or not you should plan to take Psychology 99 next semester, even though no quality credits are given for the course. Those interested form a line in front of Miss Henderson's desk; she'll love you for it!

'04 L'Agenda Shows Amusing Contrast With Campus Today

Part II—by Rudy Lundberg

Taking our last look at L'Agenda 1904, we open the book, appropriately enough, to the extra-curricular activities, which play so large a part in the Bucknell drama.

Victims of the march of science, which produced the radio and the juke box, are the two organizations devoted to music and entertainment. The Mandolin and Guitar Club no longer fills the air with its peculiar music, and the Bucknell Minstrels have passed out of existence, no longer concerned with the antics of Mr. Bones.

Publications have varied little in popularity in two generations. Predecessor of the "Bucknellian", was the 1904 version of college newspaper, "The Orange and Blue", but no indication is given if the editorials were any less vivid than today.

Public speaking, now existent in the form of the Debating Club, was an important contender, what with three organizations, "The Alpha Sigma", "The Beta Sigma", and the "Demosthenian Club", all giving the would-be speaker opportunity for practice. "Speaking maketh a ready

VETERANS REMINDED OF INSURANCE DEADLINE

Union County World War II veterans with service-incurred disabilities were reminded by Veterans Administration today of an important deadline in connection with their entitlement to National Service Life Insurance.

Prior to January 1, 1950, such disabilities actually incurred in service between October 8, 1940 and September 2, 1945, if less than total in degree, are disregarded in determining eligibility under the health requirements for National Service Life Insurance purposes.

This means that veterans who might not otherwise qualify for life insurance for health reasons may re-instate lapsed National Service Life Insurance or buy new or additional insurance up to the $10,000 maximum if they apply before the end of the year.

A physical examination is required, however, for all insurance applied for under this special proviso. Such examinations are made by Veterans Administration without cost to the veteran.

B.U. Concert Hall Features Orchestra On Third Program

The "Bucknell Concert Hall", a series of weekly broadcasts over Sunbury station WKOK, will present its third program today from 5 to 5:30 p.m.

This is the second broadcast to originate from the Concert Room in the Music Building.

Mr. Russell Miller will conduct the Bucknell University Symphony Orchestra. The program is as follows:

- I. Concerto in D minor for Orchestra by Antonio Vivaldi—arranged by Slioti.
- II. Prelude to the Opera "Lorelei" by Max Bruch.
- III. Symphony in B minor, No. 3 (The Unfinished Symphony) by Franz Schubert.

1st movement—Allegro moderato.

NEWMAN CLUB PLANS

Plans for the annual spaghetti dinner were discussed in last Wednesday night's Newman Club meeting, held in Hunt Hall Rec Room. Jim DiGiuseppe, president, announced that it would be held on the first or second Wednesday of December.

At this meeting, it was also decided that a Communion Breakfast will be held, following the 9:00 Mass, on the third Sunday of every month. The second meeting of the Newman Club will be held at the Communion Breakfast this Sunday. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, November 30.

Another Dance Hits The Red

Reports from the Prom last Friday night are dark and stormy financially. Maybe, as someone else suggested, we are trying to live a little beyond our social standards by having "name bands" two or three times a year. It sort of looks that way and maybe it's time for something new to be tried. Some schools, through the inter-fraternity or inter-society councils sponsor one big dance a year. They go Uncle Sam one better by having a pre-dance contribution instead of ticket sales, thereby saving money on the tax, they are guaranteeing so many paid customers before hand so they know how much they have to spend and in general, holding down the risk. One way to do this might be for every one wanting to attend the dance to subscribe to a membership in the Interfraternity Club or a like sponsor as they do at Lafayette. This is paid by the house or individuals to the school in a lump sum before the dance date. This way the school, BISA Club or any group could do it through monthly assessments, by earning the money or any way convenient to them. The time, the band and most of the expense can be figured before they ever start through such a system. It would be a lot easier on some and it might ease that doubt in the minds of many others as to whether the dance would be worth attending. It could even be included in the Student Activities fee, optional to the student by the school.

Fraternities Under Fire

"Students Win Anti-Bias Battle: Fraternity Board Reverses Stand." This was the headline appearing on a news article labeled special to the New York Times covering The National Interfraternity Conference last month. Editorials recently in the New York and Philadelphia papers along with magazine articles seem to be increasing in the fast growing war against fraternities. Because we live in our own little niche on the quiet campus of Bucknell does not exclude us from increasing bombardment because we do shelter fraternities. It's easy to find fault with any minority group and especially any group as "closed" as the average fraternity. It's easy too, to criticize others, whether it be fraternities or a minority group not understood by everyone. Wiser men than we have condemned fraternities and supposedly what they stand for and much of their blaring is justified. Much can be said in their defence however, and what they have done constructively. Books have been written on both sides of the fence and for it to be in to justify either side. What we might consider, however, is if there is such a thing as a good fraternity school, Bucknell probably approaches that point. There are practices harbored by the houses on our own campus that help cause all this "bad taste" in the condenser mouth.

These national and city reports have their own counterpart in the finger pointing right here on our own campus. Who are we to defend the scholarship of the fraternities when records can be shored under our noses, our own records, to prove the point of the accusers? Who are we to truthfully say that some fraternity activities do not interfere with classwork when recent negative incidents can be proven? Well, on the witness stand of a trial we could be torn apart in our meagre defence but we are not on the trial bench and we think there is a justifiable defence. These mistakes have been made by hundreds of others long before the present group of fraternity men ever thought of joining their houses and if these accusers will look over the records of past behavior they will find a big improvement over the past. They will also find that, before fraternities on campus, they had their literary guilds, their social clubs and their inter-class combinations that were nothing more or less than fraternities. Pick up any old yearbook and there they are. Fraternities were banned several years ago at Princeton by President Wilson, but you find some of the "tightest" cliques ever formed. Well, comparisons of others does not justify ourselves but we do believe that like groups will always join together to dine, to live together and to enjoy each others company. This too does not justify the anti-bias clauses or by-laws supposedly written in the charters of the fraternities but remember that they were not put there over night and all the shouting in the world will not take them out in the same space of time.

What might our contribution to bettering of fraternities be here on our own campus then? We can sharpen up our records, we can hold down the interference with class work through hell weeks and then start on these bigger problems. The storm warning flag is up all over the nation to the fraternities and the growing from the "down with fraternities" group here on campus can be heard more and more every day. As someone once said the best defence is to have a good offence.

Comment Of The Week

Basketball at home opens this Saturday night and everyone will be holding his breath to see if we are going to be as fortunate on the court as we were this year in the stadium. Last year the student body stuck by a not too sensational team because they knew everyone of those players were doing their best. This year let's do the same, winning or losing, let's not leave the game early, boo the referees to make it harder for the players, but let's give the basketball team the same moral support we gave the football team. Just how much that support means is hard to judge but the football team didn't do bad.

Letters

To the Editor:

It has happened again! Another all-school dance has resulted in a heavy loss for the classes involved. We thought we had a good chance to break even this time, however, the fact is that we are faced with a greater loss than previous dances. Realizing that classes were losing money on class dances, the Sophomore and Junior classes decided last Spring to sponsor a combined dance this semester in an effort to create more interest and reduce the expenses by dividing them two ways.

As we began to plan for the dance we thought our chances for success were good. Two classes would have a real interest in the outcome. We would have two queens and rate out chances to draw a larger crowd.

The dance was to be the first all-college formal on this year's social calendar. Scheduled for the first week in December the dance would be just at the time that the "cheeks" were in. Everything seemed to be in our favor.

The dance was held last Friday night and the results are in. It's hard to believe how wrong our predictions were. Here is how it happened. Below are listed our expenses, approximate at the time as some of our bills have not yet been received. The final report should be about the same.

STUDENTS SUCKERS FOR THIEVES reads an NSA News headline. How true! And not only are they often despoiled of pop's hard-earned shekels by clever thieves who are actively working against them but also by inanimate "thieves" that do nothing but stand around and wait for money to be handed to them. Witness the pinball machines in the local hangouts and the crowds of intelligent, economical college men who surround them. Or have we used the wrong adjectives?

Texas U. COEDS PLAY FOOTBALL says a headline in the Lycopom Courier. Well, Bucknell coeds may not play football, but we've seen some pretty wild wrestling matches when it came time for "that midnight kiss."

An article in the Wilkes College Beacon begins SMITH APPEALS TO ALUMNAE. We didn't have to read any farther to know that Smith must have needed money. Seems the only time the alumnae of any are really remembered and appreciated is when the school's financial reserves are running low. And somehow that doesn't seem quite fair. After all, alumnae are people too—not just money bags.

And here's something we snatched from the Pointer. "And to think I mortgaged the house to send my boy to college. All he does is go out with girls and drink and smoke."

"Do you regret it?"

"Sure. I should have gone myself."

Last week John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, announced that he would not call a general work strike as planned but instead would instruct the miners to commence a three-day work week. Mr. Lewis has been the undisputed leader and champion of the miners since 1926 when he took over as their chief. Since 1926 he has brought the miner's income from the lowest paid of all workers to one of the highest paid at the present time. It is doubtful whether any other man but Lewis could have accomplished such progress for the miners in such a short period of time. But have the ruthless tactics of Lewis been in line with the general welfare of the nation as a whole?

For several years John L. Lewis has completely disregarded the U. S. economy for the interests of the miners and himself. To cite just a sample year let us look at the activities of the United Mine Workers for the present year. On March 11th a two-week stoppage began, which was declared to commemorate the miners who had died as a result of their occupation. June 13th saw a one week "stabilizing" strike called. The miners were ordered on a three-day work week on the 5th of July. The 19th of September brought the miners out of the pits entirely when Lewis called a general strike against the coal operators. The miners did not return to work until Nov. 1st. Now Lewis has ordered the miners to go on a three-day work week. Since March the miners have been engaged in an almost constant state of preliminary stoppages, strikes and quasi-strikes to enforce their demands.

Coal is probably the most basic industry in the country today. The supply of coal ceases and all other industry stops shortly. Several times in the past few years a general coal strike has brought on severe hardships and serious repercussions to the economic setup in this country. A country, such as the United States, which is playing the role of a benefactor to millions of people throughout the world can not permit a breakdown in our massive productive system. At all costs coal production must continue. The irony of it all is that John L. Lewis is more than aware of this fact. So he has decided to take advantage of his position—and the American people must suffer the consequences.

But since John L. Lewis is almost completely without restriction in his dealings with the mine operators why was it that he announced last weekend that the miners would begin on the 1st of December working a three-day work week? Why was it that Lewis did not bring about a complete strike rather than give in, even partially, to the government and the mine operators? Several factors are involved.

First of all the miners are not in the frame of mind to spend the few weeks before Christmas at home. They are just as concerned about a merry holiday season for their families as are the rest of the families throughout the country. This factor may have played a bigger role than many would believe. Secondly Lewis does not want to take under the Taft-Hartley Law an injunction which he could legally do to under the Taft-Hartley Law or the government will step in and have the coal mined. Lewis must constantly play the role of a diplomat.

John L. Lewis has done a great deal in elevating the economy of the miner in the past twenty-three years. In 1926 the miner received little more than a token for his dangerous work. No one will deny what Lewis has done for the mining profession. But the objection lies in the method which he uses to gain those ends. Lewis has always wanted and insisted that he deal directly with the mine operators. He has never cherished the thought of any form of government intervention. More could be gained by slugging it out with the independent coal owners than by deciding it through government mediation. It is too bad that one man places a black mark upon the entire labor movement in this country. The other labor organizations in the country must suffer because John L. Lewis goes about his own selfish manner, completely disregarding everyone and everything. The government will have to take measures to prevent Lewis and his United Mine Workers from exploiting the U. S. economy and the American people.

Cast And Production Staff Of 'Silver Cord' Announced

Rehearsals for the cast of "The Silver Cord," announced at the November 17 meeting of Cap and Dagger, are now in full swing under the directorship of Bill Billupp.

Theta Alpha Phi Seeks New Plays

Theta Alpha Phi, the national dramatic honorary, is searching for plays that might be recommended to Cap & Dagger as possible productions for next year.

Anyone wishing to recommend plays for Theta Alpha Phi to review and discuss, can submit the title and author to Dick French, Box 55, by Saturday, December 10. If the play is found unsuitable by Theta Alpha Phi, then qualified reasons will be given to the individual who suggested it.

The following plays are presently being reviewed: Shakespeare's "Othello," "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder, O'Neill's "The Hairy Ape" and "Ah Wilderness," Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra," "The Imaginary Invalid" by Moliere, "Mr. and Mrs. North" by Owen Davis, "Hotel Universe" by Philip Barry, Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30" and "Blithe Spirit," "Antigone," "The Play's the Thing," and "Six Characters in Search of an Author."

WVBU Names Leagus As Assistant Music Director

Bernice Leagus was appointed assistant music director of WVBU at a meeting of the station's board of directors December 1. Bernice is a junior transfer from Wilkes College. She will be in charge of cataloging all of WVBU's records to facilitate the handling of request numbers.

French Club Elects New Officers, Plans Production Of One-Act Play

Officers elected at Thursday's meeting of the French Club are: president, Anne Lou Miers; secretary, Becky Rogers; treasurer, Lee Pears. The club is planning to produce a French one-act play sometime early next year.

Engineering Council Approved; Will Unify Four Departments

The Bucknell University Engineering Council, an organization devoted to the unification and betterment of the four engineering departments, was given final approval by the Administration early this week, according to Malcolm E. Musser, dean of men.

The Engineering Council will strive for closer cooperation among the engineering departments, and will serve as an opinion forum to deal with problems confronting the engineering students. It will organize open houses and other social functions as they are desired.

Will Publish Magazine
A magazine, to be distributed to students and alumni, will be published several times each year, pending final approval of the Board of Publications.

The EC is composed of two students from each of the four engineering societies, with officers elected from this group. They are: Joseph Sanghwin, director; Homer Webb, secretary; Charles Peterson, editor; and Joseph McQuillen, business manager. Other members are: Spencer Martin, George Parker, Lucy Barnes and Eugene Shaver. Dr. Albert Cooper will serve as faculty adviser.

Plans are already underway for the first magazine, to be published early next semester. The EC also hopes to make future open houses in the Engineering Building more successful than they have been in the past.

Four Soloists Featured
Soloists who will take part in "The Messiah" will be Mrs. Dorothy Heasch, soprano, and Roderick Williams, tenor, both of Lewisburg; Miss Patricia Wagner, contralto, of Watertown; and Caldwell Mathias, bass, of Milton.

William D. McKee, Jr. and Miss Daria Tully will be the pianists, and W. Russell Miller will conduct the Symphony Orchestra. All three are teachers in the University's department of music. Ned Island, Bucknell senior, will be the concertmaster.

First Performance in 1742
Since it was first performed in 1742 for a charitable institution in Dublin, "The Messiah" has received countless hearings and has few rivals in the field of religious music either in popularity or in spiritual and musical qualities.

Presentation of Handel's great masterpiece by the music department during the Christmas season has become a tradition and rehearsal began this fall shortly after the opening of the college term.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB FILM
The next meeting of the Sociology Club will be held on Tuesday, December 13, at 4:00 in the Vaughn Literature Auditorium.

A 16-minute documentary film, "The Nova Through the Ages," will be shown at this time, with a running commentary by Mrs. Nimkoff. After the film, a business meeting will be held and everyone is invited.

The Sociology Club is planning to have a Faculty tea next semester to give the Sociology students an opportunity to meet and talk with their professors. They are also planning to have a party for the club at the end of the year.

Coffee and donuts will be served at 8:15 after which the entire group will meet for worship.

Two group discussions will be held. Dr. Westington's group is beginning a new topic, "The Nature of Man." The other group led by Ellie Leiper is studying the history of Christianity.

Triple-Header Scheduled Saturday

You Think You Got Troubles?

by Clyde McAvoy

"There is no substitute for winning." General McArthur might have said that first, but Al Humphreys said it just yesterday from his desk in the University Athletic Department.

"At the present time, we have a fine staff of young coaches, backed by an enthusiastic group of athletes. But (there's always the almighty "but") our present system of budgeting has not kept up with the ever-changing national financial picture."

What Al is obviously getting at here is that there is a serious shortage of that folding stuff. You know, not as pretty as grass but just as green. It's the same old story: cost of equipment and travel goes up and income from gate receipts goes down, due mainly to Uncle Sam's cut.

Of course, budgeting isn't the only problem of an athletic director. Scheduling is running a close second. As everybody knows, Bucknell is a member of the Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and the Middle Atlantic Conference which are policy forming organizations only. Therefore it is up to the university itself to select and schedule natural rivals in all sports and to make these contracts fit into the budget requirements. See, there's that word "budget" again.

According to Al, things could be worse here on the hill, though. We are blessed with one of those rare combinations: a sympathetic administration and an understanding Board of Trustees. And if we can continue our winning ways during the winter and spring sports seasons, the picture will be even brighter. Right now it's basketball and not the budget that's on Al's mind as he checks last minute preparations for the opening of the court season. So when we're out there in Davis Gym Saturday night, fans, let's look a little further than the scoreboard, huh?

There's nothing more hilarious at Tustin than to observe a group of gamblers attempting to play volleyball or basketball after a heavy week end.

The ball comes over the net. Does Susie volley it? Of course not — she holds on to it. Then, suddenly remembering what game is being played, the ball is finally painstakingly tossed into the air. Thereby a foul is called, much to the dissatisfaction of her teammates.

It could be worse and it is on the basketball court. A really fast game is being played when Susie, who supposes she is playing guard, when she isn't, tosses the ball to the opponent's forward and a point is scored (but not for her team).

Exasperating you say? Well, have you ever tried to act as John Atlas when you feel more like a bowling pin? No, YOU'VE BEEN SPARED.

But — the girls at B.U. who are overburdened with work and other trivialities, find Monday morning gym classes too much to bear.

HERD DRIBBLERS AWAIT TEST WITH DICKINSON; OVERHOLT MAN TO STOP

Fresh from a 50-48 edge over Juniata last night, Jack Guy's varsity cagers are looking forward to plenty of opposition from Dickinson College basketballers. In the prelude battle, the Fresh dribblers, coached by Bill Lane, meet their first test of the season.

Big Squad

The Red Devils opened fire last night at home against Wagner College with a squad averaging 6' 1" and listing five lettermen. Of the starting quintet, three are experienced ball-handlers; one is an "improved" ball-handler; and the last is a guy who led the Fresh cagers in scoring last year.

Dickinson coach Charles Kennedy faces the season with finding a capable replacement for Vince Schafmeister, 6' 4" center who scored 27 points against the Herd last year. But with men like Weston Overholt to count on, the problem isn't as difficult as it seems.

Overholt Dead Shot

Captain Overholt scored 28 points last season, which helped the varsity post one of their best records in recent years. A 6' 1" guard, "Old Overholt" broke the Dickinson Gym record last year by scoring 39 points in one night.

BISON MATMEN READY TO BRUISE HAVERFORD; SEVEN-GAME CARD SET

by Belter Robinson

With the opening match here with Haverford just two days away, the Bison wrestlers are winding up their practice sessions. The squad has been hard at work for the past three or four weeks, and now are putting on the finishing touches. The match time for Saturday's meet is set for 9 o'clock.

Coach Herb Maack has been holding elimination bouts among the squad the last few days. The squad includes: 121 pound class, Marshall Gouding and Jack Miller; 128 pound class, Ed Pustaj, 136 pound class, Verdel Stahly, and 141 pound class, George Stanton, Bill Butler, Ed Luce and George MacPherson; 175 pound class, Jack Henderson, Nelson Woolcock and Charles Mercer; and Heavyweight, Ed Kiehl and Richie Johnson.

This year's schedule shows the same opponents except Franklin & Marshall. They are replaced by Haverford. The Maackmen trounced Delaware, Lafayette, Muhlenberg and Western Maryland last season, and lost only to F. & M. and Gettysburg.

Saturday's match will be the only meet before the Christmas holidays. They will not resume activity until January 7 when they travel to Delaware.

Basketball Programs To Be Sold At Home Games

The Varsity "B" Club announced today that they will sell programs at all the home basketball games, this year as part of the current campaign to raise funds for the purchase of varsity letters and sweaters. Ski Club Forming Plans For Winter Trip To Poconos

by Bob Fryer

Ski Club proxy Ned Johnson announced today that plans are being made for a trip between semesters to a skiing site yet to be named.

Johnson revealed that the preference of the club is to go to the Poconos, where a number of the members are familiar with the Big Boulder Ski Area.

According to Jack Peoples, ex-president, the Muncy ski trail has been improved considerably for the coming season. Several club members traveled to Muncy recently to help get the trail into good skiing condition. Peoples stated that improvements include a much longer trail than last year.

Pending on weather conditions, skiing and toboggan parties are other activities "contemplated" by the club. Already one of the largest ski organizations on campus.

Last year the club had about 50 members. All persons interested in skiing or interested in learning to ski are cordially invited to join. Meetings will be called later by President Johnson.

Other officers of the organization are vice president Dick Beitel, secretary Barbara Koon, treasurer Carolyn Knie and publicity director Al Zecher.

Bison Dribblers Hold Early Lead In Thriller Last Night

by Jack Williams

The curtain rose on the opening performance of the 1949-50 Herd basketballers last night in little Huntingdon High School gymnasium. First nighters, there to witness the first home appearance of Juniata College's quintet, left the place with the bitter taste of a 48-50 defeat, as their cagers were unable to overcome a lead taken by the Bisons five minutes after the show began.

Juniata drew first blood in all periods, but the Herd never relinquished their initial edge. Two sophomore forwards, Joe Gallagher and Don Strasser, counted for over half of the Guy's points as the quint broke fast and racked up the majority of the marks on accurate "in-shooting."

Baptism Of Fire

Of the five minutes used by the Herd to get into the game, the first three minutes were spent in a variety of positions. Acting captain and only senior on the squad, John Mosney, was the first to score for the Herd.

For the Rivermen it was the same story of two men doing most of the scoring. Forward Orlando Lashavitz, plunked in two field goals and Ray Carroli made good foul shots.

Then the Bisons bounced back. With Strasser controlling the boards and Gallagher shooting with the accuracy that made him high scorer of last year's frosh team, they emerged from the first quarter with a 16-9 edge.

With two minutes remaining the Guy's still held on to the lead, but the edge was slowly wearing off. The third cano, was never any more accurate than his teammate Welsh, for Stan got hot in the end and gave the Herd its only scare of the game.

By Jack Williams

"Next year we'll be a little stronger, but 1949 will be a banner year." Those were the words of head football coach Harry L. Lawrence in an interview after spring training in 1948.

And it was a "banner year." The Herd posted the seventh best record of 36 major eastern collegiate teams. They ranked third in rushing defense, fourth in total defense, fifth in rushing offense, and fifth in total offense.

As for individual stars, Smokey Ostendarp placed third in the east in rushing (total, 828 yards), made the AP All-Penn. second team. Ed Eise was given honorable mention on the AP Penna. squad. Arnie Pech-nis, Bill Stabo, and Tom Dean were named on Delaware's all-opponent team.

Bucknell was named as the best team in the Middle Atlantic Conference, and the all-opponent team had been named.

On the books it was the best season since 1914—when the Bisons won seven, dropped two, and tied one. A 30-year-old scoring record was broken, and the team rates fourth in all-time Bucknell scoring.

A good season couldn't have come at a better time. As everyone knows, you have to win a few games to generate a little spirit in the fans. Coach Lawrence and his men won more than a few games this year, as the "spirit problem" seemed to take care of itself. Last year at this time, well, let's not drag any old skeletons out of the closet.

Yes, the picture looks bright for 1950. With only seven lettermen last by graduation, the Herd will have a chance to show for those two "one-point losses" and meet the newcomers on the 36 card, Colgate and Lehigh, without that well-known defeatist attitude.

In the last few weeks all sorts of comments on the two-platoon system have been plastered throughout the nation's sport pages. We made a study of the various viewpoints and got quite a chuckle out of the whole thing.

Opposition to the "system that ruins our game" seems to come from one of three categories: coaches who can't dig up enough material to feed both an offensive and a defensive team, sports writers who are too lazy, too nearsighted, or too stupid to follow the substitution changes, and last, the old die-hards who played ball in the days when men were men and only a sissy couldn't play 60 minutes.

When the smoke of the typewriter battle clears, it's our opinion that the substitution rules will remain in effect and that the two-platoon ball will still be with us. One thing is certain: the system helped Bucknell.

More of the Bisons had a chance to earn a letter, more of them got actual ball experience, and they had a chance to rest between changes to play their next moves. It's true that many of the men stayed on one platoon all year, but we don't think that their chances of entering pro-ball were hurt, for many college teams used the system this year and almost all of the pro teams are now two-platoons.

The only Herd opponents who didn't use two platoons used a "patrol" system of substitution. What we mean to say is: why not take advantage of a modern trend designed to give more men a chance to play and more coaches a chance to win football games?

Ross Sachs, Gettysburg quarterback, was announced as the first recipient of the Heimer scholarship award for the school year 1948-49. The award is made to the outstanding member of the junior class who maintains his attendance at Gettysburg as a member of the senior class. The award carries with it a $250 scholarship. Too bad we don't have any like Admirals interested in sports.

Obviously, winter has descended upon Bucknell once more—obviously! Here's the news which, experience has shown, will prevail through the coming months of cold and cold. Students will slide, slip, and sled on the back hills, possibly causing a few casualties among defenseless members of the faculty on the ascent. Some Model A will, of course, have engine trouble at the Sixth and Walker Streets intersection, causing much confusion in traffic, and extensive absences in eight o'clock.

Some freshmen will declare publicly, to the amusement of retrospective uprightness, that he will donate a shirt for the back hill when he graduates. Certainly, some professor (from the E. E. Department) will miss a day's class, and his cat's untimely death will be a day's absence in eight o'clock.

Incidentally, what about this girl who was drafted into a W. V. B. U. quiz program? She answered her questions correctly, and as a result, is entitled to anything on Chet's menu. To her knowledge, no restrictions accompanied the offer, so she's considering taking out enough food to satisfy her entire dormitory and sorority.

And concerning W. V. B. U., although Bucknell wouldn't be Bucknell without the still small voice of calm, difficulties sometimes arise on its account. For instance, last Saturday afternoon, the station proved itself the base of all football enthusiasts. In the last, clock-punched seconds of the S. M. U. game, a group of fellows were hugging the radio, awaiting the (coup de grace) in a highly unpredictable contest when W. V. B. U. cut in with "In Confession." The frustrated fans are still casting black impressions at Doris Day and trying to learn the final score on the game.

Well, W. V. B. U. should begin broadcasting their annual Santa Claus programs soon unless, from experience, they've decided that discretion is the better part of magnanimity. Let's hope that this year they don't have to suffer the disgrace of a situation akin to last year's, concerning Santa Claus, a little girl, and a railroad train. But they were sorry they asked that kid what she wanted for Christmas!

What's this? Men's cozier? Now, wait a minute! We're told of a night up in the men's dormitories when a counselor's charges migrated, en masse, in his cell, blankets in hand, to spend the night there. Afraid of the dark or was it too cold in your own rooms, boys. What way of life is this?

MEMO TO 226 W. C.

By Irvine M. Crawford
A weakness of us common men is oft to say, "I know him when." While we pursue our common run, we're prone to say, "I could have him!"

And always we are looking high. When we exclaim, "Oh, why not I?" But now and then we look below. And greatest consolation know.

For these immersed in studies deep. The living dead, their vigil keep. Of those beneath scholastic and we common ones can say, "Thank God!"

The lamp that's bright all over—an inside story...

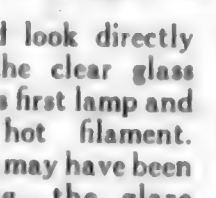

You could look directly through the clear glass of Edison's first lamp and see the hot filament.

While this may have been interesting, the glare made it unpleasant. Many attempts were made to diffuse the light and cut the glare by coating the bulb with translucent materials.

A General Electric lamp researcher named Marvin Pipkin was the first to offer a practical inside frosted lamp, with little light loss. His method, perfected in 1925, was a milestone in lamp research.

The G-E inside frosted incandescent lamp is still today the one most commonly used.

But during years of work on many varied lighting projects, Pipkin kept up the search for a still better coating. He has found it—a new silica finish that diffuses the light almost perfectly and gives softer, more beautiful illumination. But—use the G-E Deluxe White Light bulb now on the market.

This new success of Marvin Pipkin has come only after thousands of experiments and years of investigation. It illustrates again how General Electric emphasizes research and creative thinking, encourages fertile minds to follow their own imaginative bent, and so stays in the forefront of scientific and engineering development.

Please take note of the better volume with which WVBU is being received by the students.

Congrats to the boys who engineered the broadcast of the music of Ray McKinley. From what is heard, it really made some of the fellows sorry that they hadn't gone to the big dance. Which brings up a point about WVBU being utilized as a central factor for publicity campaigns.

Just think of plays being plugged, campus candidates for officers being reviewed, and issues that require vote-pulling pop calls. It's the student's radio station and they should really use it more. If you want to discuss publicity on the station, just contact J. Hastings.

It has come to your reporter that many many times during the Bitum End Show, the announcers purposely turn down the phone so that they may play tunes of their own liking. This is a point that should be cleared up. When the studio is positively swamped with requests then the phone is taken off the hook, but only until the requests have been straightened out.

Christmas season is evidenced in more ways than one. Primary over at WVBU plans are being formed by Ruth Block for the gala presentation of the Christmas Carol which has been adopted for radio by Bob Blake. The play house could use some fresh talent, so how about a little acting enthusiasm—huh?

The question of the week—who is the mystery professor that all the songs are dedicated to on the show? "Light Up and Listen" heard Thursday at 7:30. Tune in the show every day, and see if you can guess his identity by the hints that will be given by Schilla, Hank and Hanna.

Bernie Leagus is the new Anti music director at the station. Bernie is a junior transfer from Wilkes College, where she was a member of the theatrical group "One and Certain" and of the Wilkes Radio Playhouse. Her chief job over at the station is cataloguing some eight hundred records, which she hopes to finish before she graduates. Her only request is if people must break records—please, please don't break the catalogued ones. Note—Tom Motheral.

Bucknell Gals Make Life Miserable For Soda Jerk

Have you ever wondered what it is like on the other side of the counter in a place like the "Bison"? The life of a soda jerk may not be all that it cracked up to be, but on the other hand there's a lot of fun in setting up sundae, so let's hop across the counter at the "Bison" and get a glimpse of the clientele.

Early in the morning, about 10:30, the "Bison" opens its doors. In just one short hour things begin to happen, and the customers flock in by the dozens. Finding yourself confronted by a sea of faces, you begin to wonder if Bucknell is a school of 2,000 or 22,000.

After hustling from one place to another making up orders like crazy, many times you completely forget what was ordered in the first place. Some customers will expect you to be a mind-reader and will rumble their selections in an undecipherable monotone. In such instances, the solution lies in a comprehension of Lip Reading 101. Then there's the crew that changes its mind so often that it's useless to make up an order until the final consultation is over.

Women Make Trouble
However, the men are much easier to wait on than are the girls. It seems that women are bound and determined to get a hard bargain, and if you should see a group of them head toward the counter, then their brother, for it only means trouble. Most of the time it will only be black coffee or a cup of tea with. However, they insist on holding a half hour sorority meeting with the question being, "Oh, what shall I have?" or "Say, what are you getting?" If the unusual should occur and they order something other than coffee or tea, you may be certain that it will be a daisy.

The fun is just beginning. Each gal will most likely hand you a ten dollar bill together with complete instructions as to what kind of change she wants. This sort of thing may make you feel like turning in your uniform, but remember, the customer is always right, so keep smiling.

If Can Be Fun
You find out before long you are a certain sick in some of the chores, such as topping a sundae with whipped cream. You can't tell why; (Continued on page 8.)

Miss Janet Wallin To Present Recital At Baptist Church

Miss Janet M. Wallin, instructor in music, will present a piano recital in the First Baptist Church in Lewisburg, Dec. 15, at 8:00 p.m.

The following students have made applications with the country in which they requested to study. They are: D. Brown Jr., United Kingdom or New Zealand; Sidney Cohen, Robert P. Grah, Joseph Kraus and Jean Marie White, United Kingdom; and John Mooney, France.

The Fulbright Act, biggest and most generous program of its type, provides transportation, books tuition and maintenance abroad for one academic year.

Applications for next year are closed but anyone in applying in the future can obtain more information from Forrest Brown, CA office.

Boosters Plan 'Sports Ball'

Bud Norton, head of the cheerleaders, announced that his group will present a dance in cooperation with the "B" Club. The "Sports Ball" will be held on February 17, and an orchestra, the name of which will be announced later, will provide the music.

Both the freshmen and varsity cheerleaders will cheer at the freshman and varsity basketball games this winter.

Look for "Bucky," the Bison at all Bucknell basketball games this season.

Seven Students Apply For Fulbright Grants

Seven Bucknellians have completed applications for a Fulbright Scholarship and will be reviewed by a faculty committee today before the applications are forwarded to the national office.

The following students have made applications with the country in which they requested to study. They are: D. Brown Jr., United Kingdom or New Zealand; Sidney Cohen, Robert P. Grah, Joseph Kraus and Jean Marie White, United Kingdom; and John Mooney, France.

Letter...

Some probably disagreed with the choice of the band and refused to give it a try. Probably the most valid reason for the failure of the dance was that the majority of Bucknellians do not enjoy large dances to the extent of paying $5.00.

From the figures given above, one should be able to see that only those expenses involved in decorations and publicity could have been possibly lessened. In other words, it would be practically necessary to spend at least $2000 on a class dance—our case was $1961.00, total expenses minus decorations and publicity. You can see where the money is spent. Our classes agreed that it was necessary to have a big name band. McKinley was contracted for $200 less than the bands that have played at B. U. in recent years.

We had our expenses down to a minimum. Notice also that we paid to certain departments of the University a considerable amount for labor and rentals. Is the University cooperating with the classes when those expenses are made necessary? What is the solution to this problem?

Men's Gov't...

our male students in such matters as petitioning for improvement of the University. Also at such times as Homecoming, organization of the male students would make dormitory decorations possible.

In conclusion, Jack expressed the hope that this spring plans for men's student government will be accepted and said, "The men would have a great deal more influence in forming University policies if they were organized."

lem? If we want to dance to big name bands, we must charge at least $5.00 per ticket. If we have smaller bands would the school support the dance? Or is the problem solved by forgetting the Sophomore and Junior dances and scheduling just one all school dance of the year—the Senior Ball? The Senior Ball always seems to draw a large crowd through tradition and personal interest.

Whatever the answer may be, it is certain that something should be done. It does not seem reasonable to lose such large sums of money on class dances.

C&D Drama 'Silver Cord' To Be Presented January 6 & 7

Psychological Drama Directed By Bill Billipp Stars Five In Major Roles; Tickets Now On Sale

"Silver Cord", Cap & Dagger's second production of this year, will be presented in the Lewisburg High School Auditorium on January 6 and 7. Tickets are now on sale at Keeler's.

This drama, starring Dottie James, John Harvey, Dick Osborne, Lee Craig, and Shelley Caine, is a departure from the type of play usually presented by C&D.

Director Bill Billipp, the cast, and the production committee have been working steadily and putting in extra time to make up for the interruption of Christmas vacation.

Since there will be only three days remaining before the play is given, C&D urge everyone to get their tickets now.

"The Silver Cord" is the story of a woman who lives only for her two sons. Their struggle to escape from that maternal domination, complicated by the efforts of the women who love them, constitute an intriguing and unique drama.

Mixed Chorus To Present Messiah Sunday Evening

For the traditional Christmas presentation of Handel's "Messiah" in Davis Gymnasium Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, Dr. Harold G. Cook has selected a mixed chorus of 145 voices, with four guest soloists taking part in the performance of the oratorio, for which the 46-piece Bucknell Symphony Orchestra will provide the accompaniment.

Mrs. Dorothy Hess-Schneure, soprano; and Roderick Williams, tenor, both of Lewisburg; Miss Patricia Wagner, contralto, of Watsonstown; and Caldwell Mathias, bass, of Milton, will be the soloists for Sunday evening's presentation.

William D. McRae, Jr., and Miss Darina Tuhy will be the pianists, and W. Russell Miller will conduct the Symphony Orchestra. All three are teachers in the University's department of music. Ned Triand, Bucknell senior, will be the concertmaster.

National Physics Honorary Receives 5 New Members

On Monday, December 12, five new members were received into Sigma Pi Sigma, national physics honor society. They are:

George K. Tracy, Gerald L. Wagner, Richard E. Baker, Frederick E. Bechtel, James E. Davenport.

The new members will be received at an open dinner meeting at Cowan. Among the guests will be Franklin S. Frederick who will be presented with an award given by Sigma Pi Sigma to that student who has earned the highest grades in introductory physics.

The treasurer, George M. Cleary, welcomed the new members and the response was made by Frederick Bechtel.

Dr. Allan Halline Named To Committee Of Modern Language Association

The department of English was specially honored this week when Dr. Allan G. Halline, professor of American literature, was named to an important committee of the Modern Language Association.

Dr. Halline will serve on the Committee on Trends in Research for the American Literature group of the M. L. A. Dr. James D. Hart of the University of California is chairman of the committee, which is made up of teachers from Harvard, the University of Iowa, Ohio State and Bucknell.

INTRAMURAL FINALISTS TO DEBATE TOMORROW

Delta Sigma and Theta Chi fraternities will fight with words tomorrow afternoon in the Vaughn Literature Building at 4:30 to determine the winner of the 1949 Intramural Debates. It was announced today.

The topic of discussion in the finals is: Resolved: That Communists should be barred from teaching in American colleges.

In the semi-final debates last Tuesday afternoon, Theta Chi won over the Kappa Sigma team, and Delta Sigma defeated Kappa Delta sorority. The elimination contests last Thursday afternoon resulted in wins for Kappa Delta over Phi Lambda Theta, Kappa Sigma over Alpha Phi, Delta Sigma over Lambda Chi and Theta Chi over Lambda Chi.

Lewisburg Churches Begin Clothing Drive For Needy Foreign Children

George Yoder, 48 S. 6th Street, has been appointed chairman of the clothing drive for the underprivileged of foreign countries. It was announced today by the Lewisburg Federation of Churches.

All serviceable clothing that can be spared should be taken to Yoder's Barber Shop at 529 Market Street.

WSSF Sets $4,000 Goal In 1950 Drive; Kreider, Waibel Will Direct Campaign

HOMELESS Finnish students live on a stair landing at their university. You help students like these when you contribute to WSSF.

Funds Will Be Allotted To Student Needs, International Scholarships

Four thousand Bucknell dollars has been set as the goal of the 1950 WSSF drive by co-chairmen Jane Kreider and Bill Waibel, according to Ed Bick, publicity chairman.

The funds will be divided as follows: four international scholarships at Bucknell, $1000; scholarships to Bucknell students at Ramson University, $300; and general student needs over the world, $2500.

The annual WSSF drive is a response of Bucknellians who care about the physical, moral, and spiritual condition of their fellow students around the world.

Backed By All Religions

The fund, which is backed by all religious groups and the NSA, also has the approval of UNESCO and the Department of State.

Opening the drive on January 4 will be Lyman Hoover, who has spent 19 years in China supervising student relief. He will speak at the kickoff meeting to be held at Student Church.

Soliciting Starts Jan. 9

Soliciting will begin on Monday morning, January 9, and will continue through Saturday. Solicitors will be assigned to fraternity houses, women's dorms, men's dorms, the commuters, and the faculty.

"We appeal to all students who are concerned with the needs of the fellow students overseas to support us in this drive," co-chairman Jane Kreider declared. The $2500 apportionment will be spent to purchase books, paper, mimeograph machines, and medical supplies for the almost 2000 of students in China and India who have active cases of tuberculosis.

Stunt Night Planned

Stunt night on Friday, January 13, will consist of a student-faculty basketball game and a parody on college life with the faculty playing the parts of students. Speakers from English 101 and 102 classes will visit fraternity houses to talk on WSSF and its importance to foreign students.

Another Black Eye!

Out in Iowa this week another campus murder sent the headlines screaming across the pages of a well known Pittsburgh newspaper. To read the article made us think of the Parisian version of a Latin Quarter college life as they described secret detestations by candlelight, a cinderella dance and a mysterious tete a tete which led to the murder of "Gee Gee" who had jilted her lover that had once "hung" his fraternity pin on her. The commercial newspapers must have their readership, not to "call the kettle black," so they usually paint the campus murder as the international crime of all crimes. Because the two students involved were Psychology majors, the article suggested that they were playing "black out," partially explained in the same article as holding your breath until knocking yourself out literally. They also suggested the Psych students might have possessed hypnotic powers which they had used upon themselves. Both of these suggestions could and probably did make thousands of readers think as one person said, "Is that what they teach those kids in college?"

Well, they teach it rather silly of anyone to even take that sort of stuff seriously but there are people that think that way. Unfortunately such a view makes good (?) reading to "John Q." and the papers do not hesitate to capitalize on the campus angle. So happened that this particular incident took place in a private college boarding house off campus. Had we not read closely, it might have suggested other things. It is also unfortunate that the school involved, the social groups these people belonged to, and generally speaking, every college student has to be slandered through suggestive wording or misunderstanding of such news but it does happen. Iowa is a long way from here and probably no one on campus had any personal connection with the incident, but because it was handled by some newspapers as we have said here, we could do our part in defending the other 99% of college students against opinion forming articles that suggest we are a stereotype of adventure seekers.

Merry Christmas!

With the commercial air tabbed to almost everything associated with Christmas, it is really hard sometimes to attach anything more than "eight more shopping days" to your Christmas thinking. When this WSSP drive, the Christmas Seals and other worthwhile gift-giving organizations ask you for a contribution, thank your lucky stars that you are able to help someone else and give what you can to these people. What you give will not mean much to you but it will to those receiving the gift. Try it, you will enjoy your own Christmas more.

Comment Of The Week!

Bucknell has a reputation of being a better than average small school with a student body that can collectively be called "good sports." To spoil that reputation by booing the referee's decision, by harassing the players when not necessary or just a plain unportantlike attitude as was shown by some Saturday night does not help you or the school. We know schools that have that reputation and less is thought of them. We know too, that we are NOT thought of in that light now to bring it on ourselves only makes it harder for those trying to win the game for us.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

By Becky Rogers

Maybe we just have a pernickety imagination, but the following classified advertisement strikes us as being a trifle suspicious. It begins:

LOST!!! Two blankets.
Now just how does one go about losing blankets, of all things?

COED RETREAT ANNOUNCED reads a headline in the Varsity News. Jeppers, we didn't know that the battle of the sexes had actually come to open warfare.

Our nomination for the most astounding headline of the year is one in The Senator which reads: HISTORY IS MADE.

Turn about's fair play, at least at Franklin and Marshall, where the Student Weekly tells us, the DEAN WILL LECTURE TO TEACHERS.

Should be quite a change for the profs to do the watch-winding snipping, yawning, and squirming that they usually find so annoying in students. This may be the way to better student-faculty relations, come to think of it. Nothing like understanding to cement a relationship.

Placement Bureau News

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION INC. is in need of electro-mechanical designers to work in new aircraft control group. The work will be concerned with small electro-mechanical systems, such as servo-motors, position follow-up systems, utilizing bridge circuits and associated mechanisms. Desirable experience might include aircraft auto pilot or comparable electro-mechanical design experience and training. For further information contact the Placement Office.

JACKSON & MORELAND ENGINEERS of Boston, Mass., have vacancies existing in their structural department for high grade structural designers and senior structural draftsmen on atomic energy projects. A background in English, mathematics, mechanics, hydraulics and structural design is desired. Practical experience is desired but not necessary. For further information contact the Placement Office.

PERSONS GRADUATING IN FEBRUARY are reminded to complete their application folders with photograph and biography prior to leaving for Christmas vacation.

THE NEW ZEALAND ELECTION

Great concern now exists within all the Labor parties throughout the world as a result of the recent Labor Government defeat in a general election in New Zealand. Only a few years ago it was felt that there existed definite trend toward a socialistic form of government in nearly every country of the British Empire. This defeat of the Labor Party in New Zealand has a great deal of bearing on future international relations, since the Labor Government in Great Britain must attempt to gain a vote of confidence from the British people and return them to power next year. But the immediate question is why did the people of New Zealand go against the Labor Party after that party had controlled the country for a period of fourteen years? Is this only a regional trend, or is it likely to extend over the whole of the British Empire?

It would be well to take a look at the political platforms of the Labor Party and the victorious National Party and see if we can detect the reasons for the change in government. The incoming Prime Minister, Sir G. Holland, based his attack on the Labor Government on the issue of wartime controls carried over into peacetime. He pledged the elimination of much of the present taxation. He also attacked the practice of the present taxation. He also attacked the practice of rationing at eight ounces a week while surplus butter was being exported. He cited the losses accrued as a result of state-owned railroads, coal mines, airways, marketing departments, and rental-housing schemes.

This was not a defeat for the Welfare State in New Zealand. That country was the first in the British Empire to introduce national old-age pensions. In 1908, Mr. Holland promised to continue security benefits, and also not to de-nationalize industry. He did, however, express the need of private enterprise to compete with the government.

It seems that the major reason for the defeat of the Labor Government in New Zealand was that the Labor Party, after fourteen years in power, had reached a state of stagnancy. The people were beginning to feel that a change in administration was absolutely necessary. So it may be that it was not so much a victory for the National Party as it was a defeat for the Labor Party.

But we must consider the New Zealand election as a definite defeat for the Labor Party. Now, in this defeat to continue throughout the British Empire, with the ultimate being Great Britain herself, or is it to be only a local quack in the existing labor parties around the world? It is beginning to appear that this defeat of the Labor Party in New Zealand is more than local. In a general election held on Saturday throughout Australia their Labor Party also suffered a resounding defeat. The Australian Labor Government had been in power for the past six years. The issue was about on an equal as in New Zealand; free enterprise versus government control and ownership of industry.

The big question now is whether this trend will continue on into Great Britain next year when a general election must be held. Sources close to the leaders of the Labor Party in England indicate that great concern is evident as to its future. Of course, the Conservative Party is making the most of these recent defeats. Lord Woolton, chairman of the Conservative Party in England, stated after the announcement had been made as to outcome of the election in Australia that "In both Australia and New Zealand, the young countries of the world, they have tried socialism and found it out. They now know from experience that it is not doing contentment and a higher standard of living."

Often it is possible to feel the political sentiment of a country by examining the results of the by-elections held between general elections. In the past, recent of these by-elections in Great Britain the Labor Party candidate was victorious, but by not nearly as large a majority as in 1945, when the Labor Party took over control of the British Government. The Labor Party has not lost one seat since it gained in 1945 in the House of Commons, but in each of these by-elections the majority of votes for the Labor Party has been smaller. It could well be that next year Great Britain will change government leadership by bringing into power the Conservative Party... led by former Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

MEMBER OF INTERCOLLEGIATE PRESS

Sophomore Appointed To 'Mademoiselle' College Board

Marianne Thurnall, sophomore, has been appointed to represent Bucknell on MADMOISELLE magazine's College Board. She is one of 550 appointed nationally all over the country. Almost four thousand students compete nationally this year for positions on the Board MADMOISELLE reveals.

She will report campus news, fads and fashions, in addition to completing three magazine assignments during the college year. The assignments will include a critique of the 1949 August College issue, a personal autobiography and a project for one of Mademoiselle's feature departments.

Eligible To Compete
In addition, she will be competing for one of twenty Guest Editorships to be awarded by the magazine next June.

The Guest Editors, who are chosen from the College Board only, on the basis of the year's three assignments will be brought to New York City for four weeks in June to help write and edit Mademoiselle's 1950 August College issue. They will be paid round-trip transportation plus a regular salary for their work.

Activities, Tests
While in New York City, each Guest Editor will take part in a full calendar of activities designed to give her a head start in her career. She will take a battery of vocational tests to help her crystallize her interests and job goals.

She will also interview a celebrity in her chosen field to get advice on the education and training needed and on procedures for getting a job, and she will take field trips to newspaper offices, fashion workrooms, radio stations, stores, advertising agencies and printing plants.

Editor Explains Yearbook Plan Of 'Curriculum In Theory And Practice'

On December 14th in Hunt Hall Rec Room Editor Joe Rubenstein explained the layout of this year's L'Allegria to the entire staff. Pictures will constitute a major part of the book Rubenstein stated.

A "dummy" of the L'Allegria was presented at the meeting in order that the staff members might get an over-all picture of the book. The bulk of the yearbook is to be divided into the twelve major academic divisions of Bucknell, such as Art, English, and Foreign Languages. The purpose of this system is to show Bucknell's curriculum in both theory and practice. Clubs and honoraries will be placed under their respective departments. Such activities as debating, WYBU, and Cap and Dagger, being related most closely to English, will be placed under that section.

There will be several feature articles containing many pictures. There will be pictures of those "working in college" and also an article on life in the dorms and houses.

Editor Rubenstein stressed the importance of accuracy, co-operation, and the prompt meeting of deadlines. He said to produce an excellent yearbook each member must be willing to work and must wish to do the work, not for individual credit, but for the good of the entire group and the L'Allegria.

AAAS Group Invites Dr. Ross To Read Paper About Gorillas

Dr. Sherman Ross, associate professor of psychology at Bucknell, has been invited to read a paper at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in New York City, December 27.

The paper, which will be given before the Psychology Section of the Association, will describe the results of a study made last summer at the Roscoe B. Jackson Memorial Laboratory at Bar Harbor, Maine, where Dr. Ross was a guest investigator.

Another study made by Dr. Ross in 1948, in cooperation with three other psychologists who served with him as Behavior Research Fellows of the New York Zoological Society, is reported in the current issue of Zoologica.

The article of which Dr. Ross is co-author describes the behavior of two pre-adolescent lowland gorillas in the Bronx Zoo. One, an eight-year-old female, and Makoko, a ten-year-old male, were observed in their regular living cages when alone and when together. Significant behavioral items were recorded and studied.

Valuable Material
The descriptive material obtained should serve as a base line from which to note variation arising from the maturation of these two excellent specimens in the years to come.

In addition to this work on the gorilla, Dr. Ross has had extensive experience in the area of the experimental study of human behavior, and has used dogs, goats, monkeys, rats, mice, hamsters, humming birds, elephants, gibbons and galagos in other studies. He is a Fellow in Experimental Psychology of the American Psychological Association.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD WITHHOLDS APPROVAL ON ENGINEER JOURNAL

The Board of Publications and Radio, meeting at WVBU, adjourned at its December meeting Friday that an engineering journal, published by the newly-formed Engineering Council, would be desirable.

But final approval was withheld until additional information concerning methods of financing the publication and selection of staff members was made available to the Board.

Sally Angle, business manager of the L'Allegria, disclosed that contracts for printing in the 1950 yearbook were awarded to the Grit Publishing Company of Williamsport. The contract calls for the material to be in the printer's hands by January 15 and for the books to be delivered by May 24.

The meeting was held at WVBU as that members might become better acquainted with the equipment and operation of the station. Pat Winter, director, guided the group around the studio.

Students will have a minimum of five days vacation between semesters. Final exams end February 2, and registration does not begin until February 8.

Save some of that Christmas money and give it to foreign students through WSSP.

The ECAC is a branch of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The purpose of this group is to organize eastern policy in all college sports endeavor in order to present them to the NCAA in its annual winter meeting.

As Mr. Humphreys said, "Bucknell is not only a member of the eastern policy group, but is also a member of the most powerful amateur sports organization in America, the NCAA." He went on to add that most of his time at the eastern branch meeting was devoted to work on the eligibility committee.

However, scheduling meetings for future sport competition with other athletic directors also occupied much of his time. In this manner, Bucknell has lined up most of its opponents in all sports through 1951.

Furthermore, the football schedule for 1950 and 1951 has been partially completed. Thus, one can see that this meeting bears directly on our future athletic participation.

The group as a whole met several

Musclemen Shade Haverford As Kiely Smothers Opponent

By Belber Robinson
Bedlam broke loose among a few hundred fans at Davis Gym at 4:30 Saturday afternoon when, with Bucknell's musclemen trailing Haverford 16-12, Ed Kiely threw last year's 170 pound Middle Atlantic champion, Bill Rodewald, in the last few seconds of the second period to give the Bisons a hard-earned 17-15 victory.

The Herd trailed throughout the entire meet, and only after Kiely's mighty feat did the Orange and Blue grapplers lead. Other winners were Wendell Stainby, George Stanton, Jack Rickard, and Nelson Woolcock, all by decisions. All three losses sustained by the Macdonalds were through falls; Marshall Goulding, Ed Fusia, and Harold Sheriff all suffered pin defeats.

Duo Drugged
Marshall Goulding, a sophomore, made his varsity debut in the 121 pound class for the Herd, and made a fine showing before he became a fall victim to Haverford's Harry Bain in 2:15 of the second period. Bain was ahead 4-3 at the time of the fall, and he used a half-nelson and clutch for his pin.

Another sophomore, Ed Fusia, made his entrance in the 128 pound division, and was leading 6-5 over the Ford's Phil Flinders until he got into trouble at 2:56 of the second period. Flinders slipped on a figure four and a bar arm to get the fall win. At this point Haverford led, 10-4.

Wendell Connects
In the 136 pound class junior letterman Wendell Stainby met Coach Bill Shikada's first of four lettermen in John Dodge, and the smooth-operating Stainby came through with a decisive 15-2 decision victory. Stainby, who went undefeated in dual meet competition last season, extended his streak to seven, and he racked up his 13 points on two takedowns, two near-falls, one reversal, an escape, and two minutes time advantage. Dodge tallied on a reversal.

In another battle of lettermen, Bucknell's senior co-captain George "Spider" Stanton outpointed Bud Walker, 12-4, in a "wild and woolly" match in the 145 pound bracket. "Spider" counted on three takedowns, two reversals, and two minutes time advantage, while Walker had two

Jersey Men Outnumber Pennsylvania Dribblers

Home state athletes are outnumbered by New Jersey cagers on Jack Guy's 1949-50 basketball team.

On the 15-man squad are only five Pennsylvanians compared to seven representatives of New Jersey. New York with two and Massachusetts with one complete the roster geographically.

New Jersey also placed a dozen players on the winning Thompsons Herd football team this fall.

Tustin Tales

Who said fellows couldn't attend the girls' volleyball games? Of course they can.

We've never before known the Bucknellian 'men' to be timid and it certainly doesn't hold true in this case. We know they'll probably snicker at seeing us girls on the court, but who cares? It's all in FUN and everybody is welcome to watch.

The cheering at the matches has been a little weak, so how about more spirit and yells for your team.

No team can win without the support of their rosters whether it be sorority, class, or college.

A New Interest
An offshoot club will begin January 3 under the supervision of Miss Smith. All girls interested are urged to sign up with La Hina as soon as possible. This club will be a big interest in the approaching basketball season.

Strike
The Bowling Club will begin right after Christmas vacation. All girls interested in bowling are invited to join the fun every Saturday afternoon.

Dottie James was elected president and Joan Morris, treasurer at the organization meeting of the club on Tuesday.

Winter Weekend
WAA Board, together with Mortar Board, Senate, and Honor House will spend a weekend in a cabin near Halfway Dam shortly after we return from final.

This annual excursion is being looked forward to by all the groups concerned.

Winners
The JUNIORS won the intramural volleyball tournament which ended in a five-way tie, and was finally played off on Saturday.

Sorority Spirit
In the inter-sorority volleyball tournament so far Phi Alpha Psi and Kappa Delta have been eliminated. The tournament will continue this week until the final.

Kappa Sigma Looms As Favorite To Cop 'Mural Wrestling Tonight

by Jack Williams
Thirty-two intramural grapplers mated each other around two mats last evening in Davis Gym, and when the final bout was over Kappa Sigma fraternity had almost assured themselves of the much coveted Wrestling Trophy, which will be awarded tonight in the finals.

The only other possible winner is Sigma Alpha Epsilon, who can do the trick if all of their matmen win and the Kappa Sigs lose all their bouts. If the KS's win one and SAE win all, the final score can end in a 36-33 tie.

As the points stand now Kappa Sigma has 2, with four men entered in the finals; SAE has one, with three men wrestling tonight; while the Kappa Sigs have one and the same number of finalists. The other points are scattered among Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Chi, East Wing, and Phi Gamma Delta.

In the 125-lb. class last night Fay (SAE) pinned Harvey (PKP) and Miller (PGD) dished out a knockout.

Fusia (PKP) dished out a knockout in the 136-lb. class. He pinned Miller (TKE) last night in the 130-lb. class and Peoples (SAE) dished out a knockout in the 145-lb. class.

The 136-lb. championship will be decided in the final between Miller (TKE) and Peoples (SAE). Miller is expected to show the way for the Blue Hens.

Paul Krammer, George Snyder, and Gordon Pinnie are also being counted on for plenty of help. Two newcomers, Paul Catts and John Uppecher, may be the answer to the 150 shortages that now exist.

BASKETBALL SCORES
Although the Freshman football team was only able to win two out of five games this year, their scoring record was impressive. The Underclassmen averaged nearly 20 points a game, and each loss was by a tight margin.

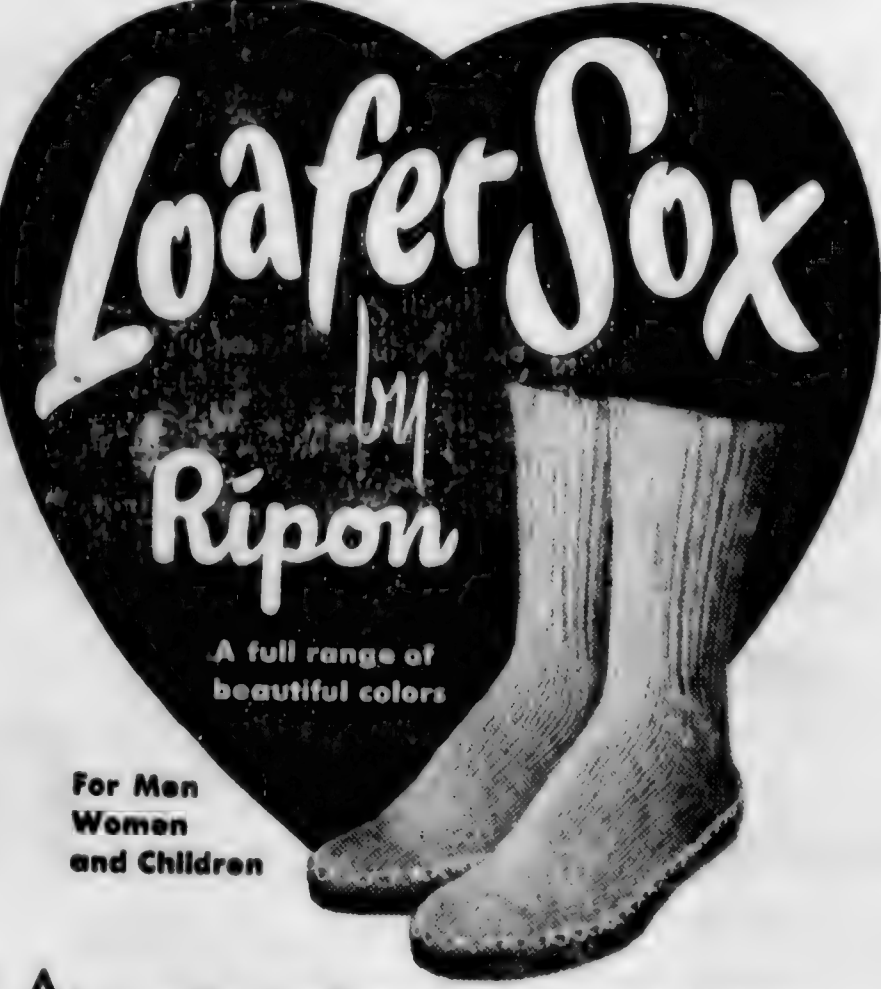

One hundred sixty-pounder Miller (TKE) and Fultner (SK) will battle it out for the title tonight. Miller pinned Childrey (PLT) in the second period last night, while Fultner defeated Horn (SAM).

Mercer (LCA) meets Woolcock (TKE) in the 175-lb. final. Mercer edged by Techop (SK) while Woolcock pinned Bowen (KS) in the first period of their bout.

Heavyweights Scott (SAE) and Schultz (KS) both won last night to put them in the final. Scott took down Dewees (PKP) by default, while Schultz pinned Burger (KDR) in the first period.

Intramural adviser, "Bus" Blum announced that 80 men had competed in the tournament. He complimented president Joseph Markey and his Intramural Council on the efficiency in handling the tourney. Almost 40 bouts were run off Monday night in less than two hours, which is something of a record for Davis Gym.

Athletic Council Banquet To Fete Fall Varsitymen

Bison football and soccer squads will be honored tomorrow night at 6:30 in the Lewisburg Inn. at the annual fall sports banquet given by the Bucknell Athletic Council.

Col. John J. McEwan, former Army line-man, is the featured after-dinner speaker. McEwan was All-American three consecutive seasons from 1914 to 1916, and in the latter year captained an unbeaten and untied Army eleven. Following the first World War, the Colonel coached successful teams at Oregon and Holy Cross.

43 Lettermen
It was announced by Thomas J. Mangan, chairman of the council and co-master of the banquet, that 43 varsity "B's" will be presented to 27 footballers and 16 soccermen.

The combined efforts of the three fall sports teams: varsity football, soccer, and frosh football finished the season with a better than average percentage of 591 compared to the 520 record of 1948.

Grid Improvement
The greatest improvement was turned in by the varsity grid-dancers. It was virtually the same team that last year won but one game and then came back this season to collect six wins, while dropping two by one point.

Joe Dillins' soccermen brought home the bacon again this season. They won the title to the Southwest Division of the Middle Atlantic Soccer Conference for the third consecutive year. Their log of five wins and four losses placed them above the 500 mark. Over two seasons of regular league play the Bison boys have a string of six wins intact.

Art Raynor, team captain, and Danny Fuller were selected as members of the Southwestern Middle Atlantic All-Conference team.

Frosh Dribblers Troupe
Bloomburg ST Yearlings

Coach Bill Lane's Frosh cagers traveled to Bloomburg last night and came home with a 56-56 win, their second victory out of as many games.

The Junior Hoopsters overcame a six point deficit in the first period and retained the lead all the way. Sixty-four of the 68 points were from four men. Both was high with 21, Strickler counted for 16, Beckwith scored 15, and Landis scored 12.

handling the tourney. Almost 40 bouts were run off Monday night in less than two hours, which is something of a record for Davis Gym.

At the start of the second half, it was evident that the Herd had found the mark. Led by Rog Rogers and Joe Gallagher the Bucknell fast break began to click and the Dickinson lead was whittled to only three points at the end of the third quarter.

However, the Dickinson five proved itself equal to the task in the fourth quarter when they matched the Bison shot for shot and protected the slim four point lead which eventually meant victory.

Even Up!
The fourth period was marked with brief scoring flurries in which both teams went ahead. Bucknell holding a slim one-point lead for a short time. With just a little over two minutes left in the game, "Chink" Lavin scored with a left handed hook shot to tie the game and put Bucknell ahead when he followed with a foul shot. However, Kinella immediately countered with a hook shot and Zilling added four more to put the game on ice for Dickinson. The final score Dickinson 60, Bucknell 56.

In the jayvee game, the Bucknell frosh opened their season with a victory over the Dickinson frosh 51-45.

Joe Booth collected 17 points, most of them coming on long sets, to pace the Baby Bisons. Dick Landis had 16 points and Bill Strickler, who played a marvelous floor game, hit for eight points.

Guys Rebound Last Night From Only Loss Of Season

by Clyde McAvoy
Jack Guy's Swish Kids rebounded on a hapless Lehigh five in Bethlehem last night with a mighty 71-52 roar as Don Strasser, who didn't enter the game until the 2nd quarter, contributed 19 points to the winning cause.

Lurching to their feet after being downed by Dickinson last Saturday, the snoring Bisons outran, outtemped, outplayed, and outscored the faded Lehighers in the 2nd quarter, by the end of the first half the dispirited Lehighers didn't need a glue stick to tell them that they were behind 38-28 and lucky to be that close.

With the Engineers' highly touted Dick Graten effectively shackled by Gallagher, their hopes were shifted to Van Berlow who came through with 16 counters. Nothing could stop determined Herd, though, as Gallagher racked a fat 15 points. Monday 11, De Luca and Rogers with 9 apiece, and Lavin 6.

Long Connie De Luca sparked the crew in the first quarter and was controlling both backboards and leading in scoring when he took to the bench with 8 minutes left in the 1st half because of 2 personal. Bouncing Don Strasser took up where he left off; however, and despite some abortive Lehigh attempts to slow up the proceedings in the 3rd quarter the game rapidly took on all the aspects of a runaway. The score was 51-45 in the fading minutes before Bucknell slowed down to let the smoke clear away and concentrate on protecting their lead.

De Luca came back in at this point along with Hall, Schneider, Schaumburg, and Harry McKibbin, who celebrated his season debut with 3 points. Weber collected splinters the whole game and nursed a bad leg.

And it ended that way, with the engineers frantically throwing everything but the scoreboard for points that just wouldn't materialize. The final apogee: Bucknell 71; Lehigh 52.

Saturday night the Herd will entertain Washington and Jefferson here in Davis Gym. Little is known about the Diplomats except that they have a veteran team back this year and are touted as one of the best in the Eastern small-college class.

The game here will mark the end of Herd court activity until Saturday, Jan. 7, when they take on Rutgers on the road. The following Wednesday they end a short road trip against Gettysburg on the Buller's court.

It will be a month until Jack Guy's cagers play at Davis Gym again. Saturday, Jan. 14, the Herd entertain the same squad that they beat last night, Lehigh.

The RAT RACE

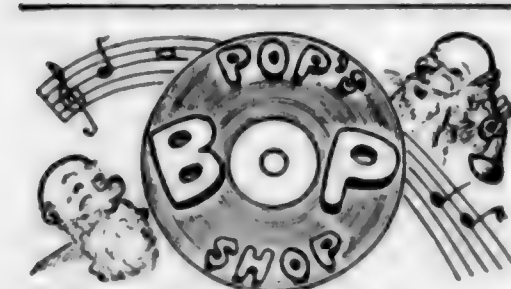

By Don Heist

Mid-semester have been recorded, and, as always on this occasion, academic rationalization is the theme among students. There is a distinct line drawn between the student and the non-student, and mid-semester grades have an ugly habit of drawing that line. What constitutes the student?

One girl, who has made "straight A's" through five semesters discloses the key to her success in telling us that she gets up at five every morning "to memorize" her days work. She remembers having been told a hundred times in the course of her education "to think things out and sift out original ideas." She tried it but found her original end present method of memorization to be the most effective. There is "no criterion of original thought, but, if you memorize your work, you can't lose."

Any teacher worth his profession has to be biased. There is no escaping this. If he knows his subject to any reasonable degree, he would have to have preferences in viewpoint or he wouldn't be human. In original thought, the student is inevitably destined to find conflict in the teacher's biases. Perhaps the teacher can remain objective through the net of his prejudices but why take a chance? Sit down and memorize a book. The teachers argument then will be with the author of the book and not with the student. Memorize a book, make your "A," and perhaps you'll still remember something at graduation.

O TANNENBAUM! O TANNENBAUM. WAS IT WORTH IT, BOYS?

Pops has been busier than a two-fingered guitar player. It didn't use to be that way either till a few days ago. Here's how it started.

After finishing my usual bilious snack of hamburger and onion sandwiches one day and wondering why people weren't coming into the Shop anymore, I took a look around the place and found a cash drawer like Mother Hubbard's. Cupboard and piles of records that weren't getting any smaller.

Something's got to be done to sell some records. I thought with a startling display of deduction.

So the next day found me bright-eyed and bushy-tailed walking up the walls in front of W. V. B. U. Secret Station, with a pile of records under each arm. Included, of course, was Ray Anthony's record of "House-party," a semi-bopish tune which incidentally rates a B from Pops this week. It's really great considering Pops can remember the time when Ray couldn't play "Come to Jesus" in the Key of C.

Well, anyway I was met at the door by a walking tooth-paste advertisement wearing a grey pin-striped suit with shoes to match. He started to shake my hand industriously.

"Well, Hello," he bubbled. "I'm Roger Goodfellow and you must be Pops."

I wondered how he knew.

Singing commercials are really the rage! Listen to the ones WVBU is doing on the "Silver Cord." Especially "The Bitter End."

Show" on Thursday night. One of the MCs certainly has a dreamy voice. Confess now, who is it? The station might give you a singing program all of your own.

Talking about the Bitter End program, what about that hilarious show on Tuesday night? There's one you can't afford to miss cause even if you do stay up a little late it gives you an added boost in morale.

Bert Elderidge is the announcer and he calls himself Uncle Bert. If you have a thwarted ambition to broadcast a radio program, listen to how Bert got his chance.

Sitting in the dorm one eve, doing nothing, someone ran up to him shouting "Want to go on the air?" Naturally this question confused Bert slightly because WVBU was not on his mind, however he willingly assented, and was dragged down to the station. He had no time, no script, and no preparation for his first show, but he went on the air, and did a great job. It was two weeks before a certain director with catatonic tendencies discovered that Bert had assumed his position without even an audition, but by then the young man was well on the road to fame. Keep up the good work Bert!

For pure listening enjoyment for all you classical and semi-classical fiends, don't miss Bob Gibb's program "Let's Listen To Music" on Thursday night. From nine to ten, Bob works in an unusual order going from relatively light musicals such as "Song of Norway," to beautiful symphonies such as "The Student Prince," and finally to the pure classical works such as "Paelestrina." This is an excellent workout out show, and the credit all goes to Bob, who not only is an announcer, but also an ace photographer, and a dramatist, not to mention the fact that he is a preministerial student.

Don't miss the Christmas program from nine to ten on Thursday night. The story is "The Christmas Carol." The cast is: Woody Woodward as Scrooge, Tom Lerner as Scrooge's Nephew Fred, Ned Miller as Bob Cratchit, and Bob Blaine as Marley's Ghost. Cliff Delmar as the Ghost of Christmas Past.

"I knew from your beard," he said, giving it a couple playful tugs. "But, now, down to business. What kind of a program would you like to have?"

"Program?" I said quizzically, striving to retrieve my hand. "I don't want a program."

"Oh, but you must. Everybody at Bucknell has a radio program," he said like he was saying pi 3.1416.

I hung my head. "W. V. B. U. is the only station in the world with as many announcers as listeners. You listen to our station don't you?" he ranted, nodding my head now with a firm grip on the back of my neck.

"Well, what are you trying to do then, upset the radio?" Now this, let's begin again. What can you do in the way of entertainment?"

"I can juggle," I said hopefully. "Sensational! You'll be the famous juggler on radio. You'll be famous overnight!"

I crowded unctuously and struck a pose, throwing imaginary objects into the air.

"Now here's the schedule. You'll go on Monday nites from 7:30 to 9:00 and as a listening assignment you have Will and Jeff's program from 9 to 10 on Mondays."

"Oh, no! Not that!" I screamed and bawled freely.

"I'm sorry," he said stolidly. "But we go by seniority around here and you're a newcomer. Now let's show a little spirit, Man!"

I snifled and stood at attention. "After all, you realize these listeners (Continued on page 5)

'We Go To Pardoes Or We Go Home' Or Why Women Always Win

By Bob Woulhouse

Especially at the end of a basketball game around this time of the year, the Bucknell dates often find themselves faced with the weighty problem of where to go when no transportation is available and it's a case of "tonight or never."

It doesn't take much in the line of ingenuity to remember Pardoe's for a coke, a hamburger, a dance, and "beaucoup." However, after twenty or thirty such excursions, the male rebels for some reason or other, musters his courage and enthusiastically suggests a visit to Chet's instead.

After showing their teeth back in her month, his date puts him on the shoulder with a "sweet mind, little boy; we'll force you this time" attitude. Now having gone out on a limb, he decides to follow through, and persists, "I was serious. How about Chet's?"

"What of it? I want to see who everybody else is with."

"Why do you have to know? You don't have a coxy tonight."

"What of it? I want to see who everybody else is with."

"Why do you have to know? You don't have a coxy tonight."

Coeds Will Hold Holiday Parties

Snow flakes, bright red balls, pine trees, gay wrapping paper, and parties are all a part of Christmas. As usual, Christmas parties will be held in the women's dorms.

The coeds living in Hunt Hall will all be on the floor around the huge tree in the living room Sunday night after 11 p.m. and watch while girls from each hall present Christmas skits.

Following the performances, refreshments will be furnished by Mrs. Bates and everyone will join in the singing of old favorite carols.

Santa Claus will be in Harris Hall while the festivities are taking place in Hunt. All the girls in Harris will receive presents as they drew names in order to exchange gifts.

Similar parties will be held in Larson, Bucknell Cottage, Brownell House, Stevens, Sixth Street, Honol House, Hully, Walker, and Ward.

Both the Spanish and French Houses are including various faculty members at their parties, while German House is having Open House tomorrow night from 7 to 10 for everyone.

Kappa Sigma Elects
The Kappa Sigma fraternity elected officers at a regular meeting on Tuesday night. The men who will be installed next week are: president, Gray Rogers; vice president, Len Egges; pledge master, Chuck Larson; secretary, Scotty Hicks; treasurer, Jim Higgins; guards, Fred Thomas, and Tom Little; IFC rep, Reg Hubley.

Faculty Hears ASME Speaker
William O. Kline, Assistant Chief Engineer of the Frick Company, in Wapahanset, Pa., was the principal speaker at the Central Pennsylvania Section meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, held in State College Tuesday night.

Kline discussed practical applications of refrigeration and air-conditioning, using slides to illustrate his talk.

A number of Bucknell faculty and administration members attended the meeting.

'Silver Cord' Called Mystery Play Of Year; Billip Guards Rehearsals

Sheriff Schmucker Tells Of Exploits At Varsity Dinner

Joseph Schmucker, sheriff of Lycoming County, was the featured speaker at the meeting of the Quarterback Club in the Lewisburg Friday night.

Mr. Schmucker gave some personal reminiscences of his first detective case, in which he outwitted a very clever crook known only as "The Phantom." He brought his scrapbook with him to illustrate the story.

The members of the team were at the final meeting of one of the least publicized but most deserving groups affiliated in any way with Bucknell.

The Quarterback Club is a service club, an organization dedicated to promoting interest in football at Bucknell. This organization, which meets every Tuesday at noon at the Hotel Lewisburg, is unique in that its membership is open to anyone interested in Bucknell's sports activities.

At these luncheon meetings the Bucknell coaching staff, headed by Harry Lawrence, discusses and shows motion pictures of the most recent games. The outlook for future games is also discussed, and this is usually followed by a question-and-answer period.

ASEE TO MEET HERE

The DU chapter of the American Society for Engineering Education will be held to the Allegheny Section of the society on April 14-15, Warren D. Garman, professor of mechanical engineering, announced today.

Participating in the annual meeting will be representatives of Pennsylvania State College, Carnegie Institute of Technology, University of Pittsburgh, University of West Virginia, and Bucknell.

Alpha Chi Sigma Initiates Sixteen

Sixteen men, professors and students, were initiated by Alpha Chi Sigma, national professional chemical fraternity, at a ceremony on December 10, Advisor William H. Schuyler announced this week.

Among the initiates was Dr. F. R. Balcar, chairman-elect of the American Chemical Society and holder of twenty-four chemical patents. Dr. Balcar addressed the group at a banquet held at the Hotel Lewisburg following the initiation ceremony.

The fraternity meets regularly on the first and third Monday of each month at the Engineering Building. The next meeting is scheduled for December 19, when nominations for officers will be held.

Faculty Commends NIC For No-Restriction Stand

The faculty at its meeting last week adopted a resolution commending the National Interfraternity Conference for passing a resolution at its November 26 meeting recommending that fraternities try to eliminate restrictive membership provisions. The faculty also commended Herbert Levy, senior, for his help in bringing this matter to the attention of the conference.

Dean Musser also attended the national conference which was held in Washington during Thanksgiving vacation.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

President Hildreth will leave Bucknell December 15 to spend the holidays with his mother and brother in Portland, Maine.

Dean Musser and his wife are planning to visit relatives in Wynnewood.

FACULTY, STUDENTS AND ADMINISTRATION MINGLE AT LCA TEA

Lambda Chi Alpha Faculty Tea held at their chapter house last Sunday afternoon, according to Chairman Wayne Harrison.

More than 200 guests, including President and Mrs. Horace Hildreth and Dean and Mrs. Malcolm Musser, attended the social affair. The President and his wife were greeted by Irving Williams III, fraternity president, at which time Mrs. Hildreth was presented with a floral bouquet and a white orchid by the chairman of the tea.

Aiding the fraternity at their first tea in recent years were Sonorita Beatrice Gonzales, Mrs. Matt Clinger, Mrs. Dayton Rank and Mrs. Vincent Thurnby. Eleven Bucknell girls, planned to Lambda Chi, served sandwiches prepared by Mrs. Harry Robbins and Mrs. Clair Groover.

WSSF Campaign Scheduled To Begin Sunday Night At Student Church Kick-Off Rally

Lyman Hoover Of YMCA To Address Group On Student Aid To Asia

Dr. Herbert R. Brown Will Speak At Winter Commencement On February 4

The WSSF drive will get under way at Student Church in Hunt Living Room Sunday night at 7 when Lyman Hoover, Y. M. C. A. secretary in China, speaks on "Should we assist students in Asia now?"

The solicitors—more than 200 of them—and the central committee will be present at this kick-off meeting. Soliciting will begin Monday and will continue throughout the week. This year's goal is $4000.

Posters on campus and spot announcements will push the campaign. Folders, to be delivered individually to students, will explain the aims of the WSSF drive.

Library Display

In the library, magazine articles on mutual student aid and exchange will be displayed. The Challenge, CA newspaper, carries a complete story on the drive, together with questions and answers concerning WSSF.

Individual contribution cards have been prepared for each student and have been given to the solicitors, each of whom will contact about 12 people. In addition to cash contributions, pledges for future payments will be solicited.

Joint Enterprise

WSSF is a joint enterprise of the World's Student Christian Federation, the Pax Romana, and the International Student Service. With headquarters in Geneva, where it is known as the World Student Relief, it operates primarily by means of voluntary assistance.

The money which it collects is used to purchase mimeograph machines which reproduce textbooks and lecture material not otherwise available. Medical aid—particularly for tuberculosis victims—is another important use of the funds.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The following statement was released today by President Horace A. Hildreth:

"Once again the World Student Service Fund campaign is opening on the Bucknell campus. This year the quota is $1000. Last year Bucknell raised $700 for this purpose.

"I am very glad to lend my personal endorsement to this campaign and hope that all Bucknellians support this drive to the best of their ability.

"Apart from the satisfaction of aiding a worthy cause, there is no better means of creating 'One World' and peace among men of good will than by the exchange of students made possible through funds raised by this campaign."

Rutgers Game Televised

Bucknell's basketball game with Rutgers this Saturday will be televised over one of the New York local channels. This is the first time the Bison have been televised.

Dr. G. Poteat Submits Resignation; Accepts Post In Daytona, Florida

The Reverend Dr. Gordon Poteat has submitted his resignation as professor of ethics at Bucknell and co-pastor of the First Baptist Church to become effective February 5.

He will accept the call to the pastorate of an interdenominational church at Daytona Beach, Florida. He was offered the pastorate December 18, and accepted it after having preached in Daytona Beach January 1.

Received Degrees

Dr. Poteat received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Furman University, South Carolina, and a Master of Arts degree at Wake Forest. He also attended the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky where he was graduated with a Master of Theology degree.

In 1915 he went to China where he was a member of the faculty at the University of Shanghai for 15 years.

Returned To U. S.

Returning to the United States he became a professor of social ethics at Crozer Theological Seminary in Chester, Pennsylvania.

In 1944 Dr. Poteat came to Lewis-

Miss H. Turnbull Will Be Speaker At Next Chapel

"What shall I do with my life?" will be the topic of Miss Helen Turnbull's speech at Chapel next Wednesday when she makes a return visit to the campus. Miss Turnbull, Director of Dindham House, New York City, was assistant speaker at the Religion-in-Life-Week Program.

After receiving her A. B. degree at Goucher College in Baltimore and her M. A. degree in Religious Education at Columbia University, Miss Turnbull completed her formal education with two years of graduate study at the Union Theological Seminary in New York.

Miss Turnbull's experience includes working with students in New England, social work and four years in commercial insurance.

'Bucknellian' Staff Holds Christmas Party In Bison

Over 30 members of the business circulation, and news staffs of the "Bucknellian" met in the Bison for a Christmas party.

Prize cards were given out, refreshments served, and entertainment provided. Johnny Linetty played the accordion. Jane Brown and Frank Sullivan did monologues and Jack Williams, Jack Jefferson, and Mac McAvoy entertained with songs. This is the first time the entire staff has gotten together for a social gathering and it is hoped that it will be the beginning of such parties.

C&D PLANS INFORMAL SUPPER JANUARY 20

An informal supper will be given by C&D Friday evening, January 20, in Hunt rec room. Entertainment will be provided by both students and faculty.

The purpose of the supper is to bring all the members and apprentices of C&D together for a social gathering and not the usual business meeting.

PAT, History Honorary, To Show Movie 'Peter I'

Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary, is sponsoring the picture, "Peter I" Thursday, January 12, at 4 p. m. in the Lit auditorium, according to Forrest Brown, Jr.

This historical Russian film with a cast of 5000 took three years in the making and received the Grand Prize at the Paris Film Exposition.

Dr. Herbert Youngken Addresses The Plant Institute Of Ohio State

BISA To Discuss Cornell Convention At Next Meeting

A discussion of the recent regional conference of the National Independent Students' Association will be on the agenda for the next meeting of the B. I. S. A. to be held Tuesday in Room 209 of the Vaughan Literature Building at 7:00 p. m.

The conference, held at Cornell, December 9, 10 and 11, was attended by five Bucknell students, who were present at the various meetings in which they discussed all aspects of the independent groups. The weekend was climaxed by a dance held in honor of the visiting delegates.

The representatives from Bucknell were: Wally Barrett '51, Rick Bloom '53, Don Hawk '51, Chuck Dissinger '52 and Dave McNeal, graduate.

The cup which was presented to the winners at that time was given by the debating society. It is a permanent cup and this is the first year the debating society has presented one.

"Leo Hanna, president of the debating group, and Ernie Kessler, who acted as chairman of the final debate, made the award which also included a $10 cash prize.

Also on the Theta Chi team but not participating in the last debate were Herbert Zearfos and Bill Faulk.

Sports Ball Will Feature Music Of Jerry Kehler

The Sports Ball, sponsored jointly by the Booster Club and the "B" Club, will feature dancing to the music of Jerry Kehler's Orchestra Friday evening, February 17, at Tuscan Gym. Booster Club President Bud Norton announced today.

Tuscan Gym will be decorated in accordance with the sports theme. Entertainment will be provided by the "B" Club during intermission.

No admission price has been decided upon to date. Committee chairman chosen at this time are: Entertainment, Bob Ervin, and social, co-chairman, Bud Clark and Bud Norton. Refreshments will be sold.

C&D's 'Silver Cord' Will Hold Premier Performance Tonight

Cap and Dagger's "Silver Cord" premiere will be presented tonight at 8:00 in the Lewisburg High School auditorium. Something new in production technique was added after the first dress rehearsal on Wednesday night when a pre-play critic forum was held.

The critique served to iron out minor production difficulties and improve the finished performance.

Sharing the spotlight will be Dottie James, Lee Craig, Bill Billipp, Dick Osborne, Shelley Caine, and June Rodan. Frank Hoffmann is directing.

Story By Don Murdaugh Named 'Story Of Year'

A news story concerning a wounded veteran and his road to recovery, written by Donald Murdaugh, assistant news editor of The Bucknellian, was selected as the "story of the year" by the editorial staffs of The Oxford News and The Maryland News Courier last week.

The story, chosen on the basis of "composition and content," will be entered by those papers in the Pennsylvania state news story contest this year. Murdaugh served in the capacity of associate editor on the two papers last summer.

A. G. Freas, Tensafly Manufacturer, Appointed To Board Of Trustees

A. Guy Freas, well-known paper manufacturer of Tensafly, N. J., has been appointed to become a member of the University's Board of Trustees, President Horace A. Hildreth announced today.

Mr. Freas, who is vice president and director of the Federal Paper Board Company, Inc., of Bogota, N. J., has been associated with paper and paper board industries since 1919.

Lived In Pennsylvania

A native of Robinson, Pa., Freas resided in Pennsylvania until 1948 and still maintains a summer home in Huntington Mills. After teaching school for one year in North Berwick, Me., Freas accepted a post with the American Car and Foundry Co. in Berwick.

From 1919 until 1928 he was associated with the Algonquin Paper Co. at Huntington Mills. For the past 22 years he has been connected with the Federal Paper Board Co., Inc., and with its subsidiary companies.

'Bucknell Dad'

Bucknell's new trustee, whose present home address is 74 Sherwood Road, Tensafly, N. J., is the father of two Bucknellians. His son, Arthur K. Freas, was graduated from the University in 1948 and his daughter, Miss Rebecca L. Freas, is a member of the present senior class.

President Hildreth, Eight Students Tapped By ODK

National Men's Leadership Honorary To Initiate The Nine Candidates Prior To Banquet Wednesday

President Horace A. Hildreth and eight students were tapped yesterday for membership by Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership honorary, when their names appeared on the traditional plaque in the Men's Quad.

The students tapped include: Forrest Brown Jr., Harvey Bush, Richard Fred, Andrew, Matheson, Joseph Rubenstein, George Stanton, Jack Thomas and George Woodward, Jr.

The initiation and initiation dinner will be held Wednesday evening, January 18, at 5:00 o'clock at the Hotel Lewisburg.

Qualifications for membership in ODK are character, scholarship, intelligence, service and leadership in campus life, fellowship and conservation to democratic ideals.

R. Emory Smith is president of the honorary. Other officers are: Robert Ervin, vice president; Dr. Walter Seavin, secretary and Raynor, treasurer. The members of the organization select the men for tapping.

The purposes of ODK are as follows: (1) To recognize men who have attained a high standard of leadership in collegiate activity; to encourage them to continue along these lines and to inspire others to strive for similarly conspicuous attainments.

(2) To bring together the most representative men in all phases of collegiate life and thus to create an organization which will help to mould the sentiment of the institution on questions of local and intercollegiate interest.

(3) To bring together members of the faculty and student body on a basis of mutual interest, understanding and helpfulness.

The women's branch of BISA, in their first official move separate from the men's body, elected officers Tuesday night at their meeting on the Larson Hall sun porch.

Noting by secret ballot, the women chose the following officers: Mary Day, president; Phyllis Vandenberg, vice president and social chairman; Barbara Levin, secretary-treasurer; and Phyllis Martin, sports chairman.

It was also decided at the meeting that Joan Groulx, assistant house-mother of Harris Hall, be asked to take the part of adviser to the group. Miss Groulx subsequently accepted the position.

When asked to define the purpose of the group, Miss Day, president-elect, said "The women's branch of BISA was organized with an aim to serve the interests of the independent women on the Bucknell campus, and to work in conjunction with the men's group to provide an organized outlet for academic, athletic and social activities."

The speaker at Chapel Wednesday, January 18 will be Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, minister of the First Baptist Church, Syracuse, New York.

Dr. Dahlberg, who has spoken at Chapel twice before, graduated from the University of Minnesota, Colgate-Rochester Divinity School and was awarded Doctor of Divinity by Keuka College.

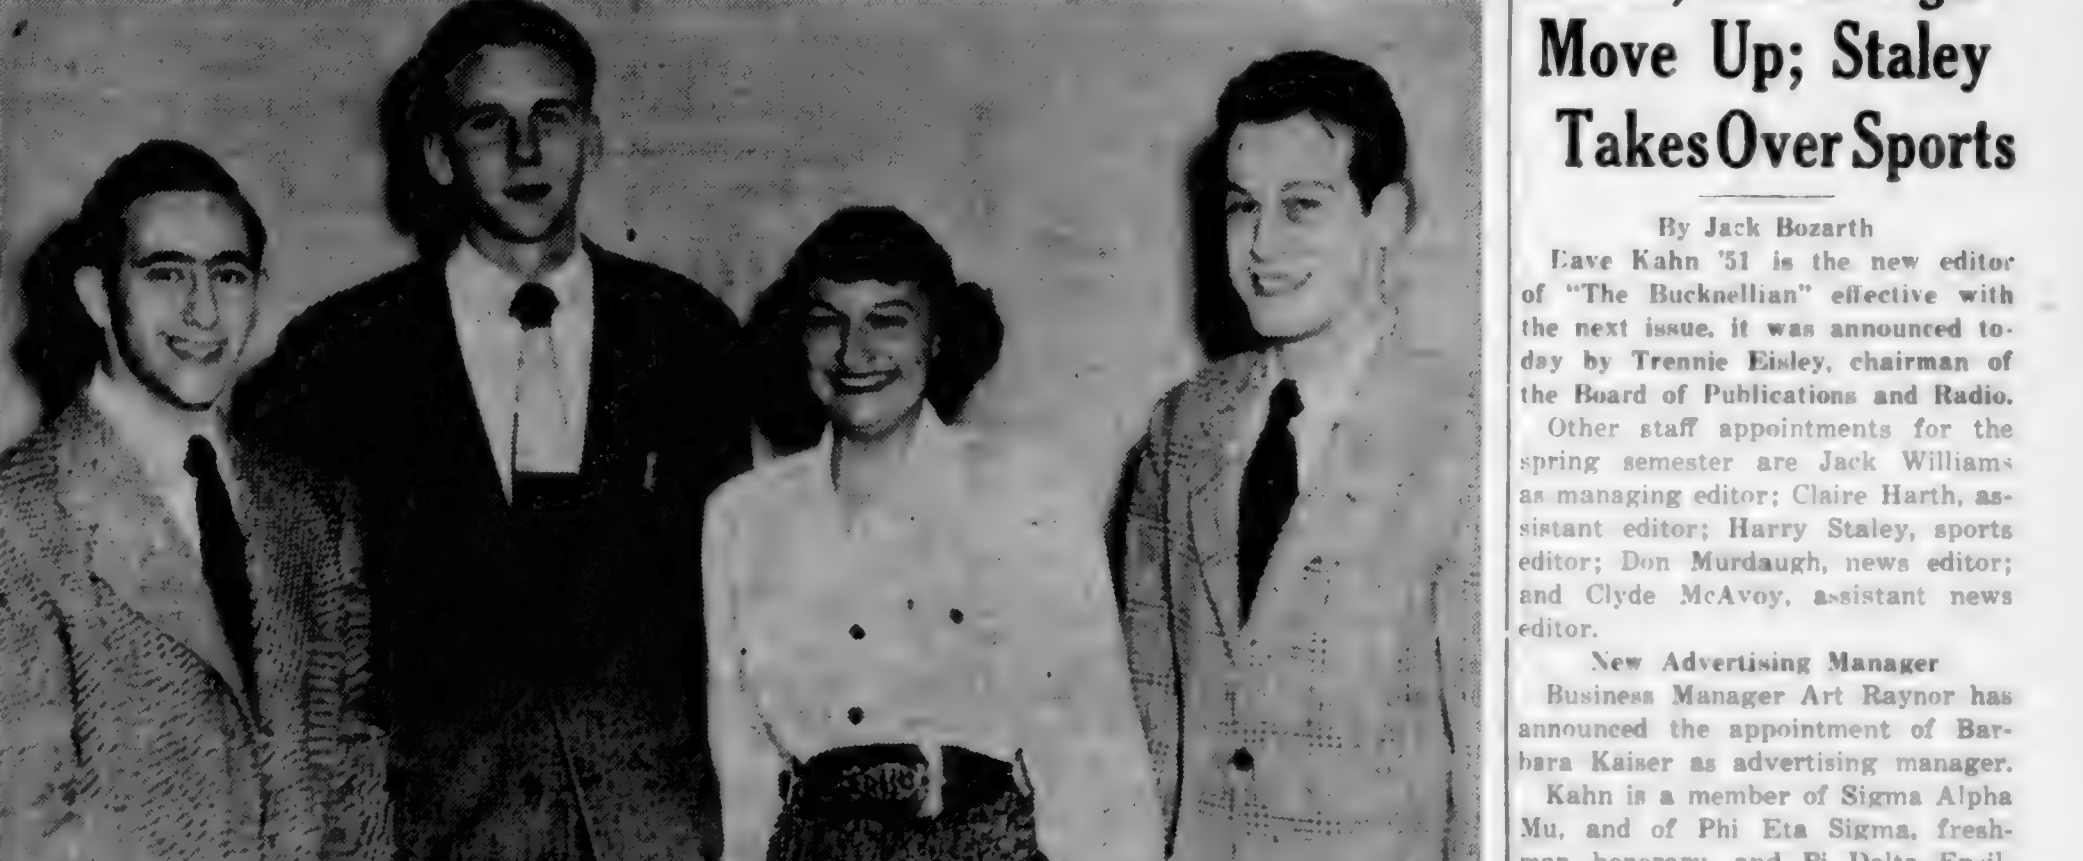

Noted Pastor He is listed in the "Who's Who in America," and has been the noted pastor of Syracuse's First Baptist Church for ten years. This church is famous for the ministry of its music which has developed a choir program of 250 voices and six choirs. It is also one of the outstanding university churches of that city.

He is a member of the General Council and Chairman of the Commission on Review of the Northern Baptist Convention; and on the American Committee of the World Council of Churches. Dr. Dahlberg is vice-president of the Commission on Evangelism, a member of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches, and a member of the Board of Trustees at Colgate-Rochester Divinity School.

Has Written Books He is author of "Youth and the Homes of Tomorrow," and "Which Way for a Christian?" In the summer of 1947 he made a two month tour of thirteen European countries. He was a preacher of the convention sermon at the Northern Baptist Convention in May 1946, and was president of the Convention for two years.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, JANUARY 12, 1950.

It's Up To Us!

"Possession or use of alcoholic beverages on the campus, including fraternity houses, is completely opposed to the best interests of Bucknell and any use thereof resulting in discredit to Bucknell should be handled with the utmost severity."

This statement was released by President Hildreth at a meeting held in his home to a representative group of women and men from the entire student body last Thursday evening. The proclamation or statement of policy was the outcome of the Trustee meeting in December.

What does that mean to us? It means that the University officially objects to any drinking done by students, so it should. We couldn't expect others or ourselves to think much of our school policy makers had they taken any other stand.

What else does it mean? President Hildreth, with the Dean of Women and Dean of Men present, announced the policy statement to this inquisitive group along with the administration's views in a gentlemanly manner that it carried back properly to the groups represented, should stop most of the rumors that no drinking signs were going to be hung over every fraternity door. It was explained, however, that the agreement to let the students handle their own affairs using their own discretion and conducting themselves as ladies and gentlemen at all times, should meet the standards of the University. It is a comfortable feeling to know that we are being considered as a mature people, given the right to control our own actions and not have an iron-clad set of rules hanging over our heads. To President Hildreth and the Administration on the hill, we doff our hats to you and offer a rest for your caps in handling the situation as you did. The leader is up to us, if we fumble the ball, we can blame ourselves.

Saturday Madhouse!

Few schools our size have a nicer gym than Davis Gymnasium and even fewer will match the big baby when finished. Under ordinary conditions the basketball floor is large enough to handle the normal crowd of George Mikans' trying to work-out enough to play intramural basketball in the approaching season. Intramural teams or their members try to squeeze onto three of the floors and sometimes one set of baskets to practice on a Saturday afternoon. Basketball approaches the cartoon illustration on this page this time of year. It gets so bad just before the season opens that scouts are sent out to commander a court and "hold" it as soon as gym classes end Saturday morning. Then follows the jockeying and maneuvering to hold one of the courts long enough to organize a practice session. Some of this has been taken care of in past years by use of the gym for a couple of reserved hours the week before the season starts. That's a step in the right direction but the condition exists on a lesser scale year-round Saturdays.

A possible solution might be to appoint student directors to organize things down to the gym and set-up a fair practice schedule by reserving time on the courts. Through organization everyone could be given a fair crack at the courts without missing his dinner just to get in an afternoon's practice. Another suggestion might be to leave the gym open until six on Saturdays as late as possible and still clear house in time to prepare for the varsity or freshman game. Where are you going to get the men or money for such a job is probably the biggest problem. Why not give some junior or senior credit for gym by being there and organizing such a program, chances are he would get more exercise than if he were in gym class anyway.

Comment Of The Week

The "B" Club has started the first in a series of worthwhile projects to further interest and make itself a more active organization by sponsoring the Eagles-Steelers basketball exhibition game next month. Let's help them start things off right by supporting this first venture and more can be expected in good entertainment and novelty sports programs.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

by Becky Rogers

This week's column might better be called "On This Campus" because, due to the confusion and bewilderment that resulted from our vacation, we somehow or another failed to scrape together much material from other campuses. Please forgive us, and we promise it won't happen again.

It was a cold winter's night. The clock on the hill had just struck two-thirty, and an even dozen mademoiselles were nooning peacefully away in their dormitory. Then it happened! You guessed it—a fire drill! Housewife Cecile Constans blew her whistle and valiantly, but a few of the girls who were exceptionally sound sleepers failed to respond. Finally, after another discouraged shriek of her whistle, Cecile shook her head despondently and muttered, "Oh, well, I guess they'd rather roast in peace."

One of Bucknell's never profs has suddenly come up with a terrific brainstorm. He's having all the members of his geography classes make up tests to give to the other members of the class. The shock was a little too much for some of the students; and when they set about making up their tests, they came up with questions like the following:

1. According to Einstein's theory, how do crops rotate?
2. Tobacco is (a) the name of a road (b) another name for tobacco (c) a substitute for marijuana.
3. Charleston is (a) the name of a dance (b) a measure of weight computed by a man named Charles.
4. Since the North Atlantic Coast drowned, the main occupation of the former inhabitants has been (a) deep sea diving (b) growing gill suits (c) swimming like mad.

If only finals were that clear and easy to understand!

It could happen here:
Soph: "Did you take chloroform?"
Frosh: "No, who teaches it?"

Prof: "Young man, do you know who I am?"
Frosh: "No, sir, but if you remember your address, I'll take you home."

Letters

To The Editor:

January 9, 1950.

Dear Sir:

We were indeed glad to see that you printed our letter to "The Bucknellian" on January 6th. What guts! However, one matter regarding that letter must be cleared up. It seems that someone falsely called himself William Stella signed that name. Since then, it has been brought to our attention by Mr. Stella that his name was forged. We wish to clear his name, as the opinions expressed were not necessarily his.

By way of mention, you might be interested to know that at last we have found a practical use for your paper. It makes an excellent portable screen behind which one can hide from women who are standing up in buses.

Cordially,
Herbert Schlot
"Monk" Stevenson

WORLD WIDE

by Jack M. Thomas
U. S. POLICY TO COMMUNIST CHINA

The most urgent issue before the State Department today is the position which the United States must take in respect to the new Communist government in China. The Communist army has all but captured the whole of the Chinese mainland. Their movements now point to the islands of Formosa and Hainan as further conquests. The United States must decide not only whether to recognize the government of Mao-Tse-tung, but also where they will draw the line of resistance to further expansion of the Communists in the Far East.

As for the United States recognizing the new Chinese government it is rather doubtful that this country will accept present-day China until the State Department is convinced that the Chinese Communists are ready to abide by their present international commitments. But external elements are entering into the picture. Several British Commonwealth countries have officially recognized the Peking regime. The middle of last week saw the British government accept the Communist government. The question before Secretary of State Acheson and his top advisory council is whether the United States will commit a grave error, in respect to this country's security and interest in the Far East, if recognition is extended to the Communists. But should the U. S. accept the Communist government and force the Chinese to trade on an equal cash basis, they will get more help from the West than from the Russians. And in so doing there is a great possibility that the Chinese would break their ties with Russia.

The other big question facing the government of this country is where we are to draw the line that will prevent the further spread of Communism in the Far East? Also, should the U. S. offer any economic or military assistance to Chiang Kai-shek and his exile Nationalist government? Probably the second question will be answered more easily than the first. There is little likelihood that the U. S. will actively support Chiang losing fight with the Communists. They still recognize the Nationalist government—which will probably be the extent to which the United States will go.

The more important and far-reaching problem is where to draw the line to prevent further Communist infiltration in the Far East. A great deal of debate is now going on in Congress over this country's intervention in Formosa and Hainan. Many congressmen have openly stated that the U. S. must fortify those islands against possible Communist capture. Should this be our line of protection? It appears that it will not be, for President Truman announced last week that this government will not step into either of these islands. In other words, if the Chinese Communists want these islands it is perfectly all right with this country.

Should the Communists take both Formosa and Hainan where will the United States draw the line? Formosa is only four hundred miles from the Philippines. The U. S. certainly would not stand idly by if the Communists threatened those former American possessions. Formosa must be the point beyond which the U. S. will not allow the Communists to expand. Areas in the Far East which the Communists can take over are dwindling rapidly. To the south of China they could possibly take over Burma and Thailand, and they would run into trouble with the French in Indo-China, and also with the British in Hong Kong.

The issues are beginning to crystallize in the Far East. The Joint Chiefs of Staff of the U. S. Department of Defense have announced that a rotation plan will be put into effect immediately which will transfer a major portion of our active naval fleet to the waters of the Far Pacific. This is a positive step in assuming a more active and forthright policy in the Far East. The far Eastern area has long taken an indifferent or negative attitude towards the innumerable blunders of the State Department in regard to China since the war ended in 1945. A policy of containment has been reached in Western Europe—now a similar policy must be reached in the Far East to prevent the continuing spread of Communism throughout the world.

Chem Research By Dr. Smith
May Bring BU Science Fame

Quietly in progress at present in the Chemistry Building is research on an important industrial problem which may someday give Bucknell considerable prestige in scientific circles.

Dr. Manning A. Smith, associate professor of chemistry, disclosed at a meeting of the American Chemical Society Monday night that progress has been made in determining the chemical structure of lignin, one of the chief constituents found in wood. Working with Dr. Smith are Frank Witkowski and "Rocky" Rothrock, graduate students, and Roland Stahl '50.

Valuable Lignin
When its composition is definitely known, lignin will probably be a source of raw materials for the chemical industries. At present, over 2,000,000 tons of lignin are wasted every year by the sulfate-process paper industry alone. Wood consists chiefly of cellulose and lignin. In the manufacture of paper from wood by the sulfate process, the lignin is dissolved in a sulfate solution and disposed of, while the remaining cellulose is processed into paper.

Brilliant Synthesis
While working with the Department of Agriculture, Dr. Smith was associated with a chemist named Alfred Russell. By a brilliant piece of work, Dr. Russell synthesized a substance whose properties coincided with so many of lignin's properties that he thought he had proved its structure. About two years ago, he died, leaving the problem undetermined. Dr. Smith undertook to test Russell's theory. So far, the tests applied by him have confirmed Russell's synthesis.

If Dr. Smith's work continues to be as successful as it has been, it will attract the attention of the chemical world to Bucknell.

GRADUATE RECORD EXAMS
Four times each year, Bucknell serves as a testing center for the giving of the Graduate Record Examinations. This exam is required by many colleges and universities of its graduate candidates.

The next test will be given here on February 3 and 4. Candidates wishing to take it before may secure applications and information books from Dr. W. H. Sauval, local examiner, Room 114 E. W.

Applications must be in the hands of the Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. by January 20 for all those planning to take the test in February.

Bruce Mitchell Will Present
Recent Paintings In Exhibition

Bruce Mitchell, artist-in-residence, will present a display of his recent paintings in an exhibition which will open in Roberts Hall Sunday afternoon, January 15, at 3 o'clock. Several landscapes of Maine will be shown as well as paintings of the Lewisburg area.

A number of the paintings that Mr. Mitchell has done at Bucknell have attained wide recognition, having been exhibited in prominent national and international showings.

Purchased By Museums
Several have been purchased for important private collections and one Lewisburg landscape by Mr. Mitchell now hangs in the permanent collection of the William Rockhill Nelson Museum in Kansas City. His paintings have been acquired by a number of other museums as well, including the Metropolitan and Whitney.

Find Inspiration Here
Mitchell says that he finds this part of the country most stimulating for his paintings and that each year he has no difficulty in finding inspiration for his brush. His exhibition at Bucknell will continue through January 30.

Five Graduates Listed
By Agency Recruiting
For Government Service

Names of five graduates are listed in the final report of the National Institute of Public Affairs, which recently completed a 15-year program of enlisting the ablest graduates of the American colleges and universities into the service of the Federal Government.

The Institute was financed from 1934 to 1949 by grants from the Rockefeller Foundation. During the 15 years of its existence, the organization selected more than 500 young men and women and started them on careers in government administration and public affairs.

Dr. Oliphant Served
Dr. J. Orrin Oliphant, professor of history, served as a representative of the Institute for a period of 12 years. He recommended Bucknell students for internships.

The Bucknell students who served internships included: Eric Graham Stewart, son of Professor Norman H. Stewart, appointed in 1936; Mrs. John M. Oliver, Jr., the former Miss Lillian Eileen, appointed in 1937; Robert Otto Benville, appointed in 1938; Russell Otterbein Hess, appointed in 1940; and Mrs. Robert H. Baldwin, the former Miss Betty Leff, appointed in 1942.

With the exception of Hess, the Bucknellians who served internships are still associated with the Federal Government.

Chapel Choir Vacancies
There are a few vacancies in the Chapel Choir which will be filled for the second semester, according to Professor William McRae.

Since the choir expects to begin work on new material immediately, anyone interested in the choir is urged to contact Professor McRae as soon as possible.

NAACP Secretary, Author
Walter White, To Speak Here

Walter White, Secretary of the NAACP, will be the Lecture Series speaker at Lewisburg High School next Thursday, January 19. White, a fair-skinned, blond, blue-eyed Negro, will speak on "Color Lines Across the Globe." This concerns the strange paradox of America championing human rights abroad while denying them to its Negro citizens at home.

White is well-known as an author. His autobiography, "A Man Called White," became a best seller shortly after its publication in the fall of 1945.

For more than three decades White has devoted his life to the first for human, and particularly for Negro rights. As an official of the National Association for Colored People, White has made personal investigations of 41 lynchings and eight race riots.

His books and his articles and columns in newspapers and magazines have exposed the problem of discrimination. He has been tireless in his efforts to secure Federal anti-lynching legislation.

Awarded Medal, Degrees
In 1937, Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan awarded Walter White the Sprague Medal for his "courage, skill and persuasiveness" in working for the anti-lynching bill and for his investigations of lynchings and race riots. For his achievements he has also received honorary degrees from Howard University, Atlanta University and New London Junior College.

His book, "Hopes and Fears: A Biography of Judge Lynch," remains the most revealing and exhaustive document on that subject.

Raised in South
Born and raised in Atlanta, Georgia, White attended Atlanta University and did post-graduate work in economics and sociology at CCNY.

In 1926, after the publication of his second novel, White was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in creative writing and spent the following year in France, studying the lynching problem.

Joins NAACP in 1918
In 1918, White first joined the NAACP, and by 1931 had become executive secretary. During the war he served as a war correspondent in the European, North African, Italian, Middle East and Pacific theatres of operations. He traveled more than 75,000 miles visiting Army camps and conferring with officers and enlisted men.

During the past summer, White made a round-the-world tour with the Town Meeting of the Air Magazine Contributor.

Author of a syndicated weekly column, White has contributed articles to The American Mercury, Harper's Magazine, The Saturday Evening Post, The Reader's Digest, and The Saturday Review of Literature.

Students will be admitted free to the lecture upon presentation of photo-budget cards. The price to non-students will be one dollar.

MIXED CHORUS WILL BEGIN REHEARSALS

The University Mixed Chorus, under the direction of Professor William McRae, will begin rehearsals Sunday at 2:00 p. m. in the Baptist Church. They plan to do the "St. Matthew Passion" of Bach and are at present expecting to give it on Passion Sunday, March 26, here in Lewisburg and on Palm Sunday, April 2, in the Zion Lutheran Church of Sunbury.

All members of the Mixed Chorus who can participate will be welcome.

Intramural Race Wide Open As Kappa Sigs Narrow Gap By Virtue Of Wrestling Win

Although Lambda Chi Alpha has won four out of five intramural trophies this year, their hold on the all-year trophy is not too certain. Kappa Sigma took their first cup last month, but it was the points they garnered in winning wrestling that put them in the runner-up position. As things stand now, the Kappa Sigs are a narrow four and one-half points behind the Big Green.

Step right up folks and get your tickets while they're still available! Don't miss the most sensational, bone crushing, roof raising contest ever held in Davis Gymnasium! See the National Professional Football League Champion Philadelphia Eagles face the Pittsburgh Steelers! Yes, your favorite pro football teams, the Eagles and the Steelers can play basketball, too, and none of the best players will be here to prove it on Friday, February 10 when they meet for the benefit of the Bucknell B-Club.

Brain will meet brawn in the preliminary game when a star-studded faculty team meets an equally great aggregation of varsity football players at 7:15.

Halfback Boish Prichard, Tommy Thompson, passing quarterback, Chuck Bednarik, Penn's All-American center, and Clyde Scott, the fastest man in football will represent the Eagles among others. Philadelphia's record breaking back, Steve Van Buren, may also appear. Playing for Pittsburgh will be Val Jansanto, Rod Moore, Bill Walsh and other Steelers stars.

Bob Ervin and Jim DiGiuseppe are promoting the contest, and athletic director Al Humphreys has left the facilities of the University at the disposal of the B-Club. Four local merchants have assured the B-Club of a financial guarantee for the competing teams. They are: Prowant's Clothing, B & Z Motors Inc., Busset Supply Company and Bechtel's Dairy.

The price of admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for high school students.

Don't miss the chance to see these two grid powers battle for court supremacy. Enjoy an evening of basketball thrills and help the B-Club at the same time.

Tustin Tales

"The Phi-Sigs certainly are hum sports." "What a dirty game." "You'd hardly recognize it as BASKETBALL." "I just cannot stand that girl after I've guarded her." "Was I glad we won — did you see the way she tripped me? What a dirty game THEY play!"

We don't want to hear remarks like this when our inter-society tournament starts. It's very easy to get hopped up and over-enthusiastic but let's keep that 'die for dear old Phi Sig' spirit down to a minimum. When the 'rah, rah' business becomes malignant each game loses its meaning of good fun and turns into an 'eye for an eye, tooth for tooth' battle!

All of us should keep in mind what the games are for — primarily to participate as a team in the enjoyment and activity of a sportsmanlike contest. Let's not make more enemies but some new friends.

TEN BEST

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS FACE DOUBTLE PROBLEM IN RUNNING PROGRAM

A good intramural system is an asset to any school and managers on the intramural council are hard at work conducting another successful program.

Members of the Council are faced with the problem of devising schedules for all of the intramural sports. They are also responsible for planning the numerous tournaments to be conducted for each sport. In addition to their paper work, the men also are in charge of directing the actual league play in each sport.

Intramural Heads

Heads of the Intramural Council this year are Joseph Markey, President and Supervisor; Drew Mathison, Vice President; Earl Manager; John Rickard, Corresponding Secretary; 1st Winter Manager; James Stumbaugh, Treasurer; 2nd Winter Manager; Thomas Riddell, Recording Secretary, Spring Manager.

With five sports out of the way, President Markey and his council will make the winter change-over. Basketball will require the full time co-operation of all the men, for four games a night are run off three times a week. They will also handle boxing and volleyball.

Too Much!

Rutgers assumed an early lead and never did the Bisons threaten to overtake them. At the end of the first quarter, Rutgers led 29 to 16. The second quarter was even more dismal from a Bucknell standpoint as the Bisons were hard pressed to notch 12 points while the Scarlet scored 20. At halftime the Bisons were trailing 49 to 28.

In the third quarter, Rutgers continued to set a torrid scoring pace and at the three quarter mark they led 72 to 45. In the final quarter the Bisons managed to make a little headway but it was a hopeless task. The final score, Rutgers 88, Bucknell 63.

The box score:

'Bucky' Harris Proves Too Much For Guys To Handle; Frosh Win Fourth In A Row

by Jack Williams

Harris did it again! With 'Bucky' Harris, Gettysburg forward who scored 36 points against Bucknell last year in Davis Gym, racked up 28 points last night as the Bullets turned back the Bisons on the home court, 73-71.

It was a wild and woolly game that saw the lead change seven times. The Herd drew first blood and were leading 18-15 at the end of the first quarter. But they were unable to hold onto the edge they had gained, and fell to the wayside in the second and third periods.

Foul Trouble

Despite the fact that Harris was hot, it was the foul line that added to the Guy troubles. Not only did they miss free throws, but they themselves fouled too often.

With two minutes to go the score standing 67-68 in favor of G'burg, the Bisons committed three consecutive fouls and the Bullets scored on each one. The points helped, but possession of the ball under the new two-minute rule spelled defeat for the Herd.

Frosh Win

In the Frosh game a brighter picture was painted. After losing two years in a row to the Junior Bullets in their home court, coach Bill Lane saw his team atone for the defeats with a resounding 62-56 upset.

Ron Reichman was high scorer for the Frosh with 21 counters. Joe Pilato, G'burg forward, was second highest scorer of the evening, racking the ball for 17 counts. Joe Booth fouled out with five minutes to go but managed to count for 10 points before he left. Bill Strillar was third high Laneman with 12 points.

The game was all tied up at 31 all with four minutes to go, but the flashy Frosh pulled ahead at the end of the first half. A few seconds later Joe Gallagher committed his fourth personal foul and the game seemed lost.

But the Bisons weren't finished yet.

Herd Set To Maul Leopards; Hope To Tie All-Time Record For Consecutive Victories

By Harvey Sheir

The Orange and Blue matmen will be looking for their third consecutive triumph of the campaign, and a chance to tie the longest winning streak in Bucknell's five-year wrestling history when they tangle with Lafayette in Davis Gym January 14.

In 1945 the grapplers won three in a row for the longest string of triumphs by a Bucknell wrestling aggregation.

Third Strike

The Bisons have faced Lafayette twice before. In 1948 the two squads deadlocked 18-18 while the Herd racked up a 21-13 decision in 1949.

Wendell Stainby, Bucknell 136 pounder, is undefeated in two regular seasons of competition and George Stanton, 145 pounder, has lost only one match over the same period.

During their wrestling careers at Bucknell, Stainby and Stanton, the one-two punch, together have scored 57 points against their opponents' 3. So far this season Stainby, Stanton and 155 pounder John Rickard have yet to taste defeat.

This is Bucknell's sixth year of wrestling and the best record was compiled last year when the team won 4 and dropped 2. However, this year: the Bisons seem headed for their first season as displayed by the power which edged Lafayette, 17-15 and crushed Delaware, 22-10.

Grapplers Slam Blue Hens, 22-10; Capture Second Successive Meet

By Belter Robinson

Coach Herb Maack's mighty Bison wrestlers notched their second straight win of this campaign and a total of four consecutive triumphs over a two-year span when they trampled the Delaware Blue Hens last Saturday at Newark by the tune of 22-10.

This was the Herd's second victory over Delaware in the last two years. In their initial contest last season, the Orange and Blue walked off with a 21-11 decision.

Hard Losers

An oddity about the Bison's first two matches is that all the Herd's losses have resulted in pins, while no man has lost a decision this season. Nelson Woolcock and Ed Kiehl were the two pin victims Saturday.

George Stanton and Jack Henderson, who now has eight straight dual meet wins over the past two seasons, have never lost a dual meet match. Stainby scored on a takedown, reversal, and 6:35 time advantage, which gave him two extra counters. Last year Wendell whipped Hopkins, 1-1.

George "Spider" Stanton, lanky Herd 145'er, got his second win of the season when he rolled Delaware's Paul Gardner into a cradle and held in 2:17. "Spider" was leading 2-0 at the time the fall occurred. The Blue Hens now trailed the Lewisburg grapplers, 1-0.

Rickard Rules

In the 155 pound bracket, John Rickard of the Maackmen whitewashed Dave Goodman of the Newark team, 8-0. "Rick", who moved down a weight since the last meet, had a takedown, reversal, near-fall, and a pin.

Following Goulding's method, Bucknell's 128 pound Ed Fusia gath-

SIDELINES

By Jack Williams

Sports editors come and sports editors go, and this one is ready to leave. Yes, it's been a great semester behind the typewriter. We had a fine football team to write about, a better than average soccer team to "cover", and a fresh team that showed plenty of potentialities.

Old Fred Haas, now with the SUNBURY DAILY ITEM, has accused us of getting all the breaks. "When he was sports editor . . ."

Well, Fred was faced with the problem of a losing football team and a dead school spirit.

But just for Fred's information, all is not calm and serene here in the office. We've received more gripes and moans in one semester than a complaint clerk in Macy's the day after Christmas.

For instance, Fred, were you ever accused of harboring a "drunken would be tin pan alleyist" in your sports department? Were you asked to let a money-paying advertiser see some of those rabid sports fan who can't construct a story from words can see the results of a game neatly arranged rows of statistics?

Or were you ever called a "girl-lover" because you gave space to a few stories from the Women's Athletic Department? No, Haas, you didn't even have the privilege of being called a sensationalist because a typographical error was made in a heading making the word RIP out of NIP.

Old Fred, you never had it so good. We just hope that the new Sports Editor, Harry Staley, will be given a chance to hear some of the "nane" quips that come to this desk. Harry will learn, as you and Mick McFadyen have learned, that sports readers are the only fans who haven't realized that erasers are put on the ends of pencils.

More workers are needed for the first and succeeding issues of the Bucknellian. Anyone wishing to join the staff is requested to contact the editor or any other staff member.

Writing ability is not necessary, since there are openings in the business and circulation departments.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon's annual Faculty Tea will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. in the chapter house at 400 St. George St. Since some mistakes were made in addressing the envelopes, attention is called to the fact that all faculty members and their wives or husbands are cordially invited to attend.

measures up to group standards. In addition to the Honor Council which tries all cases, there are two other elected bodies. Senate is composed of representatives from various classes and organizations who discuss problems and present solutions in the form of laws. The House of Representatives is made up of girls from each dormitory who represent their college students and offer suggestions for needed improvements.

You Can Help Too!

We want the Honor System and all its advantages. Here is how you can help us to keep it. If the girl on duty says, "It's time to leave" — then leave. And if you see your date acting a little unduly, calm her down. It makes it hard for her to act according to the rules if you say, "It's only two minutes after eleven, don't worry," or "We can sneak in the fire door — the housemother won't see you."

The Honor System and the Women's Student Government is trying its best to make that girl you are dating a woman with honor, integrity, character, and one who recognizes just authority. Respect the Honor System — don't laugh at it!

Self-Improvement

Along the lines of self-improvement, he utilizes the television set at home, turns down the volume for a game or a match, and then does his own sportscasting into a recording set, so that he can play the record back and pick out flaws and imperfections in his delivery.

A career in this field after graduation is still uncertain, but Jerry has already received one sportscasting offer from Bloomsburg's Station WGNR. We don't go in for predictions, but we can't think of anybody else around these parts more qualified to follow in the footsteps of Bill Stern.

They trailed at one time by 16 points, and then things seemed to happen. Lavin, Gallagher, and Strasser started to roll, but the latter two were expelled by the personal foul rule just as the herd brought the count to 35-39 at the end of the third period.

Entering the final period without their two high scorers, the Gays took advantage of a Gettysburg letdown and tied the score at 35. At that point the lead changed five times until the final whistle blew. Three foul shots spelled the difference, as the Gettysburg bullets pulled the game out of the fire, 73-71.

that there can be evil in this arrangement if we do not treat our foreign students with the respect and consideration they deserve.

Disparaging History

It is Dr. Poteat's observation that often our politicians "sound-off" on the Chinese situation emotionally instead of rationally. We make a mistake in disparaging Chinese history as we did in the early years of the Chinese Revolution, when they turned to us for help and not receiving any, turned to the Russians, who did help them in their civil war.

The well-informed speaker stated that "We must realize that Chinese communists are still basically Chinese and democratic. Will we, as a nation, be open-minded concerning China, or do we want an 'Iron Curtain' in China also?"

Golden Rule

He pointed out that the Chinese believe in the "Confucius" proverb: "What you do not want done to yourself, do not do to others." Their great philosophy is "Never go to extremes," or "Always the middle way." This would make devotion to the communistic principles impossible.

combinations to the attention of the audience.

"Poor Play" Mr. Ralph Rees, although stating that the acting was "quite believable," considered the choice of play a poor one from the point of dramatic appeal and plot. "Instead of being psychologically mixed up, the characters are mentally defective," he said.

NATIVE OF ITALY

A virtuoso of the first rank, Silva began his professional career in his native Italy, where he was admitted at 21 to that country's famed symphony orchestra, the Rome Augustino. After two years with that great organization, he was awarded the post of solo cellist with the Royal Opera after he had successfully demonstrated his musicianship in the national competition held for this position.

Silva then joined the Quersotto di Roma which shortly became the best known chamber music group in Italy and eventually one of the most celebrated in Europe. In great demand as a teacher, he became head of the cello department at the Conservatory of Music in Venice and Padua, and later in New York.

Luigi Silva, Famous Cellist,
To Play Here February 11

An opportunity to hear one of the greatest cellists of modern times will be provided by the Artist Course which has arranged to bring Luigi Silva to the campus Saturday evening, February 11, for a concert in Davis Gymnasium.

The renowned musician who at 28 attained fame as the principal cellist of the Royal Opera in Rome will come to Lewisburg from New York City, where he is scheduled to appear next Tuesday evening in a concert in Times Hall.

Reputation Established

After a series of concerts in this country, the artist's reputation is firmly established in American musical circles as well, and he was named head of the cello department at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York.

He remained at the Eastman School for seven years, and in 1940 transferred his headquarters to New York City, where he is now teaching at the David Mannes Music School and forming also with the newly-formed Mannes Trio, in addition to his solo work. During the summer months, Silva serves as visiting artist at the Colorado College in Colorado Springs.

DRAMATIC HONORARY INITIATES 11 MEMBERS

Theta Alpha Phi, honorary national dramatic organization, held its initiation for new members on Sunday afternoon, January 10.

A secret initiation was held at the Lift Lounge from four to six Sunday afternoon. A banquet was held at the Lewisburg Hotel for the fraternity members and their guests.

A skit was presented by the initiates, and the guests of honor, Dr. Thomas Hooker and Mr. Harry Powers, acted as critics. Dr. C. Willard Smith, faculty advisor for the club, spoke after the banquet.

Those initiated were: James Walter, Wayne Melinger, Dale Derr, Robert Woolhouse, Dave Norwine, John Jefferson, William Pearson, Elinor Childs, Donald Heist, Richard Emory, and Margo Rauch.

Walter White, NAACP Executive, Speaks Tonight On Discrimination

Walter White, Executive Secretary of NAACP who recently returned from a two-month tour around the world, will speak on the topic, "Color Line Across the Globe" tonight at 8:30 in the Lewisburg High School Auditorium.

He has been on the staff of NAACP for 30 years, and during this time has traveled at least a million miles and delivered approximately 5000 speeches concerning discrimination and segregation.

First Question "The first question asked us wherever we went, all over the world," stated Mr. White, "was, 'How can America call itself a democracy as long as lynching, segregation and discrimination continue unchecked?'"

Walter White and Wendell Wilkie made three transcontinental tours together. Wilkie donated $5000 from the royalties of "One World" to NAACP. During the war, a dinner was given to Mr. White to celebrate his 25 years with NAACP and at the dinner, Wendell Wilkie and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt were the two principal speakers.

Native Of Georgia Mr. White is from Georgia and has had first hand experience with discrimination and race riots although his fair skin, delicate features, and blue eyes might lead one to believe he is white.

He is the author of five books, the most famous of which "A Man Called White", his autobiography, became a best-seller soon after its publication in 1948.

Teachers-To-Be Should Attend Education Forum

Anyone preparing for teaching during the coming year, the next year, or in the not-too-distant future should plan to be present at the meeting being planned by Kappa Phi Kappa and Kappa Delta Epsilon, men's and women's educational fraternities.

Walter D. Greenlich, class of '34, vice president of the Bryant Teacher Bureau, Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia, will speak in the Vaughan Literature Building on Tuesday afternoon, January 24, at 4 o'clock.

Few people are better posted on the market for teachers than Mr. Greenlich, who comes to us upon invitation to assist our teachers in making proper applications, and in selecting the subject fields open to teachers.

By conferring with him now, many prospective teachers will avoid some of the pitfalls and heartaches of those who wait until the last minute for advice and assistance in being happily placed.

AWAY FOR THE WEEKEND

WAA is planning a weekend outing on Saturday, February 11 for Mortar Board, Senate, Honor House, and the athletic board. The party will be held at the WAA cabin near Half Way Dam. Lu Plimmer is in charge of the plans.

Equipment will be provided for the skiing, sledding and skating enthusiasts. Let's hope there's some snow!

Early Start

Arrangements for the tour were begun early in September. Dr. Cook called the club together as soon as possible to begin learning new songs and specialty numbers. The repertoire this year is again varied so that the Club can sing to church audiences, high school assemblies, and to radio listeners, without making too many changes in numbers.

The songs are arranged in categories such as religious numbers, classical arrangements, Bucknell songs, spirituals, and popular tunes. Some of the latter include selections from "South Pacific" like "Some Enchanted Evening" and "Bali Hai". (Continued on page 8.)

Attention Seniors!

Dear Seniors:

There will be a meeting of the Senior Class Wednesday, January 25, to be held in Bucknell Hall. The meeting will start promptly at 4:45, to realize that Wednesday is a poor day since exams commence the following morning; however, the matters that are to be discussed require we meet before vacation starts.

A letter was just received from "Who's Who" stating that if we are to be represented in the college section of the book, we must submit our nominations before February 1, 1960. The faculty committee is to have a meeting this Friday and next Monday, at which time they will have compiled a list of 40 names for the class as a group to vote upon. Please arrange your schedules in such a way that you will be able to attend the meeting. Whether there are 10 or 200 seniors present, the voting will take place.

A few minutes will also be spent discussing the Senior Ball, which is scheduled for March 31.

The members of the Senior Class would like to thank all those members who found time to solicit magazine subscriptions to the class. Your interest in the class was very encouraging. Unfortunately support of the project was not wide enough to push us up out of the hole we are in. There is still time for any member of the class to solicit subscriptions. Every penny is needed. In Nation-Wide Contest

The Sports Section of The Bucknellian for the 1959 spring semester has won second place in a nationwide contest held in Pittsburgh last June 11, according to information released through The College Publisher.

The contest was sponsored by Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalistic honorary fraternity. The Bucknellian was in competition with some 40 other college and university newspapers from as far west as UCLA and as far east as Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

The judges of the contest were the city editors of three Pittsburgh daily newspapers—Alex Zehner, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph; Lawrence Papp, Pittsburgh Press; and Frank Mathews, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

John McFall '49 was Sports Editor of The Bucknellian in the 1949 spring semester. He is now associated with Mott & Reid, a public relations firm in El Paso, Texas.

Glee Club Plans Mid-Semester Tour, To Appear On Nation-Wide Hookup

Just two weeks from this Sunday when you sit down to your noon meal, you can flip the radio to the Mutual system and hear the Glee Club give an half-hour program of song in honor of Bucknell's 104th birthday.

The coast-to-coast concert will mark the first step by the men on their annual mid-semester tour. Seventy-five undergrads, a n d their director, Dr. Harold E. Cook, will present 15 concerts from Sunday, February 6th to Thursday night, February 10th.

Pre-Tour Club

This year the Club's managers decided to cover the Philadelphia-New Jersey-New York City area rather extensively. The majority of the concerts will be given in high schools and churches, although two radio broadcasts are contemplated and, if all arrangements are completed, will be presented making.

Manager Jack Williams and assistant manager Bill Miller left this morning for New York City where they will negotiate for a "surprise" concert Thursday night, the last night of the tour. They have the job of scheduling the tour from start to finish, so must make a pre-tour tour of the area to check mileage, housing accommodations, stage set-ups, timing, and other details.

RECORDS FALL AS BISON LOSE

Two All-Time Records Fall As Mules Top Herd 92-80; Rogers And Gallagher Star

Records fell like confetti on New Years last night in Davis Gym when the Muhlenberg Mules emerged victorious, 92-80, over the Bucknell Bisons in what turned out to be a basketball battle no one in this area will forget for some time.

Records fell like confetti on New Years last night in Davis Gym when the Muhlenberg Mules emerged victorious, 92-80, over the Bucknell Bisons in what turned out to be a basketball battle no one in this area will forget for some time.

Two all-time Bucknell records and three Davis Gymnasium records fell before the scoring onslaught of the Bisons and Mules. The total of 172 points scored by the former record of 170 points scored in one game away from Bucknell and also the former record of 164 total points scored at Bucknell.

By scoring 92 points the Mules established a new record for Davis Gym while the Bisons were counting by surpassing the former high mark of 86 points for the losing team set by Muhlenberg in 1947. The total score was also a new Davis Gym record.

Diminutive Al Seemser proved to be the big gun in the Mule attack last night as he hit for 31 points. Rogers Rogers was the Bucknell hero as he dropped in 36 points. Joe Gallagher was a close second in the Bucknell camp with 23 markers.

Just as it has been several times this year, it turned out to be the first quarter that meant defeat for the Bisons. Muhlenberg got off to a rip-roaring start as Seemser scored in a driving lay-up shortly after the start of the contest. Bucknell found it too tough defensively to do much in the first quarter and at the end of the first period the score was Muhlenberg 24, Bucknell 5.

In the second quarter, Bucknell began to find the mark dropping in 27 points while the Mules countered with 26. The Bisons left the floor at half-time trailing 50-22.

In the third quarter it was evident that Coach Jack Guy had found a weakness in the Mule defense as Bucknell began to drive through and find the range. The third quarter ended with the Mules ahead 75-49.

In the fourth quarter the Bisons stole the show by putting on a great rally which fell just short of the mark. The Bisons scored 31 points in the final period while the Mules managed to hit for 20. The final score, Muhlenberg 92, Bucknell 80.

Intramural Dribblers Begin Fight For '50 Championship; LCA, DS, PLT, KS, SPE Win

by Bob Wark

Intramural basketball is again under way on the Davis Gym floor. Last Monday and Tuesday night found eight teams from three leagues locking horns in high hopes of garnering the 1950 championship.

In the A league, Lambda Chi Alpha took an early lead over S.A.E. and kept it through the game to win 23-22. Dick Hammer was high man for the Green with six buckets and two fouls for 14 points. Giles led S.A.E. with eight. Delta Sigma defeated the Phi Gamma, 22-17 with the help of Stewart's nine points. MacMahon, Mason, and Deakins all scored five points for the Phi. Tau Kappa Epsilon dropped a 37-26 decision to the Phi Lambda. Meyers of P. L. T. led all scorers with 15 points while Lower had 10 for T. K. E. The Commuters opened C league competition with a 46-25 victory over the B. L. S. A. Linlar was high scorer with 13 points for the Commuters. Poulliot gathered 10 for the B. L. S. A.

Tuesday evening's card featured two games each in the B and C leagues. Kappa Sigma scored a B league victory over the Collegians, 41-21. Ziegler sank 5 from the floor to lead the Kappa Sig's with 10 points while Dan scored six for the Collegians. The Sig Eps, after a close battle with S. A. M., pulled away at the end to win 39-21. Art Wagner was high scorer with 17 points for S. P. E. Levy had 10 for the Sammies.

In the C league, West College overcame the Bisons, 23-15. Ward led West College with nine points while Martin made seven Bismarck marks. Bucknell Village found little trouble with Alpha Chi Sigma as they trounced the engineers, 60-15. Zauksky showed the way with nine from the floor and two fouls for 20. Villagers. Mankin scored seven for A. C. S.

The schedule:

Sept. 23—Gettysburg	Home
Sept. 30—Muhlenberg <th>Away</th>	Away
Oct. 7—Lehigh <th>Home</th>	Home
Oct. 14—Wash. & Jeff. <th>Away</th>	Away

GALLAGHER CLIMBS

Joe Gallagher added 23 points to his total last night and by doing so became the first Bucknellian to go over the 100 mark. Gallagher now has 113 points.

Bison Harriers Collect Honors

When the Middle Atlantic Soccer Conference got together recently to elect an all-star team, two Bucknell seniors got the nod: Art Raynor for his hard hitting offensive game and Dan Fuller, whose sparkling backfield play was instrumental in carrying the Herd to the playoffs this Fall.

MURAL BASKETEERS

Tonight's action in the Intramural league will find KDR vs. PKP and Comm. vs. BV at 7:30 while BISA vs. WC and ACX vs. EC at 8:30.

BASKETBALL AVERAGES

If average scores meant very much, every game the Bucknell Bisons played would be a close one. Including the Muhlenberg game, the Bisons had amassed a total of 497 points for an average of 62 points per game. On the other hand Bison opponents have managed to score a total of 510 points, for an average of about 64 points per game.

REVENGE, MAYBE?

Bucknell will have another chance to avenge their close defeats by Gettysburg in football and basketball when the Bullets arrive here Saturday evening.

FACE TEST SATURDAY

The Varsity wrestling team will face its toughest test of the season this Saturday when they meet undefeated Gettysburg away.

Even though Basketball has dominated the sports scene for a couple of months and figures to do so for a couple more, the announcement of the 1950 Bucknell football does arouse an interest in the lovers of the pigskin sport.

With the addition of Colgate and Lehigh to the Bucknell schedule, the Bisons will return to the nine game schedule they abandoned last year when they played in eight games.

The 1950 schedule should be one of the best ever all schedules enjoyed by the Bisons in the last few years. Both of the new opponents have built up fine reputations on the football field and should be worthy of the best the Bisons have to offer.

Colgate is attempting to regain the winning form they have been accustomed to in years gone by. Under the tutelage of Andy Kerr, the Red Raiders were one of the powerhouse eleven in the East. Coach Paul Bitter has encountered serious problems since he assumed the head mentors position and hasn't enjoyed too much success as yet. However, the New Yorkers have established themselves as one of the toughest college teams in the country. The Red Raiders line on the other hand was favorably compared to the holding power of a sieve.

Alan Egler, triple-threat halfback who was a leader in rushing statistics, will be on hand to try and give the Red Raiders the much needed upward boost. In his fourth season at the helm, Bitter should come up with an eleven capable of giving the Lawrencemen a run for their money.

Lehigh on the other hand has always been tough on the gridiron and should remain that way next season. Reports from the Lehigh campus make an ominous sound for 1950 opponents. Last years eleven will return virtually intact and the Engineers should be one of the toughest eleven in the state. Dick Gabriel, high scoring halfback, will return to lead the Lehigh scoring parade.

The Bisons will have their opportunity to square things with the Gettysburg Bullets on September 21 in the first game. This game of course, is a natural to start the season, especially if it is anything at all like the contest last year.

With W. & J., Muhlenberg, Lafayette, N. Y. U., Temple, and Delaware also waiting for their turn at the Bisons, 1950 looks like a banner year. Coach Harry Lawrence and his coaching staff will have their hands full preparing for this season.

And now to give credit where credit is due, let's pause for a moment and give a hand to Al Humphrey for a swell job in arranging a top-notch football schedule. Another coach due for a big hand is Herb Maack, mentor of the undefeated wrestling squad. The wrestlers will face their toughest test this Saturday when they trek to Gettysburg to face the Middle Atlantic States champions. Best of luck, Herb.

LAST NIGHT IN REVERSE

Last night's total of 172 points set a new record for total points in which a Bucknell basketball team was involved. Oddly enough the same two teams were involved in the game which stands as the lowest scoring contest. On Feb. 24, 1939, Bucknell defeated Muhlenberg 29-15.

MANAGERS

Shirley Ringler has been elected the 1950 game manager at a recent board meeting. Also Lu Pinner has been elected basketball manager.

The Carnegie Library is packed with 105,000 books, magazines, and other publications.

ANSWER: The Pennsylvania Plan is a method whereby you, the purchaser, can deposit and SAVE $1.00 or more weekly toward the purchase of any merchandise carried in this store. Your purchase may be made at any time you may want it.

QUESTION: How long do I have to continue making these regular weekly payments?

ANSWER: As long as you like. You may start at any time. You may stop at any time. You may purchase merchandise against your Pennsylvania Plan account up to the full amount of your credit at any time.

QUESTION: What do I gain by joining the Pennsylvania Plan?

ANSWER: In addition to helping yourself to save toward necessary purchases, you will have a chance to win every week, ABSOLUTELY FREE, many dollars in merchandise of your own choosing. This award is in addition to every dollar you have paid in to your account.

QUESTION: What is the amount of the prize?

ANSWER: The prize, this week and every week, is a merchandise credit amounting to $55.00.

QUESTION: Can I lose anything?

ANSWER: No. You can draw out in merchandise the FULL AMOUNT of your credit at ANY TIME.

QUESTION: Are there any qualifications?

ANSWER: Only one. In order to qualify for the weekly prize you must be paid up for that week.

FLASH . . . Pennsylvania Plan customers everywhere are so enthusiastic that they urge their friends to join. We will credit the account of the sponsor with $1.00 for every new account introduced.

"Frailty, thy name is woman." Preponderant among the weapons of the presumably "deadlier sex" is the woman's ability to talk—fast and furiously—upon the most slender provocation. Several classic examples of this characteristic's fulfilling its reputation were evidenced in the past few weeks.

Heist

For instance, his first and hard-sought date with a certain girl materialized just after Christmas vacation, and the femme found the long evening, low lights, and soft music an inspiration to relate all of the highlights of her stay at home. Five minutes of her constant gibbering and he was wishing that she had stayed at home. She talked of the parties she had attended, the pies she had baked, even the health of her insane grandmother. It was inevitable, however, at the painful close of the evening, she turned to her companion asking in a blasé intonation, "And what did you do during vacation. A medium hard 'I practiced patience' was all the fellow could manage in answer.

And then there's the verbal venom of the girl whose personal interests are at stake. Several weeks ago, after her term paper was completed, a girl returned her rather voluminous stack of books, some to the Carnegie Library and the rest to the "Lit" Library. By mistake, one of the volumes which had originally been in the Carnegie Library was returned to the library in the Literature Building. Just recently, the girl received a note from the former, requesting the return of its book and when the mishap was discovered, she returned the edition to its rightful library. After explaining her mistake to the librarian, the rather passive figure behind the desk had time to say only, "Miss, this book is a month overdue, and the charges should be—"

At this point, the infuriated co-ed began her tirade, which evolved into a lengthy denunciation of the library, the librarian, and the world in general.

At first shocked and subsequently irritated by the verbal beating he was suffering, the librarian merely maintained a shallow, ironic smile and tapped his fingers on the desk in a noble gesture of restraint. Finally, when the girl was finished, he continued in the vein of his original remarks, "And I was only going to say, Miss, that under the circumstances, there will be no charges."

The birch-beer they're making these days must be mighty potent stuff!

Babs Fiedler Is Appointed To WVBU Director's Board

The Board of Directors of the Radio Workshop have appointed Barbara Fiedler to the position of Public Relations director for WVBU.

Babs, a sophomore who hails from Danville, has had quite a bit of experience in the field of Journalism and public relations. While in high school, she was editor of the student newspaper.

Here at Bucknell she has distinguished herself by being elected to Alpha Lambda Delta and by holding such positions as publicity director for the Sophomore-Junior prom. Babs has also been active in Cag and Dager where she appeared in "Counselor at Law" and has been writing the "Behind the Mike" column for the Bucknellian.

by Babs Fiedler

It's about time the student participants of WVBU stop acting as if the station was one big joke. The mediocre programs that are mainly for fooling around and making corny jokes are terrible. WVBU is a serious enterprise. Although it is a lot of fun at times, it's equally a lot of hard work. So, to all you people who just think that WVBU is a place where you can sit down and be ridiculous, why don't you try making a transcription of your show and figure out how you'd like to listen to something like that. If you think it needs improving, improve it. It will be well worth your while because you'll not only be pleasing your listening audience but yourself as well.

WVBU has welcomed in a new advertising manager, "smiling boy", Dave Wagner. This vital young man hails from Williamsport, Pennsylvania and is a member of the Sophomore class. He is taking over the place that was vacated by Homer Walters who is now working for an insurance company in Reading. Dave has a big job ahead of him and we certainly wish him a lot of luck.

And speaking about advertising brings to mind a very painful subject. There are three things wrong with the advertising of WVBU according to the advertisers.

(1) They don't hear their advertising (this can't be helped because the station can only be heard on campus due to a national ruling).

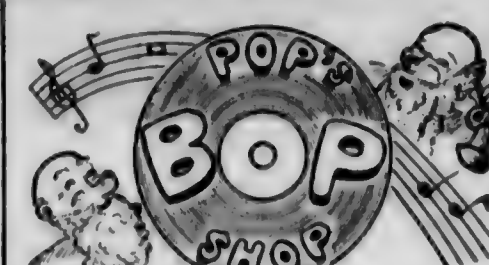

(2) No one tells them about their advertising. This can be remedied. If the students would only let the local advertisers know that they hear advertisements over the station and are coming to buy things, then the advertiser would be satisfied.

(3) Bills are not sent out for the advertisements. Where are the bills? One of the advertisers stated that it was so long between the time he heard the advertisement and the time the bills were straightened out that his accounts are all fouled up. It would be well if the station straightened out who is to take care of the Bucknellian.

Sunday afternoon is a slant of grey light through a rain-spattered window and work is a piece of blank paper in a typewriter. What to fill it with.

You could tell how one of the local establishments will soon have a combo playing on weeknights. But it's a little early for ice skating.

No. Better forget it. You could say something about the terrific Vernon Duke record you heard the other night and Jeff would scratch his head and Pete would chuckle and everybody else would wonder what you were talking about.

Better forget that, too. How about Joyce Hackett. She sounds more like Rose Murphy than Rose Murphy does. German house would like that.

But maybe French House wouldn't. Of course there's always records. What's the name of that old Fats Waller disc? Oh, yeah—"Aloysius, Do the Dishes". (Look, it rhymes). It's Fats at his best. So terrific.

And then there's Frank Sinatra (he sings). But he hasn't made a good record in three years. How about the joke about him having to keep running around under a shower to get wet. That's about as sharp as last week's letters.

There are a few really fine musicians on campus. You could tell how they're knocking themselves out (but not for kicks) with the local Henry Busse. What's the phrase that goes with that? . . . Artistic prostitution, that's it. But we've got a new editor this week so you'd better forget about that, too.

Awwwwwwwthehellwithit. There's just nothing to write about this week.

Dr. Richard T. Baker To Speak On 'Tomorrow Never Comes' At Chapel

Dr. Richard T. Baker, who is the Associate Professor of Journalism at Columbia University will speak at Chapel, January 25, on "Tomorrow Never Comes."

In 1938 he visited 32 foreign countries on the terms of a Pulitzer Fellowship awarded by Columbia University. His travels took him from Japan through the Orient to Africa, the middle East and Europe.

Served in China

During the war Dr. Baker served in China as professor and acting dean of the Post Graduate School of Journalism in Chungking, which was a joint project of the Republic of China and Columbia University. He was also a war correspondent in the Pacific theater in 1945 and 1946.

The guest speaker is a graduate of Cornell College of Iowa, Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism and Union Theological Seminary.

Written Many Articles

Dr. Baker has written quite a number of religious articles for periodicals, and is author of several books, such as, "The Sun and the Soil," "Ten Thousand Years," and "Let's Act—Now!"

Served As Delegate

When the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church chose two youth delegates to sit in the United Conference at Kansas City in May, 1939, for the purpose of bringing together the three major branches of American Methodism, Mr. Baker was one of the two. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Baker is a speaker familiar to the student body, and he was one of the principal speakers in the "Religion-in-Life Week" program of 1948. He has addressed the United Methodist Church on at least two other occasions.

DMD, Economics Honorary, Initiates 11 New Members

Delta Mu Delta, the national economics honorary, initiated eleven new members at a meeting held yesterday, January 18. Those initiated were Frances Aker, John Campana, Yvonne Eng, Robert Campbell, Warden Martin, Julius Shedio, George Stanton, Pat Wiley, Richard Eberhart, Douglas Hulst, and, as an honorary member, Miss Harriet Love, who has been acting as faculty advisor for the group.

ent exhibition is the variety of drawings in the show. Actually, they are not pure drawings, but are predominantly line work with a minimum of color. "Buffalo Valley," and "Road to Covered Bridge" are two fine examples of this very refreshing approach to landscape. The concentration on line with finely distributed color provides a clear, breathing production of nature. "Windy Day on Buffalo Road," and "Circus Morning," are good examples of how the line is so adept at catching nature in her various moods. In these "drawings," Mr. Mitchell shows a new interest in Calligraphy, which may be defined as "The artist's handwriting in his painting."

Power And Richness

"Landscape from Mile Hill," and "Autumn Landscape," are interesting for their display of the power and richness seen in nature when she is wreathed in her great varieties of line, plane, and color.

A love of the panoramic is evident in Mr. Mitchell's familiar "Susquehanna Confluence," painted on top of Blue Hill, overlooking Sunbury.

Predominant Feeling

The predominant feeling in "McKinley Road," "Pennsylvania Landscape," and more subtly in "Lewisburg," is quality of color for its own sake. I particularly enjoy these pictures for their unrestrained, happy atmosphere. They seem to take pride in the colored aspects of nature.

The interest in abstract composition and design is displayed skillfully by Mr. Mitchell in "Approach to Lewisburg," and in "Bass Harbor Lighthouse," the latter being noteworthy for its opaque color patterns.

"Blue Water" Paintings

"Lobster Pound" and "Black Island Harbor," two of the "blue water" paintings in the exhibit, give one the impression of Florida on the nicest day of the year. The water is cool and inviting, and the atmosphere remains consistent in this invitation.

The spirit of the fishermen and sailors of New England is embodied in one of Mr. Mitchell's rare character portrayals, "John Topping of Three Mile Harbor."

Bruce Mitchell is well known by the students and the residents of surrounding communities, and his

Admission 'Tests' For Pre-Meds To Be Given Twice

Princeton, N. J., January 10. The Medical College Admission Test, required of applicants by a number of leading medical colleges throughout the country, will be given twice again during the current calendar year, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 13, 1950, or on Monday, November 6, 1950, at administrative centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges, through its Committee on Student Personnel Practices, recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1951 take the May test. The results will then be available to institutions in the early fall when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next freshman class.

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern science, and an achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 29 and October 23, respectively, for the May 13 and November 6 administrations.

work is displayed in the most prominent galleries in the United States, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, and the Carnegie Galleries in Pittsburgh. His current exhibition here will last through January 29.

For those of you who have not had the opportunity of meeting Mr. Mitchell or seeing him work, you are invited, "artist or not," to his studio, near the art lab, on the top floor of the Engineering Building. He is always on hand to answer questions concerning art, artists, or to simply pass the time, over any subject.

Microradio Wave Properties To Be Shown

by Bob Woolhouse

Did you ever see microradio waves approximately three centimeters in length tossed about the room from one corner to the other? There's nothing to it, according to the crew down in the Physics Lab which has constructed devices that can accomplish this feat.

In fact, they're demonstrating the apparatus next Monday night at 7:30 in the physics lecture room 122 in the Engineering Building. Everyone interested in an experiment of this sort is welcome to attend.

This is the work of three Bucknellians, Jim Davenport, Dick Baker and Harry Feit, who have been studying high frequency radio waves, the properties of which approach the properties of light waves. They are able to polarize microradio waves and deflect and reflect them at will with the use of various types of metal sheets which are analogous to mirrors and prisms in optics.

At Monday's demonstration, which is in conjunction with the national physics honorary, Sigma Pi Sigma, the men will explain standing waves and also show how waves can be focused to a point or directed in a beam. Since these waves are basically the same as those used in radar, they will be able to demonstrate how the detection of another ship or plane is made possible. Dahlberg Gives Students A Choice Of Two Worlds

"Can We Claim Tomorrow" was the title of the address given by Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, minister of the First Baptist Church, Syracuse, New York at Bucknell Chapel, Wednesday, January 18.

Dr. Dahlberg stated that we have the choice between two worlds, one anarchy, and the other one an orderly and righteous world under the influence of the Judeo-Christian religion. In order to make a better world we would have to take individuals, one by one, and help them to live a Christian life.

Starting Place
"We must first start by claiming the children for tomorrow! The country of tomorrow, as we all know, rests upon the children of today; children in the cradle, in the homes, and in the schools."

This is a particularly important matter now because of the unusual number of children added to our population in the past five years. "This means a vast army of fourteen million children."

Three Worlds
Dr. Dahlberg went on to say that "The commercial world, the political world, the secular world are already reaching out for the little children to determine how they will vote and what kind of citizens they will be come." The religious and educational forces of our day must be equally alert and intelligent.

"The second great area of life to claim for all of us," Dr. Dahlberg continued, "is the individual, indifferent, men and women who have never given a thought to the eternal God."

The Ultimate Aim
Said the speaker, "I don't think we will get to first base until we get down into the life of every individual, one by one, and show them how to do the work of the Kingdom of God." All of the great churches of our land are now making special efforts at the present time to this end.

The Campus Newscast announced by Jack Bozarth is really getting to be one of the most popular things on WVBU. Although many people feel that it is not too representative of the whole school, it has been suggested that people be appointed as news gatherers from every available place on campus, and that these news gatherers positions should be given credit toward becoming a permanent member of WVBU.

Baptism of Fire
Before the tour begins, the quartette will have their baptism of fire at the Philadelphia Alumnae Banquet in McAllister's hall, Philadelphia.

The entire glee club could not arrange to be there, but arrangements were made to sing in Lewisburg High School Friday morning, the 3rd, so that the Club would not face a coast-to-coast broadcast "cold".

A complete itinerary cannot be printed at this time due to the fact that last minute arrangements are being made by the managers on their pre-tour tour. However, a list of towns the Club will appear in follows consecutively: Wayne, Mt. Airy, Haverford, Haddonfield, N. J., Haddon Heights, N. J., Abington, Lambertville, N. J., Princeton, N. J., West Orange, N. J., Cranford, N. J., Weehawken, N. J., Hempstead, N. Y., and New York City.

Reservations have been made for the Club to spend the last night on tour in the Biltmore Hotel, New York. On the other night, the men will be housed in private homes. Buses will leave New York City at 12 noon, Friday the 10th, so arrangements have been made for the men to register late.

Over 70 Students' Wives Entertained At Buffet Supper
More than 70 wives of students were entertained by President and Mrs. Horace A. Hildreth at a buffet supper at their home Monday evening, January 30. Guests included the wives of seniors graduated February 4 as well as the entire membership of the Wives Club.

In recognition of the part which they played in inspiring and encouraging the academic aspirations of their husbands, wives of the February graduates were awarded numerous certificates conferring upon them the title of "Ph.D., Pushed Husband Through." The certificates were signed by President Hildreth and by the secretary of the Wives Club.

Mrs. George Tracy, newly-elected president of the Wives Club, and Mrs. Spencer Carlow, retiring president of the club, together with the officers of the organization assisted Mrs. Hildreth in serving during the supper.

Entertainment was provided by a quartet from the men's glee club and by William Groover of Lewisburg, baritone soloist for the club.

Natum Leads Steelers
The Pittsburgh Steelers will be led by ace halfback Jerry "Bruiser" Natum. Natum, who played his collegiate basketball and football at New Mexico, is cast in the same role that Pritchard occupies with the Eagles. Both men are high scorers on the basketball floor.

The Steelers' array of talent also includes Bill Walsh, Notre Dame's contribution to the Pittsburgh grid squad; George Papach, former Purdue star; Bill McPeak, Golden Boy of the Pittsburgh Panther era; Val Jansante, one of professional football's greatest pass catchers; Charlie Melich, rugged defensive end; Frank Sinkovitz, a lauded center on the grid turf; and Red Moore, who captained the team.

President Hildreth Will Attend Charter Day Dinners Next Week
President Hildreth will attend two Charter Day dinners within the next few days. Tomorrow night he will be at a dinner dance at the Edgewood Country Club in Pittsburgh and on February 17 he will attend a dinner given by the Treston Alumni at the Penn Manor Club in Morrisville.

President Hildreth has also spoken at Philadelphia, February 1; Washington, D. C., February 2; York, February 3; Williamsport, February 4; Sunbury, February 6; Lewisburg (Union County), February 7.

Other Charter Day dinners were scheduled for San Francisco, Harrisburg, New York City, Lancaster, Albany, St. Petersburg, Scranton, Baltimore, Wellboro, Reading, Thayer, and Rochester.

Video Script Awards
The Columbia Broadcasting System, open to students in American colleges and universities, will offer four prizes totaling up to $3000 during the spring semester for the best hour or half-hour television script.

The International Study Tour Contest which closes March 31, has no restrictions on subject matter except that the theme of the essay must be of a nature that, for its full development, requires academic contacts, research possibilities, field work or study of source material that cannot be obtained except in Europe.

John D. Plant '06 ATTENDS PHILADELPHIA MEETING AND DINNER
John D. Plant '06, former Director of Physical Education at Bucknell and an editor of "Advanced Management," Dr. Tread is a member of the American Economics Association, the American Psychological Association, chairman of the committee on publications of the national council of the Y. M. C. A. and chairman of the Board of Briarcliff Junior College.

Mr. Kottcamp received the degree of bachelor of science in mechanical engineering in 1938. After graduation he went with the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, where he worked on various phases of turbine application engineering at the South Philadelphia Turbine Works; he was later made Assistant Supervisor in the New York Engineering Division.

During the war he served in the U. S. Navy as Engineering Officer on a Destroyer, Assistant Superintendent of the Steam Turbine Laboratory, and Officer-in-Charge of the gas turbine laboratory at the U. S. Naval Engineering Experiment Station at Annapolis, Maryland.

After the war Mr. Kottcamp was appointed Assistant Director of Research and also manager of the Dumfries Laboratory of the Locomotive Development Committee. This is the organization developing the coal-fired gas turbine locomotive.

Mr. Kottcamp recently accepted a position as Chief Fuels and Lubricants Engineer, Turbine and Steam Follower Section of the Gulf Oil Corporation. The research and development of gas turbines, fuels, and lubricants constitute an important part of his present activities.

Mr. Kottcamp is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Society of Naval Engineers.

B Club Sponsors Gridders In Court Battle Tonight

By Harvey Sheir
Basketball trunks and sneakers will replace grid pants and cleated shoes when the Philadelphia Eagles tackle the Pittsburgh Steelers in a basketball tussle at Davis Gymnasium tonight.

The contest is for the benefit of Bucknell's B Club and will begin at 8:15 p. m. A preliminary encounter will send the Orange and Blue football squad against a faculty quintet at 7:15 p. m.

The Eagles, champions of the National Professional Football League for the past two years, will be led by such familiar pickup names as Jack Ferante, Chuck Bednarik, Al Wojciechowski, Bush Pritchard, and Larry Cabell.

No Rookies On Court
Football is the Eagles' bread and butter, but members of the Philadelphia quintet also have unusual talent on the hardwood. Pritchard is the main goal-getter, but anyone on the basketball court. Reagan, a former All-American at the University of Pennsylvania, played for the New York Football Giants before joining the Quaker City pickers.

The Eagles are in their sixth season of court warfare and will also feature Jay McDowell, Bill MacKrides, Mike Jarmak and Frank Reagan. All are stars both on the gridiron and the basketball court. Reagan, a former All-American at the University of Pennsylvania, played for the New York Football Giants before joining the Quaker City pickers.

Natum Leads Steelers
The Pittsburgh Steelers will be led by ace halfback Jerry "Bruiser" Natum. Natum, who played his collegiate basketball and football at New Mexico, is cast in the same role that Pritchard occupies with the Eagles. Both men are high scorers on the basketball floor.

Noted Cellist Luigi Silva To Play Selections By Beethoven, Strauss
For his concert in Bucknell's Davis Gymnasium Saturday evening, Luigi Silva, noted Italian cellist, has selected three of the same compositions which he presented recently in New York's Times Hall, plus three additional works chosen especially for his Lewisburg audience, he announced today.

Silva, who rose to fame as solo cellist with the Royal Opera in Rome when he was but 23 years old, will appear under the auspices of the Bucknell Artist Course at 8:15 o'clock Saturday evening.

Times Hall Concert
Concerning Mr. Silva's Times Hall concert, Virgil Thomson, music critic for the New York Herald Tribune wrote that the recital offered an exemplified history of solo music.

"All were executed in fine style too," by Mr. Silva, ever a technical and interpretative master, and by his accompanist Carlo Busotti, a pianist of rare skill," Mr. Thomson added.

Playa Program Here
Compositions played by Mr. Silva in New York and listed at the top of his program here, include "Toccata and Canon" by Ciaja, "Variations on a Theme by Mozart," by Beethoven, and "Sonata in F Major, Opus 6" by Richard Strauss.

For his Lewisburg concert, Mr. Silva has added his own arrangement of Schubert's "Valse Nobles et Sentimentales" and of Bartok's "Rumanian Folk Songs".

Men's Glee Club Returns After 15-Concert Tour

by Jack Williams
WITH THE MEN'S GLEE CLUB ON TOUR... February 10th. Seventy-six tired wandering minstrels and their director, Dr. Harold E. Cook, will leave New York City at noon today for the campus after having completed one of the most successful tours in recent years.

Last night climaxed the 15 performances that were squeezed into five days, for the men sang to over 10,000 guests and members of the New York Athletic Club at their exclusive headquarters in Central Park.

Great Reception
Arriving in the city of Hempstead, Long Island, at 6:00 p. m., the singers were met by members of the New York Athletic Club Glee Club, who acted as official hosts for the Bucknellians. Special dressing rooms were assigned to the Cookmen, and the banquet given them literally covered everything from soup to nuts.

After giving an hour and a half show, the men climbed back in the buses and rode down the "great white way" to The Biltmore, where they were assigned rooms and told to "get lost" by their haggard manager. In an hour's time the Club spread all over Manhattan! At this writing, but hopes are high for the return of most of the men by noon.

Killing Face
It's no wonder that the glee-clubbers were in a party mood last night. Starting at 6:00 a. m. last Sunday, the men traveled at a voice-killing pace and appeared on stage three times daily. The ride to Philadelphia from school was nerve racking, for the Club was scheduled for a nationwide broadcast over Mutual at noon. Then right after the broadcast the men headed for Wayne, where they sang for over an hour to an enthusiastic audience in the Methodist Church. As soon as the buses were loaded, the Club left for Mt. Airy Presbyterian Church, the sponsor of Sunday evening's concert.

HERMAN & LEISER'S

New Grading System Initiated; Dean's List Average Set At 2.2

The new streamlined grading system goes into large-scale operation for the first time this semester.

Marks will be given out sometime next week, Recorder Hunt announced. Dean's List average has been set at 2.2, or four B's and one A with five three-hour courses.

The system, which was announced in March, eliminates the old dual one which had the recorder's office listing numerical grades but giving out only letter ones. Under this system, each student will be able to calculate his own average.

To calculate your grade point average for the current semester, follow this procedure:

1. Total your quality credits according to the outline on your print: A as 3, B as 2, C as 1, F or WF as minus 1. Incompletes and D's do not count either way.
2. Determine the number of hours:
 - (a) Total hours credit reported for semester
 - (b) Add number of hours of F or WF
 - (c) Subtract hours for which no grade is assigned (as Glee Club, Band, Etc.)
3. Divide quality credits (as found in step 1) by hours (as found in step 2). The result is your grade point average for the semester.
4. To calculate your cumulative grade point average:
 - (a) Start with quality credits listed on your print at the end of the second semester, 1948-1949. DO NOT SUBTRACT FOR F GRADES RECORDED UP TO THAT TIME.
 - (b) Subtract from the hours listed on your print at the end of the second semester, 1948-1949, any hours credited without grade (as for credit transferred from another college, or credited for military service training, or for Glee Club, Band, etc.)
 - (c) Add to the hours and quality credits found in steps 1 and 2 the results of your calculations for the current semester (and for the summer session, if you were in attendance).
5. Divide the quality credits by the hours, as found in step 3. This is your cumulative grade point average to date.
6. Each semester you can determine your cumulative grade point average by adding the current semester's hours and quality credits to the cumulative total for the preceding semester, and dividing.

MILDRED M. HORTON TO SPEAK HERE SUNDAY AT BAPTIST, STUDENT CHURCHES, DINNER

Mrs. Mildred McFee Horton, vice president of the Federal Council of Churches and former commander of the WAVES, will be here Sunday for three addresses.

The former president of Wellesley College will speak in the First Baptist Church Sunday morning and at Student Church Services Sunday evening. She will also talk at a student-faculty dinner in the Women's College Dining Hall Sunday noon.

Topic of Talk
"The World Scope of Higher Education" will be Mrs. Horton's topic at the dinner which is being sponsored by the Christian Association. At Student Church in Hunt living room at 7 p. m. she will discuss, "The American Student in the World of Today". The subject of her address at the Baptist Church has not yet been announced.

by Ronald Unger

AT THE CRITICAL STAGE
It has been almost ten months since the nation's coal industry began its series of complicated labor disputes. The ensuing work stoppages have aroused fears of a critical coal shortage. Sellers have on hand only 22 days supply for private and commercial consumption. With this situation in mind and the repeated attempts of NLRB head, Robert Denham, achieving only failure, President Truman proposed a 70 day "truce" in an effort to reach a settlement.

With the showdown at hand the coal dispute came to a climax on February 4th, when Mr. Lewis turned down the President's proposal. In accordance with this refusal, the Chief Executive has invoked the Taft-Hartley injunction power over the 400,000 striking miners. Just how the government hopes to force the men to go back to the pits is the $64 question.

NOV H PLUS A
On August 6, 1945, the President said: "Sixteen hours ago an American airplane dropped one bomb on Hiroshima. That bomb had more power than 20,000 tons of TNT. It is an atomic bomb." This was the beginning of the "Age of the Atom." It was the beginning of chapter I, or the first wartime use of the most terrible weapon man had ever conceived.

On September 23, 1949, the President said: "We have evidence that within recent weeks an atomic explosion occurred in the USSR." Here was Chapter II, the breaking of the West's monopoly on atomic energy.

Just two weeks ago today Chapter III was unfolded when the President said: "I have directed the Atomic Energy Commission to continue its work in all forms of atomic weapons including the so-called hydrogen or super-bomb." This decision was made only after tremendous pressure was exerted on the Chief Executive. Its after-effects are already being felt. Speculations concerning a renewed attempt at international control have been made in all high political circles. Senator McMahon, Democratic chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, recently made an eloquent appeal in this direction.

What is needed, the Senator declared, is a "bold" approach. There should be set-up a "global Marshall Plan," including Russia, for the development of peaceful uses for atomic energy in every land. His speech received an enthusiastic reception from his fellow countrymen; but so far no action of any kind has been taken in that direction by President Truman. The events that occur in the following weeks and months concerning the new H-bomb may well determine the future of our nation.

THE ROOSEVELT RETURN

The Roosevelt dynasty which has followed a unique course in history is once again holding the limelight on the American political scene. During the first 50 years of this century, approximately 20 have found a Roosevelt occupying the White House. More years have seen a Roosevelt serving as the Governor of the State of New York. Now FDR's sons, James and FDR Jr., are moving into political prominence.

James has secured the Democratic nomination for the coming gubernatorial contest in California. His opposition will be the present governor, Earl Warren, who is running for his third term. Franklin Jr. has the inside track for the Democratic nomination in the Empire State, New York. If he receives the nomination, his opposition will likely be Thomas E. Dewey, who will be running for his third time.

Each of the Roosevelt standard-bearers is surrounded by an unmistakable aura of potentiality and of destiny. The coming elections in the two key states will be watched with more than usual interest.

BULLETS BATting .1000 WITH LATEST 69-65 WIN OVER VEXED HERD

by Bonnie Unger

That old hex which follows Bucknell teams in every contest against Gettysburg was present again, when the Bullets trampled the up-and-down Bison quint 69-65 in a thriller.

It seems that the Orange and Blue can't break the long standing jinx which dogs them in their athletic contests against Gettysburg College. It seemed for a while that the "Guy-men" would triumph in the hard fought game, when they took the lead early in the fourth quarter by two points. However, Connie DeLoach and Chink Lavin fouled out and Gettysburg rallied in the remaining minutes to score a four point win.

It remained, nevertheless, for one of Bucknell's stellar sophomores, Bucky Strasser, to put on one of the best exhibitions of basketball seen in these parts in many a day. In the third period, Strasser put together 6 baskets and two foul shots for fourteen consecutive points before Roger Rogers scored a two-point shot for the "vixen kids." This streak for Strasser began when Bucknell was behind 42-39 and ended when his thirteenth and fourteenth points on a tap-in game was a 63-55 margin. As one of the men said after the game was over, "Bucky carried the entire team for a quarter and a half."

Jack Guy employed a new lineup for the game. He started Connie DeLoach at guard, the position he played in high school, and Chink Lavin at the other back post. Gallagher and Rogers played the forward positions with Strasser jumping center. The game was one of those thriller affairs with Roger Rogers brilliant lay-up effort, in the waning seconds of the game, testing on the rim and rolling out, thus failing to investigate a 67-67 tie. Bucky Harris of Gettysburg played the second half with four personals against him, but he still pushed 21 points through the hoop to be runner-up to Strasser's 27. Among the other star performers of the evening were Lavin and DeLoach, of the home five with nine and 12 points respectively, while O'Brien of Gettysburg scored 12 points, also.

5 JERSEY ATHLETES BOLSTER BISONS 5

A glance at the Bison's basketball roster might indicate that the Herd calls New Jersey their home instead of Pennsylvania as five of the 12-man squad are Jersey athletes. The five migrants beaming above are Marty McKibbin from Hoboken; Nick Schleider, North Bergen; Joe Gallagher, Newark; George Lavin, Audubon; and John Schumberger, from Short Hills.

Gettysburg Halts Wrasslers' Win Streak At Five

by Bob Wark

Bucknell's wrestling team came to the end of a five match winning streak when the powerful Gettysburg grapplers overcame the Bisons, 24-10, on January 21 in the Bison's gym. Book teams entered the meet with five straight victories; however, Gettysburg had dropped their opening match to Princeton.

Coach Herb Maack's groaners were triggered by the loss of Marsh Guiding whose ankle was sprained when Bucknell wrestled Lafayette, and veteran John Rickard. Rick's thumb was badly injured in the Lafayette match. Three Bison wrestlers were making their debut in varsity competition.

In the 121 class, Gettysburg's John

TRAVEL APPEARS NEMESIS TO BISON QUINT AS COURTMEN DROP THREE FAST ONES TO LAFAYETTE, AMERICAN UNIVERSITY, AND NAVY

Bucknell's Bouncin' Bunnies returned to the campus Wednesday night on the last hop of their extended road trip that saw them turned back three times in as many tries against Lafayette, American University, and Navy.

Between semesters, the Herd took off like a bird for Lafayette on the 4th and had their wings clipped, 61-40, by an inspired down state five who held the Guy-men, who were within a four-point striking distance at the beginning of the last quarter, to eight lone counters while they themselves racked 17.

Long Don Strasser, who was having referee trouble the whole trip, was handcuffed by three early fouls, and finally went out for good in the third frame. Joe Gallagher was high man in this game, as in the other two, with 12 points and is well on the way towards setting some sort of seasonal record. Rogers was second with 11 and Bucky managed to get 9 on the way out.

The netmen had a layover of a night and a day before Journeying down Washington way to lose a heartbreaker to the American University quint, 79-62, a loss which left them counting more than ever on the contest with Navy to pull them out of the red.

And so it was not a defeated team that took the floor on Wednesday night, but a determined five men that held the ubiquitous Midshipmen and their vaunted fast break to a tie score at the end of the first quarter and a mere six point lead at the half.

It wasn't until the second half that a couple nautical minded Irishmen by the name of Fitzpatrick and Corrigan teamed up with Bill Wilson to pull away from the fatigued Herd and make the final read, 71-54.

APO To Commemorate Washington's Birthday With Annual Scout Ball

The service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, will hold the traditional George Washington Explorer Scout Ball in Tustin Gym on February 24. It was announced at the last meeting. This dance is an annual nationwide commemoration of George Washington's Birthday by the Boy Scouts of America. Each scout is required to attend in full uniform—Sea Scouts in navy blue, Air Scouts in light blue, Senior Scouts in green, and the remainder of the scouts in the uniform khaki of the Boy Scouts. The ceremonies of the evening will include the Bridge of Honor, the presentation of awards for the year from a formation resembling the bridge of a ship, and an Indian ceremony commemorating the background of the outdoors activities of scouting.

Wednesday afternoon the men were rewarded for a good concert in West Orange High School by a party given by senior class girls. The less that's printed about that, the better. However, it is almost certain that there will be a few future West Orange Bucknellians—all coeds.

Fine Acoustics

The same night the Club sang in one of the most perfect auditoriums ever encountered on tour: Cranford High School. The men were entertained by members of the "Couples Club" of the First Presbyterian Church, who made sure that the men were back at the buses by 8:30 a. m. on Thursday, for the trip to Weehawken High.

Space will not permit mention of the many incidents that kept the morale of the Club at a high pitch. The "funny" songs sung on the road, or the tired bodies and aching throats. There are some things we just don't ask 76 "traveling salesmen."

Our Slip Is Showing

Bucknell has attained a certain measure of notoriety—at least in the eyes of the sophisticated. The university has been brought to the attention of the public by the following item, which appeared in The New Yorker of February 4:

The Rockefeller Foundation of New York has awarded a $1000 scholarship to a student of Bucknell University by the name of Ed Luce, who is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. The student is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. The student is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

a Study Tour Trip to Europe and back, all expenses paid, for 50 days. Research on the topic of the paper is to be completed while abroad.

The addresses to which queries or requests for further information should be addressed are, respectively:

College Fiction Contest, MADEMOISELLE, 122 East 42nd Street, New York 17, New York.

Director, CBS Awards, Headquarters: 15 East 47th Street, New York 17, New York.

Professor Godfrey S. Delatoro, Chairman, Advisory Committee, International Study Tour Africa, Inc., 12 East 46th Street, New York 15, New York.

Recent statistics released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed that Bucknell just missed being placed among the top thirty of fifteen teams in the country. The Bison's average score per game was just 1.6 points behind Auburn.

'Vagabond King' Begins

"The Vagabond King," University Players next production, goes into rehearsal with two changes in the original cast. Herb Zearfos will be playing the astrologer and Joe Rosenkranz will appear as Casin.

The "King" will have its first rehearsal tonight at 7:30 in Bucknell Hall. Members of the cast who were on tour with the Glee Club were "re-quested" to cut short their New York celebration in order to return on time. Approximately seventeen rehearsals are scheduled between now and opening night on March 10, with the leads and the chorus rehearsing on alternate nights.

Ed Luce, business manager, and Herm Dauberman, production manager, have appointed their various committees for work on this large scale production.

Meanwhile, the cast of "Suppressed Desires," an Actors Lab production, will be rehearsing for their March 10 presentation of that play in theatre-in-the-round for the Bucknell Wives Club. This one act play deals with

'HILLTOP'...

Hilltop will show White Savage this Friday night in the Lit auditorium at 7 and 9 o'clock. Added attractions—in color—will be Mardi Gras and Ski Safari.

White Savage stars Maria Montez, Jon Hall, Sabu and Turhan Bey. It is the story of a sharp-witted fisherman who saves an island paradise from falling into the hands of unscrupulous traders and falls in love with a beautiful native. It is in technicolor.

Classroom shows will be held on February 15. A C&F movie, Spotlight on the Middle Millions, will be presented at 8 and 9 a. m. In Social Science 2, while The Family Album will be shown to chemical engineers at 1:30 p. m. In Engineering 103.

Expect Enrollment To Drop

Enrollment is expected to drop from the first-semester registration of nearly 2,300 students, since degrees were awarded to 135 men and women February 4. Less than 50 undergraduates, mostly transfers, have been admitted for the new term, according to Registrar George Faint.

TWENTY SENIORS ELECTED TO COLLEGE 'WHO'S WHO'

BU To Be Host
For FAO Meeting
March 5, 6, 7

Bucknell will serve as host for the first collegiate conference of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations ever attempted on March 5, 6 and 7. For three days, noted speakers representing many phases of the work of FAO will be on campus to speak to classes and conduct seminars.

FAO is the organization responsible for doing research on world-wide agricultural problems and especially problems concerning food distribution to needy countries. Experts from the Department of Agriculture on problems such as President Truman Point 4 program and Food Surplus will also be here to present the views of the U. S. government.

Heading the list of notables to attend the conference is Mr. N. G. Alex, Food Attaché to the Indian Embassy in Washington, who is recognized as an authority on food surplus problems in the Far East.

Morris Greene, FAO Conference Officer, has been in charge of all FAO conferences and will serve as the speaker for the Student Church on March 5.

J. Lossing Buck, Chief of the Land Use Branch, is a noted agricultural economist as well as a geographer. He has written several books on China and is a recognized authority on that nation.

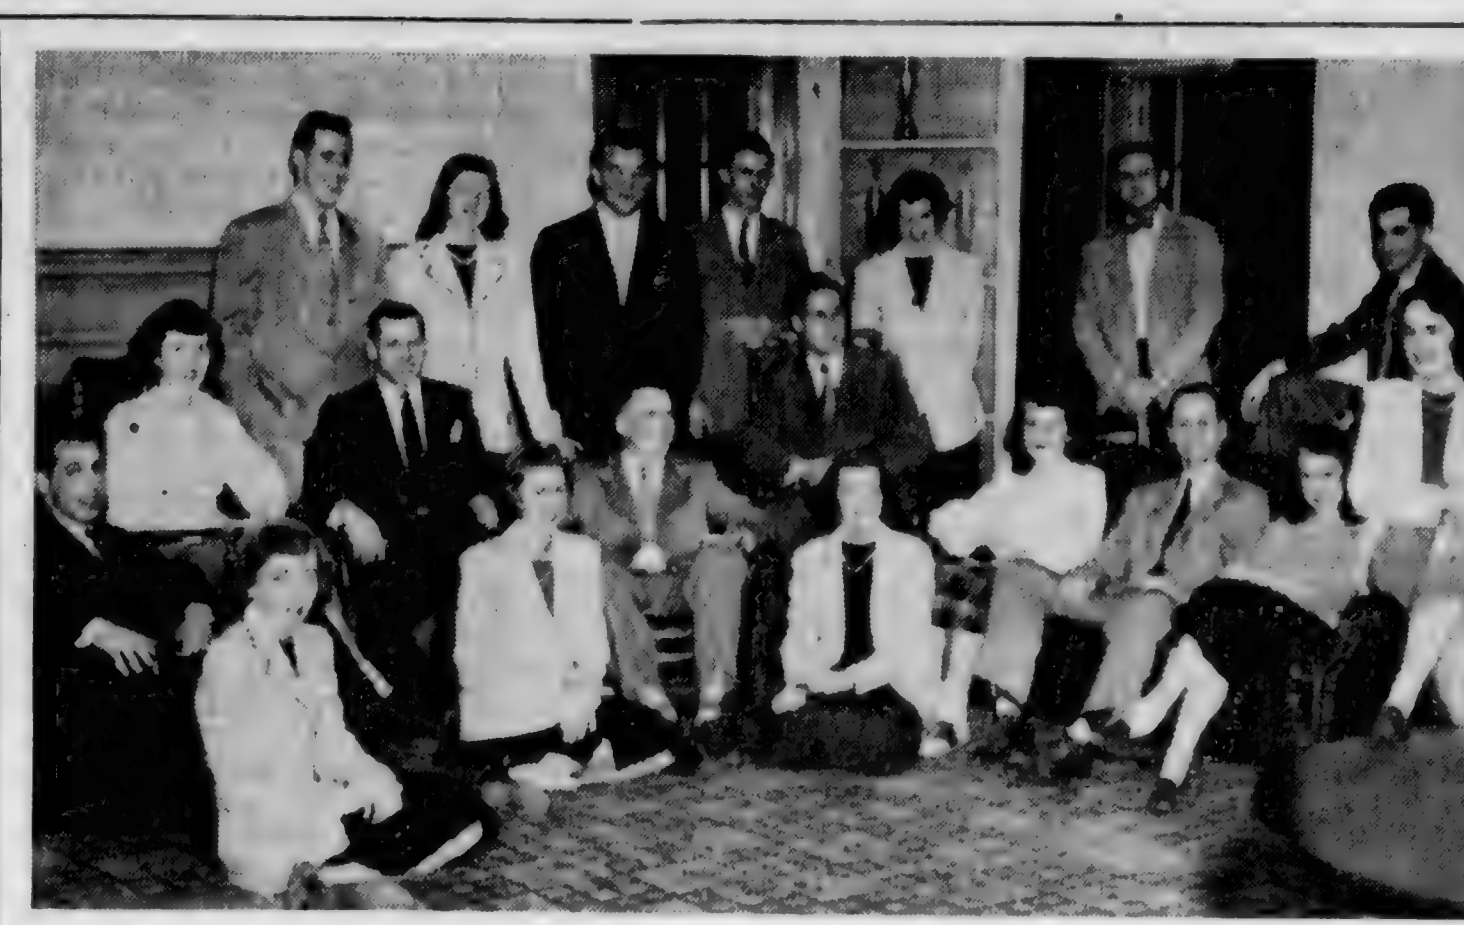

Rounding out the list is Dr. Charles E. Rogers, Educational Relations Officer, and Miss Alicia Banos, Liaison officer for FAO. Dr. Rogers is a former Professor of Political Science at Stanford and has written two books.

An appeal for money for the Christian colleges of China was the key note of Mildred Horton's informal address at the student-faculty dinner given in her honor Sunday at the Women's Dining Hall.

Mrs. Horton declared that in order to further Christianity we must break through the block of Communism and offer much needed help to these struggling universities.

In discussing higher education, the former commander of the WAVES asked that we give our young people the opportunity to understand that colleges are idealistic institutions.

Grand dreams are not to be discouraged if he starts at the bottom of his particular business or profession. He should attempt to see his position in relation to his ultimate goal in life.

Coeds Post Engineer's Valentine; Keats, Rousseau Defend 'Sliderulers'

A mass invasion of the once serene domicile of Bucknell engineers, imminent for sometime, has reached preponderant proportions with the opening of a new semester. We're speaking, of course, of the influx of the magnetically energized coed.

There was a time, not very long ago, that a female in the engineering building was somewhat an innovation, looking out of place and feeling quite the same. But no more! What with many math, art, and even World Lit classes being held there, slide rulers are no longer a majority. And as though their presence were not enough, several girls took it upon themselves this week to post a valentine, directed at unemotional engineers, on the bulletin board.

Ethereal Minded

The verse contained thereon requested that the factual engineers come out of their own world and learn to share "The joys of words, unspoken, yet quite understood by only two." The poetry was written in iambic tetrameter, except for the second line, which was quite fouled up.

Obviously the work of an A. B. At any rate, in answering for the many married and pinned engineers, we might say,

"We could not love thee, dears, so much Loved we not engineering more."
And for the engineers who have yet to cross the bar, and who are claimed so factual and unemotional, "Beauty is truth, truth beauty,—that is all Ye know on earth, and all ye need to know."

This guy Keats knew what he was talking about. He wasn't an engineer, either. Neither was Schopenhauer. "Women are themselves childish, frivolous and shortsighted." Neither was Rousseau. "Women have in general, no love of art." The philosophers and poets speak against you, girls.

Okay, so the valentine was all in fun. So's this.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY CONTEST

If your birthday is in February, you are eligible to win 200 Chesterfields in the new happy birthday contest. Simply put your name, address, and date of birth (must be in February) on the back of a Chesterfield wrapper and deposit it at the Sweet Shop (Parade). This week's contest closes February 23, and next week's contest begins on that day. Students with birthdays in March are eligible for next week's contest.

Up to Tuesday noon registration reached 2137, and additional late registration will bring this figure to more than 2150 according to Miss Easley, director of public relations. This figure is approximately 100 less than last year's second semester and 150 less than enrollment for first semester.

8th Annual Religion-In-Life Week Begins Sunday; Features Daily Convocations, Dorm Bull Sessions

The eighth annual Religion-in-Life-Week which begins Sunday and continues until Chapel Wednesday morning, will feature speakers familiar and new to Bucknell who will discuss "The Christian Faith Confronts Secularism."

Similar previous years in which classes were shortened and several speakers held discussions at the same time, this year there will be two daily convocations, one at 11 a. m. and the other 7:30 p. m. which will be addressed by Dr. Clarence Jordan and Dr. John Casteel. There will also be bull sessions and classroom discussions.

Professor Of Speech

Dr. John Casteel will address the morning sessions in Association of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Lee has done extensive work in the general field on social service and social education.

Other Speakers

Some of the other speakers will be John Crawford, Professor of Physics at Villanova College; J. Ralph Deppen, Rector of St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Lewisburg; Robert H. Fads, Minister of University Baptist Church, State College, Pennsylvania; Alfred B. Haas '33, Assistant Professor in the Department of Practical Theology, Drew Theological Seminary; Luther H. Harshbarger, Secretary of the Penn State Christian Association; Irlis Jones '31, Associate Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Washington, D. C.; and Edward N.

Seniors Select Candidates On Study, Leadership Basis

Twenty seniors will be included in the 1949-1950 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

The students are: Saffie Angle, Martha Baldwin, Jack Bozarth, Leah Chandler, Donald Davidson, Robert Ervin, Richard Freed, James Hoover, Jane Kreider, Eleanor Leiper, John Marcinik, Arthur Raynor, Joseph Rubinstein, Emory Smith, Jeanne Spong, Jack Thomas, Carol Van Allen, Janet Walter, Doris Wellenamp and Irvin Williams.

The students were selected by senior class vote on 41 candidates submitted by a faculty nominating committee which had been chosen by the class. The number was fixed at 40 due to the proportionate size of Bucknell.

The senior class was advised to select them on the basis of scholarship, leadership and cooperation in academic and extra-curricular activities, general citizenship, and promise of future usefulness.

Saffie Angle is president of C&D and business manager of L'Avenue. Martha Baldwin is on honor council and is treasurer of Phi-Hellenic Council.

Editor of The Bucknellian for the past semester, Jack Bozarth is also student representative to the athletic council and president of Pi Delta Epsilon.

Leah Chandler is vice president of WSGA, and Ducky Davidson was Junior class president and varsity football. Bob Ervin is vice president of ODK, president of the B-Club, treasurer of Phi Gamma Delta, ex-president of the Newman Club, and varsity football.

Dick Freed is varsity soccer and baseball, and an officer in Phi Gamma Delta. Jim Hoover is president of the B-Club, and varsity football and boxing.

Construction has begun on the actual steps of Davis Gymnasium since the completion of the foundation, bases and walls last week, according to Walter C. Geiger, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

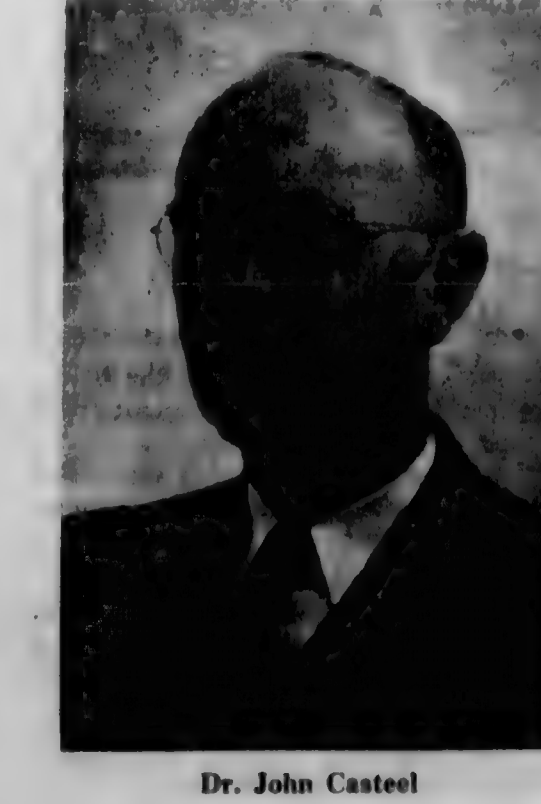

Work has been slowed down recently by the poor weather conditions. Mr. Geiger believes, however, that the front concrete steps will be completed by the first of March if the weather clears. Additional walks joining the steps and the road will be poured as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

A change of curbing will be necessary at the completion of the steps and walks, but work will not probably begin until late spring or early summer.

SIGMA CHI ELECTIONS

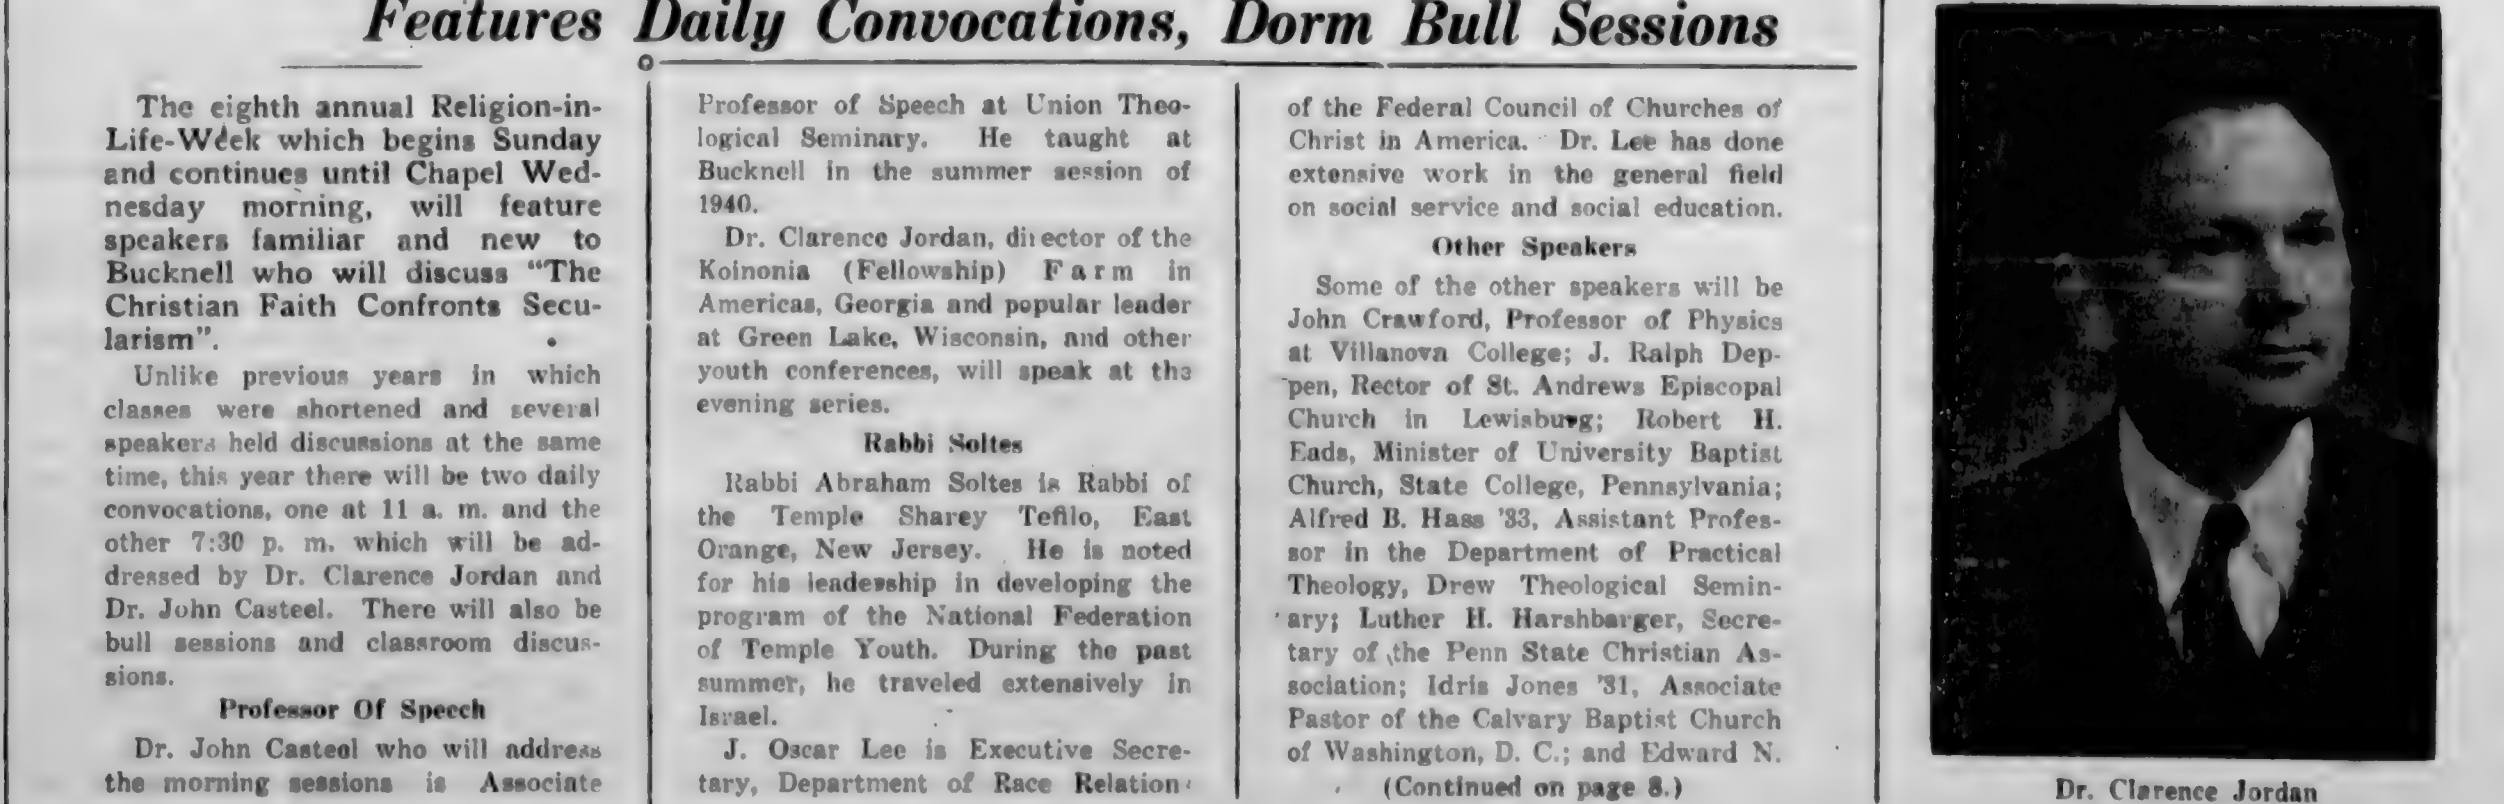

Recent elections at the Sigma Chi House reinstated Pat Carey as president for his second semester in office, while Floyd Henderson is replacing Fred Smith, who was graduated this month, as vice president.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1950.

Dear Guy,

I have before me a copy of your leaflet "Tempest Grips In A Teapot" in which you explain why you are discontinuing the sale of poppicks and cupcakes. At the very bottom of the paper there is a small notice: "This article was refused space in the 'Bucknellian' thanks to our Iron Curtain Board of Publication." When details were requested, you stated that you took the advice of our printer and did not even try to place the advertisement in the paper. The article wasn't refused space after all, so you are wrongly and unfairly blaming the Board of Publications for withholding something you yourself decided not to print.

But just for your information, the Board of Publications and Radio has no say about what goes into The Bucknellian. The only Board member that has any control at all over the copy is the editor. In spite of what you—or anyone else—may think, we do have a free press at Bucknell.

You are probably wondering now why your "advertisements" are not accepted in the paper. The answer is that they are editorials, not advertisements. You purchase space to air your personal views, rather than to help sell your goods, and this we will not allow because The Bucknellian represents student views.

When you decide to write display ads, then will we print your copy.

The Schedule-Change Muddle

The administration is to be congratulated for the very efficient registration and enrollment procedure they have worked out. Both operations were carried out this semester in a minimum of time.

Unfortunately, the whole effect is lost when it becomes necessary to make a schedule change after enrollment. The operation is tedious, aggravating, and amazingly inefficient. Some people have stood on line for three or four hours to make a single class change; many others have given up in disgust. The procedure in general is very poorly organized.

This is perhaps due to a miscalculation of the number of course changes that are expected or to a feeling that fewer changes ought to be made. But whatever the cause, the problem is with us.

At present, the procedure for changing a course involves three steps:

- (1) seeing whether the section wanted is still open, at room 110 West Wing;
 - (2) if the section is open, getting the approval of Miss Henderson to make the change;
 - (3) if approval is obtained, getting the new class cards, again at 110 West Wing.
- The Bucknellian feels that several changes should be made in order to speed up this system and make things easier all around. Here are our recommendations:
- (1) Bring the whole operation into Roberts Hall, where there is at least room to turn around.
 - (2) Separate steps 1 and 3 by making different lines for each.
 - (3) Add more personnel and equipment, in order that clerical work may be speeded up. The master class schedule cards can be tacked on a board so that they are easily available to all workers.
 - (4) Name some deputy advisers who will be empowered to approve course changes, thus relieving the congestion around Miss Henderson's desk.

The entire process of schedule changes can be made vastly more efficient and pleasant for everyone concerned if these suggestions are adopted. We see no reason why they should not be.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

by Becky Rogers

With the Senior Ball and its problem of choosing a queen coming up this spring, an article found in a recent Muhlenberg Weekly seems rather timely. Apparently Bucknell has tried about every way of selecting its queens, but Muhlenberg is going its one better—they're using an applause meter just like all the big amateur hour radio shows. It's an idea, and if the senior class can't afford a meter well, what's one find drive more or less at dear old B. U.?

And an article in the Juniata rings a familiar note. Seems that the members of Juniata's A Cappella Choir have just returned from a tour that has left them only "semi-sane." They're still, however, more fortunate than most of our own Glee Club members. The ones we've seen, at least, seem to be pretty much in a daze and, if not less than semi-sane, at least normal in a very exhausted sort of a way.

WORLD WIDE

by Ronald Unger

SCENE IN BOW STREET
Last Friday Dr. Klaus Fuchs, brilliant atomic physicist, sat behind the bars of a prisoner's dock in the Bow Street Police Court, London. This mild-mannered, rather inconspicuous gentleman had created a greater furor in prominent Anglo-American circles than any Russian spy. Dr. Fuchs had confessed to giving vital atomic information to the Russians throughout our great "Los Alamos Project," and passed on information concerning the H-bomb.

As one of the outstanding physicists whose loyalty had never been questioned, Dr. Fuchs was in access of the topmost secrets of the A-bomb during and after its construction. At Los Alamos he worked under Hans Bethe, author of the theory on which the hydrogen bomb is based. Dr. Fuchs was one of the elite to witness the first atomic bomb explosion. This "Jekyll and Hyde" personality, who knew he was betraying his country, had served to bring the East-West split into even sharper focus.

Just how important the information Dr. Fuchs relayed to the Russian espionage agents was spotlighted by physicist Bethe when he said, "The information supplied by Dr. Fuchs probably advanced the development of the Soviet atomic bomb at least a year."

A further canvassing of this country's leading scientists shows that the majority believe that many top secrets concerning the new hydrogen bomb have also fallen into Russian hands. Thus, one weak link in the chain of secrecy built around atomic project has created dire consequences of great weight in our future plans.

THE SHORTAGE BECOMES MORE ACUTE

Last week President Harry S. Truman invoked the injunction clause of the Taft-Hartley Act, and last weekend the injunction went into effect. The showdown is at hand. The nation's supply of coal is at its lowest point in a generation. Just 13 days supply remains on hand. The coal crisis had closed in rapidly.

Railroads have cut their steam passenger service by 50 per cent and steam freight service by 25 per cent. Two states, Massachusetts and Indiana, have declared emergencies. The dinomits which ended with the cessation of hostilities have returned once more. The miners show no inkling of returning to the mines. The problem still remains: how can the President force 400,000 miners to go back to the mines? An answer must be found soon, or an already critical situation will become a catastrophe.

ACHESONIAN STATEMENT OF FOREIGN POLICY

Shortly after Senator McMahon made his proposition that a new approach be made to the problem of international control of atomic energy by offering $5 billion in gifts and loans over ten years, to nations everywhere, including Russia, in exchange for effective suppression of atomic weapons, Secretary of State reviewed the basis of American foreign policy and said in substance:

"The United States cannot do business with Soviet Russia except where a set of facts creates entrenched realities that force the Kremlin to adjust its aggressive policies. This happened and was proved in Berlin, Greece, Turkey, and Iran; and all our efforts are to be directed toward increasing the number of such areas in the world."

However, the Secretary of State has failed to answer the questions being asked by many keen observers. First, "Where then, in the world, do you propose to add to the areas where realistic facts will compel the Russians to back down. Secondly, how do you propose to add them?" These are vital issues which must be clarified before political experts will be satisfied.

WANTED: THE RIGHT ROAD FOR THE GOP

With the coming elections in November, the Republican bigwigs have come up with a new statement of policy. The official GOP slogan for 1950 will read "Liberty vs. Socialism." It is hoped that this slogan will enable a Republican to return to the Presidency in 1952 after a 19 year famine. However, this new platform has incurred much criticism from the more progressive members of the party who advocate a "Meet Fair Deal policy."

The results it seems have been indicative of a victory for the right wing of the Republican party stalwarts, and an increased split over policy within the party ranks. Just what effect that will have on the 1950 elections should be answered shortly.

GAZING INTO THE CRYSTAL BALL

On February 22nd, about 90 percent of the eligible voting population of England, Wales, and North Ireland will go to the polling places to elect 625 members to a new House of Commons. The election theme seems to be similar to that of the US Presidential election in 1948: more socialism or more individualism.

It is this corner's guess that the Conservatives will gain in the total number of seats they capture, but the Labor Coalition will be returned to power once more.

Placement Bureau News

All seniors graduating in June who have not registered with the Placement Bureau and wish to do so are requested to come to the Placement Office (Room 100 East Wing) at their earliest convenience.

All persons having completed their registration and who have not turned in their question sheets and photographs are reminded to do this as soon as possible.

CIVIL SERVICE
Persons interested in entering the field of social work are encouraged to investigate the opportunities in the recently announced examination for senior visitors. Persons majoring in sociology, psychology and related social sciences will find this a worthy opportunity. Closing date for filing applications is March 3, 1950. Examinations are scheduled for March 25, 1950. Application forms may be secured through the Placement Bureau.

PANEL DISCUSSION TO CONSIDER RACIAL AND RELIGIOUS ISSUES

The eighth annual Religion-in-Life-Week which begins Sunday and continues until Chapel Wednesday morning, will feature speakers familiar and new to Bucknell who will discuss "The Christian Faith Confronts Secularism."

The Middle Susquehanna Valley Brotherhood Committee has made the final plans for the Brotherhood Round Table to be held in the Vaughan Literature Auditorium at 8:00 p. m. Tuesday evening, February 21. This is the second annual celebration of Brotherhood Week, February 19-26, which was designated by presidential proclamation.

Dr. Charles M. Bond, professor of religion, is chairman of the Brotherhood Committee. This committee includes a number of civic minded men and women from Sunbury, Northumberland, Milton, Lewisburg, and other communities in this area. The purpose of the committee is education, seeking to establish mutual understanding and appreciation among racial and religious groups.

Three prominent speakers will present various aspects of the subject, "How Can We Achieve Brotherhood in Community Life?" The speakers are, Dr. John Crawford, professor of physics at Villanova College, Rabbs Avraham Soltes of Temple Shalom, Telford, East Orange, New Jersey, and Dr. J. Oscar Leo, executive secretary of the race relations department of the Federal Council of Churches.

There will be local leaders sharing in the panel discussion. The students are invited to attend the Brotherhood Round Table and to share in the discussion of the subject announced.

The tour was made by 275 members.

Alpha Phi Celebrates Anniversary

Holds Party For Local Children

On Saturday afternoon in Hunt Room Alpha Phi celebrated its third anniversary by sponsoring a Valentine Party for the children of Lewisburg. Approximately 35 children were present.

The local chapter, Beta Chi, was founded on the Bucknell campus on February 14, 1947.

"Nature Of God" To Be Topic Of Philosophy Club Discussion Next Week

"THE NATURE OF GOD" will be the discussion topic at the Philosophy Club meeting to be held at 7:30, February 22nd, in the Social Science Building. Dr. F. David Martin of the philosophy department will lead the discussion. All students interested in a meeting of this nature are invited.

BALTIMORE, WASHINGTON, AND PHILADELPHIA

Pres. Hildreth Addresses Local Alumni Meeting

by Pat Wiley

Members of the Women's Glee Club stumbled wearily out of their chartered buses at 4:30 Friday afternoon at the conclusion of five days of concentrated singing and traveling—the annual tour.

This trip made two notable firsts: it was the first time a manager went on tour and didn't sing a note, and the first time the girls' sextet was composed of five members. Manager Helen Glosien went on the trip for the ride and the work but was unable to sing because of bronchitis.

Late First Appearance
The following evening was spent in Washington, D. C., at the Blackstone Hotel. Friday, President Hildreth spoke to approximately 70 Bucknell alumni assembled in York.

February 4, he addressed about 150 persons in the Lycoming Hotel in Williamsport. Then returning ever closer to home, President Hildreth spoke at Sunbury and Lewisburg the following nights.

The final meeting of the week, and probably the largest, was held at the Edgewood Country Club in Pittsburg, Pa. The next day, the president and his wife returned to the Bucknell campus.

Alumni Fund Strengthened
Throughout his several discussions, President Hildreth emphasized the importance of continued alumni support toward the Alumni Fund for this school. He suggested that $50,000 given by the alumni toward this fund would be equivalent to a million dollar endowment.

Bucknell was compared with 39 other schools of similar size and it was pointed out that the endowment per student at Bucknell was lower than 37, higher than two.

Opportunity Via Security
President Hildreth believes that if the alumni of an institution show faith in their institution, it becomes much easier to obtain funds from various endowment foundations. Otherwise the foundation feels that the investment would not be very good.

The importance of opportunity to improve security for young people was also emphasized by the president. He stressed the need for a balanced federal budget and denounced the "public-be-damned" attitude of certain elements in the industrial field.

Visited Baltimore
The itinerary next called for a trip to Gwynedd Methodist Church in Baltimore. Engine trouble and a missed road sign made the group so late in reaching their destination that the audience barely got into the church.

Stopped By Law
The sextette upset a local officer of the law by crossing the street against a red light. He met the young ladies on the sidewalk with the news that jaywalking is illegal and involved a small fine of $8. Quipped (Continued on page 8.)

W. Norwood Lowry, Jr., son of Prof. and Mrs. W. Norwood Lowry, is a patient in the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, Pa. He has undergone one operation on his back and is scheduled for another within the next three weeks. Norwood is a freshman and a Delta Sigma pledge.

Bisons Snap Losing Streak By Downing F.&M. Five, 98-54

by Harry Staley

The Bucknell Bisons snapped a six game losing streak in spectacular fashion Tuesday evening as they exploded for a 98-54 win over the visiting Franklin and Marshall quintet in Davis Gym. In registering their fourth win of the season, the Bisons shattered the previous record for the most points scored by any team in Davis Gymnasium set by Muhlenberg just one month ago when the Mules beat Bucknell 92-80.

Johnson Score. To CanJohnson, reserve guard, went the honor of dropping in the record breaking point when he converted a foul shot with less than two minutes left to play. However, the scoring burden was again carried by Don "Bucky" Strasser with 28 marks and Joe Gallagher who hit for 24 points. Curt Gallagher, F & M center paced the visitors with 21 points.

The game got off to a fast start when Bobes dropped in an easy layup to give F & M a 2-0 lead. DeLoach promptly wiped out the deficit with a long set shot. Hartman again gave F & M a lead with a set shot and Webber connected for the Bisons. At the end of the first thirty seconds of play, the score was 4-4.

At this point, the Bisons began to move and they forced into the lead which they never relinquished. Led by Marty McKibbin who played a sensational game off the boards, the Bisons built up a first quarter lead, 27-13.

In the second quarter, both teams went to work, Strasser stealing the show with one beautiful shot after another. Curt Gallagher of the Diplomats also began to hit with a right hand hook shot and both teams battled on pretty even terms. At half-time, the Bisons led by 15 points, 48-33. During the third quarter, the Bisons began to pull steadily away as they connected for 21 points while holding the visitors to a scant 11 points. At the end of the third canto, the Bisons led 69-44.

Bison Climax
The fourth quarter saw the Bisons climax their drive with an outburst of 27 points. Don Strasser and Joe Gallagher began to hit from underneath while Connie DeLoach began to connect from outside. F & M just couldn't get started and scored only 10 points.

With less than a minute to go in the game, Schaefer, connected with a driving lay-up to complete the Bucknell total. The remainder of the contest resembled a Pier 6 brawl as the Bisons fought desperately to retain (Continued on page 4.)

Action in the intramural basketball tournament is again underway with Monday evening's four game card opening second semester competition in Davis Gym.

Sigma Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, and Lambda Chi earned A League victories while the Bisons beat Alpha Chi Sigma in a C League tussle.

The Sigs topped Phi Lambda Theta, 34-18 to give PLE their first loss in three starts. Baker scored 12 points to lead SX while Musgrave led all scorers with 13 markers for the losers.

Phi Gamma Delta won their first victory by dropping SAE, 36-31. Duffendaffer was high scorer on five field goals and two fouls for 12 Phi Gam points. Chambers led SAE with 10.

Lambda Chi swamped TKE, 76-31 for their second victory in as many starts. Dick Hammer led the scoring by dropping in seven baskets from the floor to give LCA 14 points. Gibb had 12 for the Tekes.

In a lone C League game, the Bisons won a 26-17 victory over Alpha Chi Sigma. Martin had 14 points for the Bisons, and Stot scored five for the engineers.

A Badminton tournament, including both singles and doubles matches, will begin February 22 in Davis Gym. All men interested in competing should turn their names into Hank Peters or Bus Bus before that date. Medals will be awarded to winners.

The games will be played between classes and on Saturday afternoon. This badminton tournament is not a part of the competition for the All Year Sports Trophy.

BIRD EYE:
George Haines shot 14 consecutive fouls for Bucknell in 1942.

Strasser Scores Another

Don Strasser, Bison center, takes to the air as he adds another two points to his total against F & M. Strasser paced the Bisons to a 98-54 win as he scored 28 points.

Eagles Prove Superior To Steeler Courtmen In Bison Club Benefit

by Jim McGuinness

Before a crowd of 800, dominated by youngsters the Philadelphia Eagles proved their superiority on the hardwoods as well as on the gridiron by defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers, 41-37. In a game filled with well known legends of the beef and brown science, basketball ability ran a poor second.

Although all of the men had a great deal of previous court experience, it appeared that their recent sojourn on the gridiron robbed them of all their finesse. Gantly they tried to play a good brand of basketball, but it seemed that everything they tried backfired or merely was unrecognizable.

Leading The Way
With Chuck Bednarik, Larry Cabell, Jack Ferrante and Alex Wojciechowski leading the way, in more ways than one, the Eagles kept several points ahead of the Steeler stars and managed to hold on until the end to emerge victorious.

It was the fast break and control of the boards that spelled victory for the Birds, as their big men completely dominated play under the baskets. Many times they had innumerable rebound shots before one of them would lay the ball in for the all important two points.

Lion's Share
For the Steelers it was Bill Walsh, Val Jansanto and Bruiser Nizum doing the lion's share of the work. The former with his fine rebound work, and the latter two with their shooting and all round passing were able to keep the Eagles within hailing distance most of the game.

Regardless of the outcome of the game, the "B" Club was the winner. As yet no official statement has been issued concerning the financial outcome, but from outward appearances

BUCKNELL MAT KING

Lewisburg, Pa.—Wendell Stainby of Danville has the best record in Bucknell's wrestling history. The 135-pounder entered February with a 10-bout winning streak.

BETTER DAYS COMING

Lewisburg, Pa.—Sophomores scored all but 119 of the 561 points Bucknell University's varsity quintet registered in its first nine games this season.

Rams Down Herd Dribblers With Splurge In First Canto; Gallagher Tallies 22 Points

By Harvey Sheir

Piling up a 25-10 lead by the end of the first quarter, the Rhode Island State courtmen subdued the Bison dribblers, 88-78 Saturday, February 11.

The Orange and Blue fought to even the score in the second half when they outscored Rhode Island State, 40-35, but the Rhodidies' 53-32 half-time margin proved too much of a handicap.

Gallagher Hot
The Bisons' Joe Gallagher poured 22 points through the hoop on seven field goals and eight fouls to take the individual scoring honors. Of the Herd's 22 markers in the third period, Gallagher accounted for 16.

Blount of Rhode Island State netted 21 points on seven field goals and seven fouls to be runner-up to Gallagher in the scoring department. Bucknell's Don Strasser clicked for 18 points on eight field goals and two free throws. The Rhodidies' Goleniewski chalked up 16 markers on six baskets and four charity tosses.

Shannon of Rhode Island State counted 13 tallies while Webber of Bucknell and the Rhodidies' Baer rang the bell for 11 points each.

Everybody Hits
For the first time this season every man on the Bison team got into the act by scoring and four charity tosses. The Orange and Blue attempted 35 shots from the floor in the first half against Rhode Island State's 37. However, in the second half the Herd outshot the Rhodidies, 47-38. Bucknell committed 38 personal fouls during the course of the game while Rhode Island State was charged with 58.

The Bisons dropped the tussle to a fast-breaking aggregation which threw a scare into mighty Holy Cross Thursday, February 9 when the Rhodidies lost a 74-69 decision. Holy Cross is the only major unbeaten team in the nation.

The contest between Bucknell and Rhode Island State marked the Herd's first encounter without the playing services of Roger Rogers who averaged 11 points a game in Bucknell's first 12 tussles. Rogers was unable to play because of scholastic difficulties.

The Bisons have now dropped six in a row and their season record stands at three victories against ten defeats with eight games left on the slate. The Herd's last triumph was January 14 against Lehigh.

GOOD NIGHT:
Bison John Anderson scored 80 points against College of Pharmacy in 1943.

On this Saturday evening, the varsity wrestlers will entertain the western Maryland grapplers in a preliminary contest to the Lafayette-Bucknell basketball game. After watching a five game winning streak disintegrate at Gettysburg just before vacation, Coach Herb Maack's matmen appear to be anxious to return to their winning ways.

This year in particular, the grapplers have served notice to Bucknellians that they deserve as much attention as varsity teams in other sports. In the season's first match they came roaring back from behind to down Haverford in a storied bout when Ed Kiley suddenly turned the tables on the Haverford heavy and triumphed.

Two big reasons for the success of the wrestlers are found in the 135 and 145 pound class. Wendell Stainby, 135 pound junior from Danville, now has a winning streak of 10 straight bouts over a two year varsity career. He holds the distinction of never having lost a bout in season competition, his lone collegiate defeat occurring in the Middle Atlantic States Tourney last year when he was upset by an opponent he had previously beaten. Stainby now holds what is believed to be the best record in Bucknell wrestling history.

The other big reason why Bisons opponents have found the going pretty tough is in the person of George Stanton, 145 pound senior from Honesdale, "Gorgeous George" as his teammates call him has established himself one of the smartest wrestlers in this area. Stanton has treated spectators to a variety of holds as he fought his way to an undefeated status.

Following the Western Maryland match, the Bisons will take to the road to meet the Muhlenberg Mules. And then, on March 8 and 4, Coach Herb Maack will take his boys to the Middle Atlantic States Tourney where they will meet the best wrestlers from his area.

The wrestling team has compiled one of the best records of any varsity team this year and all of the boys deserve a big vote of thanks. We can think of no better method of doing just that than going down to Davis Gym this Saturday evening and cheering them on.

THIS SCHOLARSHIP BUSINESS

In the past week, Bucknell sports fans were shocked to see that some familiar faces were lacking when our athletic teams took the floor for important games. Upon inquiry, it seems that some of the athletes are being forced to forget athletics until they can bring up their marks.

It is indeed rough for any school to lose key men via the scholarship route but there are certain standards which must be met by all students and to discriminate in favor of athletes is certainly not the answer to the problem.

In the past, Bucknell athletes have found it possible to attain high scholarship and engage in intercollegiate athletics at the same time. This is not meant to infer that our present athletes are any less gifted scholastically for they certainly are not.

However, it is the future we are mainly concerned with and we would like to see all of our athletes unhampered by scholastic difficulties. If this is to be the case, some of the boys had better begin to get familiar with the books.

Bison coaches have their hands full without worrying about scholarship. Some of the athletes have the mistaken idea that every waking hour must be spent in some sort of athletic activity. It is only natural for them to want to improve their ability, and we would be the first to favor that but some of the fellows had better realize that all that practice may be for no purpose if they flunk out in the process.

Fortunately this only applies to a very few Bucknell athletes but let's hope that the examples we have had this season will not be repeated later.

LANEMEN CAPTURE TWO AS F&M, HERSHEY J.C. LOSE TO FAST-BREAK

by Mal Sinclair

A three week layoff proved no obstacle to Bill Lane's frosh quintet as they scored a pair of easy victories at the expense of the Franklin and Marshall freshmen, 59-31, Tuesday night at Davis Gym and a 65-33 win over Hershey Jr. College last Saturday night at Hershey.

The secret of success in both games was a fast-breaking offense coupled with a tight defense. Against the F&M frosh the Baby Bisons took an early 11-5 lead and were never headed.

They put on a tremendous drive in the second and third quarters sinking a large percentage of their shots and setting up scoring plays with magician-like precision. Instrumental in this drive was the shooting of Bonnie Bachmann, the playmaking of Bill Strella and the backcourt of Donall and Pangburn.

The Lanemen ran their bewildered opponents into the ground and built up such a commanding lead that Coach Bill Lane emptied the bench to give all his men needed experience.

High man for the evening was Bachmann with 17 points followed by Strella with 13 and Donall adding 7. The Frosh presented a 6' 7" new-comer, Bob Hunter, who scored 3 points while he was in the game.

In their first game in three weeks, the frosh traveled to Hershey last Saturday and overcame a scrappy but outclassed Hershey Jr. College five, 65-33.

The Frosh quickly solved an inadequate zone defense and had little trouble in scoring. They presented a well balanced attack as four men hit for double figures. Bill Strella topped the list with 14 points followed by Pangburn with 13 and Booth and Reichmann with 12 and 10 points, respectively.

The two wins give the Lanemen a 7-1 record.

Herd Will Meet Leopards And Diplomats This Week; Matmen Face W. Maryland

by Bill Heitz

There will be no let-up for the Orange and Blue basketball team, for within the next seven days, the cagers will face three major opponents.

As the second part of a double feature program this Saturday evening, the Bisons will play host to a strong and rangy Lafayette five that's having the Bisons in an earlier game this season at Easton.

Lafayette, having beaten many of the major fives in the East will floor a star-studded veteran aggregation against the Bisons. Duane Warrick, standing six feet six inches, will answer the center jump and lead the Leopards five which averages well over six feet in height.

The Bucknell wrestlers will be featured as the first part of the twin bill this Saturday. The matmen will face Western Maryland for the first time this year. Last year the Bisons had little trouble in smothering the Big Green on their home mat. Judging from pre-match predictions, the Herd should wrap up victory number six for their coach, Herb Maack.

Following this week-end encounter, Bucknell's basketball team will take to the road not to return to Davis Gym until March 1. Next Wednesday night they will travel to Lancaster to try and make it two in a row over Franklin & Marshall.

While their big brothers are battling it out over the week-end, the freshmen basketball team will try to extend their win column to eight at the expense of Wyoming Seminary at Wyoming on Friday night. Next week they will play the F&M frosh in another preliminary game.

Lawrence Issues Call To Spring Practice For Football Campaign

By Jerry Olds

Although the football campaign is presumably over, many Bucknell athletes will begin preparing for next season's slate Monday, February 20 when Coach Harry Lawrence will deliver the first in a series of lectures.

There will be four one hour lectures for two weeks. The purpose of these lectures is to familiarize freshmen football players with Bucknell varsity tactics. The lectures are primarily aimed at the freshmen but are also open to interested sophomores. However, all who wish to participate in spring practice should be in touch with Coach Lawrence before February 20.

Spring football practice will begin in earnest March 13. This year a new man will have this freshmen and sophomores working out, wo juniors, Dick Hetko and Jack Maack, will be included. Both men were transfer students and have had no spring practice experience.

During the first section of spring practice, March 13-April 1, Coach Lawrence will run his men through the same plays used last year, stressing what he terms basic split-T plays. Lawrence expects considerable material from the freshmen, whom he describes as "willing but green, dith lots of potential."

A change which Coach Lawrence wants to experiment with moves Bob Bobby Albert to fullback and Dick Hetko to right halfback. Lawrence believes both men can play either position, but feels that the new arrangement might bring out the best in both players.

There are no scrimmages definitely scheduled yet, but Coach Lawrence is trying to arrange two, one for April 22 and another for April 24. The potential opponents on these dates are still unknown.

HIGH MAN WINS

Lewisburg, Pa.—Bucknell came within seven points of breaking a home court basketball record of 87 points recently, but still lost the game. The opponent, Muhlenberg, scored 92.

BUILDING MATERIAL
Lewisburg, Pa.—In their first 10 games this season, Joe Gallagher, Don Strasser and Roger Rogers scored a total of 387 points for Bucknell's basketball team. All three are sophomores.

BASKETBALL RULES

Basketball season is here and in full swing for the 5em sportsters. Every afternoon Tustin is buzzing with enthusiasts practicing their set shots and snappy plays, and brushing up on the 1950 revisions in rules.

A two bounce dribble is now allowed provided there is no pause between bounces. When a foul shot is taken the ball is automatically dead and the forward then takes it out-of-bounds in her own territory. Another revision is when the player steps on any part of the out-of-bounds line, the opposite team immediately obtains control of the ball.

A great number is anticipated, and from the looks of the practices, an exciting tournament is on the way.

BUCKNELL AWAY

Our girls are going all out for play days with two coming in the immediate future: one with Penn State on February 25 and one with Lycoming College in Williamsport on March 4.

Both play days will feature badminton, bowling, basketball and swimming. Penn State will have rhythmic swimming and modern dance in addition to these. Good luck sports!

TOURNAMENTS

The inter-class basketball tournament will run from Monday, February 20-Tuesday, March 7.

Inter-group basketball practices will be held Saturday, February 11; Monday, February 20; Tuesday, March 7; Saturday, March 18 and 25, March 4, Saturday.

The inter-group tournament begins Wednesday, March 8 and ends Thursday, March 23.

SEM REFS

From now on when you scream, "Murder the ref!" in the girls' basketball games you'll be yelling at some young sem gen. Officiating Club has begun and meets on Monday at eleven for one hour. Each girl participates in a practice after school. Members of the class will referee interclass and intergroup basketball.

SPORTS BALL

The first annual Sports Ball will be held Friday evening in Tustin Gym starting at 8:30 and lasting until 12.

A variety queen will be chosen, according to publicity director, Herb Levy. Music will be by Jerry Kehler, and intermission entertainment will be provided by the "B" Club.

The dance is sponsored by the "B" Club and the Booster Club. Admission is $1.00 plus 20c tax.

A HEALTHY SIGN

Lewisburg, Pa.—Although they play only 32-minute games, three members of Bucknell's freshman quintet are averaging 12 points or better per contest.

SWIM

Are you ready to get back into the swim of things? Swimming Club will meet February 22 at 7 o'clock in Larson.

ARROW SHIRTS & TIES
UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

by Clyde McAvoy
There once was an English teacher who barricaded himself in his office and took pot shots out of his window at any specimen of humanity that ventured across the campus.

Crazy?
Maybe. But maybe he had just read some of the verses of college songs which seem to abound in this fair land. These verses are usually written by flaming-eyed undergrads who are determined to set down on paper, at any cost to the English language, their own contributions to the institution's music lore.

The results, though not always rational, make some of the most hilarious reading old Fops have come across in some time. In most instances the poor man's Stephen Foster pictures himself going down to sea and breathing defiance in death's face while at the same time singing the Alma Mater in three foreign languages and two Sanskrit dialects.

"As we move in sturdy manhood, bravely facing wind and tide, riding storm and wave in safety, on life's ocean deep and wide; often merrily glances backward, to the dear old long ago, to our sacred Alma Mater, to our sacred Alma Mater, her sweet visage we know."

Apparently, life means naught to these dauntless sons. They can be dying in a wheel chair, nighties, and with a short circuit in their hearing aid, but still have the strength to breathe a last farewell:

"I'll love thee through each fleeting breath
For all that thou hast done,
And in the agonies of death,
Be still thy loving son."

Howard College
Another favorite is to picture themselves friendless and absolutely desolate:

"Though merrily fail and friend be few,
We love thee still, Dear N. Y. U!
The drinking songs, too, are an education in themselves. Are these rollicking crew's ever satisfied with a 10c glass of beer? No! Nothing will do but that they quaff ruby red wine, usually from a Grecian urn filled to the brim.

Of course there are variations from campus to campus. Harvard men are strangely attracted to gin slings while students from the University of Pennsylvania's hallowed halls are stuck forever with the highball beverage.

What is it that is stopping the advance of such a tremendous enterprise as WVBU? Can the fault be placed with the directors? Are we afraid to censor what should be censored? Some programs are poor..... they must be dropped, of course.

But should there be room on an enterprise such as this for personal feelings? If a program is inadequate, should it be kept merely because it is a program? Is it the purpose of a station to run on sympathy and inadequacy? Is WVBU a place for ability or abstractions? This is the problem faced by the directors of WVBU.

What is it that is stopping the advance of such a tremendous enterprise as WVBU? Can the fault be placed with the directors? Are we afraid to censor what should be censored? Some programs are poor..... they must be dropped, of course.

But should there be room on an enterprise such as this for personal feelings? If a program is inadequate, should it be kept merely because it is a program? Is it the purpose of a station to run on sympathy and inadequacy? Is WVBU a place for ability or abstractions? This is the problem faced by the directors of WVBU.

Behind The Mike

by Bob Fiedler
Tonight, at a Board of Directors meeting, the ranking personal of Voofoo (WVBU) talked and talked about the future of the static little station around the corner. The result of the talk was tremendous. All of two things were positively decided.

First, that certain announcers should either clean up their foul parties or manage to subsist during one Bitter End show without any nourishment, and secondly if any records were broken that the breakage should be reported.

Now we all realize that these momentous decisions took the time and patience of a group of hard working students. Yet, it certainly was hard work.....hard work to think up such terribly important things to decide upon.

The station needs more money, a better system, improved programs but about 10 people at in the computers room tonight and puzzled if it would be proper to send a letter to all those in charge of Bitter End programs about cleaning up their garbage (remnants of food that is). After an hour and a half if people reached one completely unanimous decision. That was to call another meeting.

What is it that is stopping the advance of such a tremendous enterprise as WVBU? Can the fault be placed with the directors? Are we afraid to censor what should be censored? Some programs are poor..... they must be dropped, of course.

But should there be room on an enterprise such as this for personal feelings? If a program is inadequate, should it be kept merely because it is a program? The new registration system must have some merit. The complaints about the long lines have decreased appreciably this semester. Nevertheless, the group of seemingly depressed individuals who have camped in West Wing for the past week as extensive as ever, and it seems that the only way to remedy the situation would be to standardize teachers, students, tests, recitation hours, and rumors. Perhaps, concomitant with outline-texts and visual-aid methods, progressive education can do that too.

Incidentally, one C & P student is deeply troubled at this point about the book situation. When he was a freshman, his fifteen texts totalled a grand twenty-three dollars and some odd cents. Being a senior now (and more familiar with the ways of the world), he bought only four or five texts at the greatly reduced sum of twenty dollars. With the aid of a thick math book, he's currently trying to discover the method in this madness. Well, 'est la vie!

And concerning math, we're told of the algebra student who visited her teacher at the close of the term to discover how she had done on her final. She was told, and she wasn't pleased. The turbulent temperamental rampart for a while—the test had been too difficult, there were too many word problems, she hadn't been told that this, and the other thing were going to be the test—but her passion eventually submitted to better judgment.

She assumed the role of the misunderstood math student who knew the material but just didn't have enough time, and so forth. "I could have done better if—" That had been her cry all through the course. She got consolation anyway. "Well, you'll have another chance next semester." The moral? This could happen to you, if you can't talk the professor.

Reverend Deppen To Lead Discussion On RILW Topic At 9:30 Class
A continuation of the topic, "Christian Answer to Secularism," which is in accordance with Religion-In-Life-Week, will be presented this Sunday, February 19, at the 9:30 Class.

Rev. J. Ralph Deppen will lead the Class in the second discussion of the series, "Resurrection: The Christian Rebuttal." Coffee and donuts will be served as usual at 9:15 in the Hunt Room.

Television Course Enters UCLA Curriculum Beginning Next Fall

Los Angeles, Calif.—(U. P.)—Television has turned the corner academically, if action by the Theater Arts department of the University of California at Los Angeles is any indication.

The first course in television will be included in the regular curriculum this fall, according to Professor Kenneth Macgowan, chairman of the department.

Designed as an Introduction to television, the course will be an upper division course with prerequisites in theater arts subjects. Included in the new course will be the history of television, technical fundamentals, functions of the creative, administrative and engineering ends of television, and educational and functional as well as entertainment uses of the video field.

The department head also points out that courses for the major in radio, introduced last year, now include acting for radio, voice training for announcers and commentators, writing for radio, the study of production leading into radio workshops, and the recording of productions.

Basic Courses
Preparation for the major comprises the same basic courses in theater that are required for majors in theater and motion pictures, including a three-unit, lower division course in "Social Aspects of Mass Communication."

In addition, radio majors are required to take a one-unit course called "Radio Survey."

We'll Show You!
When the University of Alabama inaugurated a course in boxing for women, Northwestern retaliated with a course in knitting for men.

Dean Of Men Announces List Of Newly Appointed Men's Dorm Counselors
The new men's counselors for the following term have been listed according to Dean Musser.

In East College there will be John Mosny on the first floor, Hugh Campbell on the second floor, Richard Brooks on the third floor, and Don Betty on the fourth floor. In West College Cal Seaman will be on the second floor; Nick Yackanica, on the third floor; and Robert Lauby, on the fourth floor.

Robert Kieren, Robert Albert, and Dick Lauby are to be in East Wing on the second, third, and fourth floors, respectively. In West Wing on the second floor will be Robert LeClerc; on the third floor, Irvine Crawford; on the fourth floor, Bob Roberts.

George Ketterer and Art Short will be in Roberts Hall and the Temporary Dorm, respectively.

"Christianity Confronts Secularism" will be the theme of Religion-In-Life-Week which will start Sunday.

Information is on hand in the Christian Association office for these student projects in addition to many more. A little thought about the subject now and some pre-summer job hunting may provide a productive vacation a great deal better than life at the neighborhood ice cream concession catering to the high school trade.

There will be a meeting of the Intramural Athletic Council this evening at 7:30 in the Gym.

100th Graduating Class To Hold Centennial Ball

As the 100th graduating class in the history of the University, the 1950 senior class will celebrate its Centennial March 31 with the SENIOR CENTENNIAL BALL.

With nearly as many senior class dances as there have been graduating classes, Dance Committee Chairman Sue Davis and Bud Clark have boldly boasted that "The Centennial Ball" will not only be the best dance of the year but will approach the best ever staged.

Announcement of the band is being held for a timely release but Band Committeesmen Pat Jones and Peter Bricker are promising big things for the spring ball.

"This dance," declared Clark, "is being designed to honor the class, its queen and favorite faculty member by senior class choice and will still be the tops for good dancing and listening for the entire student body and their friends."

Further information on the band and activities of the dance committee will take shape in a week or so according to the committee.

Sightsee At Gettysburg

Thursday morning the troupe met for its return trip. As they were ahead of schedule, they drove slowly through such historic places as Gettysburg battlefield. They arrived early for the first appointment of the entire tour — lunch at Howard Johnson's — and so thoroughly disrupted the establishment that they desired never to be early again.

All those who had been affiliated with the troupe since their inception four years ago said that this was by far the most cooperative and enthusiastic trip yet taken. They all agreed that the sextette numbers were greatly improved by the accompaniment of Professor Williams on his "four stringer" guitar purchased in a Boxer Hick Shop over Christmas vacation and mastered in the month preceding the trip.

Rev. Torgerson Speaks At Chapel On 'The Perils Of The Twilight'

Rev. Gordon Torgerson, minister of the Emmanuel Baptist Church, Ridge-wood, New Jersey, in speaking to the Bucknell University Chapel on Wednesday, February 16th, confronted his hearers with the striking challenge under the title of "Perils of the Twilight."

He went on to call attention to the fact that in the twilight of his day here is usually a sense of unreality with reference to the world of nature. In the bright light of the day the world looks very different.

Areas of Unreality

"In the same way," Mr. Torgerson pointed out, "we often live in the areas of unreality which appeal to us because of their beauty or attractiveness but are not at all realistic. Therefore if you want to live a godly life there must not be a 'twilight' in yourselves or in your religion."

To do good you must see all, see what is needed to improve the world of today. As for example in Mr. Torgerson's town of Ridge-wood there is the true story of a young man who saw the need of a housing project for a considerable group of people, and by hard work he raised the money to accomplish the task.

WELCH AND ANDERSON REPRESENT BUCKNELL AT CORNELL MEETING

Jay Welch and Howard Anderson represented Bucknell at the Campus Conference on Inter-Group Living at Cornell University last weekend. Mr. Elinor Roosevelt was the featured guest.

Sponsored by Watermargin, the inter-collegiate, intergroup residential unit at Cornell, the Conference had as its purpose the possibilities of establishing similar intergroup living on other campuses throughout the country.

Established as an educational and fraternal organization, Watermargin is composed of a group of Cornell students who are firmly convinced that it is possible for men to live together harmoniously, regardless of diverse religious or racial background.

DR. HILDRETH ADDRESSES HARRISBURG KIWANIS CLUB

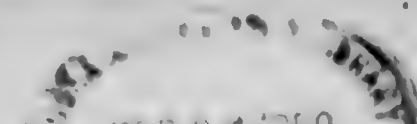

Dr. H. H. Hildreth, Bucknell's representative at a luncheon meeting in the Peas Harris Hotel in Harrisburg today. The address marked Dr. Hildreth's first appearance before a Harrisburg audience since he assumed the presidency of Bucknell.

Wandering Minstrels' Open Club Membership With Call For Tryouts

Mid-semester graduation hit the Men's Glee Club to the tune of four men, and, with several other veteran singers leaving, in June, it has been necessary to once again open the Club's membership to campus men.

Back In Action

Despite the fact that the Club recently returned from a successful five-day tour of the East in which 17 appearances were made, the boys are opening the semester with a radio broadcast this afternoon and plan various local concerts throughout the half-year.

U.N. Organ Selects Campus For Meeting Will Stress Importance Of FAO

This campus will be host to a conference on March 5, 6 and 7 highlighting the FAO, Food and Agricultural Organization, a part of the total program of the United Nations.

Bringing here many eminent persons from all over the country, the purpose of the conference is to make clearer to students and the general public the importance and purpose of FAO.

First Conference

The first conference of its kind to be held on any level within the United States, it will be an opportunity for a study of some of the problems that are encountered in the attempt to create some balance between the people of the world and the available food supply.

The matter of national surplus, especially as it exists in this country, will be given extensive consideration, as will be points of view of President Truman's inaugural address, dealing with the rendering of technical assistance to underdeveloped nations.

The total scope of the conference will be on a variety of levels. Informal classroom discussions will be followed in classes in geology, political science, economics, and other related fields.

On Monday, March 6, at 4:30, a series of seminars will be held here which will give attention to subjects ranging from the importance of soil conservation to the use of journalism and public relations within the limits and purposes of the F.A.O. Speakers will visit various high schools in the area.

Radio Program

A radio program will be presented on Tuesday evening at 8:30, featuring a forum of men who will represent the viewpoints of international, United Nations, and U. S. interests. This program will cover the greater part of central Pennsylvania, and will originate in WKOK. Other local programs will also be presented in local stations. Dr. Charles E. Rogers, one of the guests who will be present, will be the speaker at the annual banquet of business-men and (Continued on page 8.)

Dr. Paul Conrad Will Be Guest At Student Church

Dr. Paul Conrad, president of the United Stewardship Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. and in Canada, will be the Student Church speaker this Sunday evening at seven in the Hunt Living Room.

Dr. Conrad has spent his years in making possible transfusions of new blood into churches and religious organizations. He is the author of "Partnership with Christ," and "This Way to a Living Church." He is a graduate of Colgate and the Biblical Seminary. His work has been with the Y. M. C. A. and since 1928 with the Northern Baptist Convention.

In this latter capacity he has aided the churches in meeting their world service responsibilities and now is the stewardship emphasis with aiding them in meeting the increased demands for a spiritual ministry.

This will be Dr. Conrad's first appearance at Bucknell.

This first service of the Student Church following Religion in Life Week will usher in a series of plans and suggestions for pushing ahead in meeting the challenge of christianity by the illumination of the Christian Faith and its application.

Susquehanna Valley Committee Discusses Community Brotherhood

The annual Round Table of the Susquehanna Valley Brotherhood Committee met on Tuesday, February 21, in the Vaughn Literature Building.

The main topic of discussion was "Brotherhood in Community Life," which was broken down into three questions. First, "What does Brotherhood mean in community life?" Second, "What are the forces which confront Brotherhood in community life?" Third, "How can we overcome these forces and achieve Brotherhood in community life?"

Dr. Charles M. Bond, Chairman of the Round Table, introduced the three guest speakers, Rabbi Abraham Soler, of Temple Shalom, Telford, Pa.; Dr. J. Oscar Lee, of the Board of Trustees.

Summer Projects To Be Discussed By R. Hartsough

Ray Hartsough of the American Friends Service Committee will meet students interested in summer projects on Monday evening at 7:15 in Social Science 4.

This meeting, sponsored by the Christian Association and the Placement Office, will also present to students many other summer opportunities in camp leadership, industry, social service, institutional service and in European trips. By that time a special bulletin on summer opportunities will be ready for distribution.

All students interested in any summer projects are invited to attend.

Mr. Hartsough will be on campus Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning for personal conference with students, or for further group appointments. Those may be arranged through the C. A. office.

Mr. Hartsough spent last year with the American Friends Service Unit in Palestine working with Arab refugees. He was at Falough during the days when the Egyptian army evacuated and the Israel Occupation Army took over. His work was one of relief and reconciliation between contestants.

Mr. Atwood entered the Foreign Service Auxiliary of the Department of State in 1942, and has been active in government affairs since. His travels have taken him into all regions of the Western Hemisphere, and all the countries of Central and Western Europe.

He received the degree of Bachelor of Science from the University of Chicago and of Master of Science from Clark University, Graduate School followed at the University of Manchester, England, and at Clark he was awarded his doctorate by the latter in 1928.

Mr. Atwood's chief hobby is sailing, with photography and golf as close seconds. He is likewise a hobby of Mrs. Atwood, the former Ruth Cox of Baltimore, Maryland.

RILW CHAPEL SPEAKER EXPLAINS ABOUT GUILT, RESPONSES TO GOD

"What kind of response are you making to God?" asked Dr. John Castel, associate professor of speech, Union Theological Seminary, in his chapel address yesterday morning at Beaver Memorial Methodist Church.

"We are feeling guilty about feeling guilty," he said, "we ought to feel guilty about doing wrong."

"There is no way of getting out of our difficulties by ourselves, but if we respond to God, we will find a way."

"Man's difficulties arise because he tries to follow his own mind instead of seeking God's will," continued Dr. Castel. "The Christian faith believes that the starting point is belief in a righteous God," he said.

No admission will be charged to the music of Ivan Paux, but donations to the music will be gratefully accepted. Everyone is invited.

"You need religious faith no matter what your life work may be," he stated.

"We live in a non-religious world," declared the speaker, "where man thinks he is self-sufficient." "The skeptic today feels he must have a complete intellectual answer before he can have faith," Dr. Castel declared.

Professor John C. Reed To Address ASME Group

John C. Reed, head of the mechanical engineering department, will speak on "The Role of Engineers" at a dinner meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, to be held at the Engineers' Club in Philadelphia Tuesday night in May.

Attending the annual Student Night affair will be members of the many student branches of the A. S. M. E. in the Philadelphia area.

Dr. Reed is sectional vice president of the A. S. M. E.

CATALOGS TO ARRIVE

Students may get copies of the new catalog starting Monday morning, in the room across from the Roberts Hall post office. The hours will be from 8:00 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1:30 p. m. to 3:30.

Ann Cooper Elected Editor Of Handbook

Section Editor Staff Announced

Ann Cooper, junior, was elected editor of the Handbook Staff by the Board of Publication and the CA Cabinet at their last meeting before mid-semester vacation.

Atwood Named To Job Abroad

Mr. Hollis S. Atwood, former professor of geography here, has been named Officer in Charge of River Plate Affairs in the Office of East Coast Affairs of the Department of State's recently organized Bureau of Inter-American Affairs.

The River Plate is the name applied collectively to the three countries in the Rio de la Plata region of South America: Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay.

Mr. Atwood entered the Foreign Service Auxiliary of the Department of State in 1942, and has been active in government affairs since. His travels have taken him into all regions of the Western Hemisphere, and all the countries of Central and Western Europe.

He received the degree of Bachelor of Science from the University of Chicago and of Master of Science from Clark University, Graduate School followed at the University of Manchester, England, and at Clark he was awarded his doctorate by the latter in 1928.

Chicken Us!

This space was to be used for an editorial on the men's infirmity. In spite of the fact that all facts were checked with Dr. Fowle himself, everybody in the administration who has heard of it seems to think, for one reason or another, that it ought to be checked more carefully and then run next week.

There could be errors in it, so it is being held. But if all facts still do check, it is a promise that the editorial will be printed next week without a change.

Time For A Change!

There were about 350 students at Luigi Silva's concert, the latest artist course presentation. This is a remarkably poor showing, considering that no admission was charged.

Jack Thomas, president of the Student-Faculty Congress, has suggested that if students do not wish to attend the artist course functions, the whole program should be dropped and the $3000 thus saved be used for other things.

But we think that the fault lies with the artist course committee rather than with the students. The committee brings here artists who are comparatively unknown outside their field. Luigi Silva is a good example of this type: how many students ever heard of him before his name was published in this paper?

Why not bring here instead artists who are at least known to the average student? To be sure, we would be able to get fewer of these due to the higher cost, but what we might lack in quantity we would most certainly make up in quality.

There can be no doubt about the success of an artist course program which would engage only really well-known men. The hits that Ellis Arnall and Whitmore and Lowe made a few years back testify to that.

And such a program would be far more enjoyable and beneficial to all than the one now in operation. It's time for a change to the better.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

Here's a headline we'd like to see in The Bucknellian: LOWER TUITION LIKELY; COURSES TO BE ADDED. Well, it didn't happen here, but we send sighs of envy to the lucky students of Triple Cities College at Endicott who are about to save money and gain knowledge.

She was peeved and called him Mr.
Not because he went and kr.
But because he went and kr.
As she opened the door.

Drama on the campus of the University of Oklahoma is taking on new aspects. Plans are being made by Professor Ruplex J. Jones, director of their drama department, to subject every student "hopeful" to a movie test before selection of a cast. Purpose is to allow candidates to observe defects in posture and carriage.

A RUSSO-CHINESE ALLIANCE ENACTED.
On February 15 and 16, our position in China received another setback. Early last Wednesday morning, Communist China announced that it had signed a treaty of Friendship, Alliance, and Mutual Aid with the Soviet Union. The treaty would "strengthen determinedly" Communist China and Soviet friendship. It would bolster between the two nations, "within the principles and objectives of the United Nations," lasting peace. Among the chief agreements were:

An accord regarding the Chinese Changchun Railway, Port Arthur and Port Dairen. An agreement by which Soviet Union grants to China 300 million dollars over a five year period.

No sooner had the State Department received word of this pact, then it was reported that the Soviet Union and the Chinese People's Republic had added secret codicils to the new-born treaty of alliance. Among the codicils attached to the treaty was the return of two Soviet-controlled Yellow Sea ports to the Chinese Communists. It is further understood that the Soviet Union will have an "advisory" capacity in helping the Chinese with their military expansion.

Although the amount of information concerning these talks is limited, two facts concerning the conference are regarded as definite. First of all, the obstinacy of the Chinese delegation forced the Soviet Union to scale down its demands. Second, although the existence of some secret protocols was confirmed just before the treaty terms were published, it is considered possible that other basic questions remain open and may constitute further joint negotiation in the future.

Just what effect this new Russo-Chinese alliance will have on our "Oriental" foreign policy is unknown at this time. However, it will be a very important factor in whatever decisions are made.

LET'S DO SOMETHING.

There is an ever-increasing pressure by Congress on the President to institute "mid-century talks" among the three major nations of the world, Britain, the United States, and the Soviet Union. The latest plea in that direction was made by Senator Tom Connally, Democrat of Texas, who has suggested that the time might soon be ripe for a high-level atomic peace conference of the Big Three. Harold Stassen, a possible Republican presidential candidate in '52, has also advocated such a conference.

The possibility of a meeting in the future is not beyond the realm of possibility. The strain imposed on Russia's economy and scientific resources by an atomic and hydrogen bomb race may force a change of Soviet attitude with respect to international cooperation, and thus make such a meeting worth trying. Senator Connally has said.

Russia's most recent actions certainly give added credence to the Senator's statement. The Kremlin is sending out "peace feelers" again. Last Friday the Moscow censors passed dispatches from the New York Times correspondent that increased attention in the Soviet press to relations with the United States. Heavy stress was put on a statement by Premier Stalin two years ago that called for "peaceful settlement of disputes between the USSR and the USA. Thus far, President Truman has taken no action, and there are no indications that any will be.

PROBLEMS IN GERMANY.

"In Berlin despite within the Soviet zone of Germany, the Russians are waging a campaign of attrition against the Western occupation powers." The Russians in the past month have begun to restrict traffic into Berlin, and once again cause hunger pains among the Western areas of that city. Furthermore, West Germany is experiencing rising unemployment. There is an increased prevailing sentiment for wide-scale trade with East Germany—trade which has been greatly limited because of the political dust.

The full implications of this "new feeling" on the part of the Western zone's inhabitants, and the recurrence of travel restrictions have not yet been fully determined. It may be said that the situation is causing considerable concern to high American officials.

GAZING INTO THE CRYSTAL BALL.

Day by day the pressures in the nation-wide coal strike are building up. However, if this is the case, it is a good thing that the coal miners will return to the pits, disgruntled and far from the proper mood for producing a lot of the much-needed coal.

Letters to the Editor

Infirmary Complaint

February 20, 1950.

The Bucknell University Infirmary has been remarkably free from much well-deserved criticism. My purpose in writing this letter is to bring the disgraced situation which exists in the infirmary to the attention of those who are not already informed on the matter, in the hope that something concrete may be done about it.

Many Bucknellians are familiar, either as the result of their own experience or of that of a friend, with the general inefficiency and blase attitude of the infirmary. It is a sad story and my own recent experience with Bucknell's medical service will, I'm afraid, make the whole story even sadder.

After a bad fall which left my right ankle badly bruised and swollen I went to the infirmary and after, what I considered, a superficial examination was told that I had nothing more than a sprained ankle. The foot was taped and I was dismissed. The matter would have rested there had it not been for the increasing pain in my foot during the next of that day and the next. When I walked back to the infirmary and complained of the pain an X-ray was finally taken. I was told that I had a broken ankle, which of course had been walking around on for a day and a half.

Fortunately for all concerned the bone was in alignment and it was not necessary to have it rebroken and then reset. I naturally asked why an X-ray had not been taken in the first place and was blandly told that "we certainly cannot take X-rays of every person who comes in". An amazing thing for anyone with a medical background to say.

The truth of the matter is this:

To the Editor:

February 21, 1950.

We regret that the management of the College Inn and the Bucknellian seem to have a difference concerning a "file" of recent date published and distributed by us. All we know about the matter is that we handed this same article to the Bucknellian and the printer returned it, saying that it had been refused publication by the editor. That is why we added that little notation at the bottom about the Bucknell Iron Curtain Board of Publication. That is exactly what we told you over the phone and the printer will tell you the same thing if you are interested enough in the truth to question him. That had happened so often in the last few years that we thought little of it.

You admitted and explained in the last paragraph of your editorial that straight advertising copy would be accepted any time from us, a fact (Continued on page 3.)

Dr. Ross Attends World Military Meeting

Dr. Sherman Ross, associate professor of psychology of the University, attended the 25th meeting of the Armed Forces — National Research Council Vision Committee in Washington, D. C., recently.

Dr. Ross is an Associate of the Committee, which is the top-level advisory committee to the military forces on visual problems. At the present time, negotiations are proceeding relative to securing a research contract between the U. S. Air Force and Bucknell University to be carried out under the direction of Professor Ross on some problems of engineering psychology with particular reference to the design of equipment.

CAD MEETING

Cap & Dagger will meet today at 4:30 in Bucknell Hall for election of officers. Active and pledges attend.

Ann Busch Picked 'Varsity Queen' At Sports Ball

Ann Busch was the girl of the hour last Friday night when 120 students danced to the music of Jerry Kehler's band at the jointly sponsored Booster Club-B Club Ball.

Getting the nod over three other candidates, Arlene Blank, Betty Hill, and Franny Locker, the vivacious coed was awarded the trophy by Jim Hoover, president of the Booster Club.

The dance was judged an outstanding success by those who attended and the sponsors are reportedly planning to make an annual event of the affair.

Chaperons for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Humphreys, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Blum, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawrence, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peters.

Reporter Relates Tribulations Of Getting 'Vagabond King' Story

by Jane Brown

Pick any night, any night of the week, and stroll leisurely over to Bucknell Hall. Stop for a moment at the steps, adjust your shield, fasten your helmet, and try to enter.

The door will be locked, and as usually is, and the cast are now so accustomed to climbing in through the window that any other method of entering a building seems unnatural. This fact, of course, presents difficulties to those members of the chorus reading on fourth Hunt—but no more of this trivia.

Visitors Beware
You jump down from the ledge just in time to catch a beautiful maiden in distress who is running by screaming with two men in hot pursuit. A substantial form rolls along the floor and takes a firm grip on your leg. Losing your balance, and deciding that discretion is the better part of valor, you fall heavily to the floor.

After the dust clears, you see, on closer inspection, that you have run afoul of one of the Apache dancers. As you lie on the floor, sniffling gently at the delicate scent emanating from the psychology department below several archers march briskly over your prostrate form, shouting merrily.

Dr. Russell will draw on his war-time experience with radar equipment for much of the material of his lecture. He was selected as a trustee of the club's amateur radio station WBRP at the business meeting last Thursday night.

Additional officers elected for the coming semester are Christopher Morrow, president; George Faint Jr., vice president; Robert Larabee.

Emergency Station
The amateur radio club is located in the engineering building and has been active in the regular drills of the Susquehanna Valley Emergency Network for flood control in conjunction with the War Department Corps of Engineers and the American Red Cross.

Licensed club members also operate the station in the Eastern College Radio Network and plans are now under way to handle student radiograms free of charge through the Eastern district.

Club membership is open to all students interested in amateur or "ham" radio.

Pandemonium

TAP MEETING REVEALS NEW OFFICERS, PLAYS, 'LITTLE THEATER' PLANS

At its February 19th meeting, the local chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, National Dramatics Honorary, elected the following officers: Bob Woolhouse, president; Elinor Childs, secretary-treasurer; and Don Heist, historian. These officers will become immediately effective.

Theta Alpha Phi is currently reviewing plays as suggestions for possible Cap and Dagger productions next year.

These plays, which total nine, will be presented at a future meeting of Cap and Dagger and will be categorized in groups of three triads according to their appropriateness for fall, winter, and spring production. Cap and Dagger members will elect one play from each group.

An ultimate goal of Theta Alpha Phi is the realization of the "Little Theater," a project which has gained much ground of late through the widespread attention it is receiving.

President Hildreth Awarded Doctor Of Laws Degree At Temple University Exercises

President Horace A. Hildreth was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the recent midwinter commencement at Temple University.

Temple's president, Dr. Robert L. Johnson, made the presentation.

Dr. Joseph W. Henderson, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presented President Hildreth for the degree before a large audience in the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia. Dr. Henderson had been similarly honored by Temple in 1944.

While serving as governor of Maine, President Hildreth was awarded honorary degrees by Bowdoin College, his alma mater, and by the University of Maine. He is also a justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey.

NAACP Begins National Drive For New Members

NAACP will begin its annual membership drive this week announced Herb Zearfos, president of the organization.

The NAACP has been active on this campus as well as nationally. Many speakers here have appealed through this group to help students become aware of the problem of race discrimination and to help show how disastrous are its effects on a democratic people.

Practical Beliefs
It is hoped that after the experience of Religion-in-Life Week, many students will find a practical way of putting their beliefs into practice by joining the NAACP, according to Trixie Rosenbaum, chairman of the membership drive.

Members of the group are now engaged in writing letters to congressmen concerning civil rights. For the past two years they have sponsored the Howard University Choir to help raise money for the Betty Ann Quinn Scholarship Fund, for a Negro student at Bucknell.

Equality, Security, Freedom
The group is an organization of Americans of every race, creed, and color working for the attainment of a society of equality, security, and freedom for all.

Its immediate aims are to stop lynching, to secure a free ballot, to equalize public education, to level ghetto walls, to halt job discrimination, to abolish Jim Crow laws, and to obtain justice in the courts.

Membership costs for those under 21 is 75c, for those over 21, $1.25.

Sociology Club Plans GET-ACQUAINTED TEA IN HUNT LIVING ROOM

The Sociology Club will hold a tea in Hunt Living Room, February 26, from 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

The purpose of this gathering is to acquaint members with the faculty of the Sociology department, to enable students to obtain information about a Sociology major, minor, or about any specific Sociology course, and to give students an opportunity to meet the members of the Sociology Club and A. K. D., the Sociology honorary.

Members of the Sociology Club extend a cordial invitation for everyone to attend.

Kappa Sigs Hosts At Local Conclave

This campus will be the scene of a district conclave of a national fraternity this weekend when forty-five delegates of Kappa Sigma, representing six colleges and universities, arrive for the event.

Centering around the Kappa Sig House, the program will include a dinner Friday night followed by an informal smoker featuring talent of the Alpha Phi Chapter.

Saturday will be taken up with meetings, which will consider such subjects as "Rushing Procedure" and "Raising Scholarship." A banquet and dance will climax the session.

HERD LOSES TO F & M, 84-82

Bisons Drop Overtime Game To Revived Diplomat Five; Gallagher, Strassner Star

In a wild and woolly basketball tussle last night, in Lancaster, the Bucknell Bisons suffered their twelfth defeat of the season at the hands of Franklin and Marshall College, 84-82. At the end of the regulation time, the score stood at 73-73 so a five minute overtime period was played with F & M coming out on top.

Joe Gallagher carried the brunt of the Bucknell attack as he tallied 26 points on 9 field goals and 8 fouls. Strassner again ran around in the Bucknell scoring as he clicked for 21 points on 9 field goals and 3 fouls. High man for the evening however, was Zink of the Diplomats who connected for 10 field goals and 14 fouls for a total of 34 points.

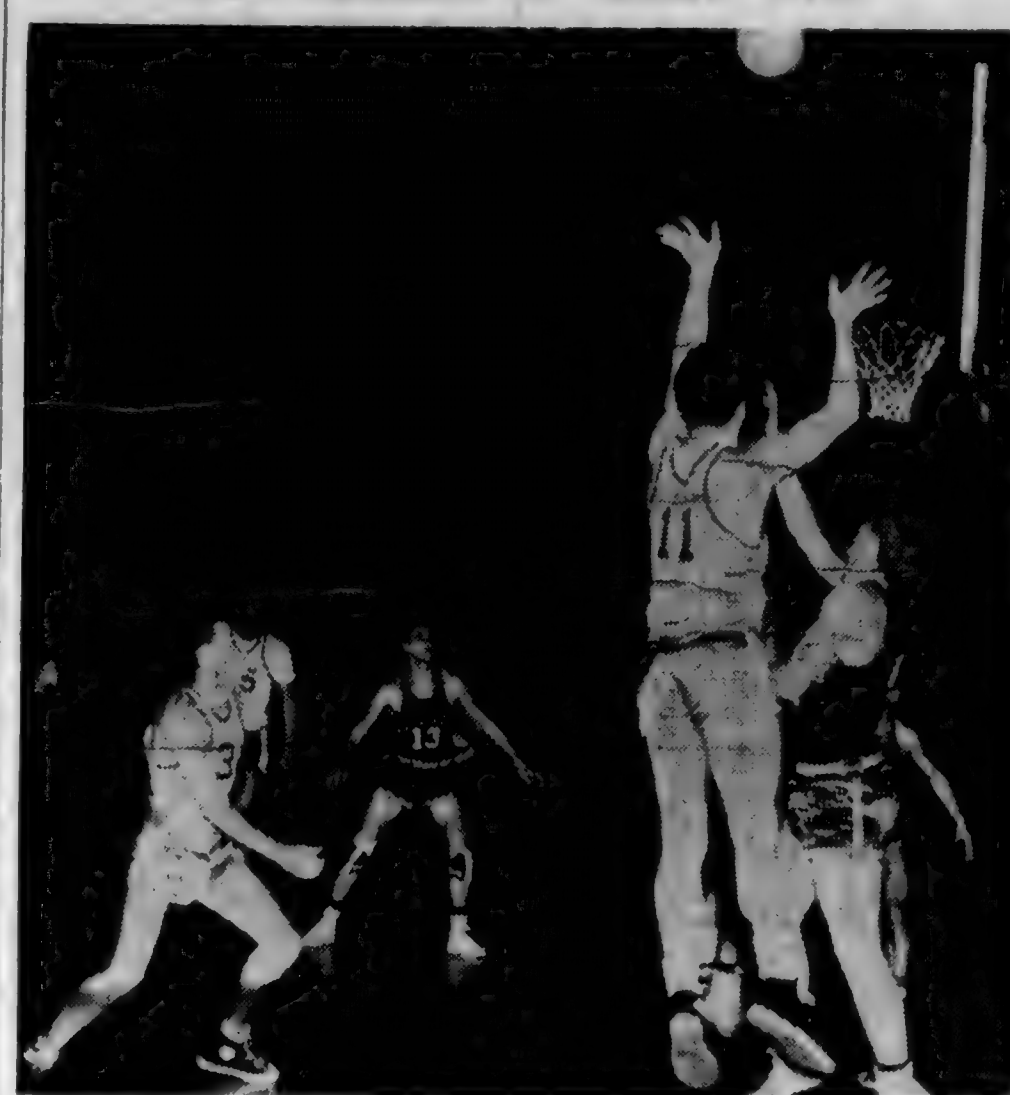

The game gave indication of what was to come in the opening minutes when Marty McKibbin was fouled by Forstburg of F & M and put the Bisons ahead 1-0. Seconds later McKibbin connected with a field goal. Hartman then connected for F & M and made it 3-2.

Bucknell enjoyed a 9-3 spread at one time and then the Diplomats began to move. They finally surpassed the Herd and at the end of the first quarter, the scoreboard read, Bucknell 23, F & M 28.

In the second quarter, the Bisons were unable to solve the F & M defense, aided by the fact that the game was played on a hardwood court. The Bisons managed to notch only 3 points while the Diplomats dropped in 17. At halftime the Bisons trailed 45-32. At the start of the second half things looked bad for the Bisons when the Diplomats began to pull away. However, Strassner began to take up some of the Bucknell scoring and the Bisons once again began to gain. With about five minutes left in the game, the Orange and Blue quintet pulled even with the Diplomats. For the next five minutes the score changed hands repeatedly with F & M holding a three point advantage when the two minute rule went into effect. With 28 seconds left in the game Joe Gallagher hit with a field goal to tie the game at 71-71. Strassner was fouled and missed the shot but hooked in the rebound to give Bucknell a 73-71 lead. However, Zink was fouled in the act of shooting and dropped in both shots to tie it up. The game then ended with the score, 73-73.

Zink Sinks Bisons
In the overtime period, Zink dropped in three consecutive fouls to put F & M ahead, 76-73. The score fluctuated until Bucknell tied it up on a field goal by Gallagher at 80-81. Zink was then fouled and dropped in (Continued on page 5.)

Matmen Tounce Big Green, 34-5; Stainsby, Stanton Lead The Way

Rebounding from their only loss of the season at the hands of Gettysburg, the Bison wrestlers mauled Western Maryland, 29-5, at Davis Gym last Saturday evening. It was the Herd's final home appearance of the season, and they really gave the huge crowd a fine show.

March Goulding opened the evening affair in the 121 pound class with a 4-2 win over Don McShane of Western Maryland. "Ducky" got a take-down, an escape, and a point time advantage, while McShane countered with two escapes. This was Goulding's third win against one loss.

In the 128 pound class Ed Fusta put the Bisons ahead, 8-0, when he applied a half-nelson and body press on the Green Terror's Bob Wilsey in 4:31. Fusta, who gained his second victory out of five starts, was ahead 6-4 at the time of the fall.

Still Undeatable
Upbeater Wondell Stainsby, Bison 136 pounder, made it eleven straight dual meet victories over a two year period by pinning Frank Wilsey of the Green Terror. In cracking up his second fall, Stainsby, ahead 5-1, used a half-nelson and croch hold to flatten Wilsey in 4:30.

In the 145 pound class bracket, Herd co-captain George Stanton had an easy time in blanketing Western Maryland's Bill Battigis, 10-0. "Gorgeous George," who is riding along at a streak of five consecutive triumphs this season, tallied on a takedown, a reversal, two near falls, and 2 points time advantage. Bucknell now led, 16-5.

Richard Returns
John Rickard made a successful return to the line-up after being out with a hand injury by shutting out Mary Siegel, 6-0, in the 155 pound division. "Rick," the Thundering Herd's other co-captain, attained his third victory in four decisions by scoring on a conventional takedown, a reversal, and two points time advantage.

Bison Nelson Woolcock put the Orange and Blue ahead 24-0 when he threw Coach Bill Kern's 165 pounder, Jack Rall. Neils, leading 2-0, employed a body press in 5:47 to determine the bout. Woolcock's seasonal state is two wins, two defeats, and a draw.

John Siller gave the Green Terror's only points when he used a reverse nelson and croch hold combination on "Chuck" Mercer to end the 175 pound match at 7-0. Mercer, who were trailing 10-2, sustained his second loss out of two starts. Bucknell now led, 24-5.

Leopards Roar From Behind To End Herd Victory Bid; Gallagher Gains On Record

by Harvey Sheir
Although the Bisons took a half-time lead of 30-31, the Lafayette Leopards clawed their way to victory, 66-61 by means of a spirited second half rally last Saturday in Davis Gym.

IAC Lists Rest Of Sport Dates For Present Season; Tournament Prize Revised

by Bob Wark
At a meeting of the Intramural Athletic Council held last Thursday at Davis Gym, dates were set for the remaining intramural sports. Dick La Rue was appointed sports manager, and a new plan for awards was initiated.

According to President Joe Markey, the dates set for boxing are March 29 through March 31. All prospective contestants must have eight workouts in order to participate in the tournament. They can sign for workouts between February 20 and March 18. Each boxer must sign for himself and if any man's name appears twice in one day, he will receive no credit for that workout.

Volleyball will begin March 27. Teams should sign up for the use of the gym during the practice week of March 18.

The golf tournament is scheduled for April 17. Track will take place Thursday and Friday, April 20 and 21. In case of rain, the meet will be moved to Friday and Monday, April 21 and 22. Concluding spring intramural activities will be the softball league which begins May 1.

In the past when an independent team won a tournament championship, it was the custom to award medals to the members of the independent team and a cup to the fraternity team which ranked first behind the independents.

Championship points were also awarded to the first fraternity team toward the All Sports Trophy. A new policy will be put in effect next fall whereby, in such a situation, the independent team will be awarded medals, but no cup or championship points will be given to the first ranking fraternity team. Cups will only be awarded to fraternity teams which actually win the championship.

Former Servicemen
Seven of the eight head coaches at Bucknell University served in the armed forces during World War II. The head trainer and director of athletics are also ex-servicemen.

Foes In Four Fields
Bucknell will meet Colgate, Dickinson and Gettysburg in four sports this spring, baseball, golf, tennis and track.

Engineer's Freeze
A Gallagher penalty shot made it 62-60. However, the Leopards started a freeze with two and a half minutes left, and although Strassner fouled the ball and eventually threw in a foul shot, Lafayette found the mark with two goals from the floor.

The Leopards successfully froze the ball for the last minute and a half and the Bisons were unable to steal the ball away despite an all-court press. When time ran out the score stood, 66-61.

ARROW UNIVERSITY STYLES

by Harry Staley
Last week, the high-flying Duquesne basketball team visited Madison Square Garden to meet the Long Island University Blackbirds in one of the top games of the season. It turned out to be just that, except that like so many basketball games this year, it ended with two minutes left to play.

L.I.U., although trailing 34-20 at halftime, began to put on a great rally in the second half. The Blackbirds narrowed the lead of the "Dukes" and at one time actually tied the score. A couple of clutch baskets put the Dukes back into a four point lead just as the game entered the final two minutes. At this point, the capacity crowd suddenly arose and made its way for the exits. Even though L.I.U. was hotter than the July sun, hardly anyone bothered to stick around as the two-minute rule cooled them off and Duquesne won, 56-51.

Why should a rabid basketball assembly sit tensely through three quarters of exciting basketball and part of another only to leave at the crucial point of the game? Or could it be that the final two minutes are no longer considered crucial? Is the game of basketball losing its most outstanding attribute, the fact that neither team can be counted out until the final buzzer?

These are just a few of the questions that are puzzling sports writers and coaches all over the nation. Ever since the fatal day when college coaches gathered at the NCAA rulemaking convention to pass judgment on the two-minute rule, reams of copy have poured forth expressing favor of disfavor toward it. The two-minute rule has become a favorite topic of discussion for basketball fans.

The rule was passed by the NCAA governing body with the express hope that it would stop the organized mayhem so frequently taking place in the fading seconds of the game. Proponents argued that members of the leading team were in mortal fear of the last two minutes of the contest when they knew the opposition would recklessly and intentionally foul in order to get possession of the ball. All agreed that intentional fouling was detrimental to the game.

However, since the coaches agreed to the two-minute rule, opinion has radically changed. Statistics have shown that the rule has failed to stop unnecessary fouling in the final two minutes since the losing team figured that they had better sacrifice one foul shot for a chance at intercepting the ball when it was put back into play. Coaches who originally supported the plan have now come out overwhelmingly opposed to it. Nat Holman, of C.C.N.Y., is one coach who has arranged with rival coaches to waive the rule in games involving his team, while certain collegiate leagues have also chosen to collectively bypass the legislation.

A number of suggestions for improvement have been made, including a return to the old system. Most coaches are in agreement that something should be done to give the losing team an opportunity to win the game. One suggestion which has been well received would give the man fouled a shot at the basket and then call for a center jump whereby both teams would get a chance for possession of the ball.

Whatever the decision is, it is pretty likely that the two-minute rule which we now have will not be around next year. Sentiment is overwhelmingly against it.

Devore Has A Big Job
A couple of weeks ago, New York University announced that it had decided to continue football and intended to do it under the coaching leadership of Hugh Devore. Devore is recognized as an extremely able coach as his coaching record at St. Bonaventure will attest. While coaching the Bonnies, Devore had several undefeated seasons and contributed several little All-American selections from the small up-state New York school. In addition, the Bonnies played in several bowl games.

Speculation is running rampant as to what Violet football opponents can expect next year. The big question in the minds of most Violet rooters is, "Does this mean the return of 'Big Time' football to the University Heights Institution?"

The opinion from this corner is that N.Y.U. is tired of being murdered on the football field and is about to undergo a mass reconstruction job with Devore acting as chief architect. The new Violet mentor had what was considered a good job at St. Bonaventure and could conceivably have held it until the cows come home. He didn't leave all that for the trials and tribulations that beset "Hooks" Mylin and his predecessors.

GUYMEN PLAY TWO AS WRESTLERS AND FROSH FACE SINGLE CONTESTS

by Bill Reitz
Revenge will be the keynote this Saturday night as the varsity basketball team travels to Allentown to engage the Mules of Muhlenberg. The steadily improving Bisons will be out to avenge a 22-60 setback handed to them earlier this season by the Mules. If comparison of scores means anything, Bucknell has a good chance to defeat Muhlenberg.

Lafayette, who won a hard fought battle over the Bisons last weekend had little trouble in overwhelming the Mules earlier in the same week. If this is any criterion, the Orange and Blue will have a chance to pull an upset this Saturday evening.

Matmen Travel
The Bucknell matmen will also travel to Allentown this Saturday night. The wrestling team will be trying to chalk up win number five for the season. If they accomplish this feat at the expense of the Mules they will ring down the curtain on the most successful wrestling season in the history of the sport at Bucknell. A win Saturday night would bring the season total to five wins and one loss.

FROSH QUINTEZ DROPS TUSSLE TO WYOMING; SUFFER SECOND DEFEAT

by Mal Sinclair
The Frosh quintet lost their second game of the season as they bowed to Wyoming Seminary on the victor's basketball court last Friday night, by a 51 to 39 score.

For the evening both in scoring and in height was Wyoming Seminary's 6'9" Katchik who paced the winners with 20 markers. He was ably assisted in the scoring department by another team mate, Dudes, who tallied 17 points.

Bill Strella connected for 14 points to lead the Baby Bisons while Ronnie Brockmann followed with 13 points to take the runner-up position for the Lanemen.

Foul Shooting Poor
Overwhelming height, a loss of their shooting eye and the superior foul shooting average of the Wyoming Seminary cagers proved to be the downfall of the Frosh courtmen as they were outscored 37-21 in the second half. The Wyoming Seminary

According to all reports: this is to be one great program and an opportunity not to be missed!

SWIMMERS don't forget, to remain a member of the club no more than THREE meetings can be missed in succession.

NEW SCORING RECORD
Four basketball scoring records have already been broken at Bucknell University, where a sophomore squad is also approaching two marks for a full season of play.

COACH TO DEAN
Malcolm E. Musser, dean of men at Bucknell University, was formerly head basketball coach of the Bisons.

BASKETBALL
Inter-class basketball started this Monday with the Sophomore I team defeating the Frosh III, 47-10. The Frosh I led the Frosh II team to a 37-17 victory.

Tuesday, the Juniors took the Sophomore II team 36-21, while the Seniors nosed out the Frosh I 19-18.

While old Pops was plowing his way dutifully through a magazine of the entertainment world early the other evening, he was half-awakened by an article titled "Overseas Record Releases." "Well," I mused to myself, "at last maybe I'll find a few words about my boy, Django."

No such luck.

Not only was the chapter devoid of my mention of my idol, but it had practically nothing to offer on other music notables of France. Sheddling a proverbial tear in my proverbial beer, I flung the volume from me with an anguished sob. Django Reinhardt, you see, is a three-fingered French guitar player who plays what is undoubtedly some of the finest jazz in France.

Django Reinhardt

M. Reinhardt, however, is not like other musicians of the species. Django is a gypsy. And there, in part, lies his fame. That not only makes him the only three-fingered guitar player in the world, but the only three-fingered gypsy guitar player as well.

Thus handicapped, this man migrates out of the Bois de Boulogne (or wherever it is gypsies migrate from) to Pigalle Alley once a year and makes Parisians sit up and notice with what has been acclaimed as the most imaginative jazz of our time. His technique and interpretation, claimed by many to be the only authentic jazz in the world, reign supreme on the right bank.

Geta The No!

It was in 1923 that a Brunswick recording official in Paris first heard Django (pronounced Django) and was impressed enough to make several recordings of his work, among which was a knock-down-drag-em-out version of "Jade." He was an overnight success, not only in France, but in this country as well. Impassioned

by Don Heist

Medians we have a few neocritics around here. The scene was Pardo's, the time late last Saturday night, four feet for a touchdown. The girl had been laughing all evening, without apparent reason, and with his composure totally ruffled, the fellow finally asked her bluntly to explain the joke. Big, naive eyes gazed tenderly as he disclosed, "I'm telling myself shady jokes."

Heist

And cynics too. A caustic epigram, which we are informed originated in the "Rat Cage" this week, holds that, "An A. B. degree only spares one the embarrassment of explaining why he didn't go to college." Well, man the shovels! As a matter of fact, going to college does seem rather pointless when you consider that a few million can be made just by being able to spell a simple word like "Ragmop."

A new semester and a new faux pas: this one concerns what is possibly the acme of frustration. A female computer registered for a seven o'clock Pennsylvania history class but was thwarted by a small technicality. The class met at seven in the evening and not at seven in the morning. Oh well, everything comes to him who waits. She had plenty of time in which to do her homework at any rate. By the way, did anyone ever hear of "In Wilderness?" Wait till you Eugene hear of it.

This week's memo from the Philosophy Department: "The difference between literature and journalism is that journalism is unreadable and literature is not read."

Hmm! Wonder if that can be applied locally? "Kind" plans to appear in concerts in West arm Europe and New York, however, fell on deaf ears. It was time for the bountiful Bohemian to end his annual pilgrimage.

Every year jazz artists from all over the world would gather in Paris and wait for a chance to play with the legendary Django. Everything he played became a jazz masterpiece and record collectors the world over clamored for his rare productions. He even made a seriocomic recording of the "HKO Pathé Newsreel March" which is now regarded as one of his finest.

Good News Tonight

This all stopped in 1940, though, and the jazz connoisseurs of the world feared for a time that the halcyon bones of M. Reinhardt were basking somewhere in a German concentration camp. A news agency was encouraging, however, in a report that a tattered figure was seen recently making his way towards Pigalle Alley with a guitar over his shoulder. This is regarded by some as a sure sign Europe is returning to a normal economic and social level.

Behind The Mike

By Hale Fiedler

There will be a new system of music inaugurated on Voochoo this semester. There will be certain specified times for each type of music. For instance, jazz will be on a certain time each night, as well as Bop, popular and classic tunes. This will be started for the convenience of the listener who goes into musical categories and feels very strongly toward certain types of music.

The fellows behind the mike who don't get too much credit for jobs well done are the staff announcers. One in particular, Paul Douglas, is doing a fine job. Last Thursday evening, three shows didn't turn up, as for an hour and a half Paul was a combination announcer, disk jockey and news commentator. The interesting part of it is that he took over the job with actual experience amounting to about an hour.

At the last meeting of Voochoo an undefined department was left obviously more undefined. Public Relations was voted by Voochoo. This new and suspiciously neglected branch of the station is supposed to be the connecting link between the students, the advertisers and WBU. When fully organized it will entail a complete survey of student opinion in the form of surveys and polls (attention all statistics students!). It will also involve public relations work with faculty and advertisers. In another way, it will be a more dynamic and glorified form of publicity. Large-scale advertisements about the station in general mixed with new and novel ideas will be the keynote of its publicizing. It's a big field and deserves a little attention from the station's heads. They created it, why desert it?

Number 1 on the assured parade of new shows is John Macbe's "Penthouse Party" heard from 9:30-10:00 on Thursday nights. It features every good variety of music plus smooth script and announcing. Behind The Mike

By Hale Fiedler

There will be a new system of music inaugurated on Voochoo this semester. There will be certain specified times for each type of music. For instance, jazz will be on a certain time each night, as well as Bop, popular and classic tunes. This will be started for the convenience of the listener who goes into musical categories and feels very strongly toward certain types of music.

The fellows behind the mike who don't get too much credit for jobs well done are the staff announcers. One in particular, Paul Douglas, is doing a fine job. Last Thursday evening, three shows didn't turn up, as for an hour and a half Paul was a combination announcer, disk jockey and news commentator. The interesting part of it is that he took over the job with actual experience amounting to about an hour.

At the last meeting of Voochoo an undefined department was left obviously more undefined. Public Relations was voted by Voochoo. This new and suspiciously neglected branch of the station is supposed to be the connecting link between the students, the advertisers and WBU. When fully organized it will entail a complete survey of student opinion in the form of surveys and polls (attention all statistics students!). It will also involve public relations work with faculty and advertisers. In another way, it will be a more dynamic and glorified form of publicity. Large-scale advertisements about the station in general mixed with new and novel ideas will be the keynote of its publicizing. It's a big field and deserves a little attention from the station's heads. They created it, why desert it?

Number 1 on the assured parade of new shows is John Macbe's "Penthouse Party" heard from 9:30-10:00 on Thursday nights. It features every good variety of music plus smooth script and announcing. Guy's Reply...

we readily concede but at the same time declared that anything of an editorial nature would be rejected. That last argument wiped out all the logic of your whole article and really revealed who was telling the truth. You certainly didn't originate that policy, for we have heard Polly's master voice many times before.

That has been my contention all along, that the Bucknell Board of Publications in its present setup is closely related to the ideas behind the Iron Curtain. If you happen to disagree with some one or offend them in any way that is always sufficient reason to deny one the Freedom of the Press. Of course it is readily understandable when dominant members of the Board have no convictions of their own, should deny that right to others. We owe you, editors, you have taken away the law of Democracy, you entered not in yourself and them that were entering in your hindrance. Bucknell's religious program, of all kinds and always, is a program of the Iron Curtain. It is a program of the Iron Curtain. It is a program of the Iron Curtain.

The best of writers will make an occasional mistake or become overzealous in a favorite conviction. We never knew the time when moral convictions constituted an unpardonable sin according to our best Bucknell traditions, neither are they an offense against the U. S. Constitution. Listen to the columnist, Hal Boyle in the Sunbury Item of February 18, 1950. "Writing a column for the newspaper is getting to be down-right, perilous. Our Wind Mount Olympus is under siege. The readers are fighting back." Citing the story of Hedda Hopper, a Hollywood Columnist, who received for a valentine, a dejected skunk from one of her "admirers". Boyle continues, "From now on no columnist can feel safe from indignant subscribers. The world is full of animals from White Elephants to Buffaloes and the columnist who wittingly or unwittingly offends one of his readers, may find his home has become an annex to the zoo." It is easy to say, well, don't write anything that annoys people. But just try writing a column, yourself, and see how many days you go without making someone angry. Anything you write can stir up people's wrath. I still intend to stick in some day but sure as sin somebody will write back and demand, "What are you trying to do, ruin my business?"

Unlike the righteous Pharisee, we confess plenty mistakes and sins in past times, but with a more mellow spirit that comes with age we believe rare and far between. But Democracy can always afford a few mistakes, a lot more, than she can afford to be perfect.

Unite the righteous Pharisee, we confess plenty mistakes and sins in past times, but with a more mellow spirit that comes with age we believe rare and far between. But Democracy can always afford a few mistakes, a lot more, than she can afford to be perfect.

ford to lose her greatest contribution to the world, a Free Press. And we never saw anyone at Bucknell that was even half big enough to deny that Freedom.

Many Metropolitan papers contain whole pages of editorial advertising. Nearly all papers accept editorials from their readers. The A & P Store is bombarding the whole Nation with full page editorial comment. The politicians buy all kinds of editorial space. John Wamaker ran an editorial advertisement every day for many years. It never seemed to kill his business. Every intelligent person knows that these paid editorials are not necessarily the opinion of any particular publication. Only the Bucknellian impresses one like the good fruits of the Spirit.

The College Inn has long known and appreciated the best Bucknell traditions and is concerned in adding our bit in maintaining them. Our mind has been scripturally saturated most of our days and if we have fed some of our readers with meat, when we should have fed them with a nipple, we apologize for the mistake. Their physical appearances had deceived us.

Nothing would make us happier than to resume the personal relations we enjoyed over a quarter of a century with the Bucknellian staff members. Many alumni have enjoyed the continuity of our writing through the years. Trustees and Faculty and students have certainly read much that we wrote and the little spice and controversial subjects have given them added zest. After all we are not living in a monastery at Bucknell. The Kingdom of Heaven has not fully arrived and even Diogenes might have to hunt a little to fill his Bucknell quota. If a little editorial surgery can spare us some future humor as sin somebody will write back and demand, "What are you trying to do, ruin my business?"

Artist Course To Present Rochester Philharmonic

The Artist Course will present its major musical program of the year when the 92-piece Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra comes to the campus Friday evening, March 17, for a concert in Davis Gymnasium.

Now in its 27th season, the Rochester Philharmonic has been ranked among symphonic groups in America ever since it was founded in 1922 through the interest and generosity of the late George Eastman, Kodak magnate and philanthropist.

During its history, the Orchestra has had only four permanent conductors, all of them musicians of international repute. They have included Albert Coates, Eugene Goossens, Jose Iturbi, and its present distinguished young conductor, Erich Leinsdorf.

Associate conductor of the Orchestra is Guy Fraser Harrison, who is also conductor of the Rochester Civic Orchestra, one of the finest small symphonies in the United States. The Civic Orchestra is well-known to music lovers in this vicinity where it has appeared several times under the sponsorship of the Bucknell Artist Course.

The appearance of the famed Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra in Lewisburg is expected to attract a capacity audience, since the organization's annual tours are limited to a few key cities. Many persons who have not previously attended concerts by the Orchestra are nonetheless familiar with it through recordings on broadcasts.

The Rochester Philharmonic is unique among the nation's symphonic organizations in two respects. First of all, it is supported by the world's largest community music organization, numbering more than 12,000 subscribers for the current season.

No admission will be charged, but refreshments will be on a "pay as you go" basis. The girls will be expected to pay for their own refreshments. A complete list of active names was drawn up and approved, and the public relations department was dissolved by combining it with the publicity department.

It was announced that the fees were brought up to date. Under the discussion of new programs it was suggested that a program of musicals from Broadway would be presented on the campus. A very important general meeting of the Board of Directors will be held on March 9th, at which the election of new officers will take place. All new members and people with talent are interested in joining should attend.

BENEFITS OF RILW WILL BE DISCUSSED AT COWAN MEETING
Any interested student or faculty member is invited to come to Cowan Hall on Sunday for a follow-up conference on Religion-in-Life Week. The sponsors for this weekend will be the RILW program, discuss the role of the Christian student, and to formulate a plan of action in respect to our individual and collective responsibilities as Christians.

The program to be presented is as follows:
Saturday afternoon — Insights from RILW recreation
Saturday night — The Christian Student; campus sin and entertainment.
Sunday morning — Where do we go from here?

ALUMNI DEMAND
President and Mrs. Hildreth, continuing their fast pace of attending Alumni banquets, will be guests of honor in Harrisburg tonight and at the New England Club meeting in Brooklyn, Mass., next Thursday.

Queen, Top Prof Will Be Elected At Senior Ball

"The 100th Senior Graduating Class will elect its 'Centennial Ball Queen' candidates along with its 'Favorite Faculty Member' next week, both of which will be honored at the ball March 31," it was announced today.

Band Committeesmen Pat Jones and Pete Bricker are withholding the announcement of the band until the return of the contracts according to Bandman Bricker, spokesman for the committee.

Bricker's only comment given to your reporter was, "We're as anxious to give the word as everyone is to hear it. All I can promise is that we've spent a lot of time on this thing and we know you'll like it."

Further preparations for the ball have been the announcement by the Decorations Committee that space will be allotted to fraternities and other student organizations to set up their own "lounges" along the edge of the dance floor as a meeting or resting spot. Plans are being worked out through the BISA and the school to supply furniture for everyone.

Faculty Guests
An announcement was also made that faculty members are to be given special "lowest price" as guests of the Senior Class.

Airing Of Musicals And Other Problems Reviewed At WVBV Director Meeting

The Board of Directors of WVBV held its weekly meeting last Wednesday in the committee room of Hunt Hall for the purpose of discussing the immediate problems confronting the station.

A complete list of active names was drawn up and approved, and the public relations department was dissolved by combining it with the publicity department.

It was announced that the fees were brought up to date. Under the discussion of new programs it was suggested that a program of musicals from Broadway would be presented on the campus.

Students Read, Study More In Self-Directed Classes
Syracuse, N.Y. (I.P.) — Surveys at Syracuse University show that students read more, study more, and discuss more in the experimental classes in which the traditional role of the professor in the classroom has been discarded. Dr. Arthur Combs, university psychologist, declared that such students also do better in examinations.

Under the plan, students direct the class and grade themselves. Dr. Combs stated that the self-directed teaching has been "successful far beyond our expectations" when compared to traditional classes. More than a dozen classes are now using the method here. Interestingly, the marks at all in line with those in conventional classes, Dr. Combs added.

United Nation Leaders Here To Hold FAO Conference

Receptions, Discussions, Forums, Tours To Highlight Two-Day Program

Morris Greene, conference chairman for the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations, will give Bucknell's two-day FAO conference its initial impetus on Sunday night, speaking to Student Church on "Let There Be Bread". Immediately afterwards, an informal reception will be held in Hunt recreation room for all members of its conference personnel.

Dave Shinn, conference director, stated that Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, noted economist, will speak Monday at a special luncheon in the men's dining hall at 1 p. m. on "Recent Development in Financial Aid to Underdeveloped Nations." There will be an admission price of one dollar to this luncheon and address.

Also on Monday, at 6:45 p. m., Dr. Charles E. Rogers, speaking from a wide and varied background, will discuss the work of the FAO and how it affects the local farmer. This discussion will be held at the annual banquet of farmers and businessmen to be held in the Hotel Lewisburg.

To Hold Open Session
At the same time, N. G. Abhyankar will conduct an open session in Hunt living room, dealing with "Food, People, and Peace in the Far East." After this session, at 8:45, a reception will be held at the president's house for members of the conference personnel, and for members of the faculty.

Climaxing the schedule of speakers and other events will be a forum on point four of President Truman's inaugural address, a plan of assistance to underdeveloped nations. Mr. Abhyankar will present the view of foreign nations, while Dr. Rogers will explain FAO's part in the plan.

To Broadcast Forum
A representative from the U. S. department of Agriculture will present the views of the U. S. on the issue. This program will be given over radio stations WKOK, WRAC and other stations, including Harrisburg, and will go on the air at 8:00.

Following the forum, a tape recording of interviews made of conference personnel will be broadcast and at 9:15 a program dealing with national surplus will be given.

High Schools Included
While these speakers are being presented on campus, Alivia Bano, of Mexico, will be visiting high schools in the surrounding area, generally answering the question, What is FAO?

She will also appear for the conference on the radio. (Continued on page 8.)

Band To Give Concert March 23; Four Members Go To Carnegie Tech

The Bucknell University Band, under the direction of Robert Beckman, will present its annual spring concert on March 23 at 8:00 p. m. in the Lewisburg High School auditorium.

Selected to represent Bucknell were Francis Fuge and Margaret Geiser, flutists; Elizabeth Auer, oboist; Nancy Heins, clarinetist; and Dr. Cook reported that during his three-day stay at the Slater Hotel many lectures, choral concerts, and piano recitals were given.

Four members of the BU Band will participate in the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Band concerts Friday and Saturday nights at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh.

A Solution For The Infirmary Problem

(This is not the editorial we promised you. We could have run it, but in thinking it over during the week, we have decided that the following is a much more sensible approach and one that will get more results than a blast. The other editorial is available in proof form at The Bucknellian office.)

Nearly anybody can tell you a story of mistreatment at the men's infirmary. Larry Stanley's letter to the editor last week just written down some of the many charges leveled.

Although many of these charges can be disregarded as the usual gripes just for the sake of talk, the very number of them seems to indicate that there is something wrong at the Zeigler Infirmary.

The most serious and frequent complaint of the men students is that diagnosis of a case is too often incorrect. We could fill the paper with examples; however, there is no need to—you can probably get a story from your roommate. But they all add up to the fact that the students themselves have very little faith in the infirmary.

To get to the bottom of the whole problem, we propose a conference between President Hildreth and the Student Health Board on the one hand, and the presidents of the Student-Faculty Congress and WSGA, the head men's Counselor, and the editor of The Bucknellian on the other hand.

This group will determine whether or not the complaints of the student body are well founded. If they are, action will be taken to remove their cause. President Hildreth has promised this.

Letters by students who feel that they have been mistreated at the infirmary will form the basis for the student point of view. Since the infirmary officials will have a chance to dispute these, they should state all the facts (not gossip), be written by the "wronged" students themselves, and be signed. Names will be withheld upon request.

Bring these letters to any one of the student representatives mentioned above. Their importance is obvious, for without them nothing can be done, and you will have only yourselves to blame for any poor conditions.

The ball has started rolling. It's up to you. Don't say we didn't warn you.

Thank You, Mr. Geiger

More than just common appreciation is due Mr. Geiger, superintendent of buildings and grounds, and his corps of assistants who keep the paths up the hill open during icy weather.

Anybody who wants to hear what worldly wisdom professors dispense at eight o'clock Monday mornings can do so without fear of breaking a leg on the way to class. The walks are always shoveled and ashes are always spread, no matter what the hour.

For a task well done, then, a sincere and appreciative thank you from the student body.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

by Bobbie Roemer

Here's a little something to think about:
DOWN WITH OUR FACULTY
Down with our faculty!

They mind our business, by trying to guide us.

They take advantage of our position as students by giving outside assignments.

They ask us to do much work, which they have to correct, and requires college standards.

They show no school spirit, but have contributed generously to various projects and organizations.

They destroy individualism by demanding we conform to rules and regulations set up by the administration.

They harp on our weak points by taking notice and trying to help us correct them.

They're deceitful and will reject our work just because it's copied from a friend or a book.

They're hypocritically saying they will pass us if we do the work and won't if we don't.

They're narrow and teach us not to accept generalities blindly.

They're unapproachable, and won't let us interrupt without silly formalities, when they're speaking to someone else.

On these grounds, down with our faculty.

Etownian.

A philosophizing veteran came up with this opinion: to be college bred means a four year loaf, requiring a great deal of dough and plenty of crant.

Muhlenberg Weekly.

So you're minus five q. c's in French 101? Pity the poor lad who takes Eng. 101 in a foreign country, and runs across the word "kiss." Ah, but there's beauty in discrepancy here. Kiss is often a noun, at the same time a conjunction; it is never declined, is more common than proper, is used in the plural, and agrees with all genders.

Well, here's a good one!!! From the rear of a poli. sci. classroom came the retort in answer to a request for theories as to the advisability of invoking the Taft-Hartley act in the coal miner dispute: "No, no, there's no use—you'll only drive them underground."

Muhlenberg Weekly.

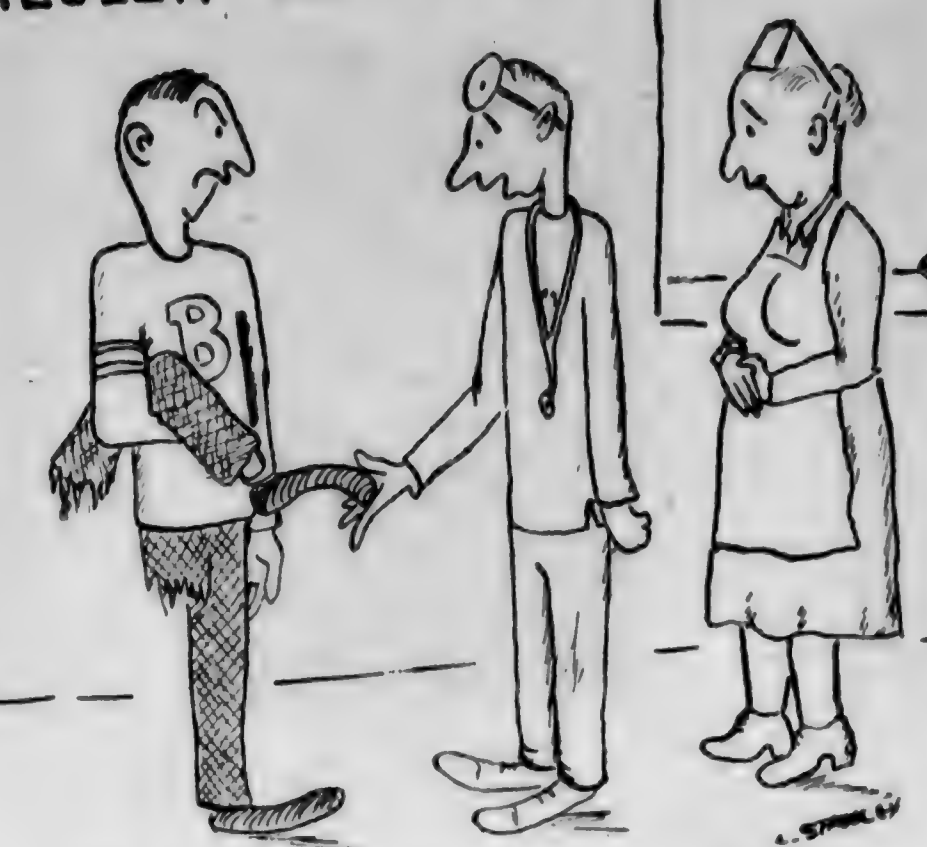

And in the same vein comes the headline from the austere Yale News: "Lewis dies union suit."

A young reporter, asked to cut his verbose stories shorter, wrote the next day the following accident notice: "James C. Humphries loosed up the shaft at the Sheraton Hotel this morning to see if the elevator was on its way down. It was. Aged 24.

If your roommate comes home from a test humming "Everybody Knew But Me," leave him in solitude for a while. If your date sings "Everything I Have Is Yours," take her term paper. But what conclusion can you draw if the only song your guy can sing is "Rag Mop?"

Letters to the Editor

Artist Course Defense

February 26, 1950.

To the Editor: Now, in a more serious vein, and in defense of the Artist Course Committee of which your correspondent is NOT a member: The chief basis upon which your paper's recent attack was made appears to be in the fact that so few students attended Luigi Silva's concert.

The more important fact is that the Artist Course Committee has, within the confines of an extremely limited budget, brought to the campus one of the two or three greatest players of cello in the entire world. For this you need not take my word. I refer you, instead to the critical reports by New York reviewers, notoriously the toughest in the country to please.

The fact that Silva gave a superb concert seems to your paper less important than the fact that he was not a member of the Artist Course Committee.

Freedom?

February 27, 1950.

To the Editor: Your slip is showing!!!

By this time you are probably aware of the irony of the statement in your editorial about Guy Payne that in spite of what anyone thinks "we do have a free press at Bucknell." Only one week later you were forced to state in the very same spot that you were not allowed to print an editorial until it was checked thoroughly by members of the administration. If you are not yet convinced of the control exercised over the Bucknell press, please allow me to relate an incident that occurred just two years ago.

WORLD WIDE

by Ronald Unger

A WATERED-DOWN VICTORY
For six long years the administration has been endeavoring to send through Congress an act which establishes a Fair Employment Practices Commission. The Commission, as the President has visualized it, would investigate racial and religious discrimination in hiring and would have the power to order firms "to cease and desist from" such discrimination; violators of the commission's mandates would be subject to fine and imprisonment.

Last week the House of Representatives went through one of its most turbulent sessions in many years. The result of the high-pressure political maneuvering was a watered-down substitute for the President's proposal. The bill passed would set up a Fair Employment Practices Commission without enforcement powers, able only to investigate job discrimination and recommend ways to end it.

This proposal of Samuel J. McConnell Jr., a Republican from Pennsylvania, comes up in the Senate in about a month. The southern Senators will probably be able to filibuster, and as a result it is doubtful that even this "voluntary measure" will pass into law.

TREACHEROUS FOOTING FOR LABOR

On Thursday, February 23, some 28 million voters went to the polls to determine who shall hold the political reins in England, Scotland, and Wales. The result of this election was a moral victory for the Conservative forces, but an unfortunate political statement for an already economically untidy Britain.

In 1945 the Labor election was swept into office by a decisive majority. When all the votes were counted they had captured 129 per cent of the 610 seats in Parliament or a total of 395. On the other hand the Conservatives had held only 29.5 per cent or 213 seats. The remaining 34 seats were taken by the Liberals and other minority parties.

However, this 1950 election has taken on an entirely different hue. With the results almost complete Labor has captured only 353 seats while the Conservatives had obtained 294 in the new 625-member House of Commons. Sealing these figures, Labor has obtained 50.6 per cent of the new seats in the House while the Conservatives possess 47.4 per cent of the new proportion. The minority groups control the remaining all-important 2 per cent of the House positions.

While this election has been a definite "moral victory" for the Conservatives, the division of power in the new parliament may be tantamount to disaster for the English people. Bowed by economic pressures and problems, Britain needs above everything else a strong, decisive guiding hand.

Clement Attlee has with some trepidation, accepted the position of "His Majesty's First Minister," for a second time. Just what course he will take is indefinite at this time.

It can be said with certainty that, whatever moves he makes, his road will be rocky indeed.

A NEW TWIST IS ADDED BY COMMUNIST INDO-CHINA

Over two weeks ago the United States government recognized the Viet Nam government of Bao Dai in Indo-China. In opposition to this government are the Chinese Communists and the Soviet Union, who have been contemplating the sending of aid to the Bao faction, was thrown into a state of puzzlement this past week when the Tito government of Yugoslavia announced the birth of diplomatic relations with the Ho group.

In Western capitals there has been a number of conflicting views concerning the move. Some observers saw it as a sign of a split between the Chinese Communists and the Moscow government, which is an arch-enemy of Tito.

Their reasoning is as follows: Since Ho needs and probably is getting military aid from Mao Tse-tang's regime, he could not have made this diplomatic pact without Mao's approval. Mao could not have given his approval unless he intended to be a "Nationalist" Communist who makes his decisions free from the Kremlin's pressure.

Some of the observers are skeptical about this theory. They believed that Ho approached Tito for reasons of internal politics—to try to convince the people of Viet Nam that he is not a Moscow Communist but a true nationalist. Whatever the reason the result has created much confusion as to what our future policy in Indo-China should be.

EUTHENASIA ON TRIAL

Last week in a red brick court house in Manchester, New Hampshire there began a trial which may have a profound effect on the future ethics of the medical profession. At small town doctor, Herman Sander, is standing trial for a charge of manslaughter in the death of a woman dying of cancer to another suffering. He is charged with first-degree murder, and, if convicted, faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. The trial is expected to last about 3 to 4 weeks, and when it is over, the problem of legal acceptance of euthanasia may be solved to a great extent.

EXPERT ON QUALITY CONTROL TO SPEAK AT ASME-SAM MEETING

Charles R. Scott Jr., quality control superintendent of the SKF Industries, Inc. of Philadelphia, will speak on the topic, "Production Planning and Control," at a joint meeting of the A. S. M. E. and the S. A. M. tonight at 7:30 in Room 122 of the Engineering Building.

Bucknell Graduate
Following his graduation as a mechanical engineer from Bucknell in 1940, Scott went to work for SKF Industries, where before long, he was doing special work on gauging and inspection practices. He became interested in quality control and introduced some techniques in this field. Due to his efficiency in this line, he was made supervisor of quality control in all of the SKF plants. In 1947 he became superintendent of plant No. 2, the machining division. He was appointed superintendent of Plant No. 1 in 1949 where heat treating, grinding, assembly and other similar processes are performed.

Scott is a member of the American Society of Quality Control, A. S. M. E., S. A. M. and the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He has written various articles for technical magazines and is currently working on a book concerned with quality control.

No Emergency Vacation—We Have Plenty Of Coal

If any students are hoping for an uncheduled vacation as a result of the national coal crisis, they are in for a big disappointment, according to Mr. Geiger, custodian of the school's anthracite supply.

Although the university's daily requirement of twenty-five tons has seriously depleted this supply, most trucks have been added to keep the pile from disappearing altogether.

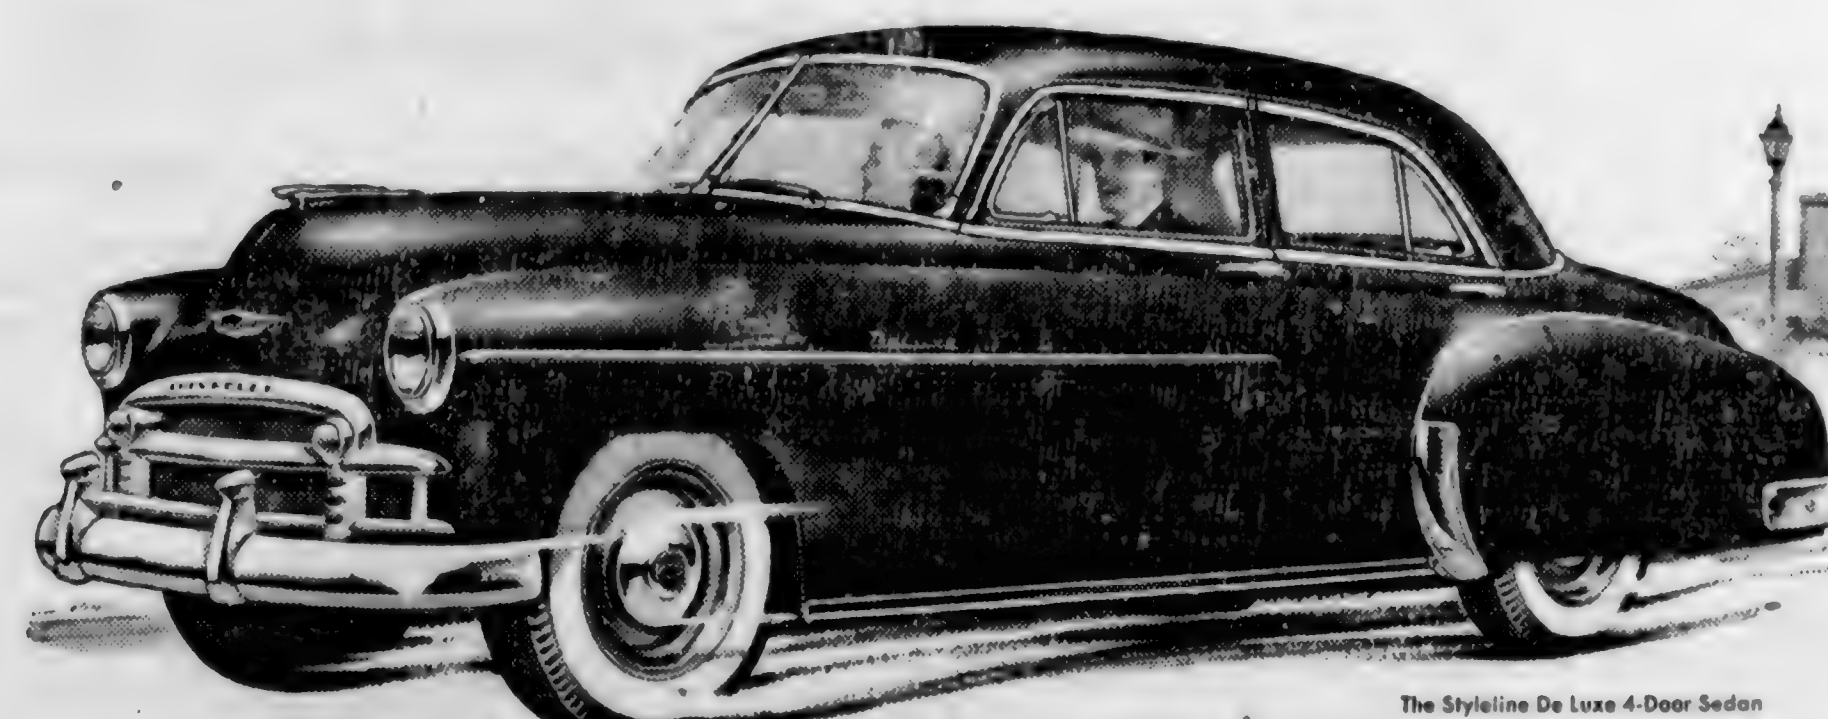

In any event, says Mr. Geiger, there is enough to keep the furnaces hot for at least another month. Let's face it.

UWF To Formulate Plans, Elect Temporary Officers

Plans will be made for activities promoting world government at a meeting of the United World Federalists to be held Wednesday, March 8, at 4:30 in Hunt Rec. Room, it was announced today. A speaker will be present, and temporary officers will be elected at that time.

CA Proposes Answer To Summer Work Situation

What are you going to do with yourself this summer? The Social Responsibility Commission of the Christian Association presented a program on Monday evening in the Social Science building designed to help the interested student in solving this question.

Woody Woodward, chairman of the commission, and Forrest Brown, executive secretary of the CA, directed the preliminary discussion and presented Ray Irwin and Ray the speakers.

Many Openings

American Youth Hotels, students in industry, students in government, city social service, intercollegiate workcamp, youth caravans, institutional service and summer camp opportunities were mentioned as possibilities for summer work. While many of these positions are unpaid, the experience obtained is usually worth the time and effort.

Ray Irwin of the Bucknell Placement Bureau emphasized that he has investigated summer positions and will furnish information to any in positions are harder to obtain this year. He also noted that students applying for permanent positions are considered more favorably if they have had summer work experience.

Other Plans

Ray Hartsough presented the American Friends Service Group plans, consisting of work camps, international service seminars, institutional service units, and interns in industry.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information should contact the Christian Association Office, Booklets and lists of names of individuals who have participated in summer projects have been prepared by the Social Responsibility Commission.

Dr. Bond Leads Discussion At Theological Conference

Dr. Charles M. Bond, professor of religion, was the speaker at the three-day conference on the Ministry held Friday through Sunday at Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Bond was a leader for the discussion groups held during the course of the conference. Among the principal speakers were: Dr. Luther Wesley Smith, executive secretary of the Board of Education and publication of the Northern Baptist Convention; Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, minister of Christ Church, New York; Congressman Walter H. Judd, former medical missionary in China and Dr. Clarence W. Crawford, minister of the Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, D. C.

Ed Anlian Sparks Invaders In Final Quarter Splurge

JOE GALLAGHER ONLY NINE POINTS SHY OF BUCKNELL ALL-TIME SCORING RECORD

by Harry Staley

You can play with dynamite just so long before it goes off and someone gets hurt. That is exactly what took place last night when Ed Anlian, sharpshooting Albright forward, began to hit from all over the court to lead his mates to a 76-67 victory over Bucknell in Davis Gymnasium.

Anlian Hot

Anlian registered 32 points during the contest to pull the Albright quintet past the Bisons in the last quarter. The Albright star is one of the leading scorers in the state and it can certainly be said that as Anlian goes, so goes Albright. The Albright captain scored only 10 points in the first half and his team trailed at that point, 36-32. In the second half Anlian found the range for 22 points as the Albright five edged past the Bisons for the victory.

On the other side of the fence, it was the usual story as far as offensive play was concerned. Big Joe Gallagher again led the Bison attack as he dropped in 11 field goals and 2 fouls for a total of 24 points. This brings Gallagher to within nine points of the All-time record for the most points scored by a Bucknell player in one season.

Don "Bucky" Strasser again came through for the Bison as he notched 20 points to share scoring honors with Gallagher. Don was particularly effective from the foul line where he converted eight of ten attempts.

Bisons Lead

The contest started off with a bang when Albright assumed a temporary lead on a tap-in by H. Bieber. Joe Gallagher immediately dropped in a driving lay-up to tie the score. At this point the Bucknell fast break completely overwhelmed the Albright five and Gallagher clicked with six fast points with baskets added by McKibbin, Webber and DeLoe to give the Bison a 12-2 spread.

Albright found it impossible to stop the Bucknell fast break and within four minutes of the first quarter left to play the Bison had built up a 19-5 lead.

Do You Know ...

"BRILLIANT" does not necessarily mean—the "fire" or "Brightness" of a Diamond. Be sure when you are told it is a "Brilliant" stone. That also means "a standard round 58 facet cut diamond, telling you only it's shape."

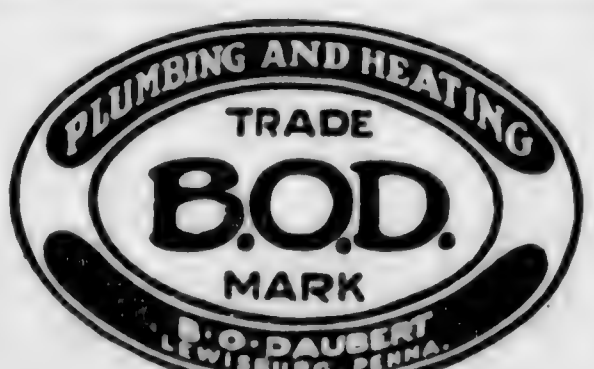

Diamond cutting is an art. Don't buy a price-tag. Know your quality by knowing your stone. "Special Price" and "Special Buy" do NOT go with Quality Diamonds.

Bison Wrestlers Downed By Mules; Stainsby Wins 12th In 19-13 Loss; Middle Atlantic Tournament Soon

by Belber Robinson

After holding a 13-6 lead at the end of the 155 pound event, the Bison grapplers failed to keep any of the three remaining bouts on the card, and as a result became a 19-13 upset victim of Muhlenberg College at Allentown last Saturday evening.

This concludes the regular dual meet season for the Bucknell wrestling team. The Bison won four wins and two losses in the 155 pound class to George Schmauch of Allentown in 7:27. The veteran Schmauch was ahead 6-2 at the time he employed a reverse Nelson and body press on Woolcock. Woolcock, a sophomore, ended the season with a two win, three loss, and a draw record.

The entire Herd outfit will journey to Delaware tomorrow and Saturday to compete in the annual two-day Middle Atlantic Tournament. Gettysburg is the defending champion, while the Orange and Blue, who took the fourth place last year, will be out to give all free plenty of trouble. Last year Tom Fusia won the individual 121 pound crown.

Special "trouble-makers" for the Thundering Herd this season have been Wendell Stainsby and George Stanton, who have both finished the dual meet season unbeaten. Stainsby won his 12th consecutive dual meet match over a two-year span, while Stanton's two year streak is at eight straight. In two years of varsity wrestling Stainsby has won twelve out of twelve dual meet matches, while Stanton has triumphed in eleven of twelve verdicts.

Stainsby, Stanton, and John Rick and were the only winners for the Herd against Muhlenberg, while Marsh Guiding, Ed Fusia, Nelson Woolcock, Jack Henderson, and Ed Kiehl lost.

"Ducky" Losses William McCall of the Mules dealt Marsh Guiding, Ed Fusia, Nelson Woolcock, Jack Henderson, and Ed Kiehl a 5-0 defeat. McCall gained two reversals and two points on advantage, while Guiding, a sophomore, picked up a reversal and an escape.

In the 128 pound division Bison Ed Kiehl dropped his match to Muhlenberg's Roy Miller, 7-1. Miller's total came on a takedown, an escape, a near-fall, and time, while Fusia was pulling an escape. Sophomore Fusia now has a two up and down record. Muhlenberg 6, Bucknell 0.

Unbeaten senior George Stanton of the Maackmen was leading 7-1 in the 145 pound event until he finally caught the Mules Don Gallagher in a reverse chancery and crotch hold in 3:30.

In the 155 pound bracket Bison senior John Rickard gained his fourth win out of five engagements when he bested an old foe in Muhlenberg's Joe Cappel, 6-2. "Rick", who whipped Sahulka 3-2 last season, scored on two reversals and time, while Sahulka countered with a reversal. This gave the Herd a 13-6 lead.

Herd Loses To Muhlenberg As Mackin Paces Scorers; McKibbin, Gallagher Excel

Defense once again spelled the difference between victory and defeat for the Bisons when the Muhlenberg Mules dropped the Herd 80-61 at Allentown last Saturday night.

Baseball Campaign Near; First Call For Tryouts On March 9th In The Gym

By Mal Sinclair

The old familiar cry of "Play Ball!" will ring out on April 15 when the Bucknell baseball team will take the field to meet Franklin and Marshall in Lancaster.

Captain Mackin has issued the call for prospective basemen to meet in Davis Gym, Thursday, March 9. The Bison face a tough 15 game schedule which again includes such powerhouse nines as Penn State, Syracuse, Colgate, Navy, Lafayette, as well as teams in the Middle Atlantic League. Coach Lane stated that he hoped that this year's club will do as well as last year's nine which finished with a 9-6 record for the season.

Strong Pitching Lane plans to build this year's team around a strong pitching staff composed of this year's captain, Art Raynor, freshman Al Hegeliste, Cal Seaman and Dick Roush. Several veterans will be on hand to lighten the task and there is expected to be some help from the sophomore class. Lane expects competition for positions on the team to be very keen and added that "anyone planning to come out will be welcomed and will be given every chance to make the squad."

Hitters Needed The biggest gap to be filled in this year's team will be in the hitting department since two of the leading hitters from last year's nine have graduated. It is hoped that center fielder Charley Conklin will return to his 1948 hitting form and help supply the needed batting punch.

Chris Mathews field will have that "new look" this year as new stands will be erected. A backdrop and a scoreboard will also be added to last year's nine have graduated. It is hoped that center fielder Charley Conklin will return to his 1948 hitting form and help supply the needed batting punch.

This week, the curtain will ring down on another basketball campaign. One look at the record may lead you to believe that it has been another disastrous season. And indeed it has been if you only take into consideration the win and loss column. A closer look at the whole picture may reveal that this is just the rocky beginning to a very successful basketball future

Official Of The World Council Of Churches To Speak In Chapel

Dr. Henry S. Leiper, Associate General Secretary of the World Council of Churches, will speak at Chapel on "Christianity and World Community," on Wednesday, March 8.

DR. HENRY S. LEIPER

Having acted for nearly two decades as an ambassador from the American Churches to churches in many countries throughout the world, Dr. Leiper's knowledge of Christian life, in both the Orient and Occident, has equipped him as an interpreter of Christianity. After graduation from Amherst, Union Theological Seminary and Columbia, he served as a minister, a traveling secretary of the Y. M. C. A., a war relief worker in Siberia during World War I, as an educator and as an editorial secretary for the Congressional Christian General Council in America. In 1946, on government invitation, he made a flying trip to India to survey famine conditions, consulting with Mahatma Gandhi, Pandit Nehru and M. A. Jinnah.

Kappa Sig Conclave Discusses Fraternity-University Relations

"The Alpha Phi chapter feels that the business meetings were very successful in suggesting many worthwhile policies that will further the individual fraternities in relations with the respective universities and their positions as leaders on each campus," stated Bill Miller, Bucknell Kappa Sig, after the annual fourth district KS conclave, held Friday and Saturday at the Kappa Sigma house, ended.

Twenty-six Kappa Sigas from Lehigh, Lafayette, Dickinson, Swarthmore, Franklin & Marshall and the University of Pennsylvania met on the Bucknell campus to discuss fraternity problems and policies and to enjoy some social life. Pete Weidenbacher was chairman of the conclave.

Dick Gossner acted as the MC for a smoker program directed by Pete Bricker and presented February 24 after dinner. A chorus line of Bob Coughlin, Bill Sabo and Bob Stuts (singer) a barbershop quartet of Jack Evans, Bill Miller, Pete Bricker and Bob Kucker sang; and Dick Gossner.

Will Visit Prison
As an interesting sidelight to the conference, personnel are planning a trip to the penitentiary plant and farm. Also, during the conference, Robert's Hall lobby will feature pictures, brochures, pamphlets, and other informative material on FAO.

In addition, geology, biology, and political science classes will offer films dealing with FAO. During the Tuesday afternoon French conversational hour, slides relating to FAO, with narrations in French, will be shown.

As prelude to the conference proper, Hilltop will show the FAO film Battle for Bread tomorrow night. Also available on Friday will be a printed brochure, complete with details of the conference. These will be distributed to the students.

FAO personnel will also appear in fraternity houses for presentations of the FAO organization and purpose.

Artist Course Defense...

portant about the fact that the student body did not turn out to hear a "cello concert." Why didn't the students patronize the concert? Perhaps the idea of a solo performance on the cello is not as appealing as one on the violin. Anyone who attended Silva's concert can tell you that it was a memorable, artistic and musical experience.

Or perhaps the lack of attendance stemmed from the attitude of "Who is this guy Silva? Never heard of him before." To be sure he hasn't been around as long as Fritz Kreisler or Heifetz, and if he had we wouldn't be able to afford him.

I have no axe to grind for the Artist Course Committee. But I hate to see the results of its considerable labors so scornfully snuffed at.

For the money available we are getting a good variety of absolutely top notch performers. Perhaps you would be so kind as to explain just how student attendance reflects upon the integrity and efficiency of the Committee?

Yours truly,
R. O. Williams

FOSTER C. WILSON, Milton Engineer, Addresses ASME

The American Society of Civil Engineers meeting, held on March 2 in the Engineering Building, was highlighted by a talk given by Foster C. Wilson, chief mechanical engineer for the Milton Steel and Supply Company.

Mr. Wilson explained the duties of a structural engineer and emphasized that a young graduate engineer must prove himself in the first few months of employment. Although the job may seem menial at first, he advised "rookie" engineers be patient and do not, legible and accurate work, thus assuring themselves of a bright future in structural engineering.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the class of '28.

Phi Beta Phi: Betty Mather, president; Ann Cooper, vice president; Mary Jane Riley, recording secretary; May Williamson, corresponding secretary; Nancy Wolfinger, pledge mother; Janet Woods, treasurer.

The Senior Class Presents...

by Marge Lawler

"Buddy Williams and his Orchestra, 'THE next big name band of the country, will play for the 100th graduating senior class ball'.

Pete Bricker and Pat Jones, band committeemen announced today. Your reporter finally penetrated the silence zone surrounding the mystery of the "Centennial Ball" with the quote above. But that's not all your inquiring newsmen found.

With the explanation that the dance committee fully realized the newness of the name Williams to the "new" bands such as Ralph Flanagan, the seniors will also feature at their ball a "name" musical combo or vocalist. The reason given for the holdout of this added attraction announcement was final contract troubles.

Although new to our campus, Buddy Williams has recorded with Decca and will have national releases of these discs in April. He is currently playing a list of college dances and proms, and several men from this campus danced to his music at Hood College a few weeks ago.

Tracking down one of these Hood week-enders we found Don Thomas very willing to comment on the band as being "great good dance music and the crowd really liked him."

He has also played at Frank Palumbo's "Club" Hotel Pennsylvania in New York; Meadowbrook, New Jersey; Ivy Rafter at the University of Pennsylvania; Princeton; Muhlenberg, and the entire eastern circuit of "name band" stops.

Raising an eye-brow of skepticism, your surprised reporter was not satisfied by the flowery words of publicity as asked for more facts about this "Buddy" fellow. Here's what we learned:

Williams is a former player-arranger with the original Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Stan Kenton, Jimmy Dorsey and several other all time greats. He and his band have broadcast over 400 times in the last three years over the national networks of NBC, CBS, MBS, and ABC.

Now contented with the potentialities of the band we turned to a subtle questioning on the "extra feature." Mum was the word on what we should expect but we were reassured that it would be "musical entertainment, colorful, popular and somebody everyone knows."

FAO Conference Discusses Alleviation Of Food Shortage

by Mary Ann Fritz

Dr. Charles E. Rodgers, director of the public relations division of the FAO, was the speaker at the annual Union County Farmer's - Businessmen's banquet on Monday evening at the Hotel Lewisburg.

The accomplishments of the FAO in disseminating information, in extending scientific and technical aid, in securing the co-operation of member countries were reviewed.

Dr. Rodgers noted the value of the work the FAO has accomplished and hopes to accomplish in spite of its meagre $5,000,000 budget.

The work is calculated to stabilize agriculture, to provide for better distribution of agricultural products, to introduce new plant materials and, most important, to secure freedom from want all over the world, and thus, ending poverty.

Home Rule Problem
Along with the problem of rice is the problem of home rule. Most of the countries in this area have won their independence. However, a democracy cannot be built on empty stomachs. If the people find that they are receiving less from the new government, the tendency will be to return to the old regime.

There is a possibility of expanding the farming area and even increasing the yield of existing areas with small initial capital expenditures.

East-Solids Aid
These countries of the Far East are therefore solicited aid from the more fortunate countries of the world for an expansion program to get them on their feet. They do not want handouts—merely repayable assistance.

The International Emergency Food Council has been a great help in this need. This council attempts to provide food for the hungry.

Three Performances Slated

by Jane Brown

You've been hearing those records in the Bison, you've been "entertained by the spontaneous" bursts of song around campus, you've been told that our own gift to the theatre world, Jim Stewart, will be behind the footlights.

After battling the flu, laryngitis, and over-fatigue, the cast of the long-awaited "Vagabond King" will break into their first number when the curtain goes up at 8:15 tomorrow night at the Lewisburg High School.

S.A.M. WELCOMES STUDENTS TO JOIN; DEADLINE MARCH 16
Society for the Advancement of Management is inviting all eligible students to become members of the organization before the induction period deadline, March 16.

According to Dick Freed, president, all sophomores, juniors, and seniors—male and female—are eligible for initiation provided they meet the following requirements:

1. 4.87 and AB students who have completed nine hours in management with a B average and a C average in all other economics courses.

Membership in S. A. M. presents an opportunity for well rounded development in the field of management, not only through the association with the group but also by contributing his own ideas.

Application blanks may be obtained by contacting John Marcinak, S.A.M. president, and administration chairman, at the Phi Gam House or by stopping in at the Placement Bureau Office.

PAT WAGNER APPEARS ON NEW YORK TV SHOW
Local talent broke into television this week when Bucknell's own Patty Wagner appeared on "Ted Mack's Amateur show" in New York.

Patty was very well received, according to reports received here, and if she receives enough votes by mail she will be brought back next week.

Students wishing to help Patty win a $5,000 dollar scholarship may do so by putting her name on a penny postcard, signing their own name and address, and mailing it to Ted Mack's Original Amateur Show, Radio City, Box 101, New York.

How About Those Letters?

Like the weather, everybody talks about the infirmity situation but nobody does anything about it. Last week The Bucknellian published a request for those students who had complaints against the infirmity to write these complaints down and give them the letters to certain people. To date, no letters have been received.

If you want something done, you'll have to write these letters. If you don't care, don't bother writing and we'll let the whole thing drop.

Congratulations, FAO

All those connected with the FAO conference deserve a real vote of thanks from the student body. The efficiency of their staff and the value of the tremendous job they are undertaking was evident to us all.

We heartily congratulate them and are grateful for the opportunity they provided for us to learn first hand about the important activities this branch of the United Nations is performing by disseminating knowledge of better farming methods among the 48 member nations and thereby helping to promote peaceful and friendly relations.

Freedom—Again

"Opinions expressed in the column of this newspaper are not to be interpreted as the official views of the faculty or administration of Bucknell University. The University, however, as publisher, reserves the right to exercise such supervision as will maintain high standards of journalism."

If such a statement ever appeared in The Bucknellian, loud would be the hue and cry. And yet, just such a statement appears in the masthead of the Temple University News (with the word "Temple" substituted for "Bucknell," of course).

When you compare such a flagrant censorship with The Bucknellian, you've got no kick coming as to freedom of the press.

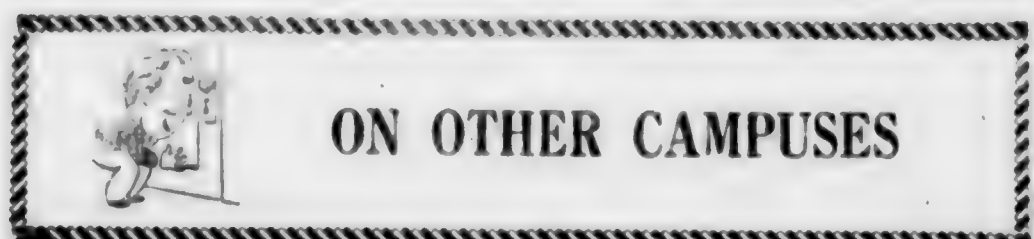

From One Editor To Another

The Bucknellian would like to congratulate Registrar George R. Faint for his fine job in revising and editing the current edition of the catalog.

The new make-up and the new type faces add a great deal to the appearance of the book, and the program schedules as they now stand are very helpful and time-saving. A well-done job, Mr. Faint. Congratulations!

So!

Probably the best-known member of the class of 1917 is Guy Payne '09. Records at the alumni office reveal that the eminent restaurateur did not graduate in the class which, at first glance, it would seem.

Copying from another man's paper is cheating.
Copying from another man's book is plagiarism.

Technology News

The Upsala Gazette supplies this one: "You're the first girl I ever kissed," he said as he shifted gears with his knees.

Did you know that—for every three bald-headed men there is one bald woman—so, girls, don't laugh at the bald guy—you may be next!

—college men kiss their wives more than non-college men. Just goes to show what an education can do—yessir.

Talk about clever—a reporter, telling about a certain fire that caused $75 of damage to the Delta Tau Delta house at George Washington University, wrote the following description: "Delta Tau Delta held an unexpected 'smoker' Saturday afternoon when visiting firemen were entertained at the house."

It could've happened here! A veteran, shopping for his wife, walked into a grocery store and asked for a fifth of milk.

Two old ladies were enjoying the music in the park.
"I think this is a minuet from Mignon," said one.
"I thought it was a waltz from Faust," said the other.
The first went over to what she thought was the board announcing the items.

"We're both wrong," she said, when she got back. "It's 'Refrain from Spitting'!"

We had another good joke about oil, but the editor said it was unrefined.

Using our imagination, this might just as well read:
"Did you get home all right from the Burger Tuesday?"
"Fine, thanks, except that just as I was turning up the hill some idiot stepped on my fingers."

Here's something for the dictionary dodgers who "just can't see it." Socialism: You have two cows, you give one to your neighbor. Communism: You have two cows, you give both to the government and the government gives you part of the milk. Fascism: You have two cows, you keep the cows, give the milk to the government and the government sells part of the milk back to you.

New Dealism: You have two cows, the government shoots one cow, milks the other cow, and pours milk down the sewer.

Nazism: You have two cows, the government shoots you and takes the cows.

Capitalism: You have two cows, you sell one and buy a bull.

Americanism: You have one cow and a bull; just give nature a chance and soon you will be looking for a ranch to stock.

Fowle's Surprise

March 6, 1950

To the Editor:

I was pleasantly surprised to read your constructive editorial about the Health Service in the Bucknellian. From our interview I had been led to believe that we could not expect such fair treatment and I was expecting an unfair appraisal based on gossip and hearsay rather than careful investigation. I will welcome the opportunity to answer questions at the Round Table Conference.

Very truly yours,

Lester P. Fowle, M. D.

To the Editor:

During my brief stay at Bucknell, I have heard many problems discussed. Now I read that "nearly anybody can tell you a story of mistreatment" (Continued on Page 7).

FRENCH CONTROLLED SAAR
Last Friday the Governments of France and the "Semi-Autonomous" Saar state signed a series of agreements giving France a fifty-year lease on Saar coal mines in return for which the Saar was given a larger degree of independence from French domination. The French government will pay the Saar an annual rent for the mines. The Saar government will exercise control over its own domestic problems. The French, however, will still exercise a veto over the economic, defense, and foreign affairs of the valley.

These facts between the two governments has initiated a vigorous protest from the West German Governments. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said that as a result of the Saar agreements, Germany would refuse to participate in the Council of Europe, which is the major means for European unification. Moreover, Dr. Adenauer said that the agreements "endangered the aims of the entire Marshall Plan."

Whatever complaints Germany makes, they will undoubtedly fail to change the situation. France now has a tight control of the third largest coal-producing area on the continent. The detachment of the Saar from Germany is a reality. Also a reality is the poor chance for political and economic unification of the continent.

JOHN L. LEWIS' COSTLY VICTORY.

Last Thursday Judge Richmond B. Keesh found the union guilty of an illegal strike. With this decision the United States found itself with its back against the wall. The Taft-Hartley Act had failed in regard to the problem of getting coal dug.

This turn of events incurred immediate action from Mr. Truman. On Friday morning he held meetings with his Cabinet and White House aides. In the afternoon he sent a message to both houses of Congress asking for legislation empowering him to seize the mines. Only five times before, all during war years, had the Government asked for such power to halt coal strikes. His proposed legislation gave him the power to control the wages and profits of the industry, and other working conditions.

Shortly after the President's message the mine operators and union leaders got down to business. The two sides did what they should have achieved last May, that is, bargain collectively. The results of the meeting set up the basic principles of a new contract. The major terms were as follows:

WAGES. An increase from $14.06 to $14.75 daily.

WELFARE ROYALTIES. An increase from 20 to 30 cents a ton.

OTHER PROVISIONS. Elimination of contract clauses providing that the miners would work only when "able and willing" and that Mr. Lewis could call unlimited "Memorial" stoppages.

The results of this coal strike have not yet been completely determined. However, some facts are evident: first, John L. Lewis and the UMW has won a decisive victory in the coal war at great cost to the mine industry, and to the nation as a whole; second, that the Taft-Hartley Act will become one of the big focal points of the November elections. The President shall claim it is ineffective, the Republicans shall say that its failure was Mr. Truman's fault.

ACHESON VS. CONGRESS!

The growing friction between the Secretary of State and the present Congress is a cause for great concern among the leading observers in Washington. Mr. Acheson has more direct control over the foreign policy of the United States than any cabinet officer in recent history. He has appeared recently as a staunch defender of Alger Hiss. He is in charge of over 18 billions of our 43 billions budget. Furthermore, he represents to Congress the stereotyped executive administrator who believes that the Executive branch of the Government is equal under the Constitution to the Legislature. They believe he has an "ill-concealed personal conviction that Congressmen are not necessarily the wisest and best informed citizens of the Republic."

The result of these current events, the relation between the Secretary of State and the one hand, and Congress on the other, have not been satisfactory. Just where these mixed animosities will end has not been determined. It is agreed, though, that it is of the utmost importance that such feelings be discontinued and that the two factions agree to cooperate in good faith. A failure to do this would be disastrous to future foreign policy.

A NEW ELECTION SOON?

The big question on the lips of British politicians is "How long can the government last?" The problems facing labor are growing every day. Recently labor party leaders decided to concentrate on the enactment of essential legislation, such as defense and health service appropriations and the budget. They are apparently going to call a halt to any further extensive nationalization of industry. The above proclamation caused an immediate announcement of future policy by the left-wing laborites who are demanding the program for nationalization continue unabated.

Clement Attlee's Cabinet is in somewhat of a dilemma due to this latest decision. Labor leaders feel that the wisest move in their situation would be to call for a new election; but there is no sound issue for them on which to have a successful reelection. Thus, labor is confronted with staying in power, despite growing difficulties, until an issue favorable to its side can be developed.

Three Industrial 'M's' Stressed
By ASME-SAM Speaker

Approximately 55 people attended the joint meeting of the A. S. M. E. and S. A. M. last Thursday evening, March 2, in the Engineering Building. Mr. Charles R. Scott Jr., a Bucknell graduate and at present a superintendent of the SKF Industries, Inc., of Philadelphia, spoke on the topic "Production, Planning, and Control."

One of the points Mr. Scott stressed was the fact that competition is becoming much more keen, not only concerning jobs available for the individual, but also regarding the production by companies of the same product. Companies are beginning to check all the factors that go into production and make certain that they are being used efficiently and wisely.

Three Ms
The three main factors in production today are the three m's—men, materials, and machines. In the past the question of manpower has been taken for granted, and management has concerned itself but little with the problem of the worker. Management realizes now that the worker is important and his welfare is something to be taken into account.

The objective, therefore, is continuous production at all times using the combination of men, machines, and materials the year round. To accomplish this, prospective business for the coming year must be predicted accurately so that sales and production are equalized. Stock on the shelves means less working capital.

Moving Ahead
Great advances were made in SKF during the war as far as machines are concerned. It was a necessity that they develop new and better techniques. These advances ordinarily would have taken a decade or more before they would be developed; however, competition from other companies and the needs of what made it imperative for SKF to install new and better machines.

Mr. Scott added a touch of humor to his speech with humorous anecdotes and reminiscences of his days in school here at Bucknell.

GLEE CLUB ADMITS
TWELVE NEW SINGERS

As a result of tryouts over the last two weeks, Dr. Harold E. Cook selected 12 new singers to join the ranks of the Men's Glee Club.

Three of the men were admitted directly into the club as vacancies occurred. They are Dick Shaw, Downey Stevens, and Robert Weiss.

The other nine vocalists have been placed on the waiting list, and will be fed into the club as vacancies occur. They include Charles Hestel, George Masperson, Robert Kanaaky, Fred Hunt, Melvin Kennedy, James Whitney, Don Soule, Thayer Lyon, and Tom Long.

Two-Piano Recital To Be Given
By Music Department

WSGA Plans Meeting; Decision Expected
On Honor System

The regular monthly W. S. G. A. meeting will be held Wednesday, 7 p. m. in the Baptist Church.

At this time the Committee on Revision of the Penalty System will give its report. This committee, under chairman Jean Bailey, has been working on a system which will improve upon the present penalty system by setting up specific penalties for particular infractions of the rules.

Miss Tuhy, who has been a member of Bucknell's music faculty since 1946, studied at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music following her graduation from Bucknell. She has appeared in several piano recitals since her return and has also played piano accompaniments on numerous occasions.

Miss Wallin, a graduate of Fuzus State Teacher's College at Fuzus, California, holds the degree of Master of Music from Northwestern University.

She heads the Junior Piano Department. Miss Wallin presented a piano recital in Lewisburg last December.

Next Thursday's program includes works by Bach, Handel, Mozart, a group of Romantic composers, and Milhaud.

World Federalist Will Speak On Campus

Murray Frank, National Chairman of the Student Division of the United World Federalists, will speak on World Federalism before a meeting of Phi Lambda Theta fraternity at 7:30 p. m. on March 9. It was announced today by George Woodward, president.

Mr. Frank will also be available for meetings Thursday morning.

In January, Frank received his degree from N.Y.U., where he organized and was chairman of the Washington Square College PWF chapter. He graduated in 1944 from DeWitt Clinton high school in New York City and was president of the Student Body and was elected to Student Council six times.

He entered N.Y.U. under the G.I. bill, and interrupted his junior year to become a full-time volunteer field worker for UWF. He was later appointed Student Director of the NYS Branch of UWF, and elected vice-chairman of the UWF National Student Division.

As a corporal in the American Air Force, he served in the Philippines, Okinawa, Korea and Japan.

He will be a featured soloist for performances of "Bach's Mass in B Minor."

Bisons Romp To Easy Win; Paste Susquehanna, 85-54, For Seasons Fifth Victory

by Britt Williamson

Playing on an irregular sized court proved to be no handicap to a win starved Bucknell basketball quintet as they traveled to Susquehanna last Monday evening and downed the home team, 85-54.

Joe Sets Record

Strasser High

Joe Gallagher, the usual point producer in the Bison attack, slipped off a little in the scoring parade but his place was adequately filled off by Don Strasser and Jack Webber. Strasser accounted for 18 points during the game as he scored evenly throughout the game.

Webber, diminutive guard, couldn't be stopped during the third quarter as he helped to widen the scoring gap between the two teams. In playing one of his best games of the season, he Jack garnered 11 points, 13 of which came in the third quarter.

For Susquehanna, Wagner and Menapace each had 11 points as they tried vainly to match the Eisens scoring pace. The opposition could not counter on shots underneath the basket and that factor turned out to be one of the determining factors of the game.

By Don Heist

The ever dubious tide of legislation has ebbed a bit this week, having a negligible amount of trivia to dwell upon and being reluctant to use that which is at hand. What is ordinarily set down here is decidedly trivia and no species of devices are employed to make it appear otherwise. It is a fact of common knowledge that the humorous, the trivial, the absurd are readily accepted at almost every level, while other modes of expression, subject to the criteria of their nominal forms, usually find only factious acceptance. But to designate comedy and humor as the general aspect of human creativity and enjoyment—as one modern playwright has done—sweeps the conception to the verge of idiocy, and hints of a vindication of the playwright's own element. Although apologies are hereby offered to any, who think as I do, that the substance here should be for "profound," it must be acknowledged that humor, of almost any caliber, meets public acceptance; this does not imply, however, that the fish are always easily observable in shallow water. As a matter of fact, comedy often constitutes the clearest mirror. Now, with my defense as a fait accompli, its off to the shallow waters.

Last week's quotation from T. S. Eliot's "Four Quartets" has been correctly identified by an astounding number of people (I, I believe, to date), but only one wished to claim his tickets to the "Spit" (and he didn't press the issue). Now the Spit really can't be as bad as all that. If it is, there are four students at Bucknell who have suffered the same of disgrace. The reference here is to two couples who were thrown out of the infirmary place when a fraternity visited it, en masse, during last year's Home Party Weekend. One frequent visitor to the Spit excused himself with this healthy bit of rationalization: "The Spit is like a combined zoo and rogues' gallery, with the added attraction of a serial." Could you ask for more for thirty-five cents?

A dog-eared issue of Time carried this rather belated, slightly caustic and indisputably valid criticism of one of last year's films, Words and Music. It pointed out that, "Musicians are now attempting to outlive Mickey Rooney, so he cannot portray their lives." Possibly that matches Life's criticism of Jane Russell's blasphemous performance in The Outlaw: "She's now running neck and neck with Dorothy Lamour in the Deadpan Derby."

And here's an item which is wholly irrelevant to anything which preceded it—but some fellow might be able to enlist it as a point in arguing the general "inferiority" of the deadlier sex. One of the sky-minded girls on the top floor decided to take a bath, but running water informed her that someone had a similar idea first. Returning five minutes later, she heard the water still running. And five minutes later, it was the same story. Finally, weary of traversing the hall, she decided to discover her antagonist. Angerily venting her wrath at the shower, she found no one in it—and remembered that she herself had turned on the water.

However, men also have their weak moments. Here we have the case of the human goat. While eating a meal at Fardies, the fellow decided to provide a lettuce sandwich. He was mid-way through the delicacy when his face lit up with mingled consternation and embarrassment. From between the slices of bread, he withdrew half of a well mayonaised napkin. Well, low lights are reputed to serve purposes of romance at any rate.

Movie Chatter

by Mike Kravis

One of the most humorous satires on the War Department ever put into a motion picture is at the Campus this weekend. The film is titled "While Comes Marching Home," Sergeant Bill Klugger, played by Dan Dailey, is a dejected G. I. stationed in his own home town and the object of humiliation of all his friends. For months he constantly applies for duty overseas and all he receives is a box of God Conduct Medals. Finally he gets a break. And what a break! Within a space of four days he experiences a series of humorous but very pathetic adventures. He flies the Atlantic twice, is forced down in enemy occupied Europe, gets back to the United States and disrupts the whole War Department, is placed in a psycho-ward, hit over the head by his father, and to top it all off has a terrific hangover.

Corinne Calvet plays the leader of the French underground, who rescues him and Cullen Townsend is the girl back home. Coming for a two day stand, Monday and Tuesday, March 13 and 14 to the Campus is "The File on Thelma Jordan," starring Barbara Stanwyck, Wendell Corey, and Paul Kelly. Wendell Corey, an assistant D. A., married to the daughter of an influential judge, is fed up with the manner in which his wife leans on her father. (Continued on page 7.)

OPEN LETTER

Dear Editor:

In view of recent criticism which has been leveled at the University administration, of which the "Dispersal" affair has only been a part, it is obvious that there is necessary some organism which would act as a vehicle for the expression of student opinion to the administration.

It has become apparent through experience that the Bucknellian alone does not carry enough weight and, since there is no real student government, it is obvious that there is necessary some organism which would act as a vehicle for the expression of student opinion to the administration.

The students are the life-blood of any private educational institution. Today's students are tomorrow's alumni, and it is to these present students that future pleas for aid to the University will be directed. We feel that the interest in aiding and the amount of aid received from the alumni are directly proportional to the impressions of the school and the administration which they received while undergraduates. The administration should realize the necessity of keeping a "happy home," and this can only be effectively maintained by knowing and understanding student opinion.

The student is certainly no less interested in effecting and holding the highest possible standards for Bucknell than is the administration. However, under existing circumstances, the student does not realize how he may take part in making Bucknell a "happy home."

A formal declaration from the administration that it is not only open for student opinion, but desirous of receiving it and willing to help obtain it, would overcome any reluctance on the part of students to express themselves. It would further unite students and administration in a common effort to make Bucknell as fine an educational institution as possible, and it would do much to eliminate a lot of diffused griping. Bucknell's reputation "unknown for student concern" would be eliminated.

The formation of the mechanics for gauging student opinion could be successfully delegated to Student-Faculty Congress, since it is the only suitable student organization which represents the student body as a unit.

However, until the administration exhibits a desire for student opinion and a willingness to act upon it, such opinion will not be forthcoming, except as diffused griping, and the administration may never know accurately the impressions it creates in the minds of tomorrow's alumni.

There was a continuation of "This is Bucknell Speaking" heard over WVBU this semester on Wednesday night at 9:45. It was previously announced by Ed McCormey and Tom Motheral and consisted of a quiz show over at Chet's with prizes of food. This semester it will be slightly different. In addition to food, cigarettes will be given out, and the announcer is JUST Tom Motheral. Therefore if anyone is interested in helping out with the show, contact Tom over at WVBU.

Lunch-Bag Brigade

Commuters Battle Distance, Cold Weather For Education

by James R. Schultz

Early to bed and early to rise makes a commuter. You can be sure that those weary looking individuals trudging across the campus with raincoats, umbrellas and hipboots—when there is not a sign of rain—are real, live members of that great fraternal organization known as the Lunch-Bag Brigade, or more commonly called commuters.

If you like statistics—and who doesn't—there are 254 devoted members of this society; in fact, there are 235 men and 19 women.

Typical Day

The life of the typical Mr. and Mrs. Lunch Bagger is an unpleasant one; after careful observation, some plain snuffing and a few semesters of the "best teacher," I have uncovered, discovered and recovered enough to tell my dear readers, and the rest of you people, about a single day in that life.

The alarm clock, that ingenious device of the devil himself, starts banging its little black heart out at 5:30 or 6:00 a. m. and, of course, our typical commuter jumps hastily from his bed, inhales the fresh, cold morning air and—jumps hastily back into bed. But that black-hearted monster is still at it, so our commuter finally yields to its insistent demands and pulls his weary frame out of bed. Performing the usual solemn ceremonies and draining the nearest coffee pot, the commuter executes a Bumstead departure.

Shivering And Cursing

By this time it is 6:30 or 7:00 a. m. and we next find our commuter shivering and cursing and shivering on some windy street corner waiting for the car, or reasonable facsimile thereof, which will bounce him over the highways.

Finally the car arrives, greetings are exchanged and the commuter, if he is lucky, props his back and sleeps; if, on the other hand, the highways are icy or filled with employment maniacs, the commuter may find it a convenient time to cut his nails—with his teeth, of course.

Coffee Jag

When—and if—he reaches the campus he doesn't wonder where the next meal is coming from; but rather, where the last one went to. So he grabs a cup of coffee and braces himself for the daily grind of class after class. Since he is still not fully awake it may be difficult for him to stifle a yawn or to keep his eyes open, even during the more interesting periods.

Ah! But then comes that period of period—the sandwich hour; what does our commuter do? Why, naturally, he drinks another cup of coffee, then searches in vain for a place to sleep off his coffee jag.

Generally, however, the commuter does not worry too much about sleep. After all, when he enters a class and unfolds all the paraphernalia he is forced to carry he has a perfect refuge from the prying eyes of the ment at the Men's Infirmary." Ha! With the exception of a few isolated cases, most of the silly and insane gripes I have heard during the past three years, if considered, brought out that most of us do not receive the proper amount of personalized service and pampering that we think our small infirmary fee entitles us to have.

I have always been of the opinion that with our under-equipped, under-manned, and under-nursed infirmary, those concerned have been able to carry on remarkably well in spite of such handicaps.

Last spring I had an infected foot which through my own negligence was on the verge of becoming a case of blood poisoning. I learned later that if it were not for Dr. Fowle's treatment there would have been rather dire consequences. My foot at that time resembled more, because of its appearance, a severe sprain.

Rabbi Kertzer Slated To Be Chapel Speaker

Rabbi Morris N. Kertzer, Associate Rabbi of the Park Avenue Synagogue in New York City will speak at Chapel on Wednesday, March 15, on "A Modern Blue-Print For Brotherhood."

Rabbi Kertzer is a graduate of the University of Toronto, was ordained at the Jewish Theological Seminary and did graduate work at Columbia, Illinois and Michigan. After several years with the Jewish Theological Seminary at the School of Religion of the University of Iowa, where he was one of the most popular lecturers on the campus.

He has traveled in Europe, Asia (Continued on page 8.)

On our campus. Whatever is wrong is wrong and must be brought to an end quickly. Moral reforms cannot wait until "deemed expedient," nor until some remotely distant day when possibly the voice of the student body and that of the faculty, the administrators, trustees, and alumni will converge into a mighty wind to blow all sin away.

Let's not kid ourselves into assuming that we untarnished college folk have any right to monastic irresponsibility in these matters. American society at this critical time, when we are so near to war, cannot afford the luxury of hundreds of student groups in its colleges indulging themselves in practices of poor citizenship.

The equality theme of the late RILW needs vigorous practicing on Bucknell's campus.

Persons interested in any of these organizations are requested to consult the Placement Office for further information concerning the organization.

DUQUESNE LIGHT COMPANY—
A representative from the company will interview mechanical and electrical engineers on Wednesday and Thursday. A limited number of vacancies exist on the schedule. Persons interested are requested to register for an appointment as soon as possible.

BETHLEHEM STEEL—
All persons desiring to investigate opportunities with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation are requested to come to the Placement Office to complete company application forms immediately. All forms must be completed for return to the company by Friday, MARCH 10. The Loop Course has its greatest need for mechanical engineers, few chemical engineers and a small number of electrical engineers. The company will screen through all applications to determine which persons they wish to interview when their representative comes to the campus on MARCH 15.

SUMMER OPPORTUNITIES—
The Placement Bureau now maintains a bulletin board announcing summer opportunities. Various opportunities appear for positions as camp counselors, craftworkers, miscellaneous camp positions, positions in industry, selling positions, part-time positions and many other such opportunities. Persons interested in seeking summer work are reminded to investigate these opportunities.

Commencing students who have not completed a card indicating the type of work they would desire during the summer months may do so by coming to the Placement Office at their convenience. Computers are reminded to check the Placement Bulletin board for announcements as well as their weekly Bucknellian.

BETHLEHEM STEEL CORPORATION—
A representative from the company will interview June graduates in engineering interested in the company Loop Course program on March 15. All persons desiring to investigate opportunities with the company are requested to register for an appointment at their earliest convenience. Literature is available at the Placement Office, and all persons are expected to have acquainted themselves with this literature prior to requesting an appointment.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.—
A company representative will interview interested persons on Thursday, March 15. Liberal Arts and Business students will be of greatest concern to the organization. All persons requesting an interview must attend a group meeting on the 16th. Personal interviews will be conducted on Friday, March 17, and Monday, March 20. All married individuals are requested to bring their wives to the group meeting on March 16. Persons interested are requested to register for an appointment at their earliest convenience.

All persons graduating in June who have not completed their Placement folders and have not furnished the Placement Office with a photograph should do so immediately. Persons continuing to maintain incomplete records cannot be given the opportunity of taking interviews until such records are brought up to date.

the triangular circuit of exchange. The U. S. buys imports from the underdeveloped nations, and they buy machines and equipment from the industrial areas of Western Europe. In turn, Western Europe turns to America for a source of raw materials and farm products.

The necessity for aid to the underdeveloped nations, according to Dr. Ezekiel, is made more manifest by the fact that continual economic progress is only possible for about 25 percent of the world's population. The vast majority continues to live under conditions 100 years behind the rest of the world.

Art Sloat, a junior and member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, was elected president of the International Relations Club, it was announced this week.

Elected at the same time were: James Gitter, vice president; Jane Lange, secretary; Betty Jane Paul, corresponding secretary, and William Frasier, treasurer.

After taking office, Sloat stated, "Plans are under way for enlarging the organization and for making it more active on campus. We hope to be able to bring United Nations speakers here in the future."

ORCHESTRA RECEPTION
Following the concert, there will be an informal reception for the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra in Bucknell's Hunt Hall.

The concert audience will be invited to attend the reception and to meet Erich Leinsdorf, conductor of the famed orchestra, and other members of the group.

Because this is a new project on campus, Brown feels that the newscast will work on a system of trial and error until all of the flaws and problems have been solved.

The next regular meeting of Phi Mu Fraternity will be held this coming Monday at 7:30 p. m. in room 202 T. A. Mr. Evan H. Boden, an instructor in the physics department, will speak on the "Applications of the Finite Calculus."

"TWELFTH NIGHT"
Troupes for Cap and Dagger's May Day production will be held in Bucknell Hall next Monday and Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. and Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Quoting Buddy Williams' former boss, the late Glenn Miller, "Buddy Williams is one of the greatest arrangers and musical minds in America," completes the report from the Centennial Committee this week.

Representing the administration at the meeting were President Hildreth, Dr. Fowle and Dr. Weightman, University physicians; Dr. John Rice, chairman of the Student Health Committee; Dayton Barck, treasurer; Miss Tionne E. Ebley, director of public relations; and Miss Miriam Yeakel and Miss Dorothy Burnette, nurses.

Called By Hildreth
The meeting was called by President Hildreth after an editorial in The Bucknellian brought the problem to his attention.

Dr. Weightman stated that usually the bad after-effects of a case are caused by the student's not returning for a check-up in spite of the doctor's warning to do so. If his injury continues to pain him, however, students do not take reasonable care of themselves or their dressings, Jack Thomas pointed out.

Students will be requested to conform to the new schedule of office hours which will be subject to revision after it has been given a fair trial. If the need becomes apparent, office hours will be altered to provide a maximum of student care.

A Mild Reproach

There is really no need of an editorial this week. The infirmity story on page one speaks for itself. But there are several aspects of the situation that ought to be pointed up.

The first is that no letters were received concerning the infirmity from the student body. The fact that you did not care enough to spend ten minutes of constructive action to help eradicate one of your chief gripes does not speak well at all for your ability to take care of yourselves politically.

Is it significant that the only two letters that were received came from alumnae?

The second aspect of the situation is that you did not earn what you gained. When you allow this to occur, you are neglecting your duties as citizens. This may sound far-fetched, but it is just such neglect that will, in later life, invite loss of personal and political liberties.

College students are traditionally supposed to become the "leaders of tomorrow." You cannot get your training in the field of leadership by letting others do your work for you.

Thirdly, more than common thanks is due President Hildreth, who was very helpful and fair to all sides in the preparation and operation of the conference and in seeing that results were actually accomplished. Were it not for his insistence to see the thing through, even without student aid, you would not have had the benefits that have been handed you.

We can only hope that next time, the entire burden of making and proving a case will not rest entirely on the shoulders of unsupported student leaders and on the generosity of President Hildreth. What we mean is: student leaders should be given more support the next time a proposal which is in the interests of the students comes up.

For crying out loud! It's your University!

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

by Bobbie Roemer

Here's a parody on "The Lucky Old Sun" for those engineers... just singin' them Engineers' Blues—

Up in the morning, out to my class,
Work like the devil for my "A"
But that lucky B. A. got nothing to do
But lay around campus all day.
Fuss with my "calc", toll with my "Trig",
Sweet till I'm wrinkled and grey.
While that lucky B. A. got nothing to do,
But lay around campus all day.
Good Lord above, can't you see me cryin'
Study has ruined my eyes,
Send down a course that needs no tryin'
Lift me to paradise.
Show me those credits, help me to pass
Wash all my failures away.
Like that lucky B. A. give me nothing to do,
But lay around campus all day.

WORLD WIDE

TOTAL DIPLOMACY.

Last week Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, released a statement re-defining United States Foreign Policy in which he used the phrase "Total Diplomacy." In the heart of the speech, he said:

"It has been suggested by some people that the Greek and Turkish Governments were not our kind of democracy. But we are not dealing here with the kind of situation where we can go from one country to another with a piece of limousine and see whether everything is true blue

"We must be prepared to meet whatever possible all threats of the Soviet Union We are struggling against an adversary that is deadly serious. We are in a situation where we are playing for keeps."

This announcement was made after news of further Russian peace offers in their new "peace offensive." It keynotes the Executive Branch's feeling on the sincerity of Russia's remarks.

It is the opinion of the political observers in Washington that these new proclamations on the part of Russia's Politburo members during their election campaigns, are merely a part of the Soviet plan to show the Western allied powers as war-mongers in the eyes of the world.

THE MILITARY ARMS PROGRAM GETS UNDER WAY.

Later this month the first arms shipments under the billion dollar program attachment to ERP will arrive at France. This arrival will confront the Government of Georges Bidault with a formidable test of its ability to preserve order. For over two weeks there has been increasing labor unrest. Strikes have occurred in the metal industries, the Paris subways and buses, gas and electrical utilities, and the textile factories.

The strikes have been due, in part, to economic causes: the unions have been out for wage increases. The strikes have also been political: Communist-led unions are striking as a warm-up for an attempt to prevent the shipment of arms from being unloaded. Such striking tactics have been stepped up in the past few days. Last Friday longshoremen staged strikes in Marseille and Bordeaux—stoppages which appear to be aimed directly at the arms shipments.

France is a vital organ in the MAP. A successful distribution of military materials in that country will be considered an important victory for the West.

THE CASE OF HERMAN N. SANDER IS CLOSED.

Last Thursday in a small New Hampshire town, Candia, a jury after only seventy minutes of deliberation acquitted Dr. Herman N. Sander on the charge of murder. The country doctor's case had attracted wide attention for three months. When the trial commenced three weeks ago, it had been the opinion of many that a "social" precedent might be established in handling euthanasia cases. However, as the trial unfolded, euthanasia was shunted to the sidelines as an issue. The defense insisted that it was not seeking to justify Dr. Sander's action on the grounds of mercy killing. Instead, it based its case on the grounds that no murder had been committed because the patient had died of natural causes before the injection of air had been administered.

The verdict of not-guilty means only this: that the jurors either believed the doctor's story, or at least they felt there was reasonable doubt. Nevertheless, proponents of euthanasia claimed that the Sander case had centered attention on their arguments, and they announced plans for the launching of a new campaign to legalize voluntary mercy killing.

INTERNATIONAL DIPLOMACY.

The trial of Valentine Gubitcher and Judith Coplon had to wait for its dynamic climax until Judge Sylvester Ryan sentenced the two. Judith received fifteen years to add to her previous conviction of forty months to ten years. However, Gubitcher received a 15 year suspended sentence if he left the United States within two weeks. The next day Mr. Gubitcher accepted the offer and announced that he would sail for Russia on March 20th.

Immediately after the suspension of Gubitcher's sentence after a request by the Government, a State Department spokesman gave the reason. He said: "It is considered important that any misunderstanding by the Soviet Union in regard to the Gubitcher case should not have the consequence of prejudicing the situation of American citizens now in Eastern Europe."

The Department spokesman was of course referring to those American citizens who have already been imprisoned—notably Robert Vogel who was convicted of espionage in Hungary. The State Department evidently feels that the jailing of Gubitcher might lead to the imprisonment of more Americans by the Soviet satellite countries.

MEMBER OF INTERCOLLEGIATE PRESS

No Large Profits Are Realized By Bookstore

by Dave Kahn

The Bucknell University Bookstore is not out to "rook the students," declared Warren Elze, manager, speaking at a meeting of the Men's Counselors Tuesday at 12:45 p. m. in Dean Munn's office.

"As a matter of fact, we came out only a very small bit in the black last year," he stated. The store works on a 20% margin, which, compared to many retail businesses, is very small.

When this margin is shaved to 15% by the 5% cash discount, the store actually loses money on its sales.

Students often feel that a used book which is only slightly used should bring a higher price than a more soiled text. However, all used books bring the same price, since it would be an accounting impossibility, to inventory used books on a relative basis.

However, Mr. Elze pointed out, students have a chance to charge what they want they ought to get for their used book. This is the method by which the bookstore tries to sell the volume at the student's asking price, and, if it succeeds, takes 15% as handling charges.

This semi-cooperative system is one of the most equitable that he has ever seen, declared Mr. Elze.

He illustrated how the book firms do not make anything but a normal profit by citing the case of a book which costs $5 new. Sold back to a semester, the student gets, say, $1.50.

Due to general overhauling, shipping, cleaning, and cataloging costs, this book is sold back to the bookstore at a wholesale price of $2.25. Students would then get it for $3.

In addition, Mr. Elze said, the Bookstore sells many items—laundry cases, index cards, pads—below retail prices. Often, too, books are sold at prices lower than elsewhere.

Mr. Elze explained why textbooks are sometimes lacking. This is due to the difficulty of procuring how many books are floating around campus, whether or not two people can share the book, and so forth.

Mr. Elze concluded his talk with a request that any students who have complaints or gripes go see him. "I feel sure," he said, "that any problem that comes up can be explained satisfactorily."

'Vagabond King' Production Thrills Packed Houses

The tuneless "Only A Rose" fills the air during the finale of the first act of "The Vagabond King," as Rev. (Lady Katherine) Weir sings a duet with Jim (Francis Villon) Stewart.

Caliber Of Musical Warrants Larger Campus Building

by Jack Williams

The need for a campus building large enough adequately to stage a theatrical production was evidenced last weekend as the University Players' "Vagabond King" thrilled capacity crowds in the Lewisburg High School Auditorium.

Approximately 1800 people attended the three performances Friday night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. Their only criticism was that the auditorium itself was not up to the high standards of the production.

For musically and dramatically, "The Vagabond King" was a smash hit! It was a fitting tribute to the 200-odd students and faculty members who made the production tops in entertainment value.

In evaluating the "King" as an art, one can almost forget the main thing that amateurs should not be judged by professional standards; for the writer has seen Broadway productions that fell short of the quality of the University Players' work.

If the aim of the Players is to unite the special abilities of those student organizations which have been interested in the development of the fine arts at Bucknell, they have gone a long way in reaching their goal.

Cooperation Did It

From the initial board of directors meeting last September in which the "Vagabond King" was chosen for this year's presentation, to the last curtain call Saturday night, the members of the University Players gave freely of their time and efforts for the express purpose of making the opera a triumph. And it was!

No one individual could have handled the huge undertaking. It was cooperation all the way that spelled success. However, special acclaim should be awarded the directors: Harvey Powers, Sally Angle, and Russell Miller for integrating the various parts of the production.

Improved Ork

Probably the biggest surprise to all was the effectiveness of the orchestra. Prof. Miller developed into excellence a previously floundering group that was at low tide in last year's "Pirates of Penzance." Generally, the orchestra was well-balanced, attentive to its director, and inspiring to the chorus.

Although the brass was poor on attacks at times, they achieved a French horn illusion that helped greatly in setting the stage for court scenes. The string section rose to great heights in "Dance Macabre" between scenes in act four, and was only marred by a flat cello rendition of "Love For Sale," and an occasional "clinking."

Inspiring Chorus

The chorus was at all times great.

Well-balanced and well-staged, it was always lively. The audience could only blame the poor acoustics of the auditorium for not understanding every word sung, for their dictum was fine and showed able direction by Dr. Cook and Professor Williamson.

The high water level of the show was reached in the finale of Act two. The whole cast seemed inspired, and even the Scotch Archers chorus, who sang well but lacked military thrust, stood like royal soldiers. "Some day" was the best number of the show.

Author Trouble

The fact that only two had an adequate finale is the fault of the authors, W. H. Post and Brian Hooker, and not the production staff. If the authors were pointing for a romantic ending, they should have forgotten the hangman in the closing act. "Only A Rose" to close the curtain. If the authors were pointing for a romantic ending, they should have forgotten the hangman in the closing act. "Only A Rose" to close the curtain.

Act three had a better tune to work with. "Song of the Vagabond" was a good close, but this tempo ran away and the chorus came on stage singing in a different key than the ork was banging out.

Stewart Shines

James (Francis Villon) Stewart carried his lead like a professional. His interpretation of the character of Villon was well done, and his singing was the best musical aspect of the production.

It's difficult to find an undergraduate musician who can act as well as did Jim. His comedy was tasteless, his movements natural, and his smile was true. Stewart was a lovable vagabond king. The only criticism outstanding is in the chagrine group that was at low tide in last year's "Pirates of Penzance." Generally, the orchestra was well-balanced, attentive to its director, and inspiring to the chorus.

Good Girls

Stewart's leading lady, Beverly Weir, sang very well. Her tones were pure, her diction fine, and she seemed perfectly cast as Katherine. Bev was a singer, predominantly, though, for her walk on stage was slightly unregal, and her dramatic lines were uninspired.

Molly Edwards was a perfect Huguette. Her costumes were provocative, her acting good, and her voice active. (See VAGABOND, page 6)

LOCAL SAE'S ATTEND FOUNDERS DAY SUPPER AT HARRISBURG

Penn. Zeta, local chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, was represented by 18 men Saturday night at a Founder's Day Banquet in the Harrisburg West Shore Country Club sponsored by the Harrisburg Alumni Association.

Three hundred men were present at the annual celebration of the fraternity's founding, March 9, 1856. The guests of the association included the collegiate chapters of Bucknell, University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, Gettysburg, and Dickinson.

Mr. John B. Mosey, retiring president, acted as toastmaster for the presentation of the newly elected officers of the association. The short business session was climaxed by an evening of entertainment.

Prior to serving as Bishop, Dr. Stamm was General Secretary of the Department of Evangelism of the Evangelical Church. Among his many activities Bishop Stamm has served as President of the Board of Pension of the denomination, and is President of The Philadelphia Home for the Aged, and of the Evangelical Home, Lewisburg.

He is a well known church administrator and leader in America and in Europe, having visited Europe four times. His understanding of world problems is widely known and recognized.

Regional Assembly Of Theta Chi Set For Rutgers

Sixty members and pledges from Gamma Eta of Theta Chi will attend the annual Regional Assembly at Rutgers University on March 17 and 18. Over 350 delegates are expected to attend the affair.

The program will consist of panel discussions on common fraternity problems, climaxed by a banquet and dance Saturday evening.

Lanemen Continue Practice In Davis Gym; Will Start Season On April 15th Away

For the past week the sound of ball slapping into glove has been echoing throughout Davis Gym.

Yes fans, the current baseball campaign has begun. Bill Lane's Bison baseball squad, which numbers between 40-45 strong, have been confined to indoor workouts due to the inclement weather, but as soon as the weather permits the boys will hustle over to Matheson Field and get some hitting drills, feeding practice, and all the other fundamental preparations for the coming season. Speaking of the coming season, it won't be too long before the Herd nine will be in action with other schools. April 15 is set for the opening game at Franklin Marshall. The Lanemen will make their debut to the home crowd April 20 with Temple University.

Eight Lettermen
The Bisons will have eight returning lettermen: pitchers Art Raynor, Dick Roush, Cal Seaman, and Al Hegelstein; infielders Andy Shirk and Nick Danforth; outfielder Charlie Concklin; and catcher Jim D'Guglielmo. Another letterman, Dick Freed, will be unable to compete for the catchers position this spring. Art Raynor, stellar Herd hitter for the past two seasons, will captain the Orange and Blue this year. Raynor replaces Sherm Doebler who was captain for the last two seasons.

Last year the Bisons had their best season since 1944. Including a play-off game against Moravian, the Thundering Herd compiled a nine wins and seven defeats record. In 1944 the locals posted an excellent record, winning 23 contests and losing 24. Also last year the Lanemen won the Northeast District title of The Middle Atlantic Conference with a 61 record. They were beaten 6-3 by Moravian in the semifinal play-offs last year at Bethlehem. Muehlenberg went on to cop the title, 15-game schedule.

This current season will find the Bisons facing a 15-game schedule, meeting 14 different colleges. Only Penn State's Nittany Lions will be played twice, on a home and home basis. Franklin and Marshall will be host in the opener on April 15 and Gettysburg will entertain the Bisons when the season closes May 27. Franklin and Marshall, the opening game this season, was beaten 3-1 last year by the Herd. Temple, last opener opponents, was overcome 10 innings 4-2 last year by the Bisons. Penn State swept both battles with Bucknell last season, 7-2 and 7-4. The Lanemen also bowed to Navy, 12-1, and Delaware, 2-0. Muehlenberg, winner of the Middle Atlantic crown, was beaten in regular season play by the Orange and Blue, 6-3. Albeit, opening day foe last year, dealt the Herd a 4-0 shut-out.

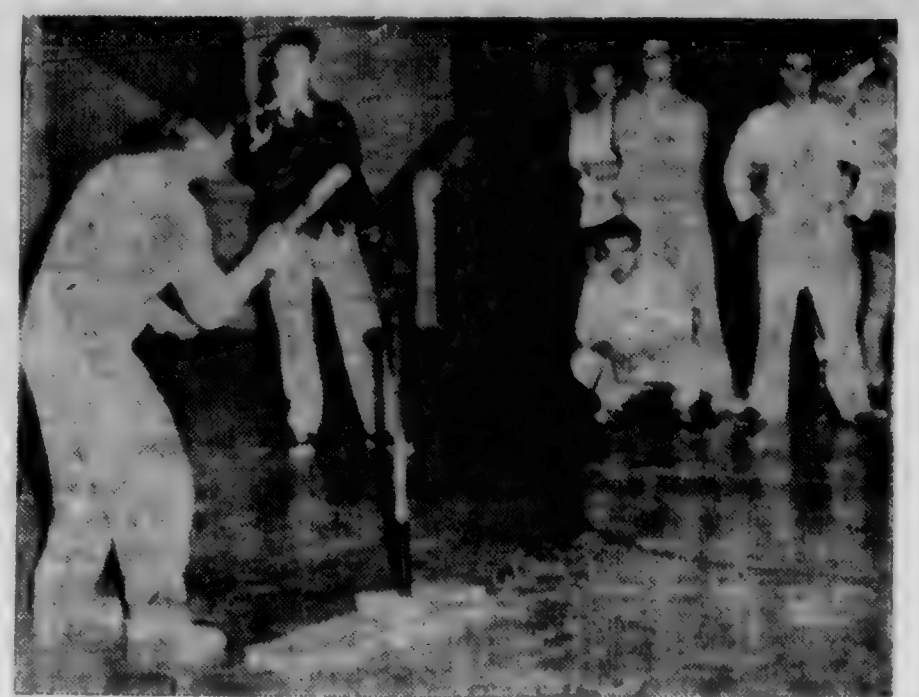

STANDS, SCOREBOARD TO BE ERECTED FOR THE DIAMOND SEASON

by Harvey Sheir

When bat connects with horseshoe this season the Bucknell fans will view baseball games from newly erected stands.

The steel stands will be movable and built in ten sections, each section seating 50 people. Therefore 500 rosters will be able to watch the games from their steel-constructed wooden seats. The seats will be placed on each side of the diamond. During the coming campaign a linked wire backdrop will be placed 10 feet back of home plate and a scoreboard will be put back of first base. The scoreboard will only register the score by innings.

Put It Down Like This Follows

Gallagher, Strassner Smash Records As Herd Averages 68.0

by Harvey Sheir

Final hoopster scoring totals show that the Bisons amassed 1428 points in 21 contests for a 68.0 game average. However, Bucknell's opponents tallied 1473 points for a game average of 70.1, thus accounting for the Herd's record of five triumphs and 16 defeats.

62.8 Percentage
The Orange and Blue rang the bell for 549 field goals against 566 for their opponents. The Herd hit with 330 out of 525 foul shot attempts for a percentage of 62.8 while the enemy cashed 341 out of 542 free throws for a percentage of 62.9. Bucknell was charged with 630 personal fouls against 457 for the opposition.

Joe Gallagher and Don Strassner both broke the Bucknell all-time record for most points scored by one player in a single season set by George Haines during the 1941-42 campaign. In so doing they outdistanced the rest of the team for individual scoring honors.

Joe Top Man
Gallagher was top man with 396 markers in 21 contests for an average of 17.4. "Jumping Joe" threw in 144 field goals and made 78 penalty tosses out of 110 attempts. He was charged with 47 personal fouls.

Strassner was runner-up with 334 points in 21 games for a 15.9 average. "Bucky" hit the target with 124 field goals and clicked with 78 out of 132 free throw attempts. He was charged with 81 personal fouls, high man on the team in that respect.

Connie DeLuca took third place with 164 tallies in 21 tussles. He scored 65 field goals and made good on 24 out of 58 foul shots. He was charged with 56 personal fouls. Don Luca, George Lavin, Gallagher, and Strassner were the only players to participate in all of Bucknell's 21 contests.

Strassner walked off with all the current season's single-game records for a Bucknell player. Strassner accomplished three of the records again at Westminster March 8, in the last contest of the campaign. He scored the most points, 33, tallied the most free throws, 9, and took the most foul shots, 14.

Spring Practice Starts With Split-T Formation Stressed; Contest With F&M April 24

by Jerry Olds

Spring practice for the 1950 Bisons swung into high gear this week as Coach Harry Lawrence's 50 candidates practiced in the armory and, weather permitting, on the stadium and soccer fields.

As previously announced, Juniors and Seniors are not being included in the spring workouts. This is to enable Coach Lawrence to spend more time with last year's freshmen. There are two exceptions to the rule, Dick Hetzko and Jack Masby who have never participated in a spring season at Bucknell.

ALTERATION ON GOLF COURSE BEING CARRIED OUT FOR THIS SEASON

by Britt Williamson

In preparation for the approaching golf season, several alterations and repairs have been made on the university course. Nearly a thousand trees have been planted presumably to serve as hazards and to improve the scenery. The first tee has been moved, making the play more difficult on the entire first hole. Also the road leading to the golf course from the highway has been repaired for the benefit of the student golfers who own cars. Workmen are slated to arrive next week to give the grounds a general facelifting and going over.

Membership to the students will be $2.50 for one semester and $12 for the entire year. Those holding membership will not be required to pay the green fees which are $1.25 each on Wednesday, Saturday, Sunday and holidays when the fee is $2.00.

The school team under Coach Evans will meet about April 1 to make plans for its nine game schedule.

SOME BOWLERS

The Commuters won the bowling championship by downing Phi Gamma Delta in the finals. The winning legions rolled totals of 2195, 2343 and 2444 for a 6782 total and the intramural championship.

NEW MATCH CARDED

The University of Maryland has been added to Bucknell's 1950 tennis schedule. This match will be played April 5th at Maryland.

Jimmy PROWANT'S

by Harry Staley

Palm trees are swaying in Florida and part of the reason must be the breeze set up by the multitude of baseball bats fanning the breeze. Once again in sunny Florida it's spring training time for major league baseball clubs. A little over 2,000 miles away in "sunny" Lewisburg the Bucknell Bisons are also engaging in spring practice.

About one month from now the Herd nine will take to the field, weather permitting, to open the 1950 season. If any Bucknell athletic team this year can be termed an unknown quantity, this is it.

Outside of the fact that we know Art Raynor is back to lead the mound staff and few lettermen return, the only other thing we know is that Bill Lane last year's best hitters last year when Ed Stec and Sherm Doebler walked away with their diplomas. The success or failure of this season may again be determined by the influx of sophomores.

The Bisons, who were conference district champions last spring, will play a tough schedule of 17 games. Among the home opponents they will meet such teams as Colgate, Syracuse, Penn State and Temple. All of these teams have been perennially tough on the diamond and it looks like an enjoyable season is on the way for horseshoe enthusiasts.

NO MORE SPLINTERS

Bucknell baseball fans are also in for another treat this season. It looks like we are finally going to have some new bleachers erected on the baseball field. Not only that, but it seems that spectators may finally realize their desire to have a scoreboard erected so that they can see what the score is. The improvements on the field include a new scoreboard.

No longer will the brave baseball fan be forced to endure those "yard long splinters" so frequently picked up during the course of every home game. For years standard equipment at the games included beside a scoreboard, a bottle of iodine, one pair of tweezers, and a strong "constitution".

This time, I don't have to say it. Everyone who watches a game from those new stands will thank the powers that be for finally realizing that it might be more economical to provide new stands than a purple heart for each fan.

THE "JAY" HAS TROUBLES

"Jay" Olds, popular WVBU sportscaster, has been seen walking around the campus with his chin in his boots. You see, it's beginning to look like the Bucknell Bill Stern may be unemployed this spring. Jerry is ready and willing to lend his talents over the airways this baseball season, but no one knows whether the Bucknell students want to hear the away baseball games.

By that phrase "no one" we mean prospective sponsors. It seems that several local merchants have expressed a desire to sponsor the baseball broadcasts if they can be shown that student interest is great enough. You know what that means. It's up to every Bucknell sports fan to chip in and help Jerry out in his attempt to prove that there is interest in the away games.

Jerry explains that it's very simple to lend a helping hand. If every interested sports fan will just drop him a postcard at the Bucknell office, North Fifth Street, he can show the sponsors that there is interest.

What do you say? Right now, before it slips your mind, how about writing that postcard. One cent is certainly little enough for eight baseball games.

Intramural Basketball Won By Phi Kappa Psi; Beat Sigma Chi, Commuters In League Playoffs

by Bob Wark

Phi Kappa Psi is the 1950 intramural basketball champion. The Hilltoppers ended Sigma Chi's three year domination of basketball with a 41-33 victory over the Blue and Gold last Thursday, and went on Friday to defeat the C League champion Commuters 44-34.

PKP Takes Lead

Phi Psi took a quick lead and shaded the Sigma at the one quarter mark, 11-10. Lee McCloskey leading the way with four points for the Red, while big Al Hegelstein chalked up five for Sigma Chi. Hegelstein and Phi Psi Frank Kirby fought it out for control of the boards, and Von Heil had his share of rebounds for the Sig.

At the end of the half, Phi Psi had gained a point lead, but the game was still close at 21-19. Stuart Cain had picked up four and Swanson three for Phi Psi while Hegelstein and VonHeil tapped in three apiece for Sigma Chi.

Stumbaugh Hits
Jim Stumbaugh began to hit in the third frame by collecting four Phi Psi points, and VonHeil was still connecting with four Sig markers. Purnell, McCloskey, Swanson and VonHeil were the scorers, and went into the last canto, leader by a 32-29 score. Stumbaugh, Kirby, and Dave Fawcett went to town in the final quarter controlling rebounds and scoring three points each as the Sig defense weakened. Pat Carey's three points was the most Sigma Chi could muster, and the final score stood 41-33.

Individual scoring was well distributed among Phi Psi. Stumbaugh and Kirby led with ten and nine markers. Fawcett, McCloskey, Swanson and VonHeil followed by dropping in seven, six, five and four points respectively. Von Heil and Hegelstein dominated Sigma Chi's scoring with ten points apiece mostly on lay-ups and tap-ins.

PKP Downs Commuters
Phi Psi went on to win the school championship by defeating the Commuters, 44-34. Again the scoring matters, 44-34. Again the scoring matters, 44-34. Again the scoring matters, 44-34.

CLIMBING HEAVY WEIGHTS, MUST REPORT AT THIS TIME FOR WEIGHING AND EXAMINATION
The future programs will consist of other such phases of camp life. On March 23, Miss Stewart from the Methodist Church will teach some dancing and the techniques used in the instruction of younger children. March 30 will highlight a special feature on waterfront. Plans have been made to include topics such as arts and crafts, nature study, and sports.

The Club also plans to hold several outings this spring according to Lou Pinner, chief organizer and booster of the project. The meetings up to date have been held in Miss Funkhouser's apartment.

Everyone is eligible to join and are cordially invited to attend the meetings. This is an opportunity that no prospective counselor should miss.

BISON TRACK SEASON GETS UNDERWAY MAY 3 AT GETTYSBURG MEET

by Bob Wark

A triangular meet with Gettysburg and Juniata will be the first assignment of the 1950 season for Bucknell University's track team.

Also listed on the schedule, released today, are dual meets with Muhlenberg, Dickinson and Colgate, and the Middle Atlantic tournament at the University of Delaware.

The schedule: May 3, Gettysburg and Juniata at Gettysburg; 6, Muhlenberg; 9, Dickinson, away; 12-13, Middle Atlantic at Newark, Del.; 20, Colgate.

This week Phi Psi forfeited to Alpha Phi and Phi Mu won by a forfeit. Tuesday Phi Psi won over the Kappas in a close battle which ended 25-25 and Delta Zeta won over Alpha Phi.

Those teams who are still undefeated are Phi Psi with three wins and DELTA ZETA with two wins.

TOURNAMENT ROUND
Paul Remmey, Bucknell Freshman, will represent the school in the singles competition of the National Intercollegiate Tournament this Saturday in the Seventh Avenue Armory, New York. He is paired with Tony Taber in the first match.

SMOKING PROHIBITED
Fans attending intramural events in Davis Gymnasium have been asked to refrain from smoking inside the gym.

Reasons? Insurance, courtesy to other spectators, consideration for the contestants AND because smoking is prohibited in Davis Gymnasium.

COUNSELLORS' CLUB
Today the newly formed Counselors' Club will meet in the Harris Hall gym at 4:30. The guest speaker is Miss Von Schade who will discuss camp games, songs, and dances.

This club which is sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association is for the benefit of those girls who are interested in summer counselling positions. Many worthwhile points will be given concerning the problems and situations that the leader will have to face.

The discussions so far have included one on camp psychology by Dot Yarnall, who graduated in 1949, and another by Gertrude Merkel on group singing.

HOCKEY HERE AGAIN!
This spring, field hockey will be offered in the gym classes if a sufficient number of girls request it. It has usually been the policy to have hockey during the fall but the sport was met with such great popularity this year that the gym department will provide classes again this spring.

If it's HOCKEY you like, then be sure to sign up now.

SWIMMING
Swimming is still being held every Wednesday night. From all reports the group seems to have a terrific time. Now that V. K. practices are over, take the evening off and go for a swim.

By way of mention, Lou Pinner is doing a terrific job as Life Saving instructor. Every Saturday a group of hardy individuals travel to the Mott pool for a three hour session. Lou is in charge of the women and from all reports they are certainly "having a time of it".

COMMUTERS BEAT PGD FOR BOWLING HONORS; BREAK SCHOOL RECORD

by Bob Wark
The 1950 bowling champions are the Commuters. After defeating the semifinalist SPE's, the Commuters met Phi Gamma Delta, victors over Lambda Chi in the semifinals. The championship was awarded to the team dropping the largest total of pins in nine games. The Commuters rolled three game totals of 2195, 2548, and 2044 for a 6782, 350 pins better than Phi Gamma's 2085, 2275, and 2072 for 6432. The Commuters had lost only to the Phi Gams during the regular season. Commuters also set a new school record by rolling a three game total of 2701 pins, 280 more than the previous record of 2321 pins held by Delta Sigma.

Inter Group Tournament
We're off on another round of basketball thrills. This time the tournament is a round-robin affair where each team plays until it has lost two games. Then the group is automatically out of the contest.

Last week Phi Psi defeated Phi Mu and Alpha Chi defeated Phi Psi. On Thursday Tri Delta bowed to the Kappas while Kappa Delta lost to Delta Zeta. Friday, BETA forfeited to Phi Psi and Alpha Chi won over Alpha Phi.

This week Phi Psi forfeited to Alpha Phi and Phi Mu won by a forfeit. Tuesday Phi Psi won over the Kappas in a close battle which ended 25-25 and Delta Zeta won over Alpha Phi.

Those teams who are still undefeated are Phi Psi with three wins and DELTA ZETA with two wins.

Friday was a quiet day of dusting records and looking over old tinsies until Will Jackson came in.

"Put on a fresh waistcoat and brush up your stovepipe hat," he says. "We're going to the theatre."

I declined. "I'm much too busy. Everybody's coming in asking for Buddy Williams records."

"I've got two free tickets."

"... but I haven't got any so wait'll I get my hat."

It's amazing that these young thespians can throw together with a script and a little home-made scenery.

The first act was terrific and, as I had spotted my friend Algonquin in the cast, I buttoned my shoes and told Will I was going backstage to see him.

I stepped natively through the door and into the chaos of confusion that goes with a backstage between scenes. I stood there a few moments looking vainly for Algonquin until a fellow with dark glasses and a megaphone yelled at me.

"Run up the curtain," he screamed. I examined him haughtily. "What do you think I am, a squirrel?"

I countered.

He glared at me and walked over and pulled several times on a long rope. But just then I saw my friend standing by a piece of scenery and I walked over to him.

"Algonquin," I said. "I'm really proud of you. You did a fine job that first act."

"Be off, rabble."

"Algonquin," I said, "is that anyway to talk to old Pop? I only came back to tell you how much I enjoyed the show."

"I'm sorry," he said. "I shouldn't talk to you like that. Especially now when we need every man we can get. Here, take this sword and stand by the wall."

"What? Algonquin, you're crazy," I said vehemently.

A fierce light glowed in his eyes. "You wouldn't talk to me like that if Villon were the King of France. But never mind. Go over these with Lucky Pierre and guard the east gate from the Count of Burgundy."

"To hell with Burgundy," I said, becoming slightly irritated.

At these words an enormous crowd appeared around the corner and took up the chant. "That's the spirit," my friend Algonquin said. And before I could say Francois Villon, I was lifted bodily, carried swiftly back to a pile of old armor, and dumped unceremoniously thereon.

I poked myself up gingerly and made my way back to the auditorium and my seat. When I had started breathing normally again, I turned to Will and said, "How was the second act?"

"You oughta know," he said, "you were in it."

Strong Support

The other supporting roles were outstanding. Dave Norwine was a good Rene, Guy Robinson a perfect Casin, and Mae Pivocci was well cast as Margot. Bill Faren and Bob Landrum handled the parts of

The lighting was inadequate, however, for the front of the stage was too dark. But the illusion created when Katherine sang "Some Day" in act one was very fine.

The proof of the business staff's effectiveness was in the size of the audience. Ed Luce, business manager, did an admirable job. The publicity was well-handled by Syd Anderson and Jack Jefferson, and Sally Morris made sure that the ticket sale was run smoothly.

Science Makes a Better Mop

Cleaning tasks lightened by new Du Pont cellulose sponge yarn offer mop manufacturers the yarn in commercial quantities.

FASTER AND CLEANER

Mops made with cellulose sponge yarn pick up and retain so much water they need wringing less often. You can mop a floor with them in far less time than it formerly took. They dry quickly, leave no lint. They outwear other mops three to five times. Best of all, perhaps, they stay dirt-free longer than ordinary mops. Here is something women will appreciate—a clean mop!

The introduction of these new cleaning tools is another example of how business firms of all sizes depend on each other. The Du Pont Company had facilities for specialized research on cellulose sponge. Because Du Pont could supply sponge yarn economically, some twenty mop manufacturers today have a better product that saves maintenance people and the American housewife time, labor and money.

OPEN LETTER

Dear Editor:

Bucknell students may be placed in three categories: those who choose their major field prior to matriculation at the university, those who have decided upon a major but are not well satisfied, and those who have no definite major.

Because many students fall into the last two categories, we feel that there is a definite need for enlarged vocational guidance facilities.

The opportunity is here but few students take advantage of it. Guidance would start the freshman off on the right foot and give him the confidence he may need. It would also assist later if the student finds he must change his field of study due to failure in his present field. He could go to the center and find what other opportunities are open to him.

For such an undertaking it is obvious that an enlarged guidance center would be necessary. The initial outlay would be large, but the program could be made to pay for itself. Vocational aptitude tests should be given to the student in his first semester, and the fee added to his regular bill. The tests would be compulsory. The testing might be carried out in conjunction with the psychology department. Giving these tests would be valuable experience for psychology majors, and such a method would help to cut down the expense of administration.

The tests should be followed by a counseling period. To be successful, the counselor should do more than point out the candidate's abilities; an effective counseling system could guide the student's decision by telling him what fields are open, and the varied opportunities his abilities provide. It might also be well to have a thoroughly trained adviser who

When he finds out who she is, he throws her over; but this Eve is not to be outdone. She finally hooks him through various feats of trickery with him none the wiser.

Coming to the Campus March 22 through 25 is Twelve O'Clock High, the semi-authentic story of a bomber squadron based in England during the war, and the man who led them. The man, General Frank Savage, played by Gregory Peck, is given a run-down bomber squadron to command.

He determines to weld it into an efficient striking force. This he does, but not without first incuring the wrath of his men and driving himself to a mental breakdown.

Now, Guy, put down that lethal pen. You know we're only kidding you.

THE VAGABOND KING

by Don Heist

The Vagabond King is being hailed as "The University Players' second success and rightly so. In nearly every aspect, it is commensurate with its fabulous predecessor, "The Pirates of Penzance." And as an overall production, it is certainly superior to the professional show, staged in the round, which was presented in Lambertville, New Jersey last summer. Now, this leads us to imagine what the Players could have accomplished in an adequate auditorium, on an adequate stage, and with adequate production facilities. Oh, well, someday.

Now we wait with bated breath to witness Norman Goodman's Twelfth Night. It was once Shakespeare's, but it's now Goodman's. Thinking it to be an "inferior" play written by a "decadent" playwright, the local director is rumored to be currently rewriting the play. Goodman himself will tell you that he's transposing acts—putting the first where the third should be, at et cetera—and that he has eliminated Twelfth Night's climax. These steps should prove helpful to those who can never make a show on time and endings.

Other innovative ideas fermenting in the minds of Cap and Dagger members are the presentation of a show on an unlighted stage (this will be known as theatre-in-the-dark) and the reworking of a production in effects. On the latter score, the audience will simply sit in the auditorium for two hours, peruse their programs, and leave. Cheaper production.

The local A. M. A., Guy Payne, is vehemently defending the infamy of these days because, "Bucknell didn't have an infamy when I was here." There wasn't a Pure Food and Drug Act way back then either.

Now, Guy, put down that lethal pen. You know we're only kidding you.

Greeks Organize For Better Meals

Plans are being made for the formation of an inter-fraternity catering organization, with the purpose of improving the efficiency, financial status and meal quality of fraternity kitchens, according to Ken Saterly, Delta Sigma caterer.

The movement was given impetus several weeks ago by Dick Freed, Phi Gam, and to date two meetings have been held. A third meeting will be held in the Demie house next Thursday at 7:15 p. m.

Objectives of the organization will include improving meals by exchanging menus, finding the best markets, improving business methods and handling exchange dinners.

An estimated 600 men are fed in the 12 fraternity dining rooms. It is felt that an organization of this kind will be invaluable in bettering the eating conditions of the Greeks.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1950.

The Second Chance

For the second time in three years, the men students of Bucknell are being given a chance to organize themselves into a more effective body.

This body is the Men's Student Government. The men's Student Government—it should be stated at the outset—would not in any way restrict the present liberties of the men. A glance at the method provided in the constitution for passing laws will show why.

Probably the greatest advantage of the MSG would be to serve as a two-way clearinghouse of information between the men and the administration. Thus, grips such as the recent infirmity problem could be brought up as a legitimate complaint through more regular channels and with more chance of action than is possible at present through individual attempts or through newspaper editorials.

Again, such a group would make for more efficient cooperation between administration and students. A meeting could be called to explain confusion problems, such as WCGA did several weeks ago to clarify the grade-point system, and the activities of the placement bureau.

Some will say that activities at Bucknell are over-organized. Perhaps this is true, but it is not a valid argument against a new organization that fulfills a definite need on campus.

Read the constitution, consider it carefully. We're sure that it can stand on its merits—we're sure that, having read it, you'll ratify it.

Orange, Blue, and Red

One of the most important objectives of coming to college is to learn to think for yourself. A part of this objective is the task of becoming a good citizen.

This task is complicated today by the fact that the country is in the grip of a Red scare. Ideas which one party favors are confusingly branded as communistic by another. Foreign policy is tied in closely with the problem of communist domination in Europe and Asia. The danger of a Gestapo-like FBI is caused by the fear of a communist infiltration. In short, nearly all of our current political thinking is charged by communism.

But our conception of communism is based on one-sided evidence. What we know about Russia comes from reporters who are supposedly objective, but whose judgments are necessarily colored by American standards. This leads to biased thinking, and biased thinking is unclear thinking.

To get the other point of view so that we may see both sides of the question and thus be able to think objectively for ourselves, we suggest that the University employ a communist lecturer.

There are other advantages. So biased a lecturer will force a critical evaluation of our goals and policies. He will make us discover for ourselves why our methods are the best, if they really are, or he will point out our errors and thus give us opportunities for correcting them. He will help us to recognize propaganda and to distinguish it from proved truth. And he will familiarize us with the tactics and aims of an ideology which opposes us in a life-and-death struggle.

Such a step will take guts—and adroit public relations. But its advantages would seem to make it worthwhile.

Here is a chance to fulfill, in the most direct manner possible, the main function of a university.

UN ACTION ON KASHMIR.

For better than two years the India-Pakistan dispute over a piece of land containing four million people and having an area of approximately ninety thousand square miles, has been a constant source of worry for the UN Security Council. Finally, some action concerning the problem has been taken after a 26 month impasse in the Council.

Last week at Lake Success, the Security Council voted to appoint a mediator to go to Kashmir in order to demilitarize the area. The purpose for electing India and Pakistan groups is to prevent any undue influence in the forthcoming plebiscite. This plebiscite will enable the people of Kashmir to give vent to their preference between the two warring Republics. However, the UN has refused to run any such election until the land is cleared of all armed troops.

Both nations, India and Pakistan, have political, prestige, security, and economic reasons for obtaining Kashmir. Thus, neither force has budged from the area for fear that the other will stage a coup to win the plebiscite. The purpose of the UN Mediator will exceed his primary task of demilitarizing the land. He will create the machinery by which the plebiscite can be held.

The consensus among the UN experts is that in any case, the resolution for a mediator is not expected to end the Kashmir dispute. The mediator, whoever he is, will have a trying time finding a program for disarming to which both India and Pakistan can agree.

A FOREIGN POLICY CONSTITUTION—ACHESON'S SEVEN POINTS.

During the past several years, the normal channels of diplomacy between the United States and Russia have decayed to a point beyond usefulness. The US Ambassador in Moscow, Alan G. Kirk, rarely sees a Soviet official. The chief of the Russian Embassy in Washington, Alexander S. Panyushkin seldom sees any Western officials. The emphasis has been on diplomacy by remote control—"the procedure under which nations address one another through press and radio reports, and at the same time seek to influence world opinion."

In the past few months the USSR has been promoting a vigorous "peace offensive" through remote control. Our official attitude, expressed through Secretary of State Dean Acheson, has been negative. Prominent Congressmen, including Senator Brian McMahon, have roundly criticized the Executive branch in its dealings with these peace feelers.

Last Thursday in answer to Russia and the American critics, Mr. Acheson proposed his "Seven Point Plan," by which Russia can return to our good graces. It briefly states:

Point I. Peace Treaties. "Mr. Acheson says Russia should help unify Germany under free government and write a treaty; also treaties for Austria, Japan."

Point II. Satellites. "Mr. Acheson says Russia should withdraw her military and police forces from all of the satellite countries."

Point III. The U. N. "Mr. Acheson says Russia should give up 'policy of obstruction' at Lake Success, accept UN as an instrumentality for peace."

Point IV. Atomic Control. "Mr. Acheson says Russia should join in realistic system of control—over such installations as Oak Ridge and Lake Balak."

Point V. Subversive Activity. "Mr. Acheson says Russia should stop subversive activity—notably in such countries as France, Italy, and Indo-China."

Point VI. Diplomats. "Mr. Acheson says Russia should stop treating our diplomats as criminals—as happened recently in Hungary and Bulgaria."

Point VII. Propaganda. "Mr. Acheson says Moscow should refrain from systematically distorting the picture of the U. S. presented to the Russian people."

One thing is certain from the positive, clearly-thought-out nature of this speech, that is: it is the best document on foreign policy that has been issued by this country in about ten years, since Pearl Harbor. Its prestige value in the other corners of the world will undoubtedly be good.

A REPUBLICAN FAUX PAS?

After one week of Senate investigation of charges of "communism in the State Department" made by Senator Joseph McCarthy, Republican, the consensus is that the aforementioned Senator has put himself on the spot.

Among the prominent personalities accused and questioned at the Foreign Relations Committee hearings was Dorothy Keayson and outstanding lawyer and member of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women. After intensive cross-examination by the committee, even Senator Burke B. Hickenlooper, a Republican member, said he had not the "least belief" that she was a "subversive or disloyal."

Some of the other outstanding Americans whose presence was requested at the meetings, were Philip C. Jessup, United States Ambassador-at-Large, and John Service an outstanding career diplomat. In all, Senator McCarthy has accused 47 State Department officials as having Communist connections. Whether any of his charges will be substantiated remains to be seen. However, it appears that in accusing men and women of such high caliber, the Senator has put his foot into it. If he fails to make any of his charges stick, the Democrats will gleefully castigate the Republicans for "juggling" innocent persons purely for political purposes.

THE BELGIAN DILEMMA.

Approximately ten days ago, the Belgian people, over five million strong, went to the polls to answer the question: "Are you of the opinion that King Leopold III should resume the exercise of his constitutional powers?" The referendum was advisory only, but it was expected to guide the action of the Belgian Parliament. However, when the votes were counted Leopold had obtained a majority of only 57.68%. What is more important, he carried only the northern area, Flanders. The final vote distribution saw him receive 72% of the votes in Flanders; 42.1% was his total from Wallonia, the southern region; and 48.1% in Brussels.

The result of this highly arbitrary vote favoring the King's return has been to create a major crisis in the tiny European country. The social Christians who are the plurality party and the Liberals, turn by dissent over the implications of the referendum dissolved their coalition and the Belgian cabinet fell. The crisis has left the country, represented by Regent, Prince Charles, with the alternatives of either calling a new election in the hope of resolving the Parliamentary impasse, or asking for the formation of a new Social Christian government that might rule with the aid of some Liberals. It is a difficult choice indeed.

Critics Praise Direction, Acting, Staging Of 'The King'

The recent performance of "The Vagabond King" was evaluated at a critic forum held in Bucknell Hall on Tuesday evening. The prevailing opinion was that the whole production was among the most successful and entertaining ever to be presented at Bucknell.

Edgar Luce, business manager, declined to state in any definite terms the financial success of the production, but announced that he hoped that a small profit had been realized. Dr. Willard Smith, adviser to Cap and Dagger, introduced the members of the critic forum: Dr. Gladys Cook, Mrs. Harry Garvin, Dr. Allan Hall, Mr. John Jefferson, Mrs. William Johnson, and Professor William MacKee.

On Saturday, March 18, members of the sociology department, Mr. Meyer Ninkoff, Mr. Harold Pfautz, Mr. Frederick Schietinger, and Mrs. Ruth Rautenstrauch, attended a meeting at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., to found the Central Pennsylvania Sociological Society.

This group will hold two meetings a year at which time teachers of Sociology will discuss various problems and aspects of their profession. The critics were unanimous in their praise of the ability of the director, Mr. Harvey Powers and Mr. Russell Miller, in coordinating the entire production. The grouping of the people on the stage was especially effective and the sets were beautifully executed, according to the critics. The principals, Beverly Weiler as Lady Katherine, Mary Edwards as Huguette, James Stanton as Sir Oliver, and Francis Billips as Teaberry, were well received.

Dr. Cook noted that the groupings, color effects, and costumes created a pleasing spectacle and described the sets as being "as beautiful as I have seen anywhere." She felt that the action in the musical portions could have been improved upon and wished that the character of Francois Villon had had "a bit more dish."

Enthusiastic Cast
Mr. Garvin thought that the nicest thing about the opera was the treatment of the opera as the true (See "VAGABOND," page 7)

The March meeting of Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociology honorary, was held on Wednesday night at eight o'clock at the home of Professor E. F. Schietinger, who discussed "Property Values in Residential Chicago."

The April meeting will consist of a group discussion on "Term Papers and Projects in Process." The subject for the spring semester of this chapter is "Social Research for the Purpose of Service."

Following the intermission, Miss Tully and Miss Wallin played three short works by Chopin, Brahms and Mendelssohn. The Chopin piece, "No. 2 for Two Pianos," a composition likened to a form used frequently in the classical sonatas, symphonies and concertos for the final movement and which is usually joyful and playful in nature.

The Waltzes Opus 39 by Johannes Brahms are characteristic of Brahms in his lighter moments although there is a "bit more dish."

Other officers elected at the same time, include: Chris Riley, vice president; Marianne Thurnall, recording secretary; Ann Raup, corresponding secretary; Sally Morris, treasurer; and Patricia Kunkle, pledge captain.

Charlotte Stratton was elected president of Kappa Kappa Gamma for the school year 1950-51, it was announced today.

Other officers elected at the same time, include: Chris Riley, vice president; Marianne Thurnall, recording secretary; Ann Raup, corresponding secretary; Sally Morris, treasurer; and Patricia Kunkle, pledge captain.

Also meeting last night was the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, James R. Fehr, advertising, and Jack L. Peters, assistant.

Other staff members are: Howard Heinaman, Chester Hall, John Keffler, Don Mann, Victor Meyer, Richard Painton, Walter Roll, Mel Sheridan, and Roy Siegel. Faculty advisors are Albert H. Cooper and Leonard A. Doggett.

Any engineer who would like to work on the staff of the BUCKNELL ENGINEER should contact Editor Smith. Writing ability is not necessary. There are openings in all departments.

The "Yellow Peril," University band will accommodate the first 30 students that sign up.

Recital Praised By Student Critic

A duo-piano recital given by the Misses Darina Tully and Janet Wallin was presented in the First Baptist Church of Lewisburg, Thursday.

Miss Tully, an alumna of Bucknell and Oberlin, and Miss Wallin, an alumna of Fresno State Teachers College and Northwestern, are teachers of piano at Bucknell.

Their concert, a unique one of its kind, was both interesting and varied. Two short works by Bach as arranged by Maier and Perry Grainger began the program. Handel's "The Harmonious Blacksmith" was next played in an arrangement by Palmer.

Following the intermission, Miss Tully and Miss Wallin played three short works by Chopin, Brahms and Mendelssohn. The Chopin piece, "No. 2 for Two Pianos," a composition likened to a form used frequently in the classical sonatas, symphonies and concertos for the final movement and which is usually joyful and playful in nature.

First Visit By Bloodmobile To Lewisburg

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its first visit to Lewisburg on March 28. It was announced today by Harold W. Hayden, librarian, who is in charge of the drive on campus.

The mobile blood unit, which is scheduled for six visits to the community during the present year, will set up at the American Legion Home and begin operations at 10 a. m. The Red Cross will provide transportation for donors to and from the Legion home.

A committee of the Bucknell Independent Students Association, headed by Fred Sperry '53, has been helping with publicity work for the drive, and will have workers present at the center. BISA will also operate a few cars for the convenience of donors.

Mr. Hayden announced that it is now too late for donors to apply for the coming visit, but applications are open for the next visit which will be some time in May. Students under 21 years of age will be required to have a release from their parents or guardians, if they wish to donate.

Mr. Hayden concluded by saying that he sincerely hoped the students would help as much in the present drive as in similar programs during the war.

Intramural Boxing Finals Feature Eight Bouts Tonight

Phi Gams And Kappa Sigs Enter Finals With Four Men; PLT And TX Have Two Left

by Belber Robinson

With four finalists each, Kappa Sigma and Phi Gamma Delta lead the field as the intramural boxing championships come to a close tonight with the finals at Davis Gym at 8 o'clock. Following these two fraternities are Theta Chi and Phi Lambda Theta with two entries apiece, while Sigma Alpha Mu, Lambda Chi Alpha, Delta Sigma, and Kappa Delta Rho each have one finalist.

Eighteen bouts were run off Monday night as the preliminaries got underway. Tuesday afternoon found the only quarter-final bout staged and last night there were 16 semi-final fights. Tonight the top eight bouts will be held.

Bob Ketchner, KS, will square off against PLT's John Harmon in the 125 pound title clash. Ketchner defeated KDR's Catlin and Harmon whipped McMahon, LCA.

Returning 125 pound champ, Jack Miller of PGD will tangle with TK's Herb Zearfoss at 130 pounds. Miller beat Van Osen, IND, and Fusia, PKP. Zearfoss defeated PLT's Barjo and LCA's Kern.

PGD's Joe Whipple will trade blows with KDR's Dick Seelner in the 136 pound division. Whipple defeated T. McMahon, LCA, and Derek, PLT. Seelner punched out wins over TX's Farrell and KS's Porelli. Seelner and Whipple met last year in the semi-final with Whipple getting the nod.

Dora York, TX, and Bob DeGroot will match leather in the 145 pound event. York was victorious over KDR's Foley and LCA's Porelli, while DeGroot scored triumphs over Miller, SX, and Ortel, PKP.

George Woodward, PLT's 145-lb. King last year, will face Bill Clements, KS, in the 155 pound set. "Woody" outpointed PGD's Hemingway and LCA's Cloud, while Clements scored over PKP's Friday and DS's Kearney. Don Deakyn, PGD, and Bob Busby, KS, will battle it out for the 165 pound crown. Deakyn's victims were Karatson, SX, and Sippel, LCA. Busby outslugged DS's Williamson and then scored the tourney's only TKO in the semi-finals over PKP's Stumbaugh.

DS's Jim Stanton, last year's 165 pound champ, and Bill Wolfe, LCA, will encounter each other in the 175 pound final. Stanton garnered his wins over SX's Fuller and PGD's Heinrich. Wolfe gained triumphs over Gurevich, IND, and Henderson, PKP.

The heavyweight championship will be decided between SAM's only entrant, Herb Grossworth and PGD's Powellson. Grossworth whipped KS's Kobough and Powellson outboxed TX's Oliver. Both finalists drew byes in the prelims.

BROTHER COMBINATION

The first bout in the 145 pound class last Monday must have been a repeat performance of a bout two years ago. Two years ago George Woodward, PLT, and Jack Porelli, LCA, met in the ring with Porelli winning. Last Monday, Melvin Woodward, PLT, and Blaine Porelli, LCA, both younger brothers of the other pair met in the 145 pound class. KDR vs. EC, TX vs. SAE, PKP vs. PGD, SX vs. KS and LCA vs. DS.

by Bob Wark

Leagues have been determined and a schedule drawn up for Intramural Volleyball which will begin Monday. Seven teams are represented in each league and twelve will see action each night. "Bus" Blum has announced the following rules pertaining to the tourney:

1. Official Volleyball rules will prevail.
2. Managers of each team will be responsible for two officials.
3. Games will start promptly at 7:30. Games not started by 7:30 will be forfeited. Games cannot be postponed.
4. Two out of three games determine the winner.
5. Playoffs: winner of League A plays second place team in League B and vice versa. Two out of three games determine the winner and the two finalists meet, best three out of five games.
6. Overhand serve is legal.
7. Touching the net with any part of the body is illegal.
8. Hands going over the top of the net is illegal.
9. Feet over the center is illegal.
10. Line balls in play.
11. Server cannot step into playing court until after completing his serve.
12. Spectators will remain in the stands.

League A will consist of Delta Sigma, Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Chi and Lambda Chi Alpha.

League B will consist of Sigma Alpha Mu, East College, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Phi Lambda Theta, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Kappa Delta Rho and Theta Chi.

The schedule for the first four days is:

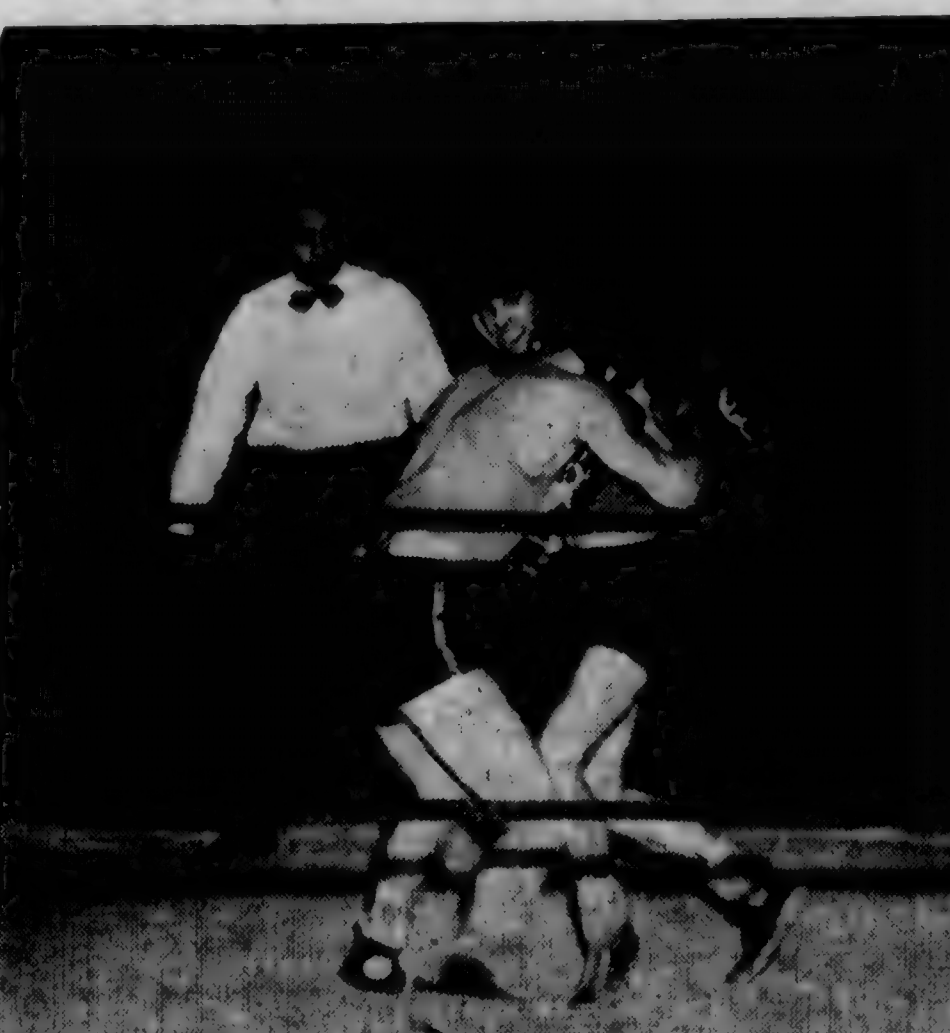

Monday, March 27—DS vs. SX, KS vs. PKP, PGD vs. SAE, SAM vs. KDR, EC vs. TRE and SPE vs. PLT.

Tuesday, March 28—TX vs. TKE, SAM vs. PLT, EC vs. SPE, LCA vs. PKP, DS vs. SAE and KS vs. PGD.

Wednesday, March 29—SX vs. SAE, LCA vs. PKP, DS vs. KS, KDR vs. PLT, TX vs. SPE and SAM vs. EC.

Thursday, March 30, TKE vs. SPE, KDR vs. EC, TX vs. SAE, PKP vs. PGD, SX vs. KS and LCA vs. DS.

How's It Look From There Her?

REFeree BILL RICHARDS moves to a better position in the ring as Mel Woodward, Phi Lam, and Blaine Porelli, Lambda Chi, mix it up in the 145 pound class. Porelli went on to decision Woodward.

All-Star Opponent Five Selected By Bucknell Basketeers; List Two From Muhlenberg Among Others

by Mal Sinclair

Bucknell's high scoring sophomore basketball team has picked an all-opponent team which finds seven schools represented, with Muhlenberg being represented by two selections. Limiting the all-opponent squad to the best five men proved to be too difficult a task so eight men were selected to give the team better balance and depth.

At one forward position the Bisons selected Bucky Harris, Gettysburg, who was recently selected on the All-Pennsylvania five for the second straight season. Harris has been particularly rough on Bucknell during his three year varsity career as he has averaged well over 20 points per game against the Bisons. In addition to his scoring abilities, Harris has been a very able pivot man and playmaker for the Bisons.

The other forward position went to Bruce Blount of Rhode Island State. Blount was instrumental in leading the Rams attack and impressed the Bisons with his great floor game as well as his scoring ability. Blount was recently selected on the Bisons' District 1 All-Star team.

Hatchett Unanimous Bucky Hatchett, Rutgers center, was a unanimous choice for a berth on the all-opponent squad. One of Rutgers all-time great athletes, Hatchett has scored over 1200 points during his collegiate basketball career. Hatchett is also an excellent rebound artist, another factor for his selection.

Davidson Clever Another selection on the All-Pennsylvania team, Al Davidson of Lafayette was selected for the squad.

Al Saenger was one of the smallest men to face the Bisons and one of the biggest errors. The 5' 6" guard put on a great exhibition of scoring as he hit for 32 points. Defensively, he was all over the floor intercepting passes and making it tough for the Herd.

Mackin Unstoppable Mackin, although hampered by a knee injury all season, was still held

Mural 'Dream' Team Picked With Four Teams Represented; Hammer Named Most Valuable

by Bob Wark

Dick Hammer of Lambda Chi has been voted the most outstanding player of the 1949-50 intramural basketball season. In choosing this year's intramural all-stars, the intramural referees named four members of the championship Phi Kappa Psi team. Runner-up Sigma Chi placed three men on the team as did the two semi-finalists, Lambda Chi and SPE.

Hammer, diminutive forward of the Green received a large majority of the votes cast for the outstanding player. With a deadly set shot and lay-up, Dick led LCA's scorers to an unbeaten league record. Hammer was outstanding on defense as well with his ball stealing tactics helping to keep enemy scores down.

As the annual National Indoor Tennis Tournament in New York City moves into the third and fourth rounds today, the Bison netmen find that they have no representative remaining. The lone singles entrant and doubles entrant bowed out earlier this week.

Paul Remmey, Jr., Bucknell's singles entrant, lost to seventh seeded Tony Trabert, Trabert, a native of Cincinnati, is tabbed by experts as one of the promising young stars of the game. Last year he ranked second in national junior competition, surpassed only by Gilbert Greigley.

Captain John Koch and Gray Rogers, the Bison doubles entrant, lost to Dr. Irving Bricker and W. Dickson Cunningham, both of New York State. Lenny VonHeill, tall Sigma Chi forward and center, often led the Sig offense with tap-ins and lay-up shots. But Len was as valuable under the boards which he kept under control with his teammate Al Heglein.

Second Team Heglein, his teammate, Harry Miller, Ralph Waite and Ted Brown of Lambda Chi, and Phi Psi, Frank Kirby make up the second team.

Big Al Heglein was effective in rebound work as well as scoring. Ralph Waite was outstanding for his defensive work, and rebound control. Ted Brown was a good all-around player with a deadly hook shot that saved Lambda Chi a double scoring threat. Frank Kirby was effective in controlling the boards for Phi Psi. Harry Miller, Sig play-maker, was a good defenseman.

The selection of an Intramural All-Star team is bound to start a lot of controversy as to its merit. Needless to say there won't be total agreement in all cases nor could there ever be. The point remains that someone had to do the selecting and the referees did a pretty good job.

The next question is: Just why can't we see the All-Stars in action? It may be a little too late to propose anything now but maybe something can be done for next season. It looks like this selection of all-stars is going to become an annual affair so why not plan on a game so that fans can get all out at the "dream" team.

At the moment two ideas seem to be foremost in the discussion. The first is that an All-Star team in each league could be selected with the team in league A meeting the league B team and the winner then engaging the league C team. This would give most of the better ball players a chance to participate in the contest.

The second suggestion is that a team of all-stars selected from the school as a whole meet the Intramural all-stars from a surrounding school such as Susquehanna. Such a game could become an annual affair.

With the proper management, the expense item would be negligible and if someone like the B Club would sponsor it, it might prove to be financially beneficial. Anyway it's something to think about.

FINAL SCORING Basketball season is over but some people might be interested to see the final scoring standings. At any rate here they are:

With the seasons opener less than two weeks away and bad weather preventing outdoor practice, Coach Peters has to whip his team into shape the best he can utilizing the facilities of Davis Gym. The opening match will find the squad facing the Naval Academy ragged warriors in Annapolis, Md. This engagement will be the first in a series of four matches scheduled in the Maryland area.

Ed Anlian Ed Anlian of Albright rounds out a starting five. The sharpshooting Albright guard singlehandedly led his team to a 76-67 win over the Herd as he personally accounted for 33 points. Anlian played every minute of the game and was a bear on defense.

FOUR SPRING PRACTICE gridders clash during line practice with the man in the middle about to be pushed headlong in the mud. The Bisons are entering their second week of spring practice in preparation for the practice game with F & M on April 24.

Baseballers Hampered By Inclement Weather; Pitchers Work Indoors

The lack of any sort of baseball weather is still keeping Coach Bill Lane's baseball squad to the confines of Davis Gym.

As the opening game on April 15 at F & M approaches it appears that Old Man Weather will have to step in and give the squad a chance to go outside and do their stuff. The pitchers are the only members of the squad who have been able to get the practice they need in preparation for the first game. Meanwhile the candidates for the outfield and infield positions are continuing to loosen up their arms and they are also hitting from batting tees which have been set up in the gym.

Coach Lane states, "That his pitching staff is working itself into shape and he hopes that the squad can get outside soon to get much-needed batting and fielding practice."

PENN STATE HERE On Saturday, April 15 the Bucknell football team will meet the Nittany Lions of Penn State here in a practice scrimmage.

To this composition Mendelssohn's endows a certain fairy touch since the music is played before the curtain rises on the Second Act. In the middle, or trio piece of this work is notable for its threatening, surging crescendo.

Writer Throws Away The Book; Exposes New 'Bucknell Look'

by Harry Dislocker

Most people have the idea that a reporter on the staff of "The Bucknellian" has an easy job. It just isn't so, as those who have tried it will tell you. Let's look at a typical case, and you'll see what I mean.

We'll call this reporter George Smith, because that isn't his name. George is a nice, easygoing sort of guy who only wears out two or three pairs of shoes a week. He loses about ten pounds a day when he's on the job. His hair is red and he parts it in the middle. So much for George.

Once each week there is a slip in the assignment box with George's name on it. George is to interview Dr. Allen in the astronomy department today. Being a smart boy, his first move is to go to the astronomy building. There he will see Dr. Allen and find out if there is any news.

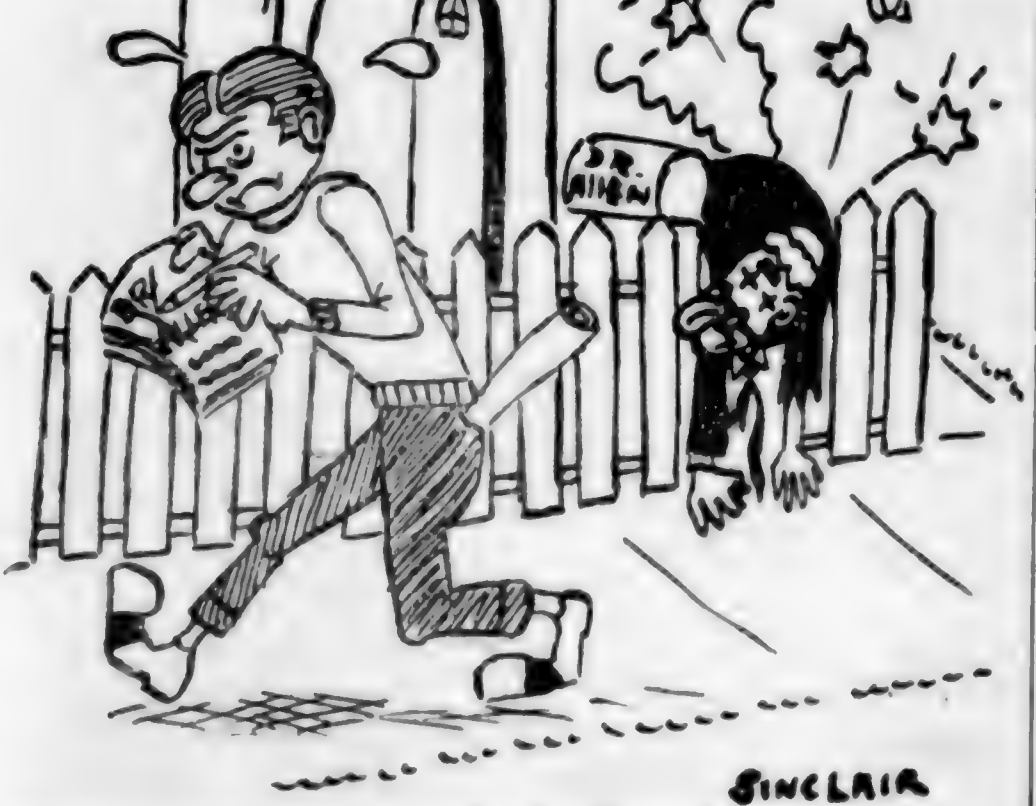

So George goes to the astronomy building. This is where he hits the first snag. He can't locate Dr. Allen's office. After searching vainly for room 302, he finds that there is no such numbered room. So he asks a passing student where to go.

George is told briefly that Dr. Allen has moved down the hill to the geology building, hasn't been near this building for six months, and his (George's) shirt is out. George rearranges his clothes and heads for the geology building.

Dr. Allen is not in the geology building. He has never had an office there. Not one ever heard of him. George is told to go back up the hill and check with the administration.

George visits seven offices in the administration building before he finds him. George is told to go back up the hill and check with the administration.

He left school, which explains his temper. They even expect Dr. Allen to recover—if they can get his head twisted back to its original position. Things aren't always as easy as they seem. The reporters on the staff put in a lot of time and effort. They do their best. Give them the benefit of the doubt in case of an error, and everyone will feel a lot better about it. No personal insults are intended. Try it and see.

Dr. John Stamm Discusses World Resources At Chapel

"We must share our resources with the peoples of the world," remarked Dr. John S. Stamm, Bishop of the Episcopal United Brethren Church, Harrisburg, Penna., in his address entitled "Resources for World Recovery," in Chapel yesterday.

The prominent guest speaker stated "We are living in a world that is in drastic need of rebuilding." And he said, "If the following resources were developed it would make possible the reconstruction of the world."

First Resource

The first resource upon which the speaker based his affirmation is that we have very adequate scientific skills.

As a nation we must share these scientific skills with the other peoples of the earth. "The scientists of today differ from those of yesterday in that they have a growing sense of stewardship responsibility." They are a humble group, and realize the great weight which rests upon them.

"There is also the material insight," Dr. Stamm continued, "our nation has been pouring millions of dollars into what is believed to be the process of living." "Since the last war," Dr. Stamm continued, "our nation has been pouring millions of dollars into what is believed to be the process of living." "Since the last war," Dr. Stamm continued, "our nation has been pouring millions of dollars into what is believed to be the process of living."

Who can blame George for what comes next? Anyone can lose his temper. They even expect Dr. Allen to recover—if they can get his head twisted back to its original position. Things aren't always as easy as they seem. The reporters on the staff put in a lot of time and effort. They do their best. Give them the benefit of the doubt in case of an error, and everyone will feel a lot better about it. No personal insults are intended. Try it and see.

Great Need

"Today there is a great need of spiritual resources, and the sense of justice and brotherhood. The Bishop said that in order to have brotherhood we must first have inner spiritual resources to gain spiritual power."

"Brotherhood warrants more than simply good-will for it is regaining and respecting all colors and all races."

In conclusion Dr. Stamm said, "There is a need of seeing the oneness of God in all individuals."

Dr. John S. Stamm is now serving in the closing year of the Quadrennium as Bishop in the Episcopal United Brethren Church. He is a well known church administrator and leader in America and in Europe. His understanding of the world problems is widely known and recognized. As President of the Federal Council of Churches he was very active in bringing about President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights.

Senator McCarthy And Group Arrive Saturday For Grilling

Senator Joseph B. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and a staff of subversive activity experts arrive here Saturday for what is expected to be one of the most controversial meetings in the history of the school.

The group is scheduled to hit the campus Saturday morning, spend two or three hours conducting a thorough investigation of post "Bucknellian" issues and the private lives of staff members, then at 2:00 p. m. hold an open forum in Vaughan Literature Auditorium.

Editorial Boomeranged

It is rumored that the senator had been looking for some time for an excuse to "blow the lid off this college communism issue". Last week's editorial by Editor Dave Kahn was the "overt act."

During the course of the investigation, the Wisconsin senator will attempt to uncover facts relating to the reported red leanings of college students, particularly Bucknellians. When the probe is over, the Senator

Foreign relations subcommittee will be approached with the "Truth about college students."

Plans for opposition are being formulated by Editor Kahn in the meantime. A delegation of 50 students is ready to attend to the young editor's integrity, and a staff of New York lawyers will be ready to back up the newspaper's right under the first amendment to print opinions in the editorial column.

The nerve-racked student editor had little to say when approached yesterday in Danville. The words "get a red speaker, get a red lecturer, get a commie, etc." were still ringing in the halls as your reporter left the situation.

CA Members To Elect New Cabinet Tuesday

Voting for next year's Executive Cabinet of the Christian Association will be held in Lavison Hall and in Roberts Hall Lobby next Tuesday from 9 to 11:30 a. m. and from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Members of the CA will choose six men and six women to serve at large on the cabinet. The slate of nominees prepared by the committee on nominations and election is as follows:

Men: Dick Arnesman, Ed. Blick, Bob Gorman, Charles Meyer, Dave Shinn, Harry Staley, George Woodward and Herb Zwaifos.

Women: Sally Baumgardner, Dorothy Clark, Marge Haas, Beverly Hall, Nancy Holter, Norma Huisinger, Betty Jensen, Lucille Sweland and Phyllis Vandenberg.

Any voter name may be brought before the committee by submitting it with 15 signatures of CA members, to Emory Smith at the TKE house, or by leaving them at the CA file.

Names must be submitted by Sunday noon.

IRLAND, IRWIN TO REPRESENT BU AT ASEE CONFERENCE

Dr. G. A. Ireland, head of the engineering department, and Raymond K. Irwin, director of the Placement Bureau, will represent this school at an industry-college conference, sponsored by the American Society for Engineering Education, at Swarthmore College Saturday. Many famed educators and business executives will be present to lead the discussion on industry-college relations.

Points to be emphasized at the meeting include psychological factors in preparing engineers for industry, employment problems and development of personality characteristics and creative thinking.

Bond Discusses Fate In Hershey Address

Dr. Charles M. Bond spoke for the second time at the morning service of the Hershey Industrial School, Sunday, March 19. The title of his address was "Am I Master of My Fate?"

The theme of the address was suggested by Henry's song "Invictus" which is sung by many schools and college glee clubs. Dr. Bond pointed out to the students the fallacy of the idea in that song in that anyone under whatever circumstances can be master of his own fate. We are conditioned by many factors, however, we can set a goal for our own living.

Dr. and Mrs. Bond were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Burton Entekins, a Bucknell graduate, and Chaplain of the Industrial School.

Rosemary Clooney

Night Of Music And Rosemary For Double Feature Centennial

When Davis Gym opens tomorrow night all dressed up for the "Senior Centennial Ball," the "Music for Millions" by Buddy Williams and the voice of lovely Rosemary Clooney will fill the air for the dancing pleasure of the 10th graduating senior class guests.

The last word from the dance committee given to your Bucknellian was that records of Buddy Williams were finally received and would be heard for the second time over WVBW to-night at 7 p. m. and 10 p. m.

Birthday Party

Taking a peek at the decorations your reporter was pleasantly impressed by the preparation for the follow-through of the "Gay-Comfort folk" atmosphere previously announced. The decorations will be centered around a huge "10th birthday cake" effect, complete with all the trimmings of pink and blue.

The same theme will prevail of the gay spring idea with plenty of color and the use of comfortable furniture supplied by the fraternity and independent groups.

Word on the favorite faculty member is still a secret but rumor has it that the committee that "it was a good choice" should not lead to disappointment. The honored lady or gentleman will "know" the queen chosen by Buddy Williams.

Speaking of atmosphere, Rosemary Clooney is not to be forgotten and with the music supplied by Buddy Williams, the Centennial Ball should offer a pleasant evening of dancing and entertainment for everyone. See you at the BALL!

Two Students Featured In SPS Publication

Two Bucknellians attained a degree of national fame recently when their pictures appeared on the cover of the publication of the Sigma Pi Sigma, national physics honorary fraternity. The picture and story of Dick Baker and James Davenport were in connection with experiments the students are carrying on at this school.

CA Members To Elect New Cabinet Tuesday

Voting for next year's Executive Cabinet of the Christian Association will be held in Lavison Hall and in Roberts Hall Lobby next Tuesday from 9 to 11:30 a. m. and from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Members of the CA will choose six men and six women to serve at large on the cabinet. The slate of nominees prepared by the committee on nominations and election is as follows:

Men: Dick Arnesman, Ed. Blick, Bob Gorman, Charles Meyer, Dave Shinn, Harry Staley, George Woodward and Herb Zwaifos.

Women: Sally Baumgardner, Dorothy Clark, Marge Haas, Beverly Hall, Nancy Holter, Norma Huisinger, Betty Jensen, Lucille Sweland and Phyllis Vandenberg.

Any voter name may be brought before the committee by submitting it with 15 signatures of CA members, to Emory Smith at the TKE house, or

Memo

We'd like to remind the faculty that, at Wednesday's meeting, they have their chance to pass some sort of legislation removing the restrictions some teachers have against giving out final exam marks.

The faculty knows that knowledge of these grades will eliminate much unfounded student criticism of the faculty and will save teachers much time in the rush of getting out the grades.

Since we feel that the postcard system—in which the teacher jots the final exam mark on an addressed postcard—is probably the best from all points of view, we suggest that the faculty authorize or recommend it.

But however you do it, professors, please let us have those marks!

Opportunity And The Postman

Tomorrow, 1960 (we hope) men will decide whether or not they want a man's government.

During the week, they have had plenty of time to discuss the question. There is no need to present here again the advantages of the organization. Since we do feel that the MSG will fulfill a definite need on campus, we strongly urge all men students to ratify the constitution.

This is the second chance that the men have had for such an organization. The postman may always ring twice; opportunity seldom does.

Invitation

Like the weather, everyone always talks about "The Bucknellian," but seldom does anything about it. Now you've got your chance.

Consider this editorial your invitation to a forum on this newspaper which will be held Monday night at 8:00 in Hunt Library. At this forum, the staff of "The Bucknellian" will be on trial to answer for any grievances voiced by a special panel or by members of the audience.

We're expecting an enjoyable and profitable evening. Won't you join us?

Please don't say you weren't invited.

Want An Honor System?

There appeared, in the latest issue of The Challenge, a series of articles on cheating. Unfortunately, few concrete suggestions about how to stop cheating were presented. But, fortunately, as with all student problems, the solution lies in your hands.

If you really want to stop the practice, the honor system is one of the best ways. And if you want the honor system, tell us about it.

You know you can have it.

Letters to the Editor

Pro March 25, 1960

To the Editor:

Many times I have been prompted to write you letters, both of commendation and of praise.

Upon reading your editorial entitled, "Orange, Blue, and Red," in The Bucknellian of March 23, I decided it was about time to write that letter. And you may rest easy, for it is one of praise.

I believe it would be a superb idea to have a communist lecturer on campus.

Many of us speak about communism but we really do not know what it means. Why not get the scoop from someone who knows something about the subject? We can then make our own conclusions as your editorial stated.

We could also compare it with our own capitalist philosophy and see what the attributes and pitfalls of "This Bucknell weather sure grows on you, doesn't it?"

THE BATTLE OVER ERP BEGINS AGAIN.

The prevailing sentiment in the present Democratic dominated Congress against deficit spending will be a big factor in the coming battle over European Recovery Funds. The Administration is asking for a cash authorization of $1,000,000,000.

This is the third-year drive for ERP funds, and like previous years there are many problems which must be solved. This year there is an important difference between the House and Senate bills. The House bill contains a proviso that $1 billion of dollars be sent to the countries of Western Europe in the form of farm surplus. Sponsors of the food substitute rider argue that it would serve the double purpose of reducing foreign aid costs and do-domestic food surpluses. Those who are opposed to the bill charge it would en-dangerous Russian allegations that the U. S. is using E. C. A. for dumping purposes. Moreover, they contend it would not save the taxpayer anything, because the diversion of $1 billion in E. C. A. food purchases from the open market would lead to new surpluses under the government's farm price support program.

The chances for the House provision on food substitution are dim. Instead the general consensus of opinion is that bipartisan opposition to deficit spending will cause a straight cut of $500 million from the cash allocation given to E. C. A. Administrator, Paul Hoffman.

RUSSIAN ANSWER TO ACHESON—NO!

Last week Secretary of State Acheson proclaimed his well-known

"seven points" idea in a major foreign policy address at Berkeley, California.

The Russian reaction was an unusually vehement one. The Literary Gazette, a Moscow literary writers Union, called the Secretary a "Fascist-minded diplomat," a "truly incorrigible liar," a "lured lackey of the warmongers."

Pravda accused him of aiming at "unleashing a new war." While there has been no official recognition of Mr. Acheson's remarks by the Moscow regime, it is generally believed that the Soviet press has adequately pictured the attitude of the Politburo.

If this be the case, then relations between the United States and Russia are basically as they were. The cold war has placed U.S.-Soviet relations at the lowest level since the war. Our next step will be in the recent battle of words is unknown at this writing.

A POLITICAL COUP D'ETAT IN GREECE.

It had been the hope of high American officials in Greece that the elections held in that country about four weeks ago would bring into power a moderate and stable government. The returns of the elections gave every indication of bearing out that desire. The three center parties won a total of 133 seats, which was a clear majority of the 250 in Parliament. The right wing Populists had slipped badly, but still held onto 66 seats. This was more than any other political entity in Greece. Despite the individual power of this latter group, the three center parties quickly agreed to a coalition; and it appeared likely that Greece would soon have a strong government.

However, last Thursday Sophocles Venizelos, leader of one of the three center groups, swung in, and immediately announced that he had formed a partnership with the rightmost group. His cabinet, much to the disappointment of the American observers, is made up, with only one exception, of members of his own party. King Paul, who under the Greek Constitution designates the Premier, disappointed of some of the other center leaders. Mr. Ven-izelos' decision was the result of "personal vanity," they implied that he preferred being Premier with rightist support to serving in a coalition under some other leader of the center.

The fact that an unstable government has been formed in Greece has indicated in support. Last Friday a group of deputies withdrew from

Mr. Venizelos' own party in disapproval of the alliance with the Populists, thus forcing the new Premier to depend even more on the right. Henry F.

Grady, United States Ambassador, has said in effect that he believes that the king's decision was a direct slap at American policy. Greece will undoubtedly be the center of much political fireworks in the coming months.

THE LOYALTY PROGRAM IS CHALLENGED.

In February, 1949, Dorothy Bailey, a 39 year old employee of the Federal Security Agency was one of 106 Federal Employees dismissed under Presi-

Truman's loyalty program. The basis of her discharge was on evidence from anonymous sources that she was a communist or a communist sympathizer.

Miss Bailey has denied the charges and is suing to get her job back on the ground that the loyalty program was and is Unconstitutional. In 1949 her appeal was turned down in a Washington Federal Court. A week ago Wednesday, Miss Bailey was again turned down, this time by the Circuit Court of Appeals in a 2-1 decision.

The issues in this case apparently go far deeper than the surface constitutionality of the loyalty program. Among the issues that are inherent to a case like this are: the Attorney General's list of "subversive" groups and organizations; the right of a government-employee under charges to confront and cross-examine the makers or supporters of these charges; and the right of a government employee in this situation to judicial review.

The stage is set for a final review in the Supreme Court. The constitutionality of all the above issues are at stake in what has become the test case of the entire loyalty program.

Women Make Own Decisions Under WSGA Honor System

Fellow, we in the sem have been hearing reports that you'd like to know more about the Women's Student Government and about those two mysterious words you hear so much and that mean so much to the girls you date—the Honor System.

You may not realize how much power W. S. G. A. holds in its hands and it may surprise you to know that the women students make all major decisions themselves with the advice of Dean Stevenson.

Well Organized

W. S. G. A. is as well organized as the United States Government with a President, a Supreme Court, and a Congress composed of two bodies, Senate and the House of Representatives. All the members of the legislative and judicial bodies are women elected from the various classes.

The rules concerning dress, hours and special permissions, and general social conduct are decided upon by Senate. At 4:30 every Monday afternoon fifteen busy young women meet in Hunt Library to discuss important issues about the life of Bucknell women and reach governing decisions which are put in the form of rules. Dean Mary Jane Stevenson sits at the meeting as advisor, but the rules are made by the student representatives of Senate.

Weekly Meetings

The House of Representatives is composed of representatives from the different dormitories presided over by the Vice President of Senate. The complaints or suggestions for revision of rules brought up in their weekly meetings are given to Senate for consideration.

If a girl commits some infraction of a rule, such as the rule "Any woman student who, as a result of use of alcoholic beverages, deviates from her own normal behavior pattern, has violated the honor code," she must report herself to our form of the Supreme Court—the Honor Council.

Decide the Case

They listen to her case and then decide whether she is not guilty. However, if they decide that she is guilty, they give her a penalty in the form of a fine, which she must accept as her punishment. This is no hurried decision, for one case may require two hours of consideration before a penalty is given.

The president of W. S. G. A. has the power to give or refuse all special permissions requested by fraternities, professors, organizations of women students. She must exercise her own judgment in granting permissions, consulting the Dean of Women if she is doubtful.

Check Constitution

We don't want to keep you "in the dark" about the rules by which your date lives. If you're interested in why your date comes in at 11 o'clock on week nights and 12:30 on week-ends, just check the W. S. G. A. Constitution in the Student Handbook.

In the constitution you will find all the rules pertaining to the social life of your date. By the way, have you wondered why your telephone call to that favorite girl at midnight is refused by the answer, "No local calls accepted after 11:30?" This rule is stated specifically in the W. S. G. A. constitution, and the reason for its inclusion makes sense, for not only the ringing of the telephone, but also the noise of voices would disturb those girls who are asleep.

Drawn Up In 1946

This constitution covering the social Honor System was given a great deal of thought and work by the Senate which drew it up in 1946. Not only does it regulate our social conduct, but it also offers an incentive to academic achievement by offering extra twelve credits and overtuels to girls with the equivalent of an 80 average.

The whole connotation of the two words, "Honor System," recognizes the fact that we are mature young women capable of accepting responsibility for our own conduct.

BASEBALLERS CONFINED TO INDOOR PRACTICES; PITCHERS LOOK GOOD

Prevented from practicing outside because of snow and cold weather, Coach Bill Lane's baseballers have continued working out inside the gym.

However, Lane has seen enough to convince him that the Bisons are all set in the mound department.

Strong On Mound
"Without a doubt, we have an unusually strong pitching staff for a college team," Lane said. "Most colleges have but one or two first rate pitchers. We have at least four, and possibly six."

In addition to four veteran hurlers, Bucknell has two promising sophomores. There are so many good pitchers that Lane admits he does not know how he can use them during a 17-game season which opens April 15 at Franklin & Marshall.

Raynor Leads
Heading the staff is Art Raynor, team captain of Rockville Centre, N. Y., who is being watched by several major league scouts. Other left-handers with proven abilities are Dick Roush, McAllisterville; Cal Seaman, Palisades Park, N. Y.; and Alan Regentin, Englewood, N. J.

Listed among the promising newcomers are Jim Chambers, Westfield, N. J., and Leon Snyder, Clifford, N. Y. All are hurlers are right-handers.

In addition to the pitching activity, a batting tee has been set up so that the players may develop a good natural swing. The tee is placed in front of a cage-like contraption of heavy cloth and netting designed to catch the balls from the tee as they are hit.

10 Candidates
At present there are about forty men competing for the twenty available berths on the team. Lane cannot make any cuts or name a starting team until the weather allows some outside work. Good spirit and lots of hustle have been noticed among the candidates and with a strong mound staff available and several good hitters, a successful season is expected.

Nimkoff...
scout it would be for him to leave Bucknell after 20 years of pleasant associations.

"President Hunt told me once that it was always easier to leave an institution if there was both a pull from the front and a push from behind. We had no push from behind."

Dr. Nimkoff stated that he has great confidence for the future of Bucknell under its President Horace A. Hildreth.

An excellent opportunity to build a new department of sociology in a growing school was his main reason for leaving, declared Dr. Nimkoff.

Author of two widely used textbooks entitled "The Family" and "Marriage and the Family," Dr. Nimkoff has written numerous magazine articles and has made many addresses before civic and professional groups. He is currently serving as president of the Eastern Sociological Society which will hold its annual conference in Boston next month.

Mrs. Nimkoff has likewise made an important contribution for the field of sociology and taught here for various periods, including the war years, when she served on a full-time basis. She also served for three years as social director for the English Language Institute.

MODERN DANCE CONCERT
Sixteen Bucknellians attended a Modern Dance Concert at Penn State Monday evening. The program included selections by Emily Frankel and Mark Ryden, famous dancing artists. It seems that the modern dance kick has really hit the campus.

TOURING TENNIS TEAM
Traveling honors among Bucknell University's spring athletic team will go this year to the tennis squad, which will be on the road for 11 matches.

ARMY GRID MACHINE TO MEET BUCKNELL SATURDAY AT STADIUM

The Thundering Herd will engage in the first practice scrimmage of the spring training period against Army this Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. in Memorial Stadium. It was announced.

While the announcement came as a surprise to some, it was pointed out that the two teams are rated on a 50-50 basis due to the results of the 1949 football season.

Army went through the season with an unblemished record, but, on the other hand, the Bisons lost only two games, and both by one slim point.

Herd coaches are preparing their team for what they consider "one of the best eleven working out of the Hudson River area." They play a different brand of ball than us, but we got the stuff to foil 'em with," was one coach's comment.

If Army shapes up well against the Lawrencemen, the Athletic Department may find a place for them in the 1950 Grid Machine. The Black Knights of the Hudson are rumored to be seeking national recognition by playing a team the size of Bucknell.

Speculation will be admitted through the Memorial Gateway between 2:00 and 2:15 p. m. School officials earn against taking television cameras, lockers, notebooks, pencils, paper tape, and glasses into the stadium.

Guarantee...

A further complication has been added by the fact that some students who have dropped out of college for one or more terms have, in many instances, failed to notify the University when they wished to return and have simply reported for the opening of college in September, expecting to find places open for them.

By requiring the guarantee deposit of all students, including those currently enrolled as well as incoming freshmen, it will be possible not only to assure places for those who have made their reservations, but also to avoid overcrowding in the various classes. This is especially important for those subjects in which the size of the class is limited to specific figures, according to the availability of laboratory equipment.

Star Halfback Is Refused Another Season Of Varsity Competition; Plans To Play Professional Ball

Bucknell's 1950 football chances received a severe jolt this week when it was revealed that Jim (Smoky) Ostendarp, star left halfback, had been declared ineligible for another season of intercollegiate football.

E. C. A. C. Ruling
The ruling which eliminates the Junior speedster from future college competition was handed down by the eligibility committee of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference following a request from Bucknell's athletic department for clarification of Ostendarp's status. Albert E. Humphreys, director of athletics said, "Humphreys, a member of the E. C. A. C.'s eligibility committee, brought Ostendarp's case to the attention of the group last weekend in New York City. He informed the committee that Ostendarp had participated in one season of varsity ball at Deane during the war-time modification of intercollegiate rulings. Under the war-time rules, a player's participation in a service man did not affect his four years of normal collegiate eligibility."

However, the committee ruled that Ostendarp's case did not constitute a war-time hardship case and that his eligibility had expired.

Ostendarp first played for Bucknell in 1947 when he played for the freshmen and led them to an undefeated season. In 1948, he was the varsity left halfback and although the Herd won only one game, Ostendarp was the shining light.

Committee Decision
However, the committee ruled that Ostendarp's case did not constitute a war-time hardship case and that his eligibility had expired.

Ostendarp first played for Bucknell in 1947 when he played for the freshmen and led them to an undefeated season. In 1948, he was the varsity left halfback and although the Herd won only one game, Ostendarp was the shining light.

Hanner Year
Last year, "Smoky" hit his peak as he led the Bisons to a season record of six victories against two losses. The eleven broken field runner was third in the East in rushing with a total of 829 yards. He carried the ball 120 times for an average of 6.9 yards per try and received several Little All-America mentions.

Ostendarp was one of the leading scorers of Pennsylvania last fall as he scored 10 touchdowns, eight of them by running and two by catching touchdowns passes. Although most of the passing was done by the quarterback, Ostendarp threw three passes, completing four.

The Bucknell athlete had his best day in last year's action when he scored five touchdowns. He carried the ball 15 times for a total of 214 yards and an average of 14 yards per try. Gifted with unusual bursts of speed, he was seldom trapped behind the line, losing only 55 yards during the entire season.

Ostendarp did not collect his yardage when the going was the season's toughest.

A PEAK PERFORMER
Dick Herko, Bucknell fullback who scored three touchdowns in less than 10 minutes last fall, is an "A" star in the classroom. His home is in Bethlehem, N. J.

INTRAMURAL TRACK
The intramural track meet will be held April 20 and 21. Entry blanks must be into George Stachhouse by April 15. A team consists of seven men. A contestant may participate in two track and two field events, or three events in either track or field.

LETTERS AWARDED TO 120
Bucknell University has awarded 120 varsity letters in football since the first intercollegiate season in 1883.

NO LOSSES FIRST SEASON
Harold Evans, coach of Bucknell University's first official golf team in 1939, is still touring Bismarck linkmen. His 1939 team was undefeated.

TOUGH HOME OPENERS
Bucknell University's 1950 home baseball schedule opens with two old intercollegiate rivals, Temple, April 20, and Penn State, April 22.

During the 62-0 rout of Washington & Jefferson, "Smoky" carried the ball five times. Still he scored twice and added 51 yards to his season total.

Future Unknown
Right now, the football future of Ostendarp is unknown but he has shown interest in playing professional football. He has received inquiries from four professional football clubs, the Los Angeles Rams, Baltimore Colts, New York Giants and Chicago Bears.

Where there's smoke there's fire, the old saying goes but right now there isn't any "Smoke" and Coach Harry Lawrence among others has plenty of reason to worry about it. With the news that his star left halfback has been declared ineligible, Coach Harry Lawrence is faced with the first serious problem of the pre-1950 football season.

To say that great things were expected of "Smoky" this year is to put it mildly. The fleet, young man from Baltimore was expected to lead the Bisons to another great year on the gridiron. After running himself right up to third place in individual rushing in the East, Ostendarp was expected to duplicate or better his performance this year.

Of course, that's just a dream right now and sadly enough we're going to have to get used to seeing someone else run from the left half position. Probably Coach Harry Lawrence is beginning to wonder if this is going to be just the first of another series of tough breaks that meant the end in 1948. It certainly hasn't started things off any too well.

After talking with "Smoky" I found out that he is seriously considering several professional offers. It seems that four clubs, the Bears, Rams, Colts and Giants have already expressed an interest and if things fall right, Ostendarp may not be unemployed as far as football is concerned. One talk with "Smoky" is sufficient to tell just how much he loves the game of football. Coupled with his tremendous speed and broken field running ability it may be enough to secure him a place in the professional ranks.

We can see it coming. The first question after reading of the ineligibility is bound to be, "Why didn't Humphreys forget all about it? Why did he have to go out of his way to find out about it?"

Under the circumstances it was the only thing that the director of athletics could do. There was some question as to the eligibility of the star halfback and it was better to find out that he was ineligible now than to wait until the middle of next football season and have some opponent complain that Bucknell was using ineligible players.

Humphreys was merely looking not just one year ahead but five or two years ahead. His action was merely to protect the University in the future from being discriminated against when it came to scheduling games with desirable opponents.

In the past, Bucknell's athletic record has been untainted and for that reason it has been relatively easy for the school to schedule games with desirable opponents. If Bucknell were to use ineligible players, hopes of bettering the schedule in years to come would fade.

Several colleges have indulged in such practices as using players whose eligibility was questioned and they have found it increasingly difficult to find opponents. So you can see that everything has to be taken into account. Everything possible was done to preserve "Smoky's" eligibility and to argue his case but it was no dice.

Even though he was greatly upset by the announcement that he would be unable to play, Ostendarp was the first to realize that everything possible was done.

Dodgers Scout Sem Gens
A. P. to Bucknellian
Yere Beach, Fla., March 30 — Although Bucknell's fair sex does not claim a Christy Mathewson in their midst, Burt Shotton has turned to them to solve the Brooks' pitching problem. "We will play the co-eds at various positions on the field," the Dodger manager announced today, "to keep the batters' eyes off the ball."

BU COED COMES THRU
Considerably perturbed by recent injuries and lack of control in the pitching departments in exhibition games, "El Cheapo" Rickey was facing the drastic necessity of digging down into his pockets for a reliable pitcher when Dodger scouts brought him the good word.

"With Bucknell co-eds on the field," they assured him, "you won't have to worry about the ball going beyond the infield."

BATHING SUIT WORK
Rickey will see Happy Chandler today to arrange a change in uniform more appropriate for the girls. This year's bathing suit proposal doesn't go through, he will compromise with shorts.

"Not only will we baffle the other team with the sem gents' charms," Rickey gloated in camp today, "but these girls will also boost the morale of our players."

WHAT TEAM WORK
Shotton expects the female addition to improve team work. "There will be considerably less collisions on fly balls this year with some coeds in the outfield. If Snider plays center and a Bucknell girl plays right field, a fly ball between the two would naturally come under the rule: LADIES FIRST."

15 Pound Brawl
George "Woody" Woodward of Phi Lambda and Bill Clemens of Kappa Sigma threw everything at each other but the kitchen sink in the 155 pound bracket. "Woody," who started out slowly but got stronger as the bout progressed, gained the victory. He scored effectively with hard blows to the face and occasionally to the body, while the longer Clemens got home some nice jabs to the head. Both boys had nice big red noses at the final bell.

Don Deakney, third of the Fijis champs, continually peppered Kappa Sigma's Bob Busby's face in the last two rounds to cop the decision in the 165 pound bout. Deakney slipped in some beautiful left jabs, while Busby hammered home some good rights.

In the only TKO of the finals and the only second of the entire tournament of 35 bouts, Lambda Chi's Bill Wolfe stopped Phi Gamma Jim Heinrich, substitute for injured Jim Stinson, in the middle of the third round in the 175 pound class. Heinrich's seconds threw in the towel in the final round to stop him from taking any further punishment from the long and tall Wolfe, who used his reach to a great advantage.

Herb Grosswirth of Sigma Alpha Mu displayed some fancy boxing and footwork to clinch the heavyweight title over the Fijis Al Powell. The hard hitting Herbie scored with hard hits to the face and midsection, while Powell scored on some jabs to the face.

Former Bison boxing coach Bill Richards handled the referee's chores in all the sessions of the tournament.

The PAT RACE

by Don Heist

"What some invent, the rest enlarge." The play, it seems, was pre-arranged as a matter of fact, the choice of the play was made on the basis of the number of characters it embodies—thirteen of importance. And each of these parts was given to each of the director's friends—last year. Further than this, the casting committee was a mere formality fronting every conceivable sort of theatrical subterfuge. In fact, (don't repeat this) the casting group did all of its work at the Burger, under the table. 'Tach! Tach! Just terrible! The extent and intricacy of the rumor appear to bear a direct ratio to the length and fluidity of the tongue. At the present rate, William Shakespeare himself will have been cheated out of the role of Malvolio by next week. All of this smacks, perhaps, of a generous portion of rationalization. "They say so" is half a lie."

Heist Here's a warning. In this weather, you'd be wise to obey those signs that admonish, "I am not lawn for this world." If you don't, you're quite liable to know the chagrin which one used experienced last week. In attempting to "cut campus" in the vicinity of Taylor Hall, she found the muddy ground a veritable quagmire from which it required three sturdy arms and a math teacher to remove her. Mud clinging copily to her knees, she emerged from the sloppy morn in a state of mingled hysteria and hysteria to turn down the hill for another try. But she won't try that again without making certain that she's wearing her dogtags.

And here's the case of another couple who found her predicament equally as embarrassing. It was twelve twenty-five, and she was heading her companion for arming himself with an air of indifference throughout the evening. Attempting to illustrate her decision, she dramatically pointed out another couple in the room—a couple apparently far removed from indifference toward one another. Motioning her companion to observe the couple comfortably utilizing a single chair to the best advantage, the late cool declared, "Why can't we be like them?" Another second, however, and she said no other word; the other couple was entirely asleep.

Speaking of characters in the music business (and Pops has seen them come and go) none of them were quite as remarkable as Jerry the Gimp. Next to him all the other odd ones fade into insignificance. Utter.

He used to play pretty good guitar—mostly with Mickey Mouse bands—and if you've got any old records by Lombardo, Kaye, or Lopez chances are he's on some of them. But with the Gimp music was strictly a side line. He was a promoter at heart and this is what eventually led to his downfall. Or in a word: Horrors. He couldn't stay away from the penicillin.

It all started one sunny forenoon in one of the local gin mills—along about the time the price of living went up to $8 a bottle. I stepped in to kill a couple dragons and there's the Gimp settin' up schnapps for a gawky guy in a beat-up hat with suit to match. Add to this a face like Gabby Hayes and you've got it.

The Gimp turns, sees me, opens his mouth, and I say, "Who's your friend with the road map eyes?"

"Don't laugh, Pops, this guy's a artist. Give him the act, Harley!"

"Not till I've had breakfast," I counter and instruct the barkeep to draw one.

But Harley doesn't hear and starts making with the gestures to the tune of "Out, out, brief candle," or some thing.

"Nah," says the Gimp, impatient like. "Not that one. The other one."

And forthwith James Cagney says, "Okay, Runt, you've been gettin' in my way too much lately." To which Peter Lorre replies, "Now, jim, you wouldn't bump off an old friend, would you?"

Yep, the Gimp used to play pretty good guitar.

Of course it isn't really James Cagney.

Whatever trouble Adam had, no man in days of yore, could say, when Adam told a joke, I've heard that one before.

Professor: "I will not start this lecture until the room settles down."

Voice in Rear: "Why don't you go home and sleep it off?"

27 Students Donate Blood To Red Cross

The first Red Cross Blood Bank Donor Drive closed last Tuesday as Union County Volunteers met at the Lewisburg American Legion Post to donate their pint of blood.

Among these were 27 Bucknellians who had registered several weeks ago during a special campus drive headed by Harold W. Hayden, head of Bucknell's library staff.

Response Small
All those participating should be commended for their generosity. However, both Mr. Hayden and Mrs. C. F. Spomer, director of the Lewisburg chapter of the American Red Cross, expressed disappointment that the response from the student body was so small.

Plans for the next drive, scheduled for May 16, are already underway. There will be a number of opportunities for all Bucknellians to participate in this worthy cause. For further information, consult subsequent editions of The Bucknellian.

Notes Procure Arrives Saturday For Lecture

Willie Sutton will give a lecture in the Bilton this Saturday at 1:30 on the subject of beating pin ball machines and pilfering second-hand magazines. It was announced recently that Sutton, who has also been engaged to give several lectures to the classes in Money and Banking, is considered by some people in Washington to be the top man in this field.

Willie, who will stop over Saturday just long enough to give his lecture, is also in town at several other institutions in the country.

each philosophy are. We consider ourselves the democracy of the world. Too many peoples of other nations do not consider us so. Here is where a man who is critical of our economic and political system could open our "screened eyes." Let us not delude ourselves into believing that all nations of the world consider ourselves as "the democracy."

With such a lecturer on campus we could have debates between him and other members of our faculty that do not adhere to the communist philosophy. I believe it would be very informative to say the least. The minimum it could accomplish would be to give us some insight into communism from one who advocates such a system. Sure it would be a prejudiced viewpoint, but aren't we prejudiced also?

Again let me compliment the editors of the Bucknellian for their suggestion. Especially during this period in our national lives where there is the "red scare" circulating. It shows that someone is still thinking with a bit of clarity. Now let us hope that the proper officials here at Bucknell give the matter serious consideration.

Very truly yours,

to a Communist lecturer we would "... discover ... why our methods are best, if they really are ...". If they really are! Brother, if anyone is in doubt at this late date, they had better decide quickly. A cold war is still in doubt as to whether American standards are as good as Nazi standards.

What you suggest has a terribly sick glow about it. The only possible way for the average student to judge communism is to go to Russia. It's idiotic to think at this late date in a cold war that any Communist lecturer could objectively tell us about Russia's communism.

Since Bucknell is in my home, I do not have any Communist lectures coming in under the poor excuse of "objective thinking." Again, I suggest that the doubtful editorial writer go to Russia and learn all his lectures. When he has, well, see if Russia will let him come back.

Politely yours!

(Let me ask you this: Are you afraid to put American standards through what would probably be the toughest test they would ever have to face? We have no fear that these standards would come through magnificently, but your unwillingness to submit them to the test indicates a lack of confidence in the very standards you so linguistically profess.)

(You seem to miss the whole point of the editorial. We know that the communist will not be objective, but we expect the objectivity to be generated in the minds of his listeners. His own attacks on the sore spots of the American scene will be turned, judiciously, against him, as Americans clear up these sore spots, and thus show that we are capable of taking criticism and doing something about it. Should we refuse to learn something from someone merely because we don't like his beliefs?)

(If you will pardon my saying so, your letter is a perfect example of the unself-critical thinking which refuses to look at our faults and instead let them fester unattended. Americans aren't perfect, and it's about time we realized it. A communist lecturer would help tremendously in this realization.)

will follow in the women's college dining hall at 12:30 o'clock Saturday noon. Short talks by a number of representatives of participating groups, including the Association of American Colleges, the Alumni Association, the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the town of Lewisburg, the Northern Baptist Convention, the faculty and the students will feature the occasion.

Competent Speaker
Mr. Larsen's activities in the education field over an extended period of time make him an especially appropriate choice as the Inauguration speaker. A graduate of Harvard University, he was an Overseer at his alma mater from 1940 until 1946 and is currently serving as a member of the Harvard's Committee to Visit the Graduate School of Business Administration, the University Library and the University Press. Since his formation on May 16, 1949, he has headed the National Citizens Commission for the Public Schools, a group of laymen outstanding in business, publishing, labor and law.

Mr. Larsen is also chairman of the board of the United Hospital Fund of New York, a trustee of the New York Public Library and the Committee for Economic Development and a vice president of the Greater New York Fund.

As president of Time, Inc., he has been associated with the publishing of all of its magazines, Time, Life, Fortune, and Architectural Forum. In addition, he was creator of the March of Time radio program and also of the March of Time on the screen.

Frederick To Hold Open House Saturday Night
German House has announced that their doors will be wide open Sunday evening from 6 to 9 for the first open house given by this dormitory this semester.

Refreshments will be served and everyone is welcome.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1950.

To The Faculty

Before anything else, we'd like to congratulate you on your approval of the student appraisal plan. Not often does one find a group willing to subject itself to such an examination. We can only hope that, once the medicine is presented to you, you take it and thus cure whatever might be ailing you in the eyes of your students.

You have taken your action on the final exam grade question. Since there was no discussion concerning the motion—not even by those who opposed it—there is no way of ascertaining your motives in passing it. Presumably, they were those given by Dr. Gathings in presenting his motion.

Frankly, we think that you are going to run into more trouble now that you've passed this rule than if you had permitted grades. For one thing it will take more time to give one student his grade personally than it would to fill out the postcards of an entire class.

As for students bringing pressure to bear on teachers to raise marks because of low marks in other courses, there would be, we feel, no more pressure than there is now. Too, in most cases, students would receive their postcards (probably at home) after the marks had been sent in to the recorder.

To the objection that students might guess their course marks from the final exam grades, we ask "So what?" In most cases, students know just about what they are going to get out of a course even before they go into the final; if they are on the borderline, don't you think it fair that they know the mark that determines their course mark?

Many students, upon hearing about this action, will feel that the reasons presented for the motion are merely rationalizations for individual laziness. We hope that this is not the case.

But whatever the story—why not do yourselves and the students a favor by reconsidering the question? It's advantageous any way you look at it.

Woman Of The Week

Marilyn Hanna

SAE Version

Grey-Eyed Marilyn Hanna Wears Pin Of Jack Williams

Woman of the week is Marilyn Hanna, a grey-eyed blonde from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Marilyn weighs 110 lbs., is 5' 8" tall, and is wearing the Sigma Alpha Epsilon pin of Jack Williams. Oddly enough, Jack is managing editor of the Bucknellian, but the picture was entered in the contest by one of his fraternity brothers.

The SAE's choice is a sophomore, and is entered in the DA curriculum. A member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, she is also active in Phi Epsilon honorary fraternity.

MUSIC seems to be the medium which brought Marilyn and Jack together. The two met in a music harmony class, and both are active in musical activities. Miss Hanna is a talented piano soloist, while Jack is Men's Glee Club manager and drummer in a campus orchestra.

Judges for this week include: Paul Beck, Wendell Hammond, Dave Kahn, and Bill Johnson. Next week the Woman of the Week will be chosen from entries by Phi Lambda Theta fraternity.

It is requested that names of the girls entered and owners of the photographs be clearly printed on the back of the entries. The pictures will be collected this weekend.

Letters

No Democracy

April 3, 1950

To the Editor:

Is it possible the men of Bucknell are badly in need of a democratizing program?

In the recent election the male students of Bucknell rejected the opportunity to have their own Men's Student Government. Out of a total of 1,500 men students, 413 persons cast a vote—approximately 28%. Does this mean the men of Bucknell lack the self-confidence to run their own affairs, or is it plain lethargy and indifference? This type of poor citizenship can not be rationalized with the attitude that, "This is only school—things will be different in the outside world—more important." Right here and now is where fortunate individuals are trained for future citizenship, what kind of an example will you set for those who have not enjoyed your educational privileges?

Another glaring example was the recent infirmity situation. Students constantly grumbled, everyone had personal experiences of maltreatment, but when the time came to DO something about it, Mr. Kahn was left high and dry when he sought support to remedy the difficulty.

These occurrences are typical examples of parasitism—persons are willing to share the benefits of Democracy without the responsibilities. Obviously students would rather live eight months of their college year under an unwilling bureaucracy than exert a minimum of energy in a more challenging type of government. Is all this indicative of America's future citizens? If so, a sad, sad, omen.

Disturbed,
(Name withheld by request).

DAIZELL M. GRIFFITH, head of the civil engineering department, will attend the annual meeting of the ASCE Student Chapter Committee in Louisville, Kentucky, on Sunday and Monday.

The Committee has charge of the student chapters at various colleges throughout the United States. Dr. Griffith will represent 24 eastern colleges.

Rewards will be made by the Committee to those student chapters which have the best report of activities over the past year.

KCL Delegation Visits Catawissa Church Services

"In His Steps Today" was the theme of Kappa Chi Lambda's Deputation Team this past weekend, April 1st and 2nd, when they visited the Catawissa Methodist Church and participated in the services of these Churches and Church Schools.

On Saturday, after the period of "getting acquainted" a dinner was served in the First Methodist Church at Catawissa. Approximately 100 young people were present. Following dinner they held a Youth Forum, led by Reverend Robert Bird.

This consisted of three talks, first talk given was by Wayne Meyer, entitled "Facts, Fads, and Fashions of our Fathers"; Shirley Cartmill who spoke on "Take a Look at Ourselves on Parade"; and Harold Sheriff, who talked about "The Christian Fashions for Every Day". A general discussion followed the forum.

A devotional and rededication period, all in candlelight, followed with a talk by Jim Middleton. Betty Clark sang "Stranger of Galilee". Phyllis Martin, who was in charge of this service, read the scripture, and Hank Bond gave the prayer. Dr. Charles M. Bond was then assisted by the ministers of the churches in the Community Service.

On Sunday morning the worship services in various churches of the Catawissa Circuit were conducted by Max Costa and Buck Pullen. Ed Datsman delivered a sermon, and Jack Faucett sang "My Task".

The other members of the team taught Sunday School classes in all of the churches of the Methodist Circuit, which consist of Mt. Zion, Kulp, and Buckhorn. A team was also active in the Youth classes of the Sunday School of the Catawissa Methodist Church.

The "big" concert, as far as the Pittsburg area is concerned, will be given Monday evening in the Brookline Methodist Church. Overnight accommodations are being provided jointly by the church and alumnae.

Tuesday morning the 75 singers will get up early for a chapel service in Shady Side Academy, Fox Chapel, Pittsburgh. At 11:00 a. m. the final High School program will be given in New Kensington.

After eating the noon meal in New Kensington, the two chartered buses will leave for Harrisburg, where a concert is scheduled for the First Baptist Church at 8:00 p. m.

The Club's manager announced that a second radio program will be in store in Harrisburg, but at the Bison Netmen End Successful Trip By Defeating G. W. And American After Losing To Middies And Terps

by Bill Reitz

The Bison tennis team returned from a successful invasion of Maryland with a record of two wins and two defeats. The netmen dropped matches to Navy and Maryland while notching victories over George Washington and American University.

Navy Wins

In the season opener, a well-balanced Naval Academy outfit swamped the Bisons by winning all six singles matches without dropping a set. The midshipmen ran into minor difficulties in the doubles when Matheson and Koch won the first set for the Bisons only to lose the next two. Except for the loss of one set it was a perfect day for the Navy as they won 9-0.

Prior to the varsity match, the Bucknell Fresh dropped a 7-2 decision to the Navy Pilots. Jack Laird scored the lone singles victory for the Bisons. Laird then teamed with Paul Kenney to take the number one doubles match.

On Sunday the team took advantage of the fine spring weather as they put in a good day practice on the Academy courts.

Bisons Win

On Monday a determined squad traveled to Washington, D. C. to meet and defeat a stubborn George Washington team, 6-4. The match was a long and tiresome affair, lasting almost five hours.

The Bisons remained in Washington to engage the American University netmen on Tuesday. This match developed into another close battle with Bucknell coming out on top 5-4. This gave the Orange and Blue a 2-1 record for the trip.

Hoping to make it 3-1 on Wednesday, the team traveled to College Park to meet the University of Maryland. Rain and wind prevailed throughout most of the morning and afternoon, making it difficult to play.

Only serious injury sustained prior to the cut above the right eye of Herb Stiefel which has forced him to withdraw from Spring practice. Herb suffered the injury several weeks ago during a scrimmage and recently opened it again.

Practice will be concluded on April 25 after the F & M practice game on the 25th.

Final Exam Marks...

The action was taken after several editorials in The Bucknellian had requested that students be given their final examination grades by faculty members on postcards before course marks are officially out. Student opinion was generally in favor of the editorial.

The resolution passed by the faculty follows:

Dr. Gathings, chairman of the Student Measurement Committee, moved that final examination and final semester grades be withheld by faculty members until the recorder of the University releases official grades to students.

Memorandum...

The final obligation of an institution of higher learning is to provide good teaching. Enclosed herewith is a list of our entire faculty and certain administrative personnel that has considerable contact with our student body. In order that we may get the opinion of the seniors as to the quality of the teaching and administrative work Bucknell is offering, would you be kind enough to indicate in the places provided on the attached sheet your considered opinions as to the quality of the teaching and administrative work being offered.

Bucknell University, like all other institutions, is a community of human beings. We improve, stand still, or retrograde as each one of us carries out our duties and meets our responsibilities. It would be helpful for us to have your frank opinions about the quality of instruction received here, about the impressions your teachers made upon you, and about ways and means whereby our faculty might be more effective. Unless a systematic inquiry is made, we are exposed too much to idle gossip, prejudiced statements, and other non-objective sources of information. Time does not permit a personal interview with each senior. You, however, are in a position to make very helpful suggestions about ways of improving our educational work.

We hope that your appraisal will be based only upon your own personal experience and not upon mere gossip from others. Therefore, please appraise only the professors from whom you have taken a course or those of the administrative staff with whom you have had some relation. We also hope that your appraisal will be based not on popularity but on the competency of the instruction both as to content and the effectiveness with which it is presented.

In asking for this appraisal by the more mature members of our student body, we want to make it clear that the appraisal by the seniors will not be the basis of a conclusive opinion by the administration but will constitute only one factor.

Enclosed herewith is a stamped, addressed envelope in which you will return promptly the enclosed sheets. These appraisals, which of course should be unsigned, will be completely unidentifiable, and the results thereof will be only for the information of the administration and not for publication. Your cooperation in returning these appraisal sheets, marked in accordance with the spirit in which they are sent to you, will be greatly appreciated.

for eight academic weeks. If the penalty falls in the first semester, the eight week period will be that immediately following the close of formal rushing. If the penalty falls in the second semester, the eight week period will be that immediately following the official release of marks.

(c) Any fraternity or sorority failing below the specific minimum average for three successive semesters will lose all social privileges for the duration of the following semester. If the penalty falls during the first semester, it becomes effective immediately following the close of formal rushing. If the penalty falls in the second semester, it becomes effective the week following the official release of marks.

(d) Any fraternity or sorority which raises its average to or above the specific minimum mark, after having been penalized under paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) regains all social privileges. This average must be retained for two successive semesters to preserve the standing of the condition. If not met, the fraternity or sorority reverts to the social standing which it held prior to the regaining of its social privileges.

(e) For the purposes of these rules a social activity is defined as any gathering of the fraternity or sorority to which guests are invited.

(f) Primary responsibility for the administration of this plan shall be assigned to a committee composed of the Dean of the College, the Dean of Men, and the Dean of Women.

Naval Reserve Corps Interested In Obtaining Qualified Men

The Organized Surface Division 4-58, of the Naval Reserve Corps, is looking for radar men, electronic technicians, radio men or electricians. The division meets from 7:30 to 10:00 every Thursday night at the training center in Williamsport with men receiving one day's active duty pay for every meeting which they attend.

Any student who is interested may contact either Mr. James Bortner or Mr. William Mendenhall in room 204 Taylor Annex, where transportation arrangements will be made.

any or all of the provisions of this plan to advance scholarship among the fraternities and sororities.

4. The above plan is an alternative to that of deferred rushing as far as improvement of scholarship is concerned. It is contemplated that if it does not achieve its objective, some form of deferred rushing will then be reconsidered.

5. The plan will become effective in the second semester of the academic year, 1949-1950, that is, the first penalty under the plan become effective in the Fall of 1950 with the previous Spring term's grades as the basis.

DR. R. W. SOCKMAN, NEW YORK PASTOR, TO SPEAK AT CHAPEL

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, minister of Christ Methodist Church, New York City, will speak at Chapel on Wednesday. His address is entitled, "For a Time Like This".

Dr. Sockman is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, Columbia and Union Theological Seminary. He has spent his entire professional career in Christ's Church, since 1917. He is also the minister on the radio program "National Radio Pulpit".

The prominent speaker is president of Church Peace Union, member of the World Council of Churches and Director of the Hall of Fame. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Sigma Rho, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi. He was chairman in 1947 of the Interfaith Committee American Society for Russian Relief and a delegate to Russia also in 1947.

Dr. Sockman is an active teacher and is visiting Professor of Theology at Yale University, and Associate Professor in Practical Theology at Union Theological Seminary.

The guest speaker has written quite a few books, such as "Date With Destiny", "How to Live", and his latest "Higher Happiness".

Elections To Be Held Tuesday In Roberts, Larison Halls

With the first flurry of petitions over, students are getting ready to go to polls next Tuesday for the first major election this year. And for this reason, tables will be set up in Robert Hall lobby and first floor Larison from 9 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. and from 1 to 5:30 p. m.

Phi Bets Tap 16 At Chapel

Fourteen seniors and two juniors have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary. President Hildreth announced in chapel yesterday.

The seniors are Clare Freund, Ralph Emerson Jones, Peter Bricker III, Susan Davis, Dale Derr, James Lomax, John Mooney, Walter Pfeiffer, Beatrice Rosenheim, Margaret Smith, Roland Stahl, Jean White, Hugh Williamson and Raymond Zimmerman.

The two juniors are Harvey Bush and Rebecca Rogers.

Clare Freund and Ralph Emerson Jones graduated in February; all other seniors will graduate in June. The initiations will be held at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon in Hunt Living Room.

MEMBERSHIP CLOSED TILL FALL SEMESTER FOR SAM

The Society for the Advancement of Management announced today that its recruiting drive for new members has been closed until the fall semester, and that it has accepted six new members.

The following men have been accepted as associate members: Daniel Sanders, William Henkleman, Albert Boehm, William Wabbel, Douglas Light and George Fuchs.

The society went on a field trip today through the food processing and canning plant of the Cargill-Borah Company in Milton today.

This is one of the many field trips arranged by the society to permit its members to get a close look at industry and the practical application of text book material and theory.

Peter Weidenbacher will represent the local group at the 1950 Time Study Methods Conference in New York City today and tomorrow.

Phi Beta Phi Initiation

Tuesday night Phi Beta Phi initiated the following girls: Jane Banker, Lynn Fetteroff, Isabelle Harris, Carol Kirk, Trudy Knudsen, Joan MacBain, Barbara Maurer, Ginny Nicely, Shirley Reindinger, Nancy Schreiner, and Ann Urban.

Some of the noted improvements "punched" by the committee in the last year have been the final step of the new library lights, the new path leading from the Bion to the Social Science Building, the new path along the west side of West College and other minor repairs and changes about campus that these students suggested.

The current plan being worked out is a sincere appeal from the committee for cooperation in not "cutting

200 Colleges To Be Represented At Dr. Hildreth's Inauguration As Bucknell's Ninth President

More than 200 of the nation's leading colleges and universities will be represented at the inauguration of President Horace Hildreth Saturday morning, April 29, Dean William H. Coleman, chairman of the inauguration committee, announced today.

In addition, delegates from a number of important professional and learned societies, the presidents of 15 Bucknell alumni clubs, and practically all of the members of the Board of Trustees will be on hand to witness the induction of the University's ninth president.

Final Arrangements

Committee chairmen, under the direction of Dean Coleman, are now completing final arrangements covering all phases of the inauguration. It was learned that members of Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa will be invited to serve as ushers for the exercises, and that other students will be asked to serve in the capacity of guides and to assist in other ways in making our visitors welcome to the campus.

Members of the faculty and administration who have undertaken specific responsibilities in connection with the inauguration include the following: Dr. Charles M. Bond, printing of the official program; Forrest Brown, housing; Dr. Gladys Cook, social functions; Dr. Harold E. Cook, music; Dr. Charles M. Bond, transportation and special meals; Registrar George R. Faint, gymnasium arrangements; Dr. George I. Land, registration; Raymond K. Irwin, decorations for the gymnasium; Dr. Charles M. Bond, the women's dining hall; Dr. C. H. Richardson, chief mass (See IN AUGUST, page 5)

Reserved Seats Available

Guests of the University, including faculty members and their friends, as well as wives and husbands of many of the official delegates, are invited to occupy the reserved section which is to include the chairs on the

Chapel Choir To Present Annual Spring Concert In Baptist Church

Three students will be featured as soloists when the chapel choir presents its annual spring concert next Thursday evening in the Lewisburg Baptist Church.

Soloists for the concert, to which the public is invited, will be Margaret Gerber Bolin, soprano; Betty Clark, contralto; Marilyn Naugle, contralto; David Narvaez, tenor; and William Groover, bass.

William D. McKee will direct the thirty-six-voice choir in a varied program that will include a group of spirituals as well as numbers representing some of the best-liked church music and carols.

The four songs which first became famous in the Greek Orthodox Church, will constitute the opening group. They include "Now We Sing Thy Praise," "Cherubim Hymn," "The Lord is My Light," and "Praise Ye the Name of the Lord."

Two sixteen-century hymns "Adoramus Te" and "O Lord, Increase my Faith," along with the famous German carol, "In Dulci Jubilo," will be included in the second group.

Thompson's well-known "Alleluia" will be the only number drawn from contemporary music.

Five of the best-known Negro spirituals will follow. They are: "Let Us Break Bread," "My Lord, What a Morning," "Go Tell It on the Mountain," "Better Be Ready," and "Set Down Servant."

Arrangements by Christiansen of three hymn tunes, one of them a Finnish selection, will conclude the program. They are: "Lost in the Night," "Fairer, Lord Jesus," and "Praise to the Lord."

Dean Malcolm E. Mueser will be the principal speaker at the Looming College All-Sports Banquet to be held on Thursday evening, April 27, at the Looming Hotel in Williamsport.

Dean Mueser has chosen "Personal Development" as his topic for the banquet. He will talk on the values of being physically literate and the values of imagination which begin in athletics but are carried on throughout life.

This will be the first time the dean of men has addressed this annual affair, which will be attended by all athletes in Looming College.

Publications Board Okays New Editors

Richardson Is L'Agenda Editor; McComsey Will Direct WVBU

The editors and business managers of "L'Agenda" and the "Student Handbook" and the director and business manager of the Radio Workshop, were approved at a meeting of the Board of Publications and Radio held Friday in Dean Mueser's office.

Bob Richardson, who was special features editor of L'Agenda this year, will assume the editorship for 1950-51. Bob has also worked on The Bucknellian and is a member of Delta Sigma fraternity.

L'Agenda business manager will be Lee Hanna. In addition to working on the business staff for three years and serving as assistant editor of the yearbook, he is president of the sophomore class. He also conducts his own program, "Music in the Miller Manner" over GVBV.

Ed McComsey, present business manager of the Radio Workshop, will become director next year. Ed, a graduate of the University, is president of the sophomore class. He also conducts his own program, "Music in the Miller Manner" over GVBV.

Many Dave Mower, who has worked on WVBU for three years and is now office manager, will be the new business manager, replacing Ed. M. J. a Delta Zeta, has also done work for Cap & Dagger.

Ann Cooper, whose appointment as editor of the Student Handbook was announced earlier, will have Don Brown working with her as business manager. Don, vice president of Lambda Chi, has worked as advertising manager of the Squall, on the circulation staff of The Bucknellian, and as radio editor of The Bucknellian.

An average of 1.6 is now required to hold a copy publication post. This average replaces the previous 80 percent requirement.

DEMIE ANNIVERSARY

Delta Sigma Fraternity will celebrate the 51st anniversary of its founding this weekend. Over 40 alumni will return for the occasion.

Penney was called by the Friends Committee on Race Relations to be the first executive of a young group whose purpose was to "help create a community where prejudice and discrimination give way to opportunity and equal rights for all."

Part III of the University Course program was given Tuesday, April 18, at 3:30 p. m. in Hunt Rec Room by Dr. Kuntz who spoke on "Philosophy as Integration."

Before an audience of about 40 students and faculty members, Dr. Kuntz explained that philosophy is the integration of music, art, religion, and other creative fields.

In his discussion on the philosophy of science, he expounded the theory that science has proven that there is no matter. "We think we are made of solid flesh," he said. "Not in the least!" According to science, all matter is "dream stuff."

The lecture ended with a question and answer session.

Men's Glee Club Serenades Sem At Tour's End To Preview Concert

by Jack Williams

Seventy-five glee clubbers and their director, Dr. Harold E. Cook, returned from a three-day tour of the west late last Tuesday night with enough wind left for a serenade in the sem.

Whether the serenade was a close to an overflowing audience in the Downtown Union Church Service.

Full Schedule

Monday morning the wandering minstrels sang for the students of Williamsburg High, ate the noon meal in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel there, and did an afternoon concert in Moon Panship High.

Pittsburgh alumni turned out in force for the Monday evening concert in the Brookline Methodist Church, and the program there was considered one of the best ever given by the Club.

On the road by 8 a. m. Tuesday, the cronies did a short concert in Shady Side Academy, an assembly program in New Kensington High, and left for Harrisburg, where they sang in the 1st Baptist Church.

Outdoor Commencement

It seems that there never are enough tickets for commencement. Sure, Mom and Dad get seats, but then comes the choice between your kid brother or your girl friend.

Davis Gym just isn't large enough to hold all the people who want tickets.

Primarily to remedy this condition, we suggest that commencement this year be held in Memorial Stadium. Briefly, the arrangement would have the seniors on the field, facing the speakers' platform in the closed end of the horseshoe, with the spectators in the stands on both sides.

The main advantage, of course, would be to give everyone—parents, other relatives, friends, and townspeople—as many good seats as they want. Two other advantages would be the beauty and the coolness of an outdoor ceremony.

There would naturally be difficulties, the possibility of rain probably being the worst. But the problems of moving chairs and loudspeakers from the field to the gym certainly are not insurmountable.

An outdoor commencement has so many advantages that we feel it should be adopted. What does the commencement committee think?

For A Stronger IFC

The faculty stole a march on the fraternities last week when it pushed across the social-restriction system designed to increase fraternity scholarship.

We think the system is a good one, and we think it will work. But we also think that it should have been self-imposed, that the fraternities themselves should have had the maturity to police themselves.

That the fraternities did not adopt this measure is the fault of the IFC, which, all the time that it should have been doing something, was just sitting and deliberating. It's too late now to do more about this affair than to cry into our beer.

But we can still make something out of the IFC. If nothing else, we can make it a body strong enough to pass and enforce its own regulations on its own members, without outside interference.

It's the job of the new officers to give the fraternities the IFC that they ought to have. Let's hope they do!

A P.S. On Final Grades

Many students have been saying, with reference to the prohibition against giving out final exam grades, that often faculty members will not mark their finals. We'd like to point out to these students—and incidentally remind teachers—that such laxity will not be possible.

For the resolution, as passed, states that these grades could not be given out until after the release of official marks. So students who want to know how they did in the final can still get their grades on postcards—the only catch being that they will get them after they have their course marks.

Teachers cannot fairly refuse the request of a student to see how he did on the final in case his course mark is lower than he had expected.

Letters to the Editor

Unnecessary MSG
April 17, 1950
To the Editor:
After reading the interesting letter of "Disturbed" in your last issue, I felt that it should, partially at least, be answered.
He complains that Men's Student Government was beaten and that therefore the men of Bucknell have no interest in or self-confidence to run their own affairs. I agree with him that a 28% vote is indeed a poor turnout, but should we not be thankful that 72% men, really only a handful, cared enough about the issue to make it their business to vote and to vote "NO"?
What "Disturbed" overlooks is that these men realized that a MSG is, in reality, quite unnecessary, that it would merely serve to pack ODK with "whore" who actually would be little more than administration page-boys, and that, regardless of claims to the contrary, a MSG would undoubtedly tend to become an instrument through which our personal liberties might be restricted.
Is this an example of poor citizenship and passivity? Hardly. Of course "Disturbed" (no guts to sign his own name?) is entitled to his own opinions, but it is fortunate indeed that we have men here at Bucknell with more foresight and sounder, more liberal thinking than he.
Herbert Schlow

Eight-Year Curriculum
April 15, 1950
To the Editor:
In answer to "Disturbed," April 14) So only 28% of the males at Bucknell cast a vote for a Men's Student Government—thank goodness! That's no less a vote for a Men's Student Government on campus, at least, to further clutter the scene. (Not that there shouldn't be such an organized group—doesn't there is need? However if it is so important to Bucknell's men (each one of whom probably belongs to six other groups already) I have a super proposal for its realization and success: make college an eight-year proposition—four years devoted entirely to extra curricular activities, viz., studying what you thought you wanted to learn when you came here in the first place; and four years for solving the main problems in college, i. e., running the school, giving everyone a chance to be president of something, and replacing all the faculty with robots who will change grades, personality and policy whenever some freshman flicks a switch. Sensational!

Seriously, this would be a much better plan than having to cram four short years with books, gals, no sleep, and active participation in several chosen groups as well—there's a limit to the number of movements that a student can help support, or it is not yet common knowledge? Too bad that many of us know nothing about the recent election—that the word somehow wasn't strong enough to get around.
Too bad there are so many other clubs, fraternities, professional groups—and, oh yes, that—to absorb the time and interest of 74% of Bucknell's non-female, "non-democratic" undergraduates.
So sad, and... truly an omen!
Bill Corgill

Positive Incentive
April 17, 1950
To the Editor:
Recently there has been brought forth to the fraternities' attention the fact that they have a scholarship problem—thank goodness! That's no less a vote for a Men's Student Government on campus, at least, to further clutter the scene. (Not that there shouldn't be such an

News Analyst, Quincy Howe, To Speak On Welfare State

Next Wednesday, April 26, students will have the opportunity to hear Quincy Howe, an author, an editor, a broadcaster, and a popular lecturer, who will be the guest of the Bucknell Lecture Series.

Mr. Howe's subject is "The Welfare State—A Critical Analysis." Frequently the words "welfare state" are used but few realize the significance connected with this topic.

His lecture will include such phases of the subject as the Welfare State and the Constitution; Federal authority versus States' rights; precursors of the Welfare State; the second World War and more bureaucracy; what is the Fair Deal; the welfare state abroad; the welfare state; a prelude or an alternative to Socialism; and possible alternatives and modifications of the welfare state.

As an author, Mr. Howe has written authoritative books, which stem from wide travel and exhaustive study of international affairs.

As an editor, with leading magazines and book publishers (Atlantic Monthly, Simon and Schuster), working with many of the best-selling authors of the day, he displayed an exceptional talent for helping the author to express his knowledge.

As a broadcaster (CBS, Mutual WQXR), he reveals a sensitive understanding of the listening public, and has developed a nation-wide following through simple, direct, to-the-point analysis of complicated international situations.

In 1949 he was one of the first members of the CBS news staff to transfer his major activities to television, and he is regularly heard and seen each week on CBS coast-to-coast television programs.

It was at the invitation of the late General Arnold in April 1945, that he visited the Western and Italian fronts with a group from the Association of Radio News Analysts. He returned in time to help cover VE Day at the CBS news headquarters in New York. That same year he began a

His topic will be a timely one and it is hoped that many students will take advantage of the opportunity to hear him. He will speak in the Lecture Auditorium. Admission will be by presentation of Student Activities Cards.

ASEE Holds Meeting Here; Seeger, Beeker Give Talks

Five colleges were represented at a two-day spring meeting of the Allegheny Section of the American Society for Engineering Education which was held here Friday and Saturday.

RED CROSS DRIVE SOLICITS AID FROM STUDENTS

The first meeting of the Red Cross Blood Donor Drive Committee was held yesterday and definite plans for raising the aid of Bucknellians were set up. The drive, which will terminate on May 16, will enable Bucknell to be the major contributor in this area to the Red Cross Blood Bank.

Bucknellians will have several opportunities to sign up for this drive. First of all, the committee members will make personal contacts and will sign up members of organizations of which they are a part. Also, there will be a number of registration stations at various places around the campus. All Bucknellians, students and faculty alike, are urged to support this drive and help to fill the needs of this fast growing blood bank.

All people over eighteen years of age may become donors. Those under twenty-one must have the consent of their parents or guardian. When you are asked to give a pint of your blood to the Red Cross, remember that "BLOOD SAVES LIVES."

Mr. Mayer brought out an interesting fact when he said that two hours before Czechoslovakia was taken over by internal Communist factions, high government officials were saying that such an incident could never happen. He said that Russia would do the same thing in the United States if it were possible.

Dr. H. P. Hammond, dean of engineering at State College, was toastmaster at the banquet.

At the business meeting held Friday afternoon, the following officers were elected: Chairman, Douglas F. Miner, Carnegie Tech; Vice Chairman, Earl B. Staveley, Penn State; Secretary, John W. Graham, Carnegie Tech; and Representatives to the General Council, W. A. Koehler, West Virginia, Bucknell Professors Griffith and Garman, and the retiring chairman and secretary, respectively.

Members of the Allegheny Section are Penn State, West Virginia, Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Bucknell.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL HOLDS JOINT MEETING OF FOUR SOCIETIES

The first joint meeting of the four engineering societies, sponsored by the Engineering Council, was held last night in the Lit Auditorium. Dr. T. H. Chilton, of the Dupont Company, spoke on "Careers in Engineering."

Dr. Chilton is the technical director of industrial development in the DuPont Engineering Division.

Cement Film Shown At Meeting Of Chemical Engineers

A meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers was held Tuesday night in the Engineering Building, according to Joe Snyder, secretary. Following the regular business meeting, a film entitled "The Drama of Portland Cement" was shown.

Raynor Hurls 3-Hit Shutout; Franke, Concklin, And Seaman Homer In Impressive Win Over F&M, 14-0

by Harvey Sheirer
Art Raynor twirled a masterful three-hit shutout and the Bisons exploded an 18-hit attack which included a trio of home runs as the Herd opened their 1950 campaign by crushing F & M, 14-0 at Lancaster, April 18.

Raynor handcrafted the Diplomats all afternoon, permitting only one runner to reach third and only one to reach second. He whiffed 12 batters and issued on pass. His control was razor sharp and his curve was breaking sharply. All three hits he gave up were of the scratch variety.

Frankie Homers
Franke opened the second inning with a circuit-clout to left-center and Bucknell led 1-0 until the fifth inning when the Herd scored five more times. Buckstop John Dyer opened this frame by reaching second base when English, the F & M third baseman, mishandled a grounder and then threw wild past first. English was charged with two errors on the play.

Raynor followed with a triple to left-center scoring Dyer. After key-stoner Andy Shirk bounced out to the mound, Webber singled to center to drive in Raynor. Seaman filed to left but Concklin unloaded a two-run homer to left-center.

Successive singles by Franke, first baseman Marty McKibbin, and third sacker Richard Danforth produced Bucknell's sixth run.

Better Two Pitchers
However, the Bisons weren't through yet as they ripped into relief pitcher Forberg, who replaced starter Kahlbaugh in the sixth, for six runs on five hits in the eighth frame.

Dyer opened the stanza with a single to deep short. Raynor bounced a hit off the third baseman's glove and Dyer steamed into third. Shirk looped a single into short left and Dyer crossed the plate, Raynor stopping at second.

Webber lined a double into left-center scoring Raynor and putting Shirk on third. Then Seaman smashed a three-run homer over the left-fielder's head.

Concklin Sparkles On Bases
Concklin drew a base on balls, stole second, went to third on McKibbin's tap to the mound and ended the dash when the first sacker fumbled Danforth's grounder.

Raynor walked to start the ninth. Flavie Nardone, batting for Shirk, laced a single over short and raced to second on the throw to third. With one down Seaman stroked a single to left scoring Raynor and Nardone with Bucknell's 13 and 14 runs.

Raynor Unbattered
Raynor retired the side in order in five different frames and apparently wasn't bothered at all by the cold and windy weather conditions.

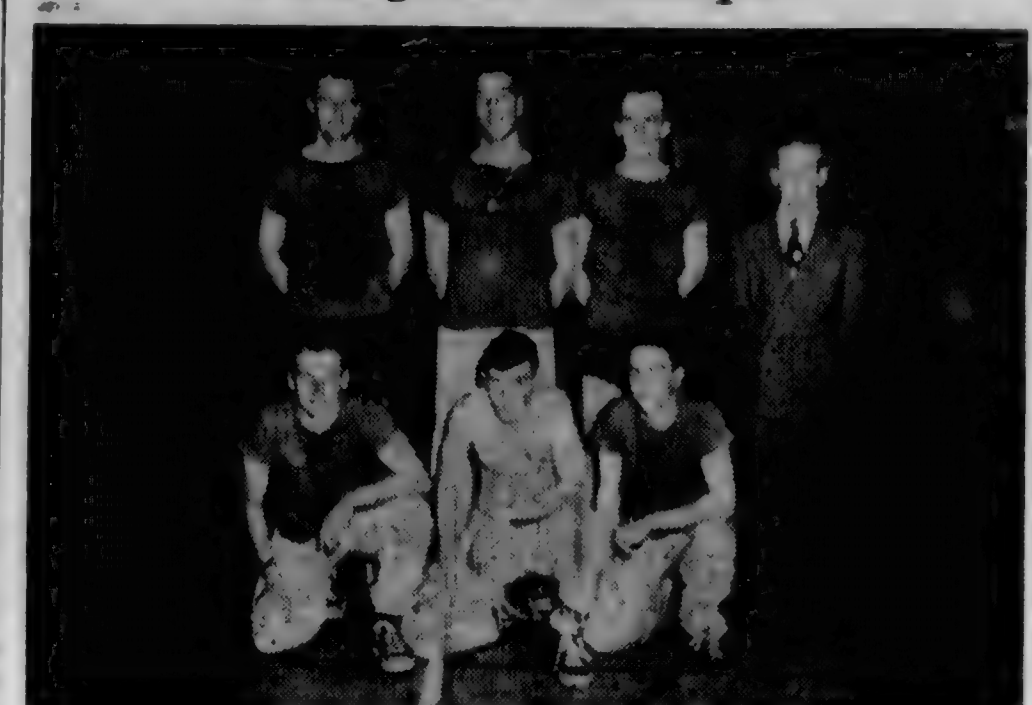

Raynor has now beaten the Diplomats four straight times during his college career while the Bisons have now taken F & M into camp five consecutive encounters.

Bucknell 14-0 600 602 14 18

FIRST VICTORY

When the Penn State baseball team arrives this Saturday, Bison coach Bill Lane will still be attempting to notch his first win over the Nittany Lions on the diamond. The Bisons have not beaten the Lions since 1945 when they turned the trick by a 7-4 score.

BISONS IMPRESSIVE AGAINST PENN STATE; PLAY F&M SATURDAY

By Britt Williamson
Bison Coach Harry Lawrence termed the practice scrimmage with Penn State held last Saturday "satisfactory". Some minor weaknesses were exposed and as a result of limited preparation due to the weather, a bit of loose ball handling was the only criticism.

Six Quarters
Except for the fact that six quarters were played, the game was handled like a regulation contest. Running plays dominated the scrimmage on the part of both teams and at the end of play, the score was Bucknell three touchdowns, Penn State two.

Van Johnson scored two of the Orange and Blue touchdowns, one resulting from a 70 yard run. Jack McMahon went eighty yards for the third score after treating the spectators to some exceptional broken field running. The defense set up against the opposition single wing attack proved effective as the score indicates.

Penn State was represented in full strength except for the sophomore transfer students from California State Teachers who will join the team in the fall. However, Coach Lawrence, not wishing to appear overly optimistic said that a favorable showing in spring practice is not a reasonable basis upon which to judge how the team will shape up next fall. "It will depend on spirit which has been high this spring and an escape from injuries," the Herd mentor continued.

F & M Next
A game with Franklin & Marshall on Saturday at Lancaster will conclude spring practice for the sophomores while the freshmen will continue for five more days. This has been one of the most abbreviated practice seasons since the war due to the before mentioned bad weather.

However, the spirit and willingness to work on the part of the players has in part compensated for this factor.

EXCELLENT CONTROL
Dick Roush turned in a masterful pitching job against Muhlenberg as he set them down with only three hits. During the ten inning contest, Roush did not walk a man. He was only touched for one solid blow, that being a home run.

Bisons Face Penn State Nine Here On Saturday Afternoon; Raynor Seeks Second Victory

by Harry Staley
A hard hitting Penn State nine will invade Lewisburg this Saturday afternoon at 2:30 looking for win number three at the expense of the Bisons. The Herd however, will also be out to protect an unblemished record and also looking for the first win over a Penn State nine since 1945 when they downed the Blue and White on Memorial field, 7-4.

That On Hill
Penn State now holds a string of eight straight wins over Bucknell and will probably send their ace pitcher, Albert Tkac, a senior from McKeesport, to the hill. Bison Coach Bill Lane will probably counter with his ace Art Raynor. Raynor will be looking for his first decision over the Lions.

Tkac built up a record of 6 wins against a lone defeat last year when Penn State won 19 and lost 5. In losing 70 innings, the Nittany Lion hurler struck out 20 men. Raynor, after shutting out F & M last Saturday with three hits will be looking for his second victory of the current campaign.

Miller Gone
Penn State is still locked upon as a power in Eastern collegiate baseball even though they lost their ace pitcher of last season, Carl Miller. Last year four records toppled and another was tied, an indication of the revival of track interest in the intramural program.

All entries for the meet must be submitted to George Stackhouse before this afternoon.

The intramural track meet will take place tomorrow and Monday at 4:00 p. m. The order of events follows:

Aspiring Track Candidates Under Pressure As Penn Relays, First Meet Near

by Craig Hall
Davis Memorial Stadium is the scene and a potentially good Bison track team provides the action as the 1950 cinder season approaches competitive action. The beginning of formal practice coupled with the nearness of the Penn Relays have resulted in increased activity for Coach Blum's eager candidates.

Led by Captain Jim Pangburn, veteran pole vaulter, the nucleus of the squad has already been formed in anticipation of the Relay Carnival in Philadelphia, April 29th and 30th, closely followed by the first dual meet of the season with Gettysburg and Juniata on May 3rd.

As in the past few years optimism is the keynote due to the return of many of last season's lettermen, plus such stellar additions as Charlie Stewart and Jim Leonard in the dashes, Chuck Mercer in the mile, Connie De Luca in the shotput, Sandy Schumacher in the javelin and discs and Joe Gallagher in the high jump.

Pearp and veteran trackman Jim Hess, John Mosny, Jack Robeson and Jack Parnell are all in contention for positions on the mile relay team. Time trials for this group are expected to be run in the near future in preparation for the Relays.

Although the track squad is slowly rounding into shape, Coach Blum has stated that any additional squad candidates are urged to report to the stadium oval as soon as possible in order to compete for the open positions.

Spring Sports In Full Swing With Six Events On Schedule This Week

The spring sports schedule will swing into full gear this week, weather permitting, with six athletic events scheduled to be held.

Baseball heads the list of activities as the Bison baseballers entertain Penn State here on Saturday afternoon. On the following Wednesday, the Herd will take to the road, traveling to Annapolis where they will engage a typically strong Navy baseball team.

The Bucknell netmen will engage in two meets this week the first taking place Saturday when they play host to Muhlenberg on the home courts. On Wednesday, the netmen also travel to F & M to engage the Diplomats netmen.

Coach Harold Evans will send his golf team into action for the first time this spring today when the divot diggers are due to play F & M on the home links. On Saturday, the divot diggers will play host to Dickinson on the University golf course.

The first round of intramural golf must be completed by Monday, April 24.

PHI KAPPA PSI COPS, VOLLEYBALL CUP AFTER TORRID FINALS WITH SIGS

Phi Kappa Psi is the 1950 intramural volleyball champion. Annexing their second trophy of the winter season, the Red won two games in the best of three playoff series against Sigma Chi.

The Hilltoppers drew first blood by setting the Sig's down 15-7 in the opening game, but the Blue and Gold bounced back to win the second, 15-4. The deciding third game went to Phi Psi by a 15-11 score.

Phi Psi completed an undefeated A League record and went on in the semi-finals to down Phi Lambda Theta, B League runner-up, 15-4, 15-2. Sigma Chi, A League runner-up, defeated the B League champion SPS's, 15-6, 15-1 in the semi-final.

Much credit for the Phi Psi victory can go to two big spiders, Connie De Luca and Woodie Woodcock. Their smashing drives were almost impossible to stop. Jim Stumbaugh, Jack Swanson and Dave Fawcett did fine work as set-up men.

PHI KAPPA PSI COPS
There probably isn't a happier guy on the campus right now than Bill Lane, varsity baseball coach. Although you couldn't get him to admit it, Lane must be overjoyed at the way the first two baseball games went.

Before the first ball was thrown, Lane was assured of fine pitching but could be reasonably worried about the hitting department. Four members of the starting nine were newcomers and as such were unknown quantities with the history. Several of the other starters hadn't been too potent with the bat last season so it was reasonable to see why those dark lines furrowed the brow of the Bison mentor.

No doubt, if you talk with Lane now he would display the same pessimistic view holding that you can't judge a team by two games and that would certainly be true. However, it's a pretty well known fact that Bill never had a busting, fighting team like this and if they can play every game like the last two, who knows, they might go. No use putting on the old hex so we'll just say best of luck and BEAT PENN STATE.

WOE BE UNTO THE NITTANY LIONS
It must have done the hearts of Harry Lawrence and his picknik gids a lot of good to watch their frosh and sophomores push a Penn State eleven all over Memorial Stadium last Saturday afternoon. Of course, following the true line of all football coaches, Lawrence still refuses to look at the game as any kind of victory except that his boys beat the weather man for one day.

Nevertheless, he must have been impressed with the way things were going. State sure got a surprise since they were at what might be termed full strength for spring practice. Owen Daugherty and Vince O'Bara were both missing from the Blue and White lineup but otherwise State was pretty well intact.

For that reason it was easy to see why Lawrence was pessimistic at the beginning of the game. Who would have thought that a combination of frosh and soph could upset the best State could offer. It may not be an indication of just how good Bucknell is but in this book it reveals just how bad off Penn State is.

IDLE CHATTER—Spectators at the F & M game say that Art Raynor never looked better. They might get an o. k. on that statement from several Diplomats players. Raynor struck out five men in the first two innings. Not bad in my league. Speaking of pitchers, Dick Roush also turned in a neatie against Muhlenberg. Looks like Jerry Olds finally made the grade with his broadcasts of the away baseball games. Baseball followers were also impressed by the announcing job turned in by Jerry's partner Bill Martin. The "Ace" followed the play by play very well. Word through the grapevine has it that Art Raynor has one last desire. A victory over Penn State. He pitches against the Lions this Saturday here. Mural starts this Friday afternoon and should be well worth watching. One last reminder, don't forget the baseball game this Saturday afternoon. BEAT PENN STATE.

DON'T FORGET—Students are reminded that they must show their student activity cards to be admitted to the home baseball games.

VARITY GOLF
The varsity golf team opens its season today with F & M providing the opposition. On Saturday they will meet Dickinson here for the second match.

There probably isn't a happier guy on the campus right now than Bill Lane, varsity baseball coach. Although you couldn't get him to admit it, Lane must be overjoyed at the way the first two baseball games went.

Before the first ball was thrown, Lane was assured of fine pitching but could be reasonably worried about the hitting department. Four members of the starting nine were newcomers and as such were unknown quantities with the history. Several of the other starters hadn't been too potent with the bat last season so it was reasonable to see why those dark lines furrowed the brow of the Bison mentor.

No doubt, if you talk with Lane now he would display the same pessimistic view holding that you can't judge a team by two games and that would certainly be true. However, it's a pretty well known fact that Bill never had a busting, fighting team like this and if they can play every game like the last two, who knows, they might go. No use putting on the old hex so we'll just say best of luck and BEAT PENN STATE.

WOE BE UNTO THE NITTANY LIONS
It must have done the hearts of Harry Lawrence and his picknik gids a lot of good to watch their frosh and sophomores push a Penn State eleven all over Memorial Stadium last Saturday afternoon. Of course, following the true line of all football coaches, Lawrence still refuses to look at the game as any kind of victory except that his boys beat the weather man for one day.

Nevertheless, he must have been impressed with the way things were going. State sure got a surprise since they were at what might be termed full strength for spring practice. Owen Daugherty and Vince O'Bara were both missing from the Blue and White lineup but otherwise State was pretty well intact.

For that reason it was easy to see why Lawrence was pessimistic at the beginning of the game. Who would have thought that a combination of frosh and soph could upset the best State could offer. It may not be an indication of just how good Bucknell is but in this book it reveals just how bad off Penn State is.

IDLE CHATTER—Spectators at the F & M game say that Art Raynor never looked better. They might get an o. k. on that statement from several Diplomats players. Raynor struck out five men in the first two innings. Not bad in my league. Speaking of pitchers, Dick Roush also turned in a neatie against Muhlenberg. Looks like Jerry Olds finally made the grade with his broadcasts

HILLTOP...

On April 21, the Hilltop will feature "Rhodes of Africa" starring Walter Huston and Peggy Ashcroft. It tells the story of an imperialist who converted the gold and diamond resources in South Africa thus precipitating the Boer War.
 May 5 brings to the Hilltop the fabulous "Mark of Zorro" starring Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell, and Basil Rathbone. It's the story of a man who champions the cause of the oppressed.
 Also on May 5, there will be a special picture depicting the importance of the Blood Bank.

Large Crowd Sees Sig Derby; Pi Phi Pledges Take Cup

by Bill Bellamy
 They're off!
 That was the cry at the Sigma Chi Derby last Saturday at 1:30 on Loomis Field, which saw the Pi Phi pledges win the coveted Derby cup, and the pledges of Alpha Chi Omega and Phi Mu come in second and third respectively.

Amid snow flurries and shouting sorority girls, the Pi Phi's won the Three Legged Race, the Egg and Spoon Relay, and the Baseball throw. The Alpha Chi's weren't far behind as the 250 spectators saw them win the Wheel Barrow Race, the Tobacco Race, and the contest to see which sorority pledges could dress the hapless Sig pledges in the weirdest women's outfit. The pledges of Phi Mu ran third as they won the Peanut Race by a nose. The results of the eight hard fought contests were as follows:

Three Legged Race—Pi Phi, first; KKG, second; ACO, third.
 Egg and Spoon Relay—Pi Phi, first; KKG, second; ACO, third.

LETTER...

 In considering this Westerner there has been much discussion and thinking about it, especially by Dr. Frantz. Since you, Dr. Frantz, are interested in fraternity welfare as evidenced by your recommendation to the faculty, this letter is really addressed to you. It is hoped that you, as a leader for the development of fraternities, particularly scholarship, will read this letter carefully.

In reviewing your efforts to help the fraternities let us consider your suggestions. The first one that you made was deferred rushing. When it was pointed out to you that this system would actually harm the fraternities, you said that you were merely interested in raising their scholarship standards. The fraternities, recognizing their current scholarship weakness, agreed to accept a punishment system as a compromise. This you brought up at a faculty meeting and were able to carry.

Now let us analyze this idea of removing privileges. First, it is a method of punishing bad boys who do not make good grades, or in other words, make your grades or be ostracized. Dr. Frantz, this may be temporarily stimulating, but the long run effect will not be good as there will be social stigma against the group or groups that slip. These groups will spectate at their house after the events.

The credit for keeping the Derby in only a mild state of uproar goes to Jim Palmer, Carl Weiser and the other Sig's who ran their annual event. Jim presented the representative of the pledge class of Pi Beta Phi with a gold cup, and ribbons were given out to the sororities taking first, second and third places in the contests.

 Yours truly,
 A fraternity man.
 P. R.—Dr. Frantz, undoubtedly you are a teacher and scholar of impeccable character. The purpose of this letter has not been to berate you or show you in a bad light, but to point out a fallacy and to give you constructive suggestions for actions that it is felt you would like to take toward helping fraternity scholarship. Therefore I wish to invite your comment as well as that of anyone else interested in the situation.

Cancer Crusade Appeals For Contributions

The nationwide 1950 Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society is being directed here on campus by ODK and Mortar Board through the efforts of the Student-Faculty Congress and the Senior Class representatives. It is hoped that contributions of Bucknell students will greatly aid in fulfilling the $1500 quota for the local Union County drive which is headed by Mrs. Horace Hildreth and Mrs. Neil Baker of Lewisburg. Last year Bucknell students donated about $200 to the drive. To date less than $50 has been received from Bucknell students. The drive officially ends April 30.

The election was marked by two close races. Stacy won over Ted Simpson for the office of SFC treasurer by six votes. The official count was 245 to 238. In the junior class presidential race, Joe Mason won over Ed McCoskey by a count of 132 to 122.
 The committee also reported that a few names were written into some ballots which did not appear in the student directory. Those names were votes for Joe Doe, one for John Doe and one for Guy Payne '60.

Nimkoff Predicts Future Change In Biological Functions Of Family

Far-reaching changes in the family may be expected in the near future as the result of scientific discoveries in the field of human biology, according to Dr. Meyer F. Nimkoff, professor of sociology.
 Dr. Nimkoff believes that "we may experience in the near future a transformation in the biological functions of the family comparable to the change which has occurred in the economic functions during the last 200 years."
Preference For Boys
 "Consider the progress that has been made in determining the sex of the child before conception," he feels that "if techniques could be developed so that parents could choose the sex of the child, there might be a preference for boys in some cultures, especially in nations with military traditions and aspirations."
Marriage Affected
 "An imbalance in the sex ratio could also affect the type of marriage and the relation between the sexes," he claims. "If the sex of the child were controlled by science, and a continuing preference for males were to be expressed by society, it would seem that the laws would exist for a second sexed polyandry."

Roy E. Larsen, Inaugural Speaker, Is President Of Time, Incorporated

As one of the original members of the staff of Time, Inc., Roy E. Larsen, president of Time, Inc., has been associated with the publishing of all of the magazines—TIME, LIFE, FORTUNE and ARCHITECTURAL FORUM. In addition, he was the creator of THE MARCH OF TIME radio program and also of THE MARCH OF TIME on the screen.
 He served as publisher of LIFE from its launching in 1936 until January 1946, relinquishing the post to devote full time to his duties as president, a position he has held since 1939, succeeding Henry R. Luce. He has been a director of Time, Inc. since 1938.
 Harvard Graduate
 Mr. Larsen was born in Boston, Mass., and was graduated from Harvard University in 1921. He served in World War I as a second lieutenant in the infantry. After leaving college he was associated with the New York Trust Company for a year, leaving to become circulation manager of the still-to-be published TIME. The Weekly News magazine. In November 1927 he became vice president of Time, Inc.
 In addition to his publishing activities, Mr. Larsen has been active in the educational field for many years. An overseer of Harvard University from 1940-1946, he is active in University affairs as a member of Committees to Visit the Graduate School of Business Administration, the University Library and the University Press. He is chairman of the National Citizens Commission for the Public Schools, a group of laymen outstanding in business, publishing, labor and law, whose formation was announced on May 16, 1949.
 Other Officer
 Mr. Larsen is chairman of the board of the United Hospital Fund of New York; a trustee of the New York Public Library and the Committee for Economic Development; and a vice president of the Greater New York Fund. He was recently elected president of the Harvard Alumni Association.

Large Audience Expected For Impressive Ceremony

The inauguration of Dr. Horace A. Hildreth as ninth president of Bucknell University this Saturday morning at 10:30 in Davis Gymnasium is expected to attract a large audience that will include students, local residents, alumni, and representatives of higher education, the church, government, and public education.
 Induction of President Hildreth will be preceded by an address by one of the country's leading publishers, Roy E. Larsen, president of Time, Inc. Mr. Larsen was recently cited by Tuition Plan, Inc., as "the person who made the most significant contribution to education in the past year."
 Dr. Joseph W. Henderson, chairman of the Board of Trustees, will formally install Dr. Hildreth as the University's new head and will present to him the 104-year-old charter as the highlight of the inaugural program. The new president will then make his inaugural address, marking the beginning of a new chapter in the University's brilliant history.

President Of SAM To Speak May 3 At Open Meeting

Dillard E. Bird, national president of the Society for Advancement of Management, will speak at an open meeting in Vaughn Literature Auditorium on May 3 at 8:15 p. m. as the guest of the Bucknell chapter of S. A. M.
 Mr. Bird holds a B. A. degree, Certificate in Public Administration from the University of Cincinnati, an M. B. A. degree in Industrial Management from Ohio State University and has completed three additional years of graduate work towards a Ph. D. from the University of Pennsylvania.
 He has headed his own firm of management consultants for the past four years and, during this period, served industry as an advisor on many problems in the general field of management with particular emphasis on problems directly or indirectly affecting human relations.
 The S. A. M. president has developed unique methods of training and symbolic presentations which effectively present the principles and concepts of management and human relations. Before becoming president, he served the S. A. M. as president of (See BIRD, page 5)

To the music of Wagner's "March" from "Tannhauser," the procession will enter Davis Gymnasium under the direction of Dr. Clarence G. Richardson, secretary of the faculty, who will act as chief marshal. The ceremony will get under way with the invocation by Dr. Daniel A. Poling, resident and editor of Christian Herald Magazine and a trustee of Bucknell.

After Mr. Larsen's address, the chapter choir and the orchestra will be featured in a well-known anthem, "With a Voice of Singing," by Martin Shaw. Then will come the induction of President Hildreth. Among those who will witness the ceremony with special interest, in addition to the members of the President's immediate family, will be his mother, Mrs. R. D. Simons of Gannett, Meigs, and his twin brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hildreth of Portland, Maine.

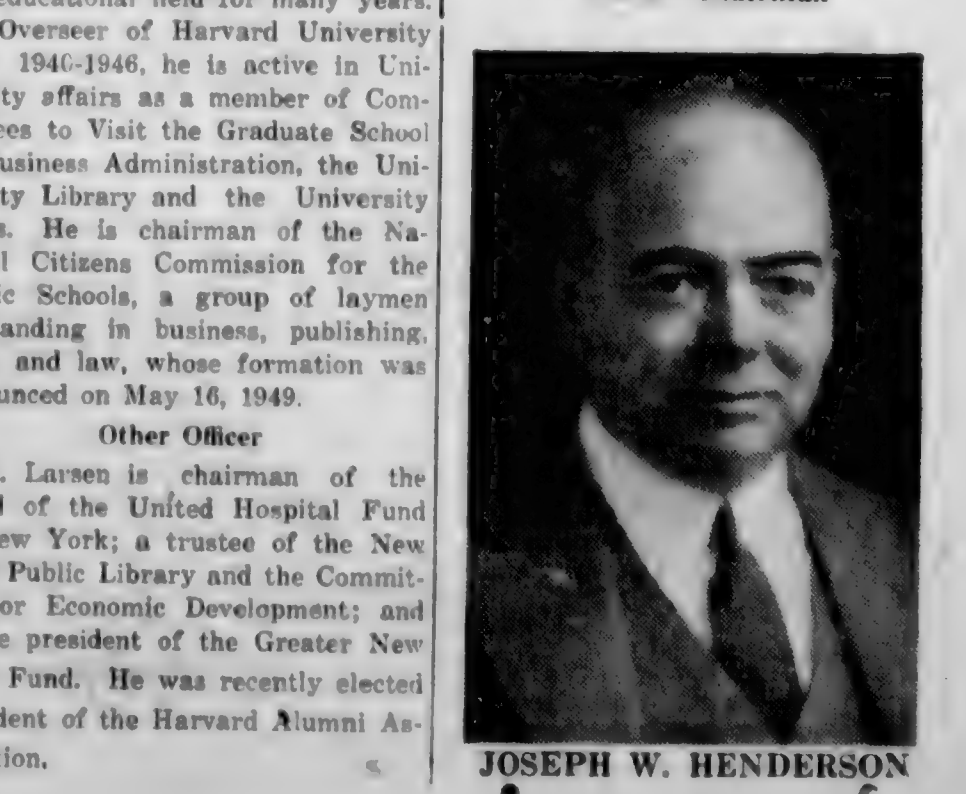

After the President's address and a prayer by Dr. Luther Wesley Smith, chairman of the Board of Education and Publication of the Northern Baptist Convention, will come the awarding of an honorary degree. Former President Herbert L. Spencer will make the citation and present the candidate to Dr. Hildreth.

For the recessional, the Orchestra has selected the appropriate "Coronation March" from "The Prophet" (See INAUGURATION, page 5)

Bucknell History Reveals 104 Years Of Progress

Eight Noted Educators Guide University

In 104 years of progress, eight presidents have guided the University. Saturday, Horace A. Hildreth formally joins the ranks of Bucknell's great by becoming the ninth.

The University was founded back in 1846 when through the efforts of a group of far-sighted men and women, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania granted a charter to the University at Lewisburg, the 100th college to be established in America.

Charter Authorized

The first person to assume leadership of the struggling young university was Dr. Stephen Taylor who was called from his post at Madison (now Colgate) University to supervise the organization. Although he never became president, Dr. Taylor drew up the Charter and was responsible for securing its authorization by the State Legislature.

The first official president was Dr. Howard Malcolm who took office in 1851. It was during his reign that the Female Institute was established, and the Institute building, which we now call Larson Hall, was completed.

At this time everyone was required to attend daily devotional exercises in chapel at 7:30 a. m. Students could look forward to four years study of Latin, Greek, and mathematics and walking three of four miles to Taylor Hall, the only building where classes could be held.

Loomis Expresses Objective

By 1857 the college under the guidance of President Justin R. Loomis expressed its main objective "to furnish an education purely liberal as distinguished from professional," but the college's peaceful growth was rudely shaken in 1863 when the rolling drums of General Lee's army were heard throughout the valleys of southern Pennsylvania.

President Loomis had on his hands for six weeks a vacant college after students and teachers enlisted in the Union Army. The company composed of 77 men was "honorably discharged" after an active campaign "just in time for commencement exercises. In 1870 the "College Herald", the school's first student publication, was started.

Dr. Graduate Becomes President

When David Jayne Hill, the first graduate to become president, was inaugurated in 1879, the school was in financial difficulties because of reduced attendance and rising operating expenses as a result of the Civil War. With the aid of William Bucknell, President Hill was able to put the school back on its feet again.

College courses were opened to women in 1883, the same year students cheered their first football game. The Female Institute became the Bucknell Institute although strict visiting hours and a high board fence still segregated the coeds from the male students. In 1886 in connection with William Bucknell the University at Lewisburg changed its name and the first edition of "The Bucknellian" was published.

Harris Guides University

Dr. John Howard Harris took office in 1889 and his 30-year tenure is the longest served by a president. Under his administration, Bucknell had one of its greatest eras of progress. Cap and Tugger and a campus newspaper named "The Bucknellian" were started and raised to an end.

the "Bucknellian", made their appearance.

Just as competitive sports were beginning to get started, indignant students, hearing in the battle of "Maine" had been destroyed, marched off to fight in the Spanish-American War. By this time several college fraternities had established themselves on campus and the era saw the construction of the first modern fraternity house.

In 1917 war again burst upon America and enrollment of 824 students dropped to 117. Because of the great emotional feeling, German was dropped from the college curriculum.

Era Of Athletic Fame

Dr. Emory W. Hunt was president from 1919 to 1921 when Bucknell's athletic teams ranked All-American and when the University held its 75th Anniversary pageant. Honorary fraternities were added to the list of scientific societies, new campus publications grew in number, and the Memorial Stadium was erected. In 1929 came the crash! A decade of expansion, the roaring twenties, had come to an end.

Under President Homer P. Rainey who, at 26, was one of the youngest university presidents in the country, extensive changes in the curriculum were made. In the athletic field another star was beginning to shine. Clark Hinkle, who would later go on to fame by ten years of stardom in professional football. It was during President Rainey's administration that a disastrous fire destroyed Old Main.

Old Main Reconstructed

In 1925 President Rainey retired from office and Armand C. Martz became Acting-President. In 1928 having become President, Dr. Martz emphasized friendliness on the campus which has made the "Bucknell" spirit a tradition as strongly enduring as the brick buildings. Perhaps the most pleasing change was the beginning of the reconstruction of Old Main. Enrollment reached new heights.

By 1941 war had again engulfed America. Fraternity houses stood empty and for the fourth time in 101 years Bucknell men went off to war. By 1945 the school had contributed not only its men and its facilities for the V-12 program, but also its president, for Dr. Martz had become a Captain in the Coast Guard and announced his resignation effective June, 1945.

Spencer Faces Academic Reconversion
The year 1945 brought peace. President Herbert L. Spencer, inaugurated in June, began facing the problems of academic reconversion. Veterans in ever-increasing numbers began flocking back to the campus to continue their education. Under Dr. Spencer's guidance the Second Century Drive was conceived and the University celebrated its 100th anniversary. Last year Dr. Spencer resigned to become executive director of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation.

The school is now on the threshold of its second century of progress. The Charter which Horace A. Hildreth will receive Saturday carries with it the aspirations of eight educators' administrations and the dreams of those far-sighted men who gave life to Bucknell 104 years ago.

Dignitaries To Represent Over 200 Schools

Thirty members of the faculty representing their alma maters and 33 college presidents will be among the delegates from 200 of the nation's leading schools, who will attend the inauguration.

Those colleges which will be represented include: Harvard, College of William and Mary, Yale, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Washington and Lee University, Columbia University, Brown University, Rutgers, Dartmouth, Dickinson, Washington and Jefferson College, Franklin and Marshall, University of Pittsburgh, University of North Carolina, University of Vermont, Bowdoin College, University of Tennessee, Ohio University, United States Military Academy, Ohio University, Andover Newton Theological School.

Also, Moravian, Miami University, Hamilton College, Lycoming, Colby, Allegheny College, Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, University of Michigan, Center College of Kentucky, Colgate, Maryville College, University of Cincinnati, University of Virginia, Indiana University, Amherst, Trinity College, Lafayette, Western Reserve, Denison University, New York University, University of Alabama, Wesleyan University, Gettysburg, Washburn College, Haverford, Mercer University, Oberlin, Stephens College, University of Delaware, Franklin College of Indiana, Tulane, Wake Forest, Wheaton College of Massachusetts.

President H. A. Hildreth Accepts Educational Challenge

Former Governor Of Maine Adds To His Notable Record Of Service

When Horace A. Hildreth is installed Saturday as Bucknell's ninth president, he will formally add another accomplishment to his notable record not only in public service, but in business, charitable, and civic organizations.

Dr. Hildreth, who assumed his duties here at the start of Freshman Week in September 1949, is probably most widely known for his career in public office where he climaxed his record of service to his native state by becoming the Governor of Maine from 1945 to 1949.

At Convocation

DR. HORACE A. HILDRETH

ABOUT THE DELEGATES

For at least two of the official delegates, attendance at the inauguration of President Hildreth will have strong sentimental associations. They are Mr. and Mrs. Laurence G. Leavitt, at whose wedding the Hildreths first met. Mrs. Leavitt and Mrs. Hildreth were classmates in college and it was while serving as bridesmaid and usher, respectively, at the marriage of the Leavitts that Bucknell's new president and his wife were first introduced.

Mrs. Leavitt will be representing her alma mater, Vassar College, on Saturday while Mr. Leavitt will be the delegate from Vermont Academy, of which he is headmaster.

The 275 official delegates whose names appear on the printed program include the presidents of 33 colleges and universities.

Dr. Hildreth's family will be represented in the procession by Jack M. Thayer, president of Student-Faculty Congress; David W. Wainwright, president of "Bucknell's Honor Council"; David K. Kuhn, editor of The Bucknellian; and by the four class presidents, Arthur Raynor, senior; Harvey H. Bush, junior; C. Edward Convey, sophomore; and Alvin Woodward, freshman.

Bucknell's faculty and administration will be well represented, with 32 of their members serving as delegates from their alma maters. (See DELEGATES, page 7)

A Family Close-Up

Hildreth Family Enjoys Variety Of Interests; Finds University Life More Peaceful Than Politics

By Jane Brown

Biscuit, a small black spaniel who isn't quite successful in looking fornicious, is the official welcome of the Hildreth household. One second after we pressed the bell he was at the door barking loudly, his little stump of a tail wagging furiously.

Mrs. Hildreth opened the door and explained that Biscuit has to maintain his position as chief protector of the family and would consider himself a very poor spaniel if he didn't bark at visitors. We have no intention of having Biscuit's reputation and look at him with proper respect as we follow Mrs. Hildreth into the spacious living room.

Old Friends Arriving

We spent some time discussing the weather which is a critical issue at the moment. Mrs. Hildreth hoped that everything will be "green and sunny" for the inauguration on Saturday. Many old friends will be arriving here this weekend. Among them will be the couple who feel responsible for bringing the Hildreths together.

"Mr. Hildreth and I met at a wedding," she told us. "My room mate at Vassar was marrying a friend that my husband knew in camp. It was very romantic. I was a bridesmaid and he was an usher." The president, who was in high school at the time, almost didn't go to the wedding because of exams. At the last minute he decided that the wedding was more important than studying and came anyway. Mrs. Hildreth laughed and added that she is certainly glad he did.

Children's Names

At this point we mumbled something rather apologetically about getting Mrs. Hildreth up so early in the morning. She informed us that the Hildreth family have breakfast in their pajamas at quarter after seven. Dadsy and Ann march with the Lewisburg High School band every morning. We inquired about the spelling of "Dadsy." Mrs. Hildreth told us and explained that Dadsy is really Katherine but when the children were younger that was too hard for them to say. Our hostess laughed again and said she realized that the nickname did sound funny. Dadsy, who on formal occasions is called Josephine, is a sophomore at Vassar but plans to spend her junior year here.

Holly spent the summer above the Arctic circle as a member of the expedition sponsored by Bowdoin College to bring back specimens for their Arctic museum. We asked Mrs. Hildreth if she was ever worried about him. "Only when they were out of radio contact for a while due to some sun spots or something," she answered, looking slightly confused as any woman will at the mention of technical devices.

Seaman, Wertz, And Franke Homer As Raynor Pitches Win Over Penn State, 5-4

by Belber Robinson
Art Raynor and the Bucknell nine finally did it! Yes, the Bisons knocked off the high-flying Penn State veteran baseball team, 5-4, at Matheson Field last Saturday afternoon before a huge crowd of about 1,000 fans. Bill Lane's hitting Bison crew now has won three straight and it looks like no stopping this fine Herd aggregation.

Raynor Triumphs

For the first time in eight games the Orange and Blue came out on top of the Nittany Lions. The last time the Herd won was in 1945 by a 7-4 score. Also Art Raynor had not beaten Penn State in his previous three starts. So last Saturday was quite a day with Raynor getting his first victory out of four attempts from State and Bill Lane getting his initial triumph over the Bedenken in eight games.

Raynor got his second win of the young season and he has started and finished both of his last games. Art also struck out seven to bring his strikeout total to 19 in two contests.

Highlights of the game were home runs by Cal Seaman and Bill Franke for Bucknell and Dick Wertz for the Nittany Lions. It was the second home run for both Seaman and Franke. Andy Shirk also blasted a triple for the Herd. Seaman was the only Bison stickman to get more than one hit as he collected two. Marty McKibben's defensive work about first base was tremendous. On numerous occasions Marty made beautiful saves of wild throws besides running back and close to the stands to haul in a few fly balls. Bill Franke treated the fans to a great over-the-shoulder catch of a well hit fly-ball.

Conklin Singles

The Orange and Blue collected a run in the first inning when Andy Shirk walked and went to second when Jackie Webber was safe on a fielder's choice. Cal Seaman hit into a double play, third to first, but Chuck Conklin, singled to right center to score Webber from second.

In the second inning the Lammen increased their margin to 2-0 when Marty McKibben walked and was forced at second by Nick Danforth, but Jim DiGiuseppe got hit with a pitched ball to put runners on first and second. After Art Raynor flied to left, Shirk drove a triple down the left field line to score Danforth and DiGiuseppe. The Herd picked up another tally in the third inning to make the score 4-0 when Cal Seaman smacked a terrific home run drive over the left field barrier with the ball bouncing off the roof of a parked car. This hit drove starter and losing pitcher Dalton Rumberger from the hill. He was replaced by State ace Al Tack.

Wertz Homer

The Blue and White got this run back quickly in the fourth as Dick Wertz belted a longer homer over the left-center field wall to make the score read 4-1. The Penn State got another marker in the fifth when Harry Little tripled to left-center and counted on Albright's single.

Bucknell punted ahead 5-2 in the sixth when Bill Franke blasted a home run over the center field fence. But State roared back with single tallies in the seventh and eighth innings. Tack singled in the seventh, was sacrificed to second by Albright and then scored on Tack's single to right. In the eighth the score became 5-4 when Hopper slashed out a three-base hit and sped over the plate as Kurty was bouncing out. In the ninth Raynor set the Nittany Lions down in order.

Rumberger was the losing pitcher giving up four runs and three hits. He walked two and struck out none. Tack gave up one run and three hits.

Meyers Cops Another Sprint!

Brad Meyers, left front, PGD dash expert, crosses the finish of the 220 in first place last Tuesday in the IM track meet. Less than an hour before, he won the century dash in 10:2 sec. Over on the right is Jim LePard, who sprinted up lane one into second place.

Delta Sigma Captures Mural Track, Nosing Out Phi Gams By One Point; SAE, Phi Psi And Lambda Chi Trail

by Bob Wark

In a tight battle that was undecided until the completion of the final event, Delta Sigma emerged victorious Tuesday as the 1000 in mural track. The outcome was in the balance until the pole vault was finished. Al Farina tied for second shortly after winning the broad jump to give the Demies a slim one point margin over second place Phi Gamma Delta.

first five teams finished within a four point range. Delta Sigma polled 18 followed by the Phi's 17. SAE and Phi Psi tied for third with 16 and Kappa Sigma tallied 15 to place fifth.

Lambda Chi and Sigma Chi tied for sixth with 11 points each. Phi Lambda Theta, 10; SAM, 5; Theta Chi, 2; and the Independent, 1, finished in that order.

The meet was unusual in that it was a contest of individual stars rather than teams. In most cases, one or two men accounted for the majority of a team's points.

Four double winners stood out for their individual performances. A great deal of credit for the Demies victory goes to Farina who won the broad jump and low hurdles, tie for second in the pole vault, and took third in the 100 yard dash.

Wait, LCA, and Pearce, TX followed. Tuesday afternoon, Jack Maebly, SAE, opened the proceedings by winning the high hurdles in 21 seconds. Wait, LCA, and Pearce, TX followed. Tuesday afternoon, Jack Maebly, SAE, opened the proceedings by winning the high hurdles in 21 seconds.

Raynor Slated To Face Delaware's Stellar Hurler In Saturday's Go

by Harry Staley

Prospects are bright for a real pitchers battle this Saturday when Bucknell Bisons play host to the Fightin' Blue Hens of Delaware on Memorial Field at 2:30. Art Raynor, mainstay of the Bison mound staff, will go to the hill in search of win number three and will probably be opposed by Delaware captain Joe Penneck.

Bill Lane

Penneck, who won five and lost none last season, is the son of the late New York Yankee pitching star Herb Penneck and is counted upon to make the Hens a tough team to beat.

He has excellent control and a big breaking curve ball is his best pitch. Last year the Hens allowed only five runs and 30 hits in 47 innings of work. He walked only six men and struck out 39.

Raynor, on the other hand, has served notice that he is out to make this his best season, thus far. In the two contests he has pitched the Herd captain has allowed four runs on 12 hits while whiffing nineteen. He has walked only four.

At the plate, outfielder Joe Heim who compiled a .327 mark last year is returning and is expected to provide most of the Hens' batting punch. He will be assisted by second baseman Joe Higgins who hit .316 last season.

Joe Frederick, at first base and Tom Silk at third are also returning lettermen who should help Hen Coach Shuck Martin make things tough for the Bisons.

Coach Bill Lane is expected to field the same nine which dumped Penn State last week. Outfielder Cal Seaman, Bill Franke and Charlie Conklin continue to supply power at the plate. McKibben at first, Shirk at third and Webber at short and Danforth at third will round out the infield with DiGiuseppe back of the plate.

STILL HUNTING

Penn State is still looking for a football coach to replace Joe Bedenke who gave up the post last season. John Muehleisen, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers professional footballers, was approached but turned down an offer to lead the Nittany Lions.

Edward Axelrod, Jack Bailey, Gerald Brown, Wilfred Casciato, Robert Deek, John Gaidula, Ernest Hendricks, Martin Kwanon, Walter McConnell, James Moore, David Musler, Ronald Unger and James Wu.

Bob Donohoe's 150 foot 11 inch toss gave PGD first in the javelin. Rott, SAE and Boone, KS, followed.

Bill Stabo of Kappa Sigma won the shot put with a 41 foot 11 inch toss to nose out second place Deloca, PKP, and third place Tchop, SX.

Four finals were held last Friday: the high jump, javelin, shotput, and mile run. Gallagher's best high jump was five feet seven inches. Schaumburg and Pierce of Sigma Chi were second and third.

Regarding the F & M scrimmage, coach Harry Lawrence declared: "We stuck to the ground and they hit the air. They fumbled about fifteen times and we recovered the ball about ten times."

When asked about spring football practice on the whole, Lawrence stated: "It was a good spring practice. We developed a lot of good boys and the practice was well worth it."

In spite of what is considered bad weather, even for Bucknell, a large crowd of fraternity track fans turned out Tuesday to see the annual mural track meet. They saw what turned out to be a very close race with the issue undecided right down to the last event.

One of the peculiar things about the entire meet is that it developed into a battle of one man from each house. Rather than featuring teams, as expected, the meet turned into what might be considered a one man race.

Al Farina virtually carried the Demies to the title single handedly as he notched a first in the broad jump and 220 low hurdles in addition to a second in pole vault and a third in the 100 yard dash. Delta Sigma had a total of 18 points, 13 of them earned by Farina.

Brad Meyers turned in a similar feat for the second place entry, Phi Gamma Delta. The frosh football star won the 100 yard dash and 220 competition as well as placing third in the broad jump for a total of 11 of the 17 points earned by the Phi Gams.

Jack Maebly captured the honors in the 120 high hurdles and placed second in the pole vault to pace the SAE's while Stabo led the Kappa Sig's, Gallagher the Phi Psi's and LePard the Lambda Chi's.

"RIP" ENGLE TAKES OVER AT STATE
Penn State finally corralled a football coach last week when the Nittany Lion Athletic Department revealed that "Rip" Engle, formerly coach of the Brown University eleven, had decided to make the Penn State campus his headquarters for a while.

Engle immediately announced that he was scrapping the almost "secret" single wing, which State had employed since Bob Higgins took over the reins some 20 odd years ago, in favor of the Winged T. All of this brings to mind a statement made by Glen Aspinwall in the sports publicity office the other day. The papers announced that Engle had taken over the reins at State and declared that the Lions had plenty of material for the coming grid season. All of which prompted Aspinwall, who recently faced an unimpressive Penn State eleven in Spring practice to remark, "Yes, but they certainly keep it well hidden."

The papers announced that Engle had taken over the reins at State and declared that the Lions had plenty of material for the coming grid season. All of which prompted Aspinwall, who recently faced an unimpressive Penn State eleven in Spring practice to remark, "Yes, but they certainly keep it well hidden."

Engle's first move was to scrap the single wing, which State had employed since Bob Higgins took over the reins some 20 odd years ago, in favor of the Winged T. All of this brings to mind a statement made by Glen Aspinwall in the sports publicity office the other day. Charlie Concklin singles to right center in the first inning of last Saturday's game against Penn State. Webber scored from second on the on to down the Nittany Lions 5-4. Losing the catching for State is Joe Kurty.

Frosh Track Team To Meet Williamsport High Tuesday; May Enter Middle Atlantic

by Belber Robinson

For the first time in Bucknell's history the Bisons will present a froshman track team this season with Billy Blum at the helm. The frosh will open up at Williamsport High School on the afternoon of May 2. There is a possibility that a few more meets with a few surrounding college frosh teams will be scheduled. The freshmen also may enter a relay medley in the Middle Atlantic.

Here are most of the freshmen who will compete against Williamsport on Tuesday afternoon: 100 yard dash and 220 yard dash—Burt Taimm; Brad Myers, Bob Donohoe, Bob Johnson, and Bill Caldwell. 400 yard dash—Bob Johnson and Jim Thorpe. 800 yard dash—Don Cole and Art Kearney. Mile and two mile runs—Kearney, McNeil and Frank Meredith. Low hurdles—George Appleton, Bill Caldwell, and Dave Dreier. High hurdles is Art Kearney.

Shotput—Stan Butterworth, Harry McSherry, Hugh Brown, and Ed Beckman. Javelin—Bob Donohoe and Ed Beckman. Discus — Bob Donohoe, Gregg Bowen, and Ed Beckman. High jump — "Slim" McKee and Gregg Bowen. Broad jump — Bob Donohoe, Ray Frideaux and Bob Johnson. Pole vault—Gregg Bowen and Ford Oswald.

On Sunday a public concert by the Men's Glee Club was presented in St. Paul's Evangelical United Brethren Church of Lewisburg.

The program was extremely varied and opened with three sacred pieces, "Come, Come Sweet Death" by Bach, "Ave Maria" by Arredet and "The Lord What A Morning" by Cesar Franck. William Grover of Lewisburg was then heard in two solo songs, "Prayer" and "I Will Not Grow Old."

Quartet numbers were "Now The Day Is Over," "The Holy City" and "Dark The Veil of Hymn is Stained."

Among the favorites sung by the Glee Club were "Brothers Sing On" by Greg, "Pilgrim's Chorus" by Wagner and three Negro spirituals, "Oh Lord What A Morning," "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "I Got A Key to the Kingdom." The program ended with "Aloft! Avo!" from the Russian, "The Lord What A Morning," "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "I Got A Key to the Kingdom."

The club will be heard again on Monday's Lay Weekend at Bucknell when they will sing concert on Friday and Saturday night.

Best Wishes, Dr. Hildreth

On Saturday, Dr. Horace Augustus Hildreth will be formally installed as the ninth president of Bucknell University. Simplicity is a virtue, they say, and so in the simplest—and sincerest—words we know, we as "The Student Voice of Bucknell," would like to extend our best wishes to President Hildreth for a long, successful, and happy administration.

Fences Please

April 21, 1950

To the Editor:

Life is a great and wonderful experience. But until one has known the thrill of hearing his own child tumble through "now lay me down to sleep," or see the sparkle in his eyes when he says "I CWAZY 'bout you!" or feel the cold dread of seeing her dancing steps slow to a pitiful limp, until one has seen himself live in his child, he has not known Life. Our children are our life.

We in Bucknell Village feel these lives are being treated carelessly. Ever since there has been a village, the parents have tried to get a fence put around it. Finally last summer, after three children had stopped traffic on Route 16 and a fourth (16 months old) had crossed without stopping traffic—we got our fence. Not the attractive white fence from the end of the village to the other, but a wire one across the middle third of the open area. In the center is a gate which a one-year-old opens with ease. And that closed the matter, at least to the satisfaction of those in charge. We had our fence, unattractive and wholly inadequate as it was. A few weeks later our dream-fence, a handsome white wooden one, appeared across the highway completely encircling faculty court. All right, the individual faculty members probably had no more to do with the kind of fence they got than the individual students had to do with theirs. But for a year we've been pondering why it happened that way. A child is a child whether his dad is a Ph. D. or a freshman.

Today a mother checked her two-year-old playing 100 feet from the door, then returned to her housework. Five minutes later, a horn blowing and a crash brought her to the door. As she came breathlessly in view of the highway, the bright blue cap and little red overalls substantiated her fears. The big diesel truck couldn't stop.

An adequate, attractive fence around the village cost too much; but how much would officials be glad to pay to retrieve our little lost life? Though they have been very careful driving through the village, the fellows in the TD don't want to be bothered with opening and closing a gate. But I am sure not one of them would have refused if he had realized it meant saving a child's life.

Fortunately, the paragraph second above is not the truth. But it might have been. What actually happened was that the mother, not seeing her son on the next periodic five minute check, finally tracked him down over on the soccer field where he was interrupting

Seniors interested in opportunities with the companies listed below should sign up for interviews at the Placement Office, 109 E. W., at their earliest convenience.

MAY 3—S. S. KRESGE COMPANY—will interview liberal arts and business administration students for the company's management training program. Group meeting May 2, 7:30 p. m., Engineering 122.

MAY 5—SCOTT PAPER COMPANY, Chester—will interview men interested in the firm's retail sales organization. Qualifications—leadership ability, must furnish own car. Group meeting May 4, 7:30 p. m., Engineering 122.

MAY 12—MINNESOTA MINING & MANUFACTURING CO.—will interview men interested in a sales career. Qualifications (in non-technical division)—between 21-24, free to travel extensively the first year; (technical division)—well-qualified men under 30 interested in industrial sales.

MAY 18—HAGAN CORPORATION, Pittsburgh (combustion and chemical engineers)—will interview mechanical and chemical engineers who are interested in field service work outside of Pittsburgh, and chemistry seniors who are interested in laboratory work in the inorganic field.

golfing practice. He was giggling as he ran, calling in his good Dutch brogue, "die vey, die vey" to his young pal and unaware that he had literally raced through the jaws of death.

Why don't the mothers watch their children? They do. There are about 30 village children of playing-out age. Their mothers have a choice of neglecting the housework to watch the child, or trying to do both.

The difference between two fences seems like a petty thing; but with all the talk about equality, the dignity of the individual, and the value of human life, it makes us wonder. Winifred Peterson

Capt. Paul Buskey, Middlebury, '38
Air Intelligence, U.S. Air Force

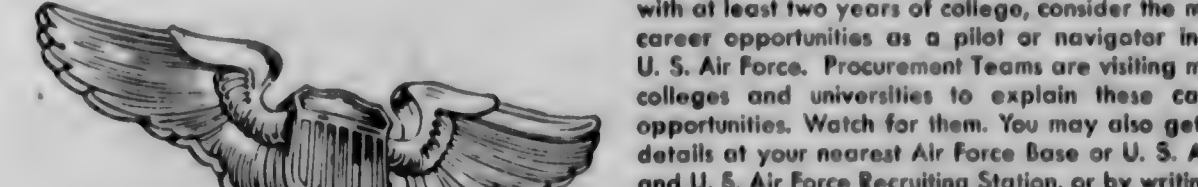

An excellent student at Middlebury College, Vermont, Paul found time to win the coveted All Sports Trophy in his senior year. He graduated in June, 1938.

He then joined a coded paper mill firm as research and control man. Pearl Harbor changed all that—Paul went to Maxwell Field to begin Aviation Cadet training.

Back home, after accepting a Regular Air Force Commission, Captain Buskey went to Air Force Base, where he was assigned to Command and Staff school.

Today, Captain Buskey is an Air Intelligence Officer on MATS Headquarters Staff at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, D. C. He looks forward to a rewarding future in the U. S. Air Force.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26 1/2, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or navigator in the U. S. Air Force. Procurement Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Air Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

Woman Of The Week

Gail Kaplan

East College Version

Gail Kaplan, Brooklyn Brunette, Likes Music, Entertaining, Studies

by Paul R. Beck

Gail Kaplan of Brooklyn takes the honors this week as "Woman of the Week." The winning photograph was submitted by Harold "Hal" Joffe, Bucknell freshman, who knows Gail "Slightly."

Gail is just 16 years old, 5' 4" tall, and weighs 118; has brown eyes and brown hair. We understand that she is an "A" student at Erasmus High School in Brooklyn. After high school she plans to attend Brooklyn College.

Her love of music is expressed in her piano playing. Gail is very talented at this and always "draws a crowd" when she plays at parties. It was on such an occasion that Hal first met her. She likes to entertain friends at her home. You always find a crowd at the Kaplans' at odd hours.

When Gail was just 14 years old, she was offered a job modeling for tooth paste ads because of her perfect teeth. Then the agency found out she was just a kid and turned her down. She also holds the semi-official title of mascot of Brooklyn's famous "Stars' Club, social athletic group.

This week's judges were: Bill Balmy, Terry Hill, and Chet Derek. Don't forget to watch for next week's winner, Miss Sigma Alpha Mu.

1950 Job Outlook Varies
From Business To Business

With about 500,000 college students graduating this year—the largest number in our country's history—the job outlook for the new college graduates is generally good. It is not, however, as good as in 1947 and 1948.

The outlook is clouded by three factors: the large number of graduates who will be seeking jobs; a moderate increase in the total number of unemployed persons; and the filling of war-created shortages of college graduates in some specialized fields by the large graduating classes of 1948 and 1949.

Basically, the economy of the country is strong and there is a general consensus that production and employment will remain high during 1950. However, the big problem facing the economy is that of constantly providing more goods and services and utilizing fully a labor force that is growing at the rate of 600,000 to 700,000 workers a year. Even if employment continues during 1950 at about the same level as last year, as it is expected to do, unemployment will increase and jobs will be harder to find.

Basic Fact
Graduates seeking information on expanding industries or sections of the country need to remember this basic fact: most of the jobs taken by this year's college graduates will be as usual, those which have been vacated by other workers. Deaths and retirements at the top of the occupational ladder create the largest number of openings at the bottom. It follows that most of the openings will occur in the large industries and the areas where there are now the heaviest concentrations of employment.

To emphasize that most job opportunities occur as a result of turnover is not to belittle the number that arise through expansion. Growing markets, technological improvements, and the development of new industries and additional services all create job openings for inexperienced workers with the proper training.

Best In West
Employment in certain parts of the country is growing more rapidly than in others in the long-run. This is true on the West Coast, the South Atlantic region and Texas. However, the supply of workers in some of these areas—the West Coast for example—has increased more rapidly.

In teaching, for example, there is at once an acute shortage of personnel in the elementary schools and a growing oversupply at the high school level. For the current school year, only one elementary teacher was (See JOB OUTLOOK, page 8)

General observations about conditions in the job market tend to hide widely varying situations. Prospects are excellent in some occupations, industries, and areas. In others, where wartime and postwar shortages have now been filled, graduates will find it difficult to get jobs.

The PAT

by Don Hiest

That time of year is approaching when the amount of sleep gotten will be inversely proportional to the number of term papers on the agenda. Now, in the English courses, certainly, the initial problem in this line is the choice of a subject, one of no small consequence. But this year, there seems to be a little difficulty in this direction: if the soundings prove true, the term paper topics will largely be variations on a locally universal theme which promises, through sheer strength of prevalence, to drive more than a few English teachers to distraction and possibly suicide.

It seems that in every room in every dormitory—to the smallest cell in East College—at least one resident is laboring over a term paper on T. S. Eliot's "The Waste Land," "The Symbolism of T. S. Eliot," "Eliot's Plagiarism, of Al Capp," "The Waste in The Wasteland," "Eliot and his Satire," "Eliot and his Cathedral"—for the English teacher, Eliot and Alka Seltzer.

Now, James Thurber, perhaps, feels a bit of professional agitation with this erratic (or erratic) turning of the sheep to a new fold. While at a cocktail party in New York, where the Eliot-contagion has attained the dimensions of a pestilence, he was requested to give his opinion of The Cocktail Party.

To the young inquirer, who stood with mouth ajar in expectation of an accolade for the admitted Eliot, Thurber replied facetiously that he couldn't find the significance of the title of The Cocktail Party. Of course, his pseudo-naivete on this score brought forth a flood of reproach, so he turned to his pursuer, asking for an explanation of the innocent's innocence in The Innocents.

Engineer Wins First Prize In Paper Contest

William E. Corgill, senior civil engineering student, took first place in a technical paper contest sponsored by the Lehigh Valley and Philadelphia Sections of the American Society of Civil Engineers at the University of Delaware Monday.

Corgill's paper, "Methods of Water Distribution System Analysis," won over competition from students of Drexel, Penn State, Princeton, Penn and Villanova. The awards for first place were a ten dollar cash prize and a year's free dues and free initiation into the ASCE as a professional member. Corgill also will have the honor of being the student speaker before the spring meeting of the ASCE Philadelphia and Lehigh Valley sections.

Three Methods
The paper presented three methods of determining water distribution in a typical town. They were: (1) Graphical Analysis, (2) Electrical Analysis and (3) Water Pipe Analysis. All the methods are based on the Hardy Cross formula.

The latter method, using glass tubes, syphons and interconnections, is believed to have never been used before. Direct mathematical solution of water distribution is difficult because of the great number of unknowns.

Largest Meeting
The Delaware conference was the largest ever held in this section. Ten colleges were represented and 346 persons attended, 21 of them being from here.

Second and third place in the paper contest were taken by students of Princeton and Penn, respectively.

Publicity Director Speaks To Milton Lions

Miss Trennie Easley, director of public relations, spoke on the subject, "Bucknell—Then And Now," at a meeting of the Milton Lions Club last Tuesday noon in the Elks Club of Milton.

Miss Easley gave a resume comparison of Bucknell's first inauguration with the inauguration of President Horace A. Hildreth to be held this Saturday morning.

Bucknell's publicity director also spoke at a noon banquet at the Williamsport High School on "A Disappearing Act" Tuesday, April 19, at the Lycoming Hotel in Williamsport.

Chi Chi Food Sale Themed Success

Approximately $18 was raised at the Chi Chi sorority Food Sale held last Saturday afternoon in Larison Living Room for the purpose of sending food packages to a needy family in Greece. President Nancy Armstrong announced this week.

All the candy, cakes and cookies sold at the food sale were home-made contributions from the Chi Chi members. Chi Chi is the computers sorority on the Bucknell campus.

MU PHI EPSILON GIVES TEA, CONCERT, AS SPRING ACTIVITIES

On Saturday, April 15, Mu Phi Epsilon, the national professional women's music fraternity, gave a tea at the music annex to become better acquainted with their alumnae and patronesses. Natalie Isaac had charge of refreshments and Janet Wallin played background music on the piano throughout the afternoon. The annual spring music program for the public was held at the Hotel Fallon. Henry Bell, general superintendent of the Johnstown Mills, was the featured speaker.

Over 15 students and faculty members attended.

Pharmacy Demand Equals Supply

In pharmacy the supply of new graduates has almost caught up with the demand; the profession may be overcrowded in the long-run if enrollment in pharmacy colleges continues at present high levels.

Good opportunities are expected for other occupations where, he developed impressions of the educational.

Future is Mixed
The picture facing this year's graduates as a whole are continuing good. In spite of this high level of business activity, the growing labor force and growing productivity may well result in high levels of unemployment. The picture for job opportunities is equally mixed. Some occupations are oversupplied with graduates, and the competition will be intense for the available jobs.

Alternatives Open
Other fields have a demand for jobs which far outweigh the available supply of trained people to fill those jobs. Those whose training lies in the crowded fields have several alternatives open to them.

First of all, they would be well advised to explore the possibilities of entering any fields closely allied to their field of primary interest, where there may be more openings. They should also explore the possibility of graduate training to equip themselves with more specialized skills.

Later articles in this series will give more information on the outlook in a number of these fields. Those on law, teaching, engineering, and dietitian work are available at The Bucknellian office, with articles concerning nursing, business administration, chemistry and journalism expected soon.

Liberal arts graduates with work experience or specialized training will find it easier to get jobs than those with only a general undergraduate education.

Prospects for new entrants are good in health service occupations. There is a current shortage of nurses, and demand for nursing service will probably continue to rise. In medicine and dentistry those able to enter and complete training will have good opportunities; however, competition is very keen for admission to professional schools.

ASME MEMBERS HOLD INSPECTION TRIP

Student chapter members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers participated in an inspection trip, sponsored by the Central Pennsylvania Section of ASME, through the New York and Pennsylvania Company's paper mill at Lock Haven last Friday.

Following the inspection trip, a buffet supper was held at the Hotel Fallon. Henry Bell, general superintendent of the Johnstown Mills, was the featured speaker.

Over 15 students and faculty members attended.

Pharmacy Demand Equals Supply

In pharmacy the supply of new graduates has almost caught up with the demand; the profession may be overcrowded in the long-run if enrollment in pharmacy colleges continues at present high levels.

Good opportunities are expected for other occupations where, he developed impressions of the educational.

Future is Mixed
The picture facing this year's graduates as a whole are continuing good. In spite of this high level of business activity, the growing labor force and growing productivity may well result in high levels of unemployment. The picture for job opportunities is equally mixed. Some occupations are oversupplied with graduates, and the competition will be intense for the available jobs.

Alternatives Open
Other fields have a demand for jobs which far outweigh the available supply of trained people to fill those jobs. Those whose training lies in the crowded fields have several alternatives open to them.

First of all, they would be well advised to explore the possibilities of entering any fields closely allied to their field of primary interest, where there may be more openings. They should also explore the possibility of graduate training to equip themselves with more specialized skills.

Attention Summer Travelers

The Christian Association would like to have the names of all students who are planning to go abroad this summer. A program tea is being planned for Thursday, May 18, at 4:00 p.m. in Hunt Hall Living Room for all students and faculty who are planning to travel abroad, whether in groups or individually.

In addition, both persons who have already traveled abroad and students from abroad are invited to attend.

Happy Houseparty!

Lyn Ruth, WSGA President, Installed At Moving-Up Day

Marilyn Ruth, former junior representative on Senate, became the new president of the Women's Student Government Association at the traditional Moving-Up Day ceremony last night at the Baptist Church. Lyn received the robe and gavel of her new office from Eleanor Leiper, outgoing president, after taking the oath of office.

Ellie welcomed President and Mrs. Hildreth as honored guests, and gave a message of thanks to various members of the student government, hostesses, Dean Stevenson and Miss Funkhouser. Keys and certificates were presented to the outgoing Senate members, and gifts to Dean Stevenson and Miss Funkhouser.

Introduced Senate
After her installation the new president introduced the incoming members of Senate who received their robes from the retiring members and took their places on the platform after taking the oath of office.

Following the announcement of the new members of Senate, Honor House, Freshman Counselors, the new W. A. A. officers, and scholarship awards, the various classes moved up to take the places of the class ahead of them and become members of the class in which they will be next year.

Outgoing Alumni
As the seniors moved up to the balcony Miss Funkhouser, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Bateman, and Miss Darina Tully, who are leaving Bucknell this semester, joined the seniors as outgoing alumnae. After the throwing of the roses to the junior class and the singing of Senior songs each class took its place of the class ahead

Editorial

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1950.

"...Without Representation Is Tyranny"

What are we going to propose will draw either (a) astonished yells, or (b) tolerant smiles from trustees and faculty. Then they'll oppose this proposition, not because they honestly think it's a bad idea, but because they fear that it will undermine some of their power or expose some of their petty squabbles.

We suggest a student representative at meetings of the faculty and of the board of trustees.

Someone is sure to say that students are not members of either body and for that reason should be barred. But we ask that someone to consider just who the University is for. Obviously, the students are the ultimate reason for the existence of trustees, administration, faculty—of everything that makes up a school.

What are the advantages of student representation? First, the students would be given a chance to express their views on the policies which govern them. This is only fair.

Second, Bucknellians seem to have a deep-seated attitude that administration and the faculty do not give a damn about them. This is responsible, we feel, for much of the poor school spirit. Representation would go far to dispel it.

Sure, this is a break with tradition. But is that sufficient reason for rejecting it? Are we going to let the world go by while an ultra-conservative faculty and board of trustees play ostrich? Or can we be liberal for a change and at least test a policy that can have beneficial results for all?

Think: the students of today are the alumni of tomorrow. Forget them now, and they'll forget you later.

Apology To A President

Disgraceful is the only word that can describe student attendance at the inauguration Saturday. It is a sad commentary on the student body that there were actually more delegates at the ceremony than Bucknellians.

The situation appears even sadder when one considers the many things Woody Woodward has done for the student body in the eight months he has been here. There have been the faculty rating sheets, the special "gripe" chapel, the infirmary problem, and a sincere interest in a revision of the SFC.

It must have been rather humiliating to President Hildreth to sit up on the platform and to look out over rows of empty seats. Every absent student figuratively slapped him in the face.

A chief gripe among the students in the anti-student attitude of the administration. After a demonstration such as this, can the students honestly blame them?

We feel that we must apologize to President Hildreth for our poor showing. Our reasons for not coming are too trivial to warrant discussion. We can hope that you will realize that our disrespect was unintentional.

And we can promise to do better—much better—the next time.

Swan Song

It's been fascinating; it's been memorable; it's been great. But now the stack of back copies becomes a reference file and becomes a book of memories. The printers' shout of "press proof" changes from a weekly reality to an echoing remembrance. And another name tops the masthead.

But it was great while it lasted. The pleasure of working with staff and printers, the pride of knowing that an editorial has stirred some comment or started something moving, the contacts that are made—all these make the editorship of a college newspaper the most rewarding experience of a young life.

With this issue, that experience for the present editor comes to an end. I've tried to make the paper truly the student voice of Bucknell and to show that the newspaper can really be used for the students' welfare. The only thing that I'm bitter about is student apathy, which prevents the students from obtaining many of the things they want and could have.

But my work is finished now. I thank my loyal and hard-working staff and the kindhearted printers. I wish the new staff the best of luck. With that and their proved ability, they'll go far.

I guess that about winds things up. The slugs go in the hellos, but the memories stay with me.

Take 'er away, Will. She's all yours.

Cheap Trick

April 29, 1950
To the Editor: For at least a week before the inauguration of President Hildreth this past Saturday the student body had been asked, asked, and all but "requested" to be in attendance at this affair. As I thought that it would be an impressive as well as colorful and long remembered affair, I did get up on Saturday and go down to the gym. When I walked in the door I was ushered to the balcony, but this did not bother me for I had known of this beforehand and even thought that the balcony would give you a better view of the entire affair. However, that really made me angry was the fact that I was given a special, reduced in size program. Why after all the work and expense that Bucknell had gone to in preparation for "Hell week's all over, Hank. Come on—get dressed for Houseparty."

THE MCCARTHY CASE CONTINUES

It has been over eleven weeks now since Senator Joseph McCarthy, Republican from Wisconsin made his first attacks upon the State Department "communists." Last week new names and new charges kept opening new fields of inquiry. There is certainly no indication as to just what may happen in the future or where this investigation will eventually lead. Now and then the inquiry has seemed to stall and interest in it flagged, but on such cases the freshman Senator has stirred the pot with new charges.

The most recent recipient of the tag of being a communist has been Owen Lattimore, an advisor in the Far East, and noted educator. In order to fortify his attacks against Mr. Lattimore, Senator McCarthy subpoenaed Louis Budenz, former Communist party member to testify against the former business man, and Chinese expert. After considerable charges and counter-charges, Mr. Budenz's central accusation was this: "Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a Communist was one of the sources of infiltration in the International Institute of Pacific Relations. With him was associated Philip Jaffe. Mr. Jaffe and Mr. Field to my knowledge are solely espionage agents."

Mr. Lattimore was an editor on the staff of the FPR. Therefore, Mr. Budenz, who had never met Mr. Lattimore, came to the conclusion that by law of association the latter was a communist. He further supplemented his facts with so-called reports received in the Politburo and given to him officially as managing editor of the Daily Worker.

Immediately several important men came to Mr. Lattimore's defense. Of primary importance were two former Communists, Earl Browder and Mr. Field who was included in Budenz's accusation. Moreover, three former Secretaries of State added their testimony on behalf of Mr. Lattimore. These were, Cordell Hull, James Byrnes, and George Marshall, denied vigorously that Mr. Lattimore ever had anything to do with the making of policy. They added that to their knowledge the defendant had always been a 100% loyal American and had been of invaluable service to our Foreign experts.

Just what new charges will be brought out in the next weeks is debatable. There is no doubt, however, that the McCarthy charges shall serve as political football in the coming elections. If Mr. McCarthy can make any of his charges stick, then the Republicans will have a very strong campaign issue in '50 and '52. On the other hand failure will give the Democrats the advantage in this game of political maneuvering and side-stepping.

A NEW BELGIAN ELECTION COMING UP

On Saturday, April 29th, Prince Regent Charles ordered a new Belgian election after the collapse of a final effort to conserve of a new coalition Government of Social Christians (Catholics) and Liberals for the recall of King Leopold III. The vote, set for June 4th, will be the third time within a year that the Belgians have gone to the polls on the question of the exiled monarch's future.

The immediate cause of the Regent's dissolution of Parliament was the failure of Premier-designate Paul van Zeeland to persuade the Liberals to join a Government under Jean Duvieusart, Catholic Minister of Economic Affairs. M. Duvieusart had been put forward as a compromise leader because of the Liberals' objection to Dr. van Zeeland. However, because of his religious favoritism over the school issue, it was said Duvieusart might smash his campaign against state schools too far if he were Premier.

Thus, the people of Belgium will once again go to the polls to try and determine whether or not King Leopold will be recalled. The best guess at this moment is that the new election will be as indecisive as the voting in June, 1949, and in the royal referendum last month.

HOOVER PROPOSES A "WEST" UNITED NATIONS

In an address before the American Newspaper Publishers Association last Thursday night former President Herbert Hoover proposed that the United Nations be reorganized without any member of the Communist nations included in it. "Thus, he put before the world forum that part of the cold war which the United States believes consists of Russia's efforts to paralyze the U. N. in pursuing its political purposes."

No sooner had the much-honored former chief executive had pronounced his opinion than bitter criticism followed from some of the world's leading figures. Trygve Lie, the United Nations Secretary General said from London the following day there "would no longer be one world organization" if Mr. Hoover's suggestion were carried out.

According to the United Press, Mr. Lie added that the exclusion of Eastern European countries would mean that the United Nations was no longer "what it was meant to be." Furthermore, Mr. Hoover's proposal was condemned by Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, president of the Fourth General Assembly; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the Human Rights Commission; and officials of the American Association for the United Nations and the United World Federalists.

The attack upon the United Nations by Herbert Hoover comes at a critical period in its history. Mr. Lie has admitted quite frankly that the UN has not operated too successfully thus far since its inception. Moreover, it has been pointed out that unless the Chinese Communists are seated in the September session of the UN the Russians might walk out to stay, and Mr. Hoover's proposal would be an actuality. Just what effect this new proposal will have on East-West relations is of an unknown quantity at the present time. However, the situation is such that it does serve to increase tension in the international organ, and further weaken its effectiveness.

Dick Arnesman Is New CA President; Swetland, Carman Are Vice-Presidents

Dick Arnesman '52 was elected president of the Christian Association for 1950-51 at a meeting recently. Forrest Brown, executive secretary of the C. A., announced today.

Elected at the same time were: Vice Presidents, Lou Swetland and Bob Carman; Secretary, Nancy Muller. The new cabinet was installed by Professor James A. Gathings, chairman of the Advisory Council, at the Student Church last Sunday evening.

Immediately following the installation, a joint meeting of the old and new cabinets was held in Miss Stevenson's apartment. At that time, the following chairmen were selected for the various commissions and committees of the association: George Woodward, public relations; Dorothy Clark, Christian faith and heritage commission; Pug Hunsinger, world relations commission; Herb Zarfas, social responsibility; Chuck Mercer, personal and campus affairs; Sally Baumgardner, Freshmen Firesides; Rev. Hall, intercollegiate representative; and Bob Laub, Student Church Forum.

Practice Teaching

Student Committee Works To Improve Looks Of Campus

Notice the new "signed" notices on campus? That is the first indication of student participation in an active campaign to improve the looks of the campus sponsored by the Student Service Committee. It was revealed this week.

This idea is being brought to the attention of students by students because of its timeliness and importance during the spring of the year.

Spring Appeal
This committee is appealing to your "Spring it is Good Humor" to take heed and hold down the campus during the spring of the year.

The Student Service Committee has announced the official campaign opening for the "Preservation and Encouragement of the Green Cell Plant and Its Relatives" about campus.

In reality, Please Keep Off The Grass!
There will be more visitors on campus these next few weeks than at any other one time of the year. The inauguration, Houseparty, Mother's Day weekend and the week weekend of Graduation and Symposium.

What Better Reasons
These are only the relative reasons for maintaining the campus beautiful. The chapter also initiated Charles E. Mohr, director of the Audubon Nature Center, Greenwich, Conn. into alumni membership, and conferred Phi Beta Kappa honors on 16 students at a ceremony in Hunt Hall.

His elevation to the federal judiciary helped relieve congestion in U. S. District courts in Pennsylvania. A Bucknell graduate, class of 1930, Mohr is a noted nature photographer and author. He has been director of the Audubon Nature Center since 1947.

Following the ceremony, the initiates were guests at a banquet at the Lewisburg Club.

FORENSIC INITIATES
Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic fraternity, initiated the following members on April 27: Dick Arnesman, Bill Fearon, Ernest Kesler, David Shinn, Bill Swartz, and Ronald Unger. Lee Hanna was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer, and Ronnie Unger was elected Publicity Chairman.

At this meeting Jim Lomas gave a report from the recent Tau Kappa Alpha regional meeting held at Lafayette College.

DEBATORS ELECT OFFICERS
During their final meeting of the year on April 24th, the Bucknell Debaters elected their officers for the coming year.

Ernest Kesler was elected to the position of manager and David McGill to that of assistant manager. The other new officers are William Nicholls, secretary; George Weber, treasurer; and George MacPherson, librarian.

Phi Beta Kappa Initiates Two Noted Alumni

Frederick V. Folmer, of Milton who is rising Federal court judge of Pennsylvania, was one of two men initiated last Tuesday afternoon into membership of the Bucknell University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary.

The chapter also initiated Charles E. Mohr, director of the Audubon Nature Center, Greenwich, Conn. into alumni membership, and conferred Phi Beta Kappa honors on 16 students at a ceremony in Hunt Hall.

Judge Folmer is a Bucknell graduate class of 1906. He served 11 years as United States Attorney for the Middle District Court before he was appointed by President Truman in 1948 to the newly created post of a rising Federal judge for the Eastern, Middle and Western districts in Pennsylvania.

His elevation to the federal judiciary helped relieve congestion in U. S. District courts in Pennsylvania. A Bucknell graduate, class of 1930, Mohr is a noted nature photographer and author. He has been director of the Audubon Nature Center since 1947.

Quincy Howe Analyzes U.S. Welfare State

"Ever since 1932 we've (United States) had either a welfare or a welfare state," stated Quincy Howe, noted news analyst, author, editor, broadcaster and lecturer, at an open meeting of the Bucknell Lecture Series last Wednesday evening in the Vaughn Literature Auditorium.

Mr. Howe's speech was on the subject, "The Welfare State—A Critical Analysis." He began by defining the welfare state as a federal government which takes responsibility for the well-being of its own citizens. He believes that the United States has had four reform movements in the direction of the welfare state since 1900. These he outlined as: The Square Deal of Teddy Roosevelt, The New Deal of Franklin Roosevelt, and The Fair Deal of Harry Truman.

He emphasized the major role which Herbert Hoover played in setting this country on the road toward a welfare state.

Depression Due To Science
The famed news analyst explained that the U. S. government does feel a responsibility for the common man. Despite the four reform movements, a depression fell upon the nation in 1929 and its cause was due to "rapid advance of science, outdating modern equipment." An industrial system like ours nearly always means insecurity for the masses of the people and a possibility of unemployment.

As a matter of further explanation, he said, "There is no welfare state without an increase in federal power; and there is no great increase in federal power without a greater increase in interest in the popular welfare. The government will be more concerned with the common man, but their way of thinking may not be like your way of thinking."

Four Ills
Mr. Howe's main attacks on the welfare state were summarized in the four ill effects of the welfare state. A large public debt, the

Talented, Beautiful June Berk Will Be Here For Houseparty

June's beauty has literally won her fame and fortune. At a Colgate fraternity, she was recently voted the most beautiful girl present during the weekend; as a model, she has been named "Miss Arno d'Constable". It might just be possible to catch a glimpse of her raring Houseparty if Norm and time permit. Line forms to the right—but no shoving, please. Next week, some lucky Lambda Chi will have his girl's picture in The Bucknellian as Woman of the Week.

The winning photograph was submitted by Norm Levy. Norm met "J. B. B." at a party in Great Neck through a fraternity brother—Dave Kahn, retiring Bucknellian editor. At home, Norm and June are known as a steady twosome.

A very talented young lady, June is in the upper tenth of her high school class and is able to give a piano concert in Steinway Hall, New York. Athletically speaking, J. B. B. is to put it mildly—quite versatile. Although tennis tops the list as her favorite, she finds it difficult to choose between it, golf and swimming in the summer, and between skiing and skating in the winter.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

by Bobbie Roemer

Ah, but the truth hurts: It seems that a Boston College professor was walking down the street with a friend, and passed a fish shop where a fine finny catch, with open mouths and staring eyes, lay in a row. The prof stopped in his tracks and exclaimed, "Heavens! I forgot—I should be back at the Heights teaching a class."

The advantage of being bald is that when mother walks in, all you have to do is straighten your tie. CARBOLIC GUS.

Upon reading this headline in the Boston College newspaper, we had visions of hundreds of Bucknellians rushing to the registrar's office to transfer to said college. The headline read thus:

ROMANCE CLUBS WIN LIVING SPACE

But—don't take off up the hill yet, gang. Upon further investigation we discovered that the Romance LANGUAGE Clubs had been assigned space for their offices. Such disillusionment!

According to that well-known cliché, we hear that in the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love—or does it. Last night I held a hand, so dainty and so sweet; I thought my heart would break, so wildly did it beat. No other hand in all the world, could greater solace bring. Than that sweet hand I held last night—

FOUR ACES AND A KING. THE PITT NEWS.

And, in the Connecticut Campus' April Fool's Day edition, we find their masthead reading this way:

Membrane InterColgate Paste and Donkeyate Coliceth Purre. Pushed onto the public semi-weekly during the school year by undergraduates and overgraduates for the perusal of dorm janitors. Entered as matter March 15, 1949 at the second class Post Office. Subscription rate: Per semester 2 bucks. Per year 10 cents. (Save yourself sum dough by coming into the office and filching a copy like all instructors do). Telephone: only if beautiful and looking for date.

Just shows to go 'ya how times have changed. It used to be that when a guy told a gal a naughty joke, she blushed. Now she memorizes it.

The little moron's watch had stopped ticking and he tried to find the trouble. Finally, he took the back off, probed into the works, and found a dead bug. "No wonder it doesn't work," he said, "the engineer is dead."

A true music lover is a person who, when he hears a soprano in the shower, puts his ear to the keyhole. AGGRIEVATOR.

Getting out a newspaper is no picnic. If we print good jokes, students say we are filthy; if we don't, they say we are too prudish. If we publish original material, they say we lack variety; if we publish things from other newspapers, they say we are plagiarists; if we stay in our office, we ought to be out getting material; if we're out rustling up a story, we aren't attending to business in the office. If we wear old clothes, we are poor college students; if we wear new ones, we got the money from our graft. What the heck are we supposed to do, anyhow? Like as not someone will say we swiped this from an exchange. We did.

'BLITHE SPIRIT' IS C&D PLAY FOR NEXT YEAR

Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" was chosen as Cap and Dagger's 1951 spring production at the April 29 meeting. Production Manager Bob Landrum announced that plans for the lighter, "Spanish Dance," composed by Pablo de Sarasate; "Nocturne," Op. 27, No. 2, Chopin; and "Polonaise Brillante in A major" by Wieniawski. One of the most popular of all violin concertos, "Concerto in D minor," Op. 31, No. 4, by Henri Vieuxtemps will be the second selection on the program.

The third group of renditions will be Tatini's "Fugue in A," Paradisi's "Sicilienne," and Mozart's "Rondo."

Production is proceeding rapidly for "Blithe Spirit," which will be presented at Lewisburg High School Friday.

Dear Editor,

The examination schedule has been posted, with finals beginning on Wednesday, May 31, and classes continuing through Tuesday, May 30. We hereby appeal for a break between classes and exams. If one meeting were taken from each course, Monday and Tuesday could be allotted for exam preparation.

There are many students who have two exams the first day and it is entirely possible that one may have four within a period of two days. If this student also prepared for his regular classwork on Monday and Tuesday, there would be little time to do any study.

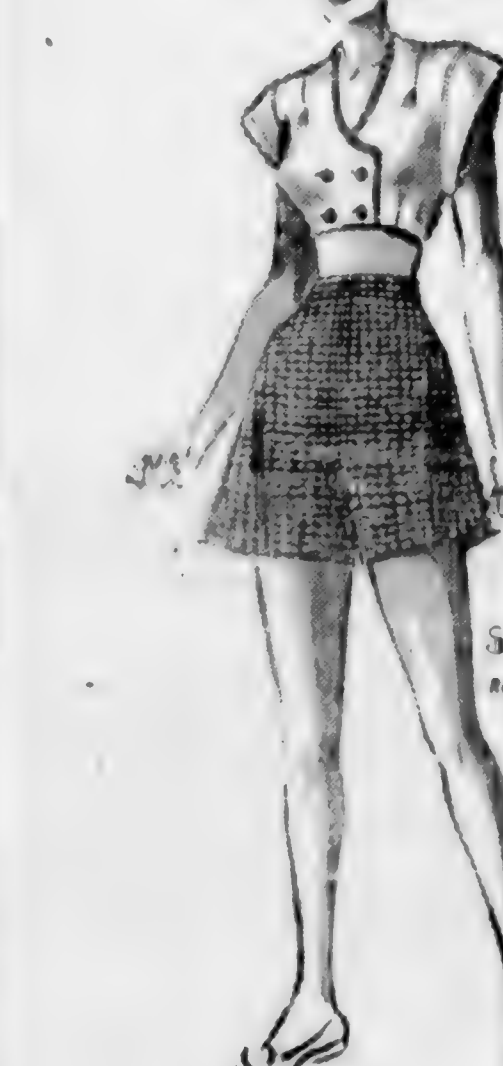

There is always the argument of the instructor who is following a strict schedule, but it is probable that one class could be sacrificed for the students. The professors could utilize the time to their own advantage, correcting term reports, computing grades, or what they will.

Even if a student did not use the time to study, the extra hours could mean much. Some have lab work to finish, papers that are due before finals, or extra reading. The added days might also provide a much-needed rest as there is no lengthy vacation.

We realize that the schedule has been set up for this semester, but we sincerely hope that some pre-examination break may be arranged.

ton the entire last semester.

University Course Students Need Not Be Geniuses

by Mary Jane Riley

With the rush and turmoil of registration for fall classes quickly becoming a memory for some students, and with others still frantically leaping through the schedule booklet to avoid an eleven hour deadline, now seems an appropriate time to offer a suggestion for those who wish to do some long-range schedule planning.

One course which every student has probably contemplated taking, or at least has wondered about, is the University Course. It is offered in the spring semester, and has been widely acclaimed as something of a new adventure in the field of college education.

A great many students have been under the impression that this is strictly a high-powered intellectual course suitable for Phi Beta Kappa candidates only. Other misconceptions concerning the content of the subject have served to discourage some students from taking the course. Actually, the University Course is not simply an attraction for the intelligent. It is open to all seniors interested in understanding the basic principles involved in the sciences, humanities, religion, philosophy and history. Some juniors are also permitted to enroll in the class.

No further qualifications, other than the permission of one of the directors of the course, are required.

Usually four nationally prominent people are also invited to lecture during the semester. This year Dr. Suzanne Langer was among those who spoke to highlight some of the aspects of the course, and Dr. Brand Blanchard will return May 30 to give a summation lecture of the subject.

The primary end, therefore, may be properly summed up as an attempt to stimulate the student to think for himself, and to integrate his college education in a concise and easily understood manner.

'Twelfth Night' Rehearsal Starts At 5 A.M.

While most Bucknellians were snoring peacefully in their beds yesterday morning at about 5, members of the "Twelfth Night" cast were sweating softly at their alarm clocks, climbing over sleeping roommates and getting ready for rehearsal.

To our knowledge this is the first time that a rehearsal has been held in what amounts to the middle of the night. We don't know if the cast is acting Shakespeare or is just plain crazy. There has also been some conjecture as to what the Hildreths will think when they see lights blazing and hear strange noises from Bucknell Hall at 5:30 in the morning.

This strange state of affairs all began when Director Goodman called a rehearsal for 10 last Sunday morning. The kids sang a few hymns to set the spirit of things and settled down to some hard work. In fact, things went so well that the director inquired why, if it ran as well at ten, it wouldn't be even better at an earlier hour—say 5:30.

The cast all had a good laugh over it. Then they discovered Goodman was serious. What we can't figure out is that they agreed one hundred percent that it was a very fine idea.

And they all got up!

Whether the inspiration came from the director, the cold clear air of morning or Mr. Shakespeare himself is a question, but if that enthusiasm served to highlight some of the aspects of the course, and Dr. Brand Blanchard will return May 30 to give a summation lecture of the subject.

The primary end, therefore, may be properly summed up as an attempt to stimulate the student to think for himself, and to integrate his college education in a concise and easily understood manner.

Student Describes College Utopia; No Tests, No Teachers, No Classes

by Harry Dinolicker

The night before test someone always asks the question—"Why do we have to have tests, anyway?" That is a good question. In fact, it's almost perfect. Let us consider it at length.

We are now going to work an imaginary school. The students themselves guide the course of their work. The school develops itself along the lines they choose. Take a look—

No Exams! First consider the question of the undesirable tests. Nobody likes tests, so, since the students run the school, the tests are eliminated. All is great joy and happiness. No more cramming before an exam. No more sweating out the return of the papers. This is indeed a beautiful picture, as all students, young and old, will know. The professors are happy, too. They have to correct twenty papers for every one you write.

Since there are no tests, there is less incentive to study. So, nobody studies. Therefore, they are never prepared for class. So they never go to class. This is possible under the unlimited credit system that all students dream about. The school, following the policy of the students, naturally puts an end to all classes. This makes the students very happy. Never again must they face an eight o'clock in the middle of January. Or—at Bucknell—May.

Out of Work The school is nearing perfection. There is just one more little item to be taken care of. The professors. There are no tests and no classes, so there is no justification for the many professors running around with nothing to do. The students don't even see them any more. So the professors are removed from the pay roll. Great is their misery and unhappiness, because now—at least—they have to settle down and go to work.

There is a rough idea of the school. No tests, no classes, no professors. Four years of nothing to do except rest, relax, and look to the future. Absolutely nothing can interfere with the social life. The catch is, if you can afford to live like this, why would you waste your time going to college in the first place?

Students Being Considered For Freshman Fireside

Fifty students have requested positions as fireside leaders for next year, Sally Baumgardner, Chairman of Freshman Firesides of the C. A. announced this week.

Selections for the 1950-51 semester leaders are being made by the rotating cabinet under the direction of Bud Bush and Ginge Werlein. These selections will be announced in the near future.

A general briefing session for the new leaders will be held at Cowan on Sunday afternoon and evening, May 21. Any other students wishing to apply for leadership of firesides should apply to Ginge Werlein or Bud Bush before May 1.

 the freshman class since College Board examination grades have been used as a factor to be considered for admission and as a basis for counseling freshmen. These developments were possible only because the faculty and students have really wanted to progress in the attitude and initiative of the student.
 Teachers are more vehement in their praise of the student's attitude toward studying. Why? They are serious, attend classes regularly, prepare assignments carefully, and are more receptive to ideas. Credit for this lies in their greater maturity, wider experience and the fact that many have entered into the holy state of matrimony. Those fortunate (or unfortunate) enough to have escaped matrimony by Uncle Sam will ask how they can acquire these sterling qualities over night. Most people do not want to be five years older. Very few would willingly and happily place in the front lines during the Battle of the Bulge and it is no longer true that two can live as cheaply as one.
 However, these veterans are simply American boys grown up, and, therefore, the same qualities which they possess should not be totally untainable by students who have entered college directly from high school. The main variable is attitude, and attitudes can be altered.
 What is wrong with the attitude at Bucknell? It is very often a failure to accept personal responsibility. This is not an abnormal condition to be found exclusively in college students, but a reflection of widespread post-war negligence along the same lines. Does this excuse it? The failure of the student body to honor President Hildreth at his inauguration, the scarcity of votes cast on the question of men's student government and the excessive amount of cheating are all evidence of the prevalent I-don't-know-what-I-don't-care attitude.
 Let's get a little pep, gang.

Now Here's The Way I See It!

Dr. Joseph Henderson, trustee chairman, was caught in this informal shot last Saturday morning just before the inauguration exercises. He's talking things over with President Hildreth and feature speaker Roy E. Larsen.

FINAL SENIOR CHAPEL

Seniors:
 Two and one-half weeks is all that separates us from that long-awaited hour—Senior Chapel. At that time, three of our classmates will speak on our behalf.
 A nominating committee met and came forth with a list of twelve men and women who are considered both able and deserving of such an honor. Tomorrow from 9 to 3:30 there will be ballot boxes open for you to use in Roberts Hall for men and in Larson for women. These three seniors are to speak for you. It's up to you now to decide who they shall be.
 The class gift will be discussed at a meeting Thursday, May 11, at 4:30 in Bucknell Hall. This is your last chance to attend a class meeting. Come on out and see what it's like.

 don Heart Dance". The outside of the house will be decorated as a castle, with the inside centering around the theme "Guardian of the Golden Heart".
 The boys will retire to Halfway for a picnic on Saturday, to return for an open house in the evening. Entertainment plans are under way.
 Heavenly Bodies?
 Randy Smith at Theta Chi, announces "The Celestial Ball" as Friday night's formal dance. The front of the house will be a rocket ship, and the interior will follow through the celestial theme. A queen will be crowned Friday night as part of the party, and a quartette will entertain brothers and guests. Tony Revito will afford the rest of the musical background.
 A picnic at Frank Martin's farm is planned for Saturday, with an informal open house Saturday evening. A happy landing, boys!

No Small
 Jack Tress offers TKE's flower "Orchid Ball" as the central theme for House Party. Friday night's formal dance will offer the music of Bob Clements, as well as the crowning of a queen chosen by the chaperones.

On Saturday, the gang will enjoy an outing at Cowan, followed by an evening of singing and general campfire fun.

Dutch Treat

From KDR's Ed Yancavage we understand we can anticipate a lowland holiday in the form of a "Tulip Festival". With a windmill outside, and tulip fields, a dutch village, and Harold Blaker's orchestra inside, the wooden show will really catch the eye.

Surprise Package!
 Frank Sullivan gives us the word that Kappa Sigma will enjoy its traditional "Black and White Formal" with the inside of the house decorated as the "Zebra Room". The outside decorations, however, are being handled by the pledges, and will be a surprise to the actives as well as the rest of the campus.

Saturday afternoon a picnic at Cherry Run is planned, then back to the house for an open house in the evening. On Sunday the guys and Moving-Up...

 Ann Busch, Ann Cooper, Janice Cupp, Sylvia Harbaugh, Claire Harth, Barbara Lewis, Betty Mathor, Marilyn Ruth, Patsy Schweiker, Barbara Snyder, Charlotte Stratton, and Francis Wilkins.

The new officers of the Women's Athletic Association were announced. They are: Barbara Snyder, President; Carolyn Knies, vice president; Bege Myers, secretary; Isabelle Harris, treasurer; Joan Gibbons, instructor; Chris Riley, social chairman; Joan Morris, publicity; Joan Hoshauer, senior representative; Lou Hind, junior representative; Trudy Knutson, sophomore.

Names of the freshman counselors for next year were presented: Barbara "Blocker" Bill Childs, Carolyn Knies, Betty Hill, Peggy Nippes, Ben Newcum, Wanda Sullivan, Liz Sowers, Sue Snyder, Marianne Rice, Sally Baumgardner, Anne Buswell, and La Pinner.

The annual picnic will be held Saturday afternoon followed by an open house that night with music by the Ray Gubins Combo. This is informal and the buffet dinner will be served at 10:15. Sunday afternoon, of course, the whole chapter will take off for Halfway for a picnic.

The Denies, SAE's, and Phi Psi's have not yet disclosed their plans. So "gird your loins" for the big

Greeks Must Average 1.225 To Keep Social Privileges

A grade point average of 1.225 has been established as the specific minimum average to be achieved by all fraternities and societies in order to retain their social privileges, Dean William H. Coleman announced today.

The grade point requirement was created in accordance with the University's newly-adopted system designed to improve fraternity and sorority scholarship. The specific average was established by a special committee appointed for this purpose, and was approved by the faculty at its meeting last week.

The committee is headed by Dean Coleman and includes Harold W. Pfautz, instructor in sociology, representing the faculty; Janice E. Cupp, appointed by the Hellenic Council; and Earl C. Lyon, Jr., appointed by the Inter-Fraternity Council.

The new requirement becomes effective with the first semester of the present semester.

The faculty also granted permission to the Psychology Club to establish a chapter of Phi Chi, national honorary fraternity for psychology students.

Glee Clubs Ready 'Salute To Maine' Selected For This Weekend

The problem of weekend visitors being able to hear both University Glee Clubs and see the Cap and Dagger production in two consecutive evenings has been solved.

Both the Men's Glee Club, directed by Dr. Harold E. Cook, and the Women's Glee Club, directed by Prof. Roderick O. Williams, will present concerts in the Beaver Memorial Methodist Church Friday and Saturday nights, giving audiences what amounts to a double show.

Friday night the Men will sing first (8:15), with the women following at 9:30. The next night the order will be reversed, with the same times in effect.

For those who will not be able to attend both of the concerts, a ten-minute intermission will be taken between the performances.

This will be the last home appearance for both Clubs. For the men, it will be the 30th concert of the '50 season, which included two concert tours—one east and one west. The girls recently completed a southern tour.

Featured with the male organization is the Quartette, composed of Joe Shackleton, Jack Fausett, Bob Curran, and Ed Lutesman, with Neil Woolcock the accompanist. Soloists are Bill Groover, Jim Stewart, and Nelson Woolcock. Club accompanists are Jack Colley and Jim Stewart.

The girls feature a sextette comprised by Nancy Tattall, Gloria Fred, Janet Woods, Carolyn Knies, Joan Merrill, Helen Golden, and Janet Carl, accompanied by Betty Clark, Bev Weiser, and Patricia Wagner are the soloists.

Dr. Cook has selected such new songs as "Love Me", "Credo", "Let Their Celestial Concerts All Unite", "Brothers Sing On", "Serenade in the Snow", "Hunting Song", "South Pacific", and three new spirituals.

Prof. Williams and his girls are doing a program called "Pan-American Songs". The group includes South American ballads, spirituals, and songs of the American Indian, folk songs, and songs the average American sings.

Following the ceremony, an informal social hour will be held in Hunt Hall where officers and members of the Mother's Association will greet parents and guests of Bucknell students.

Sunday's events feature Mother's Day services at the Lewisburg churches and the opening of a student art exhibit in Roberts Hall.

The open houses Saturday morning will include tours of laboratories of chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical engineering departments from 9 to 12 a. m., and demonstrations and exhibits of biology and physics laboratories from 10 to 11:30 a. m. Engineering departments will also be open for inspection Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 p. m.

It's Your Paper

When a new editor takes over, there is no person, place or thing to guide his editorials except good taste in being the "Student Voice of Bucknell".

Since "The Bucknellian" is a student publication, our first aim is to keep it just that. We have no axe to grind, so any controversial issues must come from YOU to warrant space in the editorial column.

If you're looking for scandal, subscribe to a metropolitan paper. If you're interested in gripes against the administration, do something about them.

If enough students seem to care enough about a particular gripe, we'll do all we can to bring it to the attention of the "powers that be" through our columns. We'll print letters and make polls for you, but the initiative lies in your hands.

For instance, a student asked the president of the University in a chapel session whether it was possible to have a day of rest between the end of classes and the beginning of final examinations. The past editor followed the question with an editorial. Then the matter dropped.

If you are interested in influencing the administration, write a letter to the paper, have it signed by others, or start a petition to be directed to the administration. But don't expect someone else to do the work for you.

During the past semester the following issues were brought up by the editor: an outdoor commencement, a stronger IFC, the postcard system of giving out final exam grades, and a Men's Student Government body. Editorials have little weight without student backing.

We don't propose to print any complaints that are not backed up by you. Since your contribution to the Student Activity Fund makes our paper possible, we feel that you are our only readers. It takes only a minute to write a letter.

They Want Blood

If there's one organization in this country that wants blood, it's the American Red Cross. And we mean that literally.

A few weeks ago a Red Cross Bloodmobile visited the campus. It may have been the fault of poor publicity, but only 27 of our 2200-odd students were able to find the time to donate a pint of their blood for the worthy cause of preserving humanity.

Or it may have been fear that caused the slim turnout. Actually, the blood lost in the transfusion is made up by the body in less than three days. And in some cases, donating blood is actually helpful to the body.

What no one seems to realize is that there is a definite need for blood, just as there was during the war when Bucknellians compiled an amazingly high percentage of donors. Without going into dramatics, we can say that by donating a pint of your blood, you may save a life!

The students who did donate last time are to be congratulated as is Mr. Harold W. Hayden, who is conducting the local drive. We'd like to congratulate the campus as a whole, and may have a chance to.

Next Tuesday the Blood mobile will return. All you have to do is walk into the library and sign up!

Letters to the Editor

May 12, 1950
Editor, The Bucknellian,
Lewisburg, Pa.
There was a letter in your column, That was glad to see, And so I'm wondering if you'll print, An answer just from me.
Hi Mom and Pop:
Some time ago, you wrote you know, A letter to our paper, Which at the time I really thought, Was quite a childish caper. But since that time I've sent you mail, By letter and by card, And all the news of old Bucknell, I've written by the yard. I've given you, the lowdown too, On Campus Life out here, Just what we think and eat and drink, I've tried to make it clear.
It's good to hear from folks back home, We often think of you, And frequently I am afraid, We wish we were there too. Now all is well at old Bucknell, We like the life you know, And like that famous baker man, We always knead the dough. (Ha!) On checking letters I wrote home, There's eight or ten I find, To which I have had no reply: You're falling far behind. It shouldn't be so hard on you, To write a line or two, To Sonny Boy who once you said, Was slow in writing you. My love to all you folks back home, And please get on the job, And some time drop me just a line, As ever, your son, Bob.

SENATE SLASHES E. C. A. FUNDS
After failing in its attempts to cut European recovery funds by $1,000,000,000 and 500,000,000, Republican forces managed with the aid of Southern Democrats to cut $250,000,000 from the authorization for a third year of the Marshall Plan. Almost one month ago, the House of Representatives had approved an appropriation of $1.1 billion for Europe. The bill which was finally passed by a vote of 60 to 80 authorized $2,850,000,000 to the Continent. Just what will happen when the leaders of the House and Senate meet to iron out the discrepancy in the appropriations shall be of utmost importance in our future foreign aid plans.

The bill, which calls for a total amount of $3,122,450,000 including Point IV aid, was passed only after a series of roll calls that nearly upset the tables for administration leaders. A 40-40 tie vote prevented adoption of an amendment by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Republican policy leader, to cut the Marshall Plan funds by $500,000,000. Before this amendment had been produced, the Senate had disposed of Senator James P. Kem's proposal to cut $1,000,000,000 from the authorization. This proposal by the Senator from Missouri was obviously a political maneuver by the "economy bloc" to set-up Mr. Taft's later proposal.

The administration received a second close call in the controversy over the institution of the Point IV program. By the narrow margin of 37 to 36, aid for the underdeveloped areas totaling 45,000,000 was approved. There were authorizations for omnibus funds of $100,000,000 to Korea, $100,000,000 of reappropriated funds for non-Communist China and $27,500,000 for relief of Arab refugees in Palestine. Thus, the administration has gained substantially its aims for foreign aid during the fiscal year beginning June 1951.

PRES. TRUMAN OPENS 81 LOYALTY FILES TO SENATE INQUIRY.

In what is undoubtedly calculated to be a clever move by the Administration, the President has opened 81 loyalty files to the present McCarthy inquiry into State Department personnel. This announcement was made by Senator Millard E. Tydings, Democrat of Maryland, chairman of the subcommittee which is making the inquiry. Mr. Tydings asserted that by detailed personal research he had established, and had so reported to the President that the 81 cases called Communists by the Wisconsin Senator, were identically those investigated some three years ago by four committees of the Republican-controlled Eightieth Congress without an adverse finding against any departmental employee. In view of the fact that such sensitive data already had been examined by Congressional bodies, Mr. Tydings added, Mr. Truman had decided that such a disclosure would incur no new precedent, and accordingly had reversed his consistent refusal to turn over the files.

This maneuver is a well-planned move in regard to the coming elections in 1950 and 1952. President Truman has undertaken a "non-political" whistle stop tour from Coast to Coast. Undoubtedly during the course of his speaking engagements he will make sure it is known that he is not afraid of inquiry, nor has he refused to give the Senate subcommittee the necessary information to conduct the inquiry. Just what steps the Republicans will take to counteract this new political maneuver is conjectural. However, it is definite that the mud will fly thick and fast in the coming weeks over this newest twist in the McCarthy charges.

THE US STANDSTILL OVER CHINA CONTINUES.

Since January 10th when the Russian delegation walked out of the UN, that international organ has been at a virtual standstill. Not only has Russia refused to attend any of the Security Council or General Assembly meetings, but they have boycotted all other 16 bodies. Meanwhile, there have been several important suggestions made in order to alleviate the situation. During the past week these suggestions boiled down to six major ideas. They are: first, remove the nationalists from the UN and send the Communists. Trygve Lie is staunchly in favor of this idea; second, create a new country of Formosa which would be represented by a Nationalist delegation, while the remainder of China proper would be Communist-UN dominated; third, suspend China completely from the UN until the problem could be solved; fourth, permit the Nationalist and Russians to make an agreement never to attend the same sessions at the same time; fifth, permit members to vote merely on the affirmative question of seating the Communists, thus, causing a dual representation of China; sixth, employ a system of mail transaction of all UN business.

While some of the above ideas have been the butt of jokes, nevertheless, many of them have very strong backers. However, there seems to be little chance that any of these proposals will be adopted in the near future. At this moment the ultimate decision rests upon the ultimate acceptance or rejection of the People's Republic by the United States. This too is unlikely, because of the recent charges being leveled against the State Department.

THE PRESIDENT MAKES NEW APPOINTMENTS.

For the past several weeks, a great deal of speculation has been going on in respect to whom President Truman would appoint to the key positions of chairman of the National Security Resources Board, Secretary of the Army and new chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Last week Mr. Truman terminated some of this rampant speculation by announcing that Frank P. Rowan, Jr., 37-year old Director of the Budget, was to take over the vacancy left by Gordon Gray as Secretary of the Army. Frederick Lawton, Mr. Pace's assistant, was immediately chosen to succeed him as budget director. Moreover, W. Stuart Symington, Secretary of the Air Force was appointed chairman of the NSRB. When Mr. Truman will add to this list of new appointments, is unknown.

SONNET FROM THE SEMINARY

College is fine, especially for girls,
But, people can't see how a female with curls
Could possibly need a college degree.
When a Mrs. is probably all that shall be.

I came to college with goals too far reaching,
A career would result from this scholarly teaching.
But, here I am now, a coed attached,
My career is an egg that will never be hatched.

My intentions were worthy, my Will, it was weak;
The well of my knowledge soon sprang a leak.
Slowly I gave in—I knew I was slipping,
My scholarly bonds were gradually ripping.

I gave up at last—traded pen for a pin,
To the surprise and dismay of my kith and my kin.
They thought I was making a hasty decision,
And Heavens! I did it without their permission!

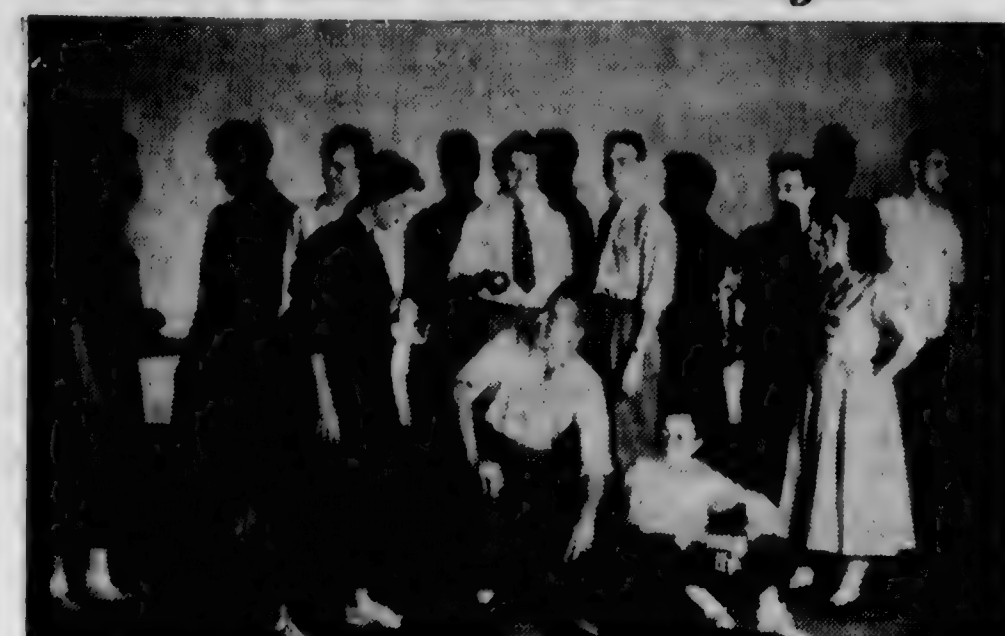

Who'd ever thought that I'd settle down?
I'd always viewed young romance with a frown.
But now, as a senior, I'm tied up in knots;
In the campus vernacular, I've "got the hot!"

My mind's now a blank where books once did rule,
Some people think me a bit of a fool;
I've gotten so coo-eyed I make others ill,
And my scholarly interests are practically nil.

So freshman take warning—don't set your goals high,
For you too will find, in the sweetest of life,
That a mere man will make you forget why you're here,
And when he does, sister, you'll stand up and cheer.

Poteat To Speak On "Open Mind" At Next Chapel

"The Open Mind" is the title of the address to be given on Wednesday, May 17, by Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, Minister of Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Dr. Poteat is the former president of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School. In January of 1949, he left Rochester to return to the pulpit of the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, where he had held the pastorate from 1920 to 1937. The following seven years he was the minister of the well-known Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, Cleveland, Ohio. It was from this church that Dr. Poteat was called to Colgate-Rochester.

Edicated at Furman, the popular guest speaker was educated at Furman University and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and has received honorary degrees from five different schools among those are Duke University and the University of North Carolina.

When in North Carolina he was a member of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare and the Commission for the Study of State Hospitals. He was president of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation in the south.

In Cleveland he served as president of the Cleveland Ministerial Union, vice president of the Cleveland Federation of Churches and president of the Cleveland Baptist Association.

Students Visit Museum Of Art

The class studying Chinese culture visited the Chinese exhibit at the Philadelphia Museum of Art last week to visualize the study of the course.

The most fascinating part of the exhibit consisted of a room in the palace at Peking of the early seventeenth century which had been removed intact to the Museum with columns, paneling, roof, and furnishings.

Most admired were the room's articles of carved jade, the crystal ball, and porcelain vessels delicately figured and of exquisite colors of blue, red, and yellow.

On return to the campus the class made a contribution of $18.75 to the China Welfare Relief for supplies of medicine in the Friendship Cargu. Madame Sun is chairman of this organization.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB PLANS ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Philosophy Club officers for the 1950-51 semester will be elected tonight at a meeting in Larison Sun Porch at 8:00 p. m., a group spokesman said today.

Following the elections, Dr. F. David Martin, assistant professor of philosophy, will lead the group in discussing the "Aims of Education."

Dr. Poteat is the president of the organization of "Protestants and Others", and is the author of numerous books including "Four Freedoms and God" and "Over the Sea the Sky", which is a collection of poetry.

'Twelfth Night' To Be Given On The Twelfth Night Of May

C&D Will Present Shakespeare's Funnist Comedy As May Day Presentation Friday, Saturday Nights

by Jane Brown

Shakespeare will arrive on campus on the twelfth night of May. Those of you who are accustomed to picking out symbolic images will recognize immediately that there is a startling similarity between that date and the title of the play. The title, in case you've been wandering around looking for rock specimens or studying cloud formations and haven't noticed the posters, is "Twelfth Night."

We have been getting quite Shakespearean this semester with "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Twelfth Night" in one month. Margaret Webster's troupe showed us that the bard of Avon is a lot different when removed from the World Lit book. At a party held after the show, members of the two casts met and exchanged ideas. Larry Gates, the Christopher Sly of "The Shrew" demonstrated the effects of a raised eyebrow or a little extra "business."

Shakespeare's Funnist Comedy "Twelfth Night" is hailed by many critics as Shakespeare's funniest comedy. The characters who live in the mythical country of Illyria become involved in situations that no one else could possibly solve. But they do! Allow us to introduce you to Sir Toby Belch, who bears out his name by indulging in quantities of pickled herring and too many stoups of wine.

When Toby of the red beard and his side-kick Maria put their heads together for a practical joke, the complications mount furiously. Sir Andrew Aguecheek is undoubtedly the most confused character of the play. He is stabbed from behind in his duel with Viola, struck over the head with a flagon of wine, and generally ill-treated.

Delusions of Grandeur Malvolio, the steward with delusions of grandeur, has difficulty convincing people of his sanity when he appears with yellow stockings, cross garters and a perpetual silly grin in a misanthropic mood.

On return to the campus the class made a contribution of $18.75 to the China Welfare Relief for supplies of medicine in the Friendship Cargu. Madame Sun is chairman of this organization.

Movie Chatter

Most of you will recognize the musical comedy, Wabash Avenue as a new version of an old musical comedy, Coney Island. This time the action shifts to Chicago and the male leads are taken by Vic Mature and Phil Harris.

Although the plot of Wabash Ave. may be a little cliché, Grabie comes through with some solid song and dance numbers—namely, "Blue Bird" and "Down Wabash Avenue."

One of the best mystery melodramas to appear on the screen in recent years—The Third Man—will play here in Lewisburg next week. Carol Reed, by using unique photographic effects with an entirely new type of musical background, has created a masterpiece of suspense and mystery.

The stars Joseph Cotten, Yvonne, and Orson Welles are all past masters in the field of mystery drama, and very evident in the 3rd Man.

WBUB marches forward! Spring has wrought many changes in the blue and white houses on the corner. The "Garage Men" . . . of blue have really got it that old spring fever, especially Thorry Rice who can't even read a commercial correctly. He keeps glancing furtively out the window, and can't even concentrate on himself.

Said he:
My girl doesn't use face powder. She uses flour. When she gets hot she breaks out in biskuits.

THE OLD MAID

From PITT we hear the story of the coed who was called on the phone recently by another coed. The coed who was called happened to be in the tub at the time. After about 15 minutes of conversation, the coed who had been called said: "You'd better go get dried off." "I am dry now," came the reply. "Oh, that's right," said the caller, "You've been hanging on the line for 15 minutes." Oh, how corny can you get?

Here's a poem "On Women" Now, I really think this should be cause for a revolution . . . er

"The faults of men are many,
Women have only two.
Everything they say—
And Everything they do."

THE ROCKET

These situations do arise—
"I don't know where we can put up this lecturer for the night."
"Don't worry. He always brings his own bunk."

If I should die before I wake,
Thank God! I'll have no test to take.

THE LEADER

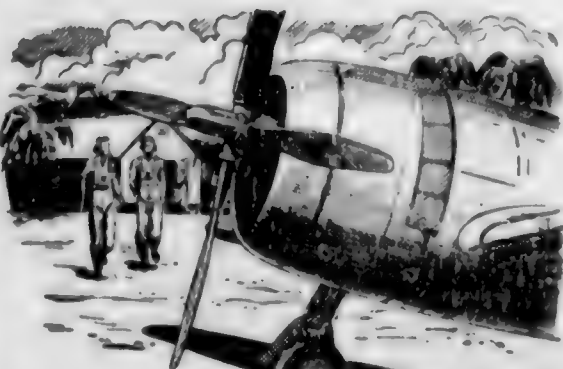

Major Nathan Adams, Auburn '40
Personnel Manager, U.S. Air Force

Following a three month course, Lt. Adams decided the Air Force was the place for him. He applied for pilot training, was accepted, proceeded to Maxwell Field.

He won his wings and reported to the 36th Fighter Group in Puerto Rico. The group soon returned to the States, giving Adams a chance to marry his college sweetheart.

With in months Adams was overseas, flying "rhubarb" missions against enemy transports. He flew 63 P-47 missions with in seven months, returned to the States late in 1944 for rest and recuperation.

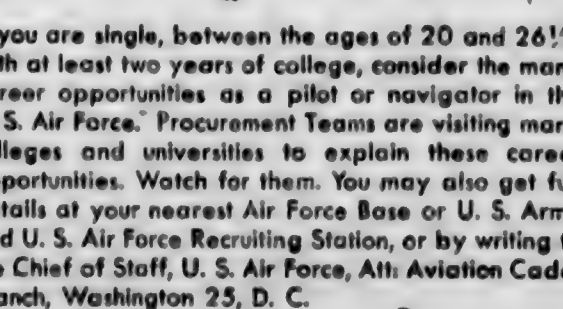

V-J Day came, and Adams decided to make the service a career. He chose personnel work as his career field, was assigned for training to the Adjutant General's School at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia.

Now a regular Air Force Major, he heads a 35-man section at Bolling Air Force Base. He advises his Commanding Officer on selection, assignment and promotion of all officers and airmen in the command.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or navigator in the U. S. Air Force. Recruitment Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Air Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

Seeing Is Believing Say Engineers;
Plan To Hold Open House Saturday

by Frank Kelly

A close look at an engineering student and an A. B. reveals an amazing similarity. In fact, the difference is merely a three hour class period, valued at one credit hour, which might well come under the title of Hall by the time the final results are handed over to the instructor a week later.

At any rate, with a slight play on words, the difference becomes quite apparent; namely, the engineer is an A. B. student with "L", or let's put it this way, he is a LAB student.

Just Like Home
Don't get the idea that it is as bad as that, though. Actually, these LABs are interesting—to everyone. Take the Chemical Engineering lab., put in stainless steel and enameled fixtures and the modern housewife would probably feel as much at home as in her own kitchen.

The results are a little different, but every good cook has some secret recipes. And speaking of recipes, the Civil Engineering department may be able to help you exceptional women whose cakes always seem to "slump". That "slump" is one of the many important factors in the mixing of concrete and the action of "one of the most surveyed campuses in the world" have it down to a science.

CE's Dish It Out
Concrete doesn't melt in your mouth like those cakes do, though; and since "the proof of the pudding is in the eating", the proof of concrete is in the beating it can take, and the CE's can really dish it out.

About now, you are probably asking "What is all this chatter about?" Well, you will see the light if you take the "what" (wait) out of that question and give it to an Electrical Engineer this Saturday. Those young Tom Edisons and Ben Ameses are really up on their current events and will be glad to show you what's what. For good "light" entertainment, they are the people to see and we can guarantee that you won't be shocked.

Demonstrations
At the Engineering Open House this coming weekend, between 2 and 5 in the afternoon, each department will be demonstrating their equipment in action and you will have a first hand opportunity to see what goes on behind those slide rules, data sheets and report covers. We will also be on hand between 9 and 12 in the morning to show you around and Motheral Analyzes The News!

Tom Motheral, past assistant director of radio workshop, was snapped during one of his BUCKNELLIAN news broadcasts. The paper is one of the few Eastern collegiate publications to sponsor its own news broadcast over a campus radio station. Tom and the other announcers can be heard Tuesday and Sunday over station WBUB.

Freshmen in particular, would be activated if they were partially aware of what they would be facing when the first day of finals arrived.

The idea is nothing new and revolutionary. It has been used successfully in numerous colleges and universities. Harvard, for example, keeps a complete file of every examination administered and even publishes a book containing such tests. It is, however, the fact that the various groups on campus have instituted such files results in an unequal opportunity between those who have access to them and those who do not. Such a plan as has been explained would serve any student who wished to benefit from it.

There is a definite need for a well organized filing system at Bucknell, and if it was established it would serve a real purpose on the campus.

BU Wives Club Holds Its Final Spring Meeting

The Bucknell Wives Club held their last meeting of the present semester last Monday evening in Hunt Room. It was reported at the meeting that the Club would hold a bake sale at Daubert's on Friday, May 19, starting at 9 a. m.

Arrangements for the banquet to be held by the Bucknell Wives Club have been completed. The dinner will be held on Monday, May 22, at the New Legion in Lewisburg. All interested members are to have their reservations in by this Friday, May 19. George Tracy, president, announced. Installation of officers for the next term will take place at the banquet. At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. Nell Benfer of Lewisburg, presented a very interesting arts and crafts program. She demonstrated loom weaving, crayon coloring of cloth, and clay modeling for ceramics. Samples were on display and refreshments were served after the program.

CA Host At Conference

The Bucknell Christian Association was host to ten Penn State and six Lock Haven undergraduate leaders at a cabinet planning conference here recently.

Miss Helene Mosler, representative of the Regional Office at Philadelphia, directed the conference. Local arrangements were made by Beverly Hall, intercollegiate representative of the C. A.

KAPPAS INITIATE 19 GIRLS; HOLD BANQUET

Nineteen pledges of Delta Phi Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma were initiated and entertained at the initiation banquet held at the American Legion, April 22.

Guests at the banquet included Dr. Faith Bell, mother of one of the pledges; Mrs. Frank Sprague, former member of the faculty; Mrs. Harold Reppert, former Dean of Women here, all of whom are Kappas; and Patrons, Mrs. Glen Donoffe, Miss Gertrude Miles, and Mrs. George Reinhardt.

John Whitehurst received the award for the highest scholastic achievement among the pledges. The award to the active who had made the greatest advance in scholarship went to Winifred H. Glass.

The new initiates are: Phyllis Bell, Janet Bryden, H. Elizabeth Clark, Bette Forst, M. Naomi Geiser, Frances Hamilton, Dorothy Harvey, Jane Kohler, Myra May, Joan Meister, Joan Meyer, Joanne Mitchell, Nancy Schmel, Ann Sundberg, Jean Swanger, Patricia Thompson, Jane White, Joan Whitehurst, and Nancy Wisehaupt.

At the Tau Kappa Epsilon Orchid Ball, Jane Campbell, an alumna of Westminster College, was chosen and announced by the chaplains as the House Party queen. Jane, who is from New Kensington, was presented with a bouquet of red roses.

Sweetheart of Theta Chi for the second time in succession is Chris Beagle, who was chosen by the chaplains from ten candidates. Seated on a throne, Chris was presented a bouquet of red carnations with the Greek letters, Theta Chi, worked in white carnations in the center.

Student Speaks To Rotary Club On Achievements

John Harmon '51 spoke on the topic "Negro Achievements Past and Present" at the weekly Rotary banquet held at the Lewisburg Club last Thursday.

John, a member of Phi Lambda Theta fraternity, cited such famous negroes as Booker T. Washington, George Washington Carver and Sojourner Truth, one of the leading abolitionists of the Civil War period. Harmon also read a poem entitled "Let America be America Again" by Langston Hughes.

Harmon's speech at the banquet was part of the Rotary's plan to include university speakers at several of the weekly meetings.

CINEMA CLUB INVITES GUESTS TO NEXT FILM

The Cinema Club is inviting its 100 members to bring guests to the movie next Monday night at 8:30 in Vaughn Literature Auditorium.

The show, next to last of a series of eight old time presented by the club, is "Trouble In Paradise," starring Miriam Hopkins and Herbert Marshall.

Following the presentation, a poll will be taken to see how many people are interested in seeing a larger selection of shows next year.

Among the movies being considered for next year are: "Birth of a Nation," "All Quiet on the Western Front," and several comedies starring such guests as Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton and Harold Lloyd.

State Department Representative Here For IRC Address Wednesday

Mr. Armin Meyer, press officer in the bureau of Near Eastern, South Asian, and African Affairs of the State Department, will be in Hunt Living Room next Wednesday night at 7:30 to talk on "The Near East."

Sponsored by the International Relations Club, the lecture is open to the public. Following the talk, there will be a reception at which time students may meet and talk to Mr. Meyer.

The State Department representative holds a M. A. degree from Ohio State and has been in the diplomatic corps service since the end of the war.

Dr. O. C. Carmichael Named 100th Commencement Speaker

REV. COBER TO SPEAK AT BACCALAUREATE; LUNCHEONS AND MEETINGS MARK ALUMNI DAY

Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and one of the nation's foremost educators, has accepted an invitation to address Bucknell's one hundredth annual Commencement Sunday afternoon, June 11, President Hildreth announced today.

Former chancellor of Vanderbilt University, Dr. Carmichael was named to his present post in 1948. In recognition of his important contributions to education over a period of nearly 40 years, he has been awarded honorary degrees by 11 colleges and universities.

Speaker at the Baccalaureate service Sunday morning, June 11, will be the Rev. Kenneth L. Cober, executive secretary of the Rhode Island Baptist State Convention. A graduate of Bucknell and of the Colgate Rochester Divinity School, Rev. Cober is the father of Ellen L. Cober, a member of the graduating class.

Alumni Day, Saturday, June 10, has been designated as Alumni Day, with luncheons of 12 reunion classes listed by Dr. Frank G. Davis, alumni secretary. An alumni breakfast for class presidents, reporters, and Alumni Fund managers will mark the start of the day's activities. Breakfasts of Phi Beta Kappa and the Bisen Club, the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, and a meeting of the General Alumni Association are also listed for Saturday morning. The President's garden party and band concert will be followed by fraternity and sorority symposia.

To entertain alumni Saturday evening, Cap and Dagger will present a repeat performance of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" in Lewisburg High School.

Activities Restricted
Although the Commencement activities are restricted to a two-day period, in order that parents and other visitors may attend all of the major events, two groups will hold their annual meetings Friday evening. They are the Athletic Council and the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association.

This year's graduating class is expected to number more than 375 men and women.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Trustees of Bucknell University, following the inauguration exercises, the following resolutions were passed according to Dayton Rank, assistant secretary of the Board of Trustees.

"RESOLVED, that on behalf of the full Board of Trustees of Bucknell University the Executive Committee record its appreciation of the excellence of the inauguration program and its execution under the leadership of the Inauguration Committee with the full realization of the invaluable assistance given the Inauguration Committee from all sources.

Be it further RESOLVED, that this expression of appreciation on behalf of the Board of Trustees be published in The Bucknellian.

Her Majesty, Queen Doris

Four four-year men, seven three-year girls clubbers, and Dr. Harold E. Cook, were honored in last Saturday evening's Spring concert in the Beaver Memorial Church. Prof. Rodenbeck Williams was given a present by the members of his Women's Glee Club in an earlier concert the same evening. For their faithfulness in four years with the Men's Glee Club, Seniors Gus Rorer, Emory Smith, John Linetty, and Shep Hiephard received gold key-chains.

Manager Jack Williams presented medals to seven men who completed three years with the organizations: Jim Daniels, Herb Zearfoss, Ken Stauffer, Tom Mather, Joe Blackburn, and Dick Linde.

The conductors were presented (See GLEE CLUBS, page 8)

President and Mrs. Hildreth cordially invite all Bucknellians graduating in June, with their husbands, wives and children, to a picnic on their lawn immediately following the Senior Chapel on Wednesday, the twenty-fourth of May.

It is requested that those graduating wear caps and gowns.

In case of inclement weather, the picnic will be held in Tustin Gymnasium.

Certificates for awarding the title "Ph. T." will be presented at this time to the wives of graduating seniors.

Also on the program will be the presentation of certificates to the graduating athletes for their four years participation in sports at Bucknell. Tapping for Mortar Board, national women's leadership honorary will follow.

The L'Agenda dedication is to be made by Joseph Rubinstein. Also the senior class gift will be presented at chapel and President Hildreth will respond.

Senior class chapel has become a definite tradition in the life of the University, in approximately the past 15 years.

Larson Hall and Bucknell Cottage will hold an open house Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m.; everyone is invited.

Mr. Peter Henderson (Deborah Partridge), last year's queen, crowns Doris Wellenbaum as "Queen Of The May" for 1950.

May Day Festivities Draw Record Crowd

NOTEBOOKS OBSOLETE

Atlanta, Ga.—(L. P.) — A talking notebook is a big help when examinations roll around at Emory University, according to Jeff Abraham, a senior psychology major. Instead of a notebook of scrawled class notes, Abraham assembles a neat file of tape recordings of significant lectures. Then he just lies back and listens.

"It's a streamlined way to cram for exams," he admits. "But recorded lectures have their drawbacks. I don't find time to listen to all 45 hours of class over again—and the professor is rare to ask us about something I didn't re-play." Abraham declares that the tape recorder is most valuable for playing back the lecture the same evening, and in helping him to understand the work better. But he still takes some notes.

Teachers do not object to the machine in the classroom. They are interested, and are anxious to listen to their own recordings. Abraham can pick up the professor's voice from the front row. His machine weighs only 15 pounds, holds a reel of tape that records for two hours, and is silent in operation. The tape can be erased by simply recording over it.

Eighty Students Donate Blood In Second Drive

The second Red Cross Blood Donor Drive came to a close Tuesday as eighty Bucknellians visited the mobile unit at the Lewisburg American Legion Post and donated a pint of blood to the National Blood Bank.

Mrs. C. K. Spenser, Executive Secretary of the Lewisburg Chapter of the American Red Cross stated that she was pleased with the response of the student body of Bucknell.

One hundred and twenty-five Bucknellians signed pledge cards, but many were not able to make donations because of unavoidable difficulties. Because of the valiant drive, many release cards for prospective donors under twenty-one did not come back from their parents in time for Tuesday's drive. Others were not able to give because of recent illness.

Fathers, Mothers Elect Officers; Glee Clubs Award Medals

The Father's Association set October 1 as the date for the annual Dad's Day at their meeting in the Lewisburg Club last Saturday at 12:15. In addition to the approval of the Dad's Day date, the men voted to add $100 to the Displaced Student Fund making a total of $250. The fund is used to provide scholarship aid to foreign students on the campus.

Dr. Roy Nicodemus, of Danville, President of the association, served as toastmaster and following the treasurer's report by Forrest Brown, Lewisburg, he introduced members of the faculty and administration to the 180 fathers in attendance. After the fathers had introduced themselves, Dr. Nicodemus officially welcomed them and spoke briefly on what the University expected of the parents.

The fathers also decided to include as part of their Dad's Day program in the fall, a panel-discussion including members of the faculty, administration, and fathers association.

Capitalistic May Day

Maybe we ought to have a communist lecturer come to Bucknell and tell us how to celebrate May Day in the true revolutionary spirit. We capitalists seemed to be having too good a time over the weekend!

After all, all one has to do is read "Pravda" or its American counterpart, "The Daily Worker" to learn that the communists were the originators of May Day celebrations. We must have fallen short of the Kremlin's ideal!

The weekend was a dull one. Not a single official was shot, not one bomb was thrown, and not one student leader jumped up to proclaim the glories of communism.

The whole festival must have been a debacle in the bloodshot eyes of our fellow travelers. To begin, there were too many expensive cars on campus: an example of extreme rugged individualism.

Most of the automobiles belonged to parents of students; another blow to Marx's ideal. When children grow up, they ought to become wards of the state and cut their home ties (isn't that right, Joe?).

To make things worse, the Glee Clubs had the audacity to perform in a Church. Any good communist knows that the Church is an arch-enemy. And the Cap and Dagger group was mad when they produced a play by William Shakespeare, who never even tried to organize his fellow writers.

The fact that various departments had their laboratories open for public inspection was a blow to Stalinism. People shouldn't be allowed to see what kind of technological advances have been made by a private college without the help of state subsidies.

A communist lecturer might tell us that the energy expended running a push-cart derby might have been used on a parade. Everyone could have carried signs, and someone could have told us that instead of crowning a May Festival queen, we ought to honor some woman who has slaved many years in a factory or given 12 or 13 children to the state.

We might agree with a red lecturer that the space in Davis Gym wasn't adequate for the huge crowd. But then we'd tell him that next year we'll see if it can't be arranged to use the temporary stands for seating, and add about 10 rows of chairs on the gym floor.

It looks like we're going to fall short of the communistic ideal of May Day for many years to come unless we give enough "lecturers" the chance to change our minds.

Letters to the Editor

April 8, 1950

To the Editor:

It is surprising to be an objective observer 24 hours a day as a resident on the men's quad. Surprising because all of us here are supposed to be "high type American college youth". If not entirely, at least gentlemen enough to respect the rights of others.

But it's certainly not a rare occurrence when from the walls there is a reverberation of... (deleted by ed.) at all hours of the day and night. There are far more uncouth names shouted from half the distance of the quad. Again, surprisingly enough, these addressed never deny the accusation.

We're still full of surprises, because the origin is the "monkey-cage" community referred to as East College. Indicated met all residents of that building aren't offenders, but for some unknown reason, that's where it all comes from.

I don't believe it fair to those who are studying or those sleeping should stand for such "gutter-bum" conduct. Respectfully yours,

To the Editor:

In last weeks Bucknellian the lead editorial suggested that we, as students should take the initiative in bringing forward "gripes". That is as it should be. Since we are to be the ones who "stick our necks out", I offer this letter as an opener in that direction.

Here are the facts:

The purpose of Bucknell is to provide a program where a person who (See LETTERS, page 6)

A new statement of Western Allied policy toward Germany has been agreed upon by the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain and France. It is understood by the keener political observers that it is a reaffirmation of the policy already in force of gradually helping Germany to develop as an independent democratic state capable of playing her part in the European family of free nations. The statement has been communicated to the Bonn Government immediately in order to give the Western German leaders an opportunity to study it.

Although this statement of policy agreed to by Dean Acheson, Ernest Bevin, and Robert Schuman was in a sense merely a reiteration of the Potsdam protocol of Nov. 24, 1949 which granted more elaborate powers to the Bonn Government, it probably was one of the most important achievements of the Big Three Foreign Ministers' Meeting. There has been considerable discussion among the Big Three as to just what general policy attitude should be taken towards the West German State. England and France have clashed over the idea of rearmament of the western sector. With the reaffirmation of the 1949 protocol it appears that France's point of view has held sway. However, the Anglo-American doctrine that Western Germany should be made into a strong, independent democratic nation has received added impetus as a result of these talks.

THE CZECH SITUATION GROWS MORE TENSE.

On Saturday, May 13, the United States ordered the Czechoslovak Government to reduce its diplomatic staff in this country by at least two-thirds and to close its consulates in Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

This was the second move of retaliation against the Prague regime in three weeks, and it clearly reflects the growing impatience and dissatisfaction of the US Government with the measures being taken against United States Officials. This second US action is the outgrowth of the past months in Chicago. On April 21st, the United States closed the Czechoslovak Consulate in Chicago. On April 28th, the United States staff in Czechoslovakia was cut by two-thirds. The American feelings on this newest move were further aggravated when the Foreign Office of Czechoslovakia abruptly decided on May 10th that the staff reduction would have to be completed within a week, only May 17. The US note in retaliation has set no deadline for compliance except that the request be met within a "reasonable time", usually considered two weeks. This is the ever growing tension between the satellite nations and the United States continues on its dark path. This newest step on the part of Czechoslovakia has caused an already wide gap to increase. Continual maneuvers of this sort will inevitably end in the breaking of diplomatic relations in action, if this is not already the case in thought.

THE SUPREME COURT BACKS TAFT-HARTLEY PROVISION.

One of the basic provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act is the signing of a non-Communist affidavit by Union Officers. The affidavit reads essentially as follows: "I am not a member of the Communist party or affiliated with such party. I do not believe in and I am not a member of any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States Government by force." The penalty for officers who refuse to sign to the denial to his union of the protections of the act. These protections include, certified collective bargaining agent for union, and right to charge employees with unfair labor practices. When this act first went into effect, the affidavit provision was bitterly opposed by union leaders as an infringement upon the personal liberty of an individual to believe as he wished. The affidavit was challenged openly in court by many unions to sign.

Last week the Supreme Court by a 5 to 1 majority found the affidavit requirement constitutional. The ruling came on the challenges to the act by the CIO United Steelworkers and the American Communications Association. This new ruling will probably have little effect on most of the major union groups. Since 1947 both AFL and CIO have gone on record in favor of signing the affidavits, because they cannot afford to waive the protection of the law. Only John L. Lewis has refused to sign up, primarily because he protests against the Taft-Hartley Bill as a whole.

MEMOIRS OF MAY DAY

What is so rare as that day in May,
When the family arrives for the weekend stay.
They made it in the year and the year before
And they came this year to see some more
"Flowers for Mother," says a note from Dad,
"And well be there for the Derby," that isn't bad,
But then only parents but numerous kin.
A lengthy luncheon, full of parent-like chatter
About jobs and the summer and things that don't matter.

And finally finishing a sundae that's branded
You rush to the gym and buy an apple that's candied
Then climb to a seat, in those blasted bleachers,
Mother checks program for various features.
As Dad starts to light a favorite cigar,
He spots the sign, No Smoking there,
And Dad takes it all in a toker's way,
But this is a weekend made for mothers,
Not fathers or sisters or little brothers.

The dancers dance and the tumblers tumble,
And fathers behind programs start to grumble,
But mother smiles and waits for the queen's crowning,
Never notices that her son is frowning.
After it's over, they must greet friends a-plenty,
Mother was a member of the class of twenty.
Dinner at six at the Milton Hotel.
The steak is good and Dad thought that... well,
We haven't got time, must eat right away;
It would be awful to be late to the play.

Twelfth Night is over it's eleven twenty-five,
We'll meet you for breakfast at nine-forty-five,
Church over, the minister shakes hands with a nod,
You know, but they don't, he's thinking, "Great god."
Not wanting to speed the parting guests,
You casually mention those Monday tests.
Dad recalls that the traffic is slow,
Especially on Sunday they'd better go.
Thus they leave with a last minute flurry,
Even the farewells are made in a hurry.

The sociologists look wise and calmly proclaim,
That May Day's an old custom with a different name.
Call it a folk-way, tradition, or custom
As for me, I just don't trust 'em.
The whole thing was started by a fiend without senses,
At this University, Bucknellensis.
Mother enjoyed it, and it was her Day,
And as the family are on their way,
You know, full well, that in exactly a year,
There'll be a note from Dad, and they'll be here!

New Hazing Rules To Be Drawn Up By SFC Members

Should freshman hazing be abolished?

This was one of the main questions brought up at the Student-Faculty Congress meeting last Wednesday. Faculty members reported on what they felt the faculty opinion on the matter was and following a discussion of the matter, President Jack Thomas appointed a committee of students and faculty members to draw up a suitable program for hazing next year.

President Thomas, reporting for the Artist Course committee, announced that the committee had asked the Budget committee for $2,400 to be used to engage the Baltimore Symphony or a similar organization for next season.

President Thomas officially announced the officers for next year and turned the gavel over to the new President, Jack Maehy. Other officers are: Vice President, Sylvia Harbaugh; Secretary, Mary Ann Rice; Treasurer, Harry Staley.

Thomas announced that student voting had been much better this year than in recent years. Voting figures this year indicated a 100% increase over last year.

Other business at the bi-monthly meeting was the announcement that the S. F. C. minutes will be published in the Bucknellian next year. Professor Souders reported that the Lecture Series committee had a balance for the year of $31,470.

MU PHI SYMPOSIUM

Mu Phi Epsilon celebrated their annual symposium at a banquet held in the Hotel Lewisburg Monday, May 15, at six o'clock. Thirty-two attended the dinner including alumnae, patronesses, active and pledges.

Mr. Meyer Nimoff spoke on the memories of Mu Phi Epsilon, and madrigals were sung. Peggy Nippes and Patty Wagner were co-chairmen of the program.

Donald H. Betty Elected Tau Beta Pi President; Sheridan Vice President

ART TROAST ELECTED PRESIDENT OF SAM

Art Troast was elected president of the Society for the Advancement of Management at a meeting held last week.

The other officers for the fall semester include vice president, Don Dulmage; treasurer, Nick Packer; secretary, Ernie Kessler and Lee Hanna who will act as assistant treasurer. Bob Albert, Harry Miller, and Ted Simpson were also elected to the Executive Council.

Ray Irwin, director of the Placement Bureau, spoke to the chapter briefly, and thanked the members for acting as hosts at all interviews sponsored by the Placement Bureau. The society also voted to cooperate with the Placement Bureau over the summer months by contacting various industries and securing data which will be helpful not only to the bureau but also to prospective job-seekers.

Since 1933, no books, except those used for propaganda purposes, have been imported. Students in the past year period in Germany have no means of studying the various aspects of American life and history. Through book contributions, German students of political science may gain insight into our government and discover methods applicable to governing Germany in the future.

The most important books in order are: history books; books dealing with all fields of political science; any literary, especially American or English; Sociology and Psychology; and language texts.

Used Textbooks To Be Sent To German Students

German students need your textbooks! Delta Phi Alpha, German honorary, will place books in dorms in the near future, to collect old textbooks to be sent to German Universities by the World Student Service Fund.

German in all walks of life want to know about America and our way of life. Their previous opinions of American life are necessarily superficial due to our movies and occupation forces. The Russians, living next door, have personal contacts with the German which we lack but these barriers to good will may be overcome by our book contributions.

Certificate Awarded To ASCE Chapter For Meritorious Conduct

The Student Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers has been awarded a certificate by the Board of Directors of the ASCE for "excellence in the effective and meritorious conduct of their affairs."

The honor places the Bucknell chapter among the top 15 of the 125 chapters in the nation. It is the first time the chapter has received the commendation since its establishment in 1921.

The award covers the 1949 year ASCE activities during that time included many inspection trips, a banquet and picnic and numerous educational meetings. The chapter also publishes a technical magazine, "On The Level," twice a year.

Other colleges in this district to receive the commendation are Carnegie Tech and Case.

Jack looked like a duke. "I never seen so much consistent character built up out of what was given to Janet."

Mr. Harvey Pomeroy stated. Jan was slightly hampered by a severe black dress in the early scene but her lines came across with clarity and consistent meaning.

Jack Jefferson embodied the spirit of "Twelfth Night" in a rollicking and inspired portrayal of the ever-drunk rascal Sir Toby Belch. Jeff seemed to set the tempo of the show with his antics which were tempered

Tossers Lose Heartbreaker To Crusaders On Own Field In Extra Innings Go, 4-3

Bucknell's diamondmen had a ballgame all but won with one away in the ninth inning here yesterday. Susquehanna, however, rallied to tie the contest with the aid of two base hits and an error, and then went on to beat the Herd 4-3, with a tally in the tenth inning.

After the first batter for the Crusaders popped to catcher John Dyer in the ninth, the left fielder, Wisniewski, batted a single to left center. Backstopper Martin then singled to center, sending Wisniewski to third.

When center fielder Charlie Conklin let the ball get away from him, Wisniewski tallied and Martin raced to third where he promptly scored on a passed ball by Dyer.

The Crusaders scored the winning run in the tenth on a single by key-stoner Orris and a triple to right by center fielder Fentamacher.

Seaman Surprises
Cal Seaman, who usually plays the outfield, pitched for the Herd and he twirled a fine game till he was removed in the tenth. Seaman pitched three-hit ball until the ninth and he retired 20 batters in a row before Susquehanna knocked the count. Seaman walked only two batters and struck out two. Cal was relieved by Snyder in the tenth.

Condon twirled for the Crusaders and he went all the way to post his third victory against one loss. Condon gave up six hits while only walking two batters and striking six.

Take Early Lead
The Susquehanna nine hopped off to a one-run lead in the top half of the second. Orris stopped a single to center. Shortstop Wallaston batted a triple over left fielder Sinclair's head, scoring Orris. Wallaston tried to go all the way home on his hit, but he was cut down at the plate on a fine relay from the outfield by center fielder Conklin.

The Herd tied the score in the bottom of the third on a walk to Seaman and a three-bagger to centerfield by second-sacker Flavio Nardone.

The Lancers went ahead in the fourth on the fourth when they got two runs. Dyer slashed out a single and was sacrificed to second by third-baseman Andy Shirk. Dyer rode home on shortstop Jack Webber's single.

Sinclair promptly singled Webber to second. Webber stole third when catcher Martin threw to first trying to pick off Sinclair. Then on the following pitch Sinclair broke for second and the throw failed to nip him. Meanwhile Webber had broken for the plate and he scored standing up to give the Herd a 3-1 lead.

The game settled down to a pitcher's duel until the ninth and tenth frames when Susquehanna snatched victory from defeat to hand the Herd their fourth loss of the season.

PERFECT DAY AT BAT
Nick Danforth, Bucknell infielder, made five appearances at the plate against Muhlenberg without an official time at bat. He sacrificed a runner and was issued four walks.

NO WALKS
None of the coaches complained about wildness on the part of the pitchers in the Bucknell-Susquehanna game here recently. Neither Bucknell's Art Raynor nor Bob Roche, Syracuse hurler, issued a walk during the nine-inning fray won by Bucknell, 3-2.

Raynor Pitches Fourth Win As Herd Trounces Vanted Syracuse, 3-2

Bucknell's baseball team resumed its winning ways here last Friday by setting down a strong Syracuse nine, 3-2. Art Raynor went all the way allowing nine hits and striking out five for his fourth victory in five starts. The dependable Bison right hander was in trouble several times, but he pitched himself out with little damage done each time.

Bob Roche, Syracuse hurler gave up seven hits, fanned five and kept the Herd from scoring until the fifth inning when Bucknell scored twice. It was Roche's third loss against three wins. Both pitchers showed fine control as neither gave up one walk. All five runs were unearned.

Dyer And Shirk Hit
John Dyer and Andy Shirk led the Bucknell attack with two hits apiece, while McKibbin, Conklin, and Raynor all had one. Laverne Hastings, Syracuse third sacker, led the Orange attack with three asstays in five trips to the plate.

Syracuse drew first blood in the third frame when Hastings singled, stole second, and took third on Carroll's single. Carroll stole second and Hastings high-tailed for home on the delayed steal. Kough cut off Dyer's go to second but threw low to home as Hastings scored.

The Orange tallied again in the top of the fifth as Roche singled and Hastings singled. Carroll attempted a sacrifice, but Raynor fielded his punt and three Roche out, at third. Hastings and Carroll advanced on a passed ball and Hastings scored on Snyder's grounder to Shirk whose throw home was low and wide.

Bucknell came back to tie it up in the half of the fifth. Andy Shirk grounded to a double. Jack Webber grounded to the pitcher's box, but Roche tried to catch Shirk off second and threw the ball into center field letting Shirk score while Webber took second. Raynor's timely single sent Webber home with the tying run.

The Bisons wrapped it up in the sixth when Dyer singled and went to second as Carroll let the ball get by him. Andy Shirk came through again with a single which drove Dyer across with the winning run.

Racquetballers Shoutout
Susquehanna For 6th Win And 2nd Blank Of Year

by Bill Rife
Scoring their second shutout of the season, the Orange and Blue tennis team whitewashed the Susquehanna nine, 9-0 in a match held on the University Courts. Susquehanna was able to win only one set during the entire match. This victory gives Bucknell a 6-5 record for the season.

Barbara Stagg, granddaughter of Amos Alonzo Stagg, the "Grand Old Man of Football," played number two for the Crusaders. Although she lost to Nick Scholender 6-2, 6-0, she displayed some fine tennis technique. Bisons fans will all be looking forward to seeing Barbara play again next year. This is her second year at Susquehanna.

SCHAUMBERG TALLYS LONE THREE POINTS IN MIDDLE ATLANTICS

by Craig Hall

By hurling the discus a distance of 177' 6", Sandy Schauberg took a third in this event and thereby provided all of Bucknell's points in the Middle Atlantic Track and Field Meet held at Delaware University last weekend. Schauberg, consistent point scorer in the broad jump and javelin as well as the discus during 1959 meet competition, placed behind England of Muhlenberg, and Harrelly of Albright. England won the discus throw with a heave of 196 feet.

Defeated R. P. I.
Among the Red Raiders' recent accomplishments was a comparatively easy, 88-43, decision over R. P. I. The records posted in that meet have prompted Coach Blum to accelerate preparations for Saturday's encounter. His Bisons, who have won two dual meets and tied for honors in a triangular meet, will be at full strength for the final go of the year.

Jim LeFard, Sandy Schauberg and Jim Stumbaugh will be Bucknell's big ring leaders for points. In three meets they have collected more than a third of the 200 2/3 points the Bisons bagged while distancing Muhlenberg and Dickinson and tying Gettysburg in a triangular meet at Juniata.

Stumbaugh, with 27 points, is high man, but leads Schauberg by only a scant two-thirds of a point. LeFard, who is unbeaten in the 440 this spring, has 24 tallies.

Other Bison track representatives in the meet were Jim LeFard in the 220 yard dashes and Craig Hall in the two mile run.

The team championship was won by darkhorse LaSalle, with Lafayette a strong second and St. Joseph's, third. The only record broken was in the two mile run by Kelley of St. Joseph's who covered the distance in 9 minutes and 37 seconds to better the old mark by three seconds.

SAB MEETING
The Student Athletic Board will meet tonight at 7:00 o'clock in Hunt Library for the purpose of electing a junior representative to the Athletic Council, president Jack Henderson announced this week.

In order to participate in the play-off, Bucknell's home game Saturday, May 20, with Lehigh was cancelled.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

RESEARCH DECENTRALIZED

Du Pont scientists pursue their studies from Buffalo, N. Y., to Orange, Texas

THE DU PONT COMPANY is a large company. Its many manufacturing plants are now located from Maine to California. Likewise, the Company's research activities are spread over a wide area. From the Founder's informal scientific experiments on the Brandywine have sprung 42 research and development laboratories in ten states.

Each manufacturing department* has its own research director and maintains facilities for studies in its specialized fields. Thus, research having to do with dyes, resins and fine chemicals is centered at Deepwater, N. J.; research on cellophane and other transparent wrapping films at Buffalo, N. Y.; research on viscose rayon at Richmond, Va.; and research on coated and impregnated fabrics at Newburgh, N. Y. These are only a few of the places where Du Pont scientists are now at work. Each manufacturing department does fundamental research as well as applied research on new processes and products.

Many types of training At any one time, many hundreds of different projects are under way in these laboratories. Though a relatively large number of Du Pont technical people are chemists and chemical engineers, other fields of training are strongly represented.

Among the scientists working with Du Pont are mechanical, electrical, civil, industrial, mining, petroleum, textile, architectural and safety engineers, physicists, metallurgists, biologists and mathematicians. About 30% of these men and women who are engaged in technical activities at Du Pont hold doctor's degrees.

Interchange of thinking All manufacturing departments may draw on the services of the chemical, engineering and toxicological laboratories of the company in Wilmington. In addition, the Chemical Department's library at the Wilmington Experimental Station circulates literature and patent searches and issues a weekly abstract of pertinent articles found in the important chemical journals of the world. This supplements normal work of this kind done by the various manufacturing departments.

No matter where a Du Pont research man may work, he has every opportunity to use his best talents, to advance as his abilities develop, and to profit by interchange of thinking with scientists whose minds complement his own.

*There are ten Du Pont manufacturing departments — each conducting research: Electrochemicals; Explosives; Fibers & Plastics; Film, Chemicals; Organic Chemicals; Photo Products; Pigments; Polymericals; Resins.

Behind The Mike

by Hala Fiedler

This week's Program of the Week is rather unusual in that both of its founders are extremely athletic, and are members of several varsity teams. The program is called "Cutting Around" and is presented to the campus by Schleg and Long, which translated means Nick Schleg and Connie De Luca. It's a glorified disc jockey show in which the boys are presenting to you "the cooler sounds in modern music." This is jazz, of course. But they really show that jazz can be beautiful, and oh so smooth!

The founders of this show (Wednesday at 8 p. m.) are boom buddies, and though of having the show, so that people could understand jazz correctly.

Nick is a member of the Varsity basketball and tennis team, and Connie is on the track team in addition to his basketball playing. In spite of these rather diverse interests, the boys put on a terrific show that's well worth listening to.

They tell us that the game broadcast from Penn State on Monday afternoon, a week ago, was quite interesting. Especially the unrehearsed pre-game chatter that was heard when the mikes were accidentally turned on. Also, the game was supposed to be the first one that was broadcast from the State baseball field. Nice going, WVBU.

The new talk-off on open forums is entitled "Standing Room" only. Students and professors get together to talk about the merits and otherwise of certain pending problems on the campus.

Although some of the problems are not of particular importance, and if they were of great importance, they probably couldn't be discussed with any degree of candor without fear of censorship; still the program has its merits. The program presented on Wednesday night at nine, has some very good opinions. Last week's program had as its guests, Professor Manning Smith, Prof. Roy Tasker, Fred Thomas, and moderator Edgar Fiedler. The subject was the value of fraternities at Bucknell. Some of the views expressed by these men were excellent. This was an initial program, and if it keeps up at this rate, will be a very very popular one!

Why WVBU SHOULDN'T BE CONDEMNED

1. There would be millions of homeless rats, termites and cockroaches.

2. Millions of little leaks would have to be taken care of.

3. The station would be heard over wires instead of through the walls.

4. The town fire warden might not have any business some windy Lewisburg night.

5. There would be one less man on seventh street. Don't let our plans go up in smoke! Don't condemn WVBU.

Yours truly,
 Edgar Fiedler

Movie Chatter

by Mike Kravis

Clifton (Belvedere) Webb makes an appearance, once again, as the father of twelve children in the film Cheaper By the Dozen. With the aid of his loving wife, Myrna Loy, Webb raises his children in a modern and scientific manner. This leads to many humorous incidents.

The picture is very good, but I do not think it rates with Webb's two previous successes: Sitting Pretty, and Belvedere Goes to College. A sequel to Dear Ruth, Dear Wife is another humorous comedy of situations. The same stars play the roles they created in the previous film: William Holden, Joan Crawford, Edward Arnold, Mona Freeman and Mary Phillips. As before it is the actions of the teen-age daughter, Mona Freeman which starts the ball rolling. This time she puts her finger in "politics and Bill Holden ends up opposing his father-in-law, Edward Arnold as candidate for state senator.

The picture is very funny and quite entertaining. Statistically an average of 1,225 is 76.75% (universal mean). Bucknell's experience table based on 2118 averages showed 1,225 to be 75%.

Assuming fraternity groups are a cross section of the men, the odds, statistically speaking, are many thousands to one against all the fraternities getting above the all men's average.

The value of fraternities is being questioned by faculty and administration, with the leadership in the fraternities being blamed. The leadership example for the fraternity leaders is set by the faculty and administrators.

General policies concerning the Bucknellian are set by the board of publications.

Gay Payne did not graduate in 1955 because of alleged activity with an unauthorized student publication.

Bucknell's financial statements are not made available for general publication.

The new power plant was unnecessarily costly and did not embody the latest engineering knowledge when built.

Bucknell's enterprises engage in unfair business practices against local merchants. The Lewisburg merchant gains generosity in the power plant fund drive.

If any of these statements are incorrect, I will acknowledge it and publicize the correction.

Yours truly,
 Edgar Fiedler

Letters To The Editor...

To the Editor:
 I believe that the administration is to be commended on its recent handling of the infirmary situation. In action indicates to me that the university officials are willing to maintain a fair and cooperative attitude toward student complaints. Now I wish to request respectfully that they take under advisement the investigation of another problem which to me is more serious than the other one seemed to be.

In my opinion that that of many of my fellow students the dining hall system of this university is a great cause of dissatisfaction. I am referring not only to present conditions existing in the men's hall, but also the women's as well. Although I am not in a position to observe first hand the happenings at the women's hall, I know from reliable sources that the girls are not satisfied with the present arrangement.

The father of a college student recently went to his son's boarding house, walked into the living room and asked, "Does Jim Jordan live here?"

The roommate's voice answered from within: "Yeah, just lay him on his bed and let him sleep it off."

Well—there goes his allowance.

 A columnist in the Suffolk Journal presents some scenes that he would like to see occur "just once" in the movies.

1. Poor boy chases rich girl without telling her that he won't take a cent of her money.

2. Hopalong Cassidy hanged in the first reel.

3. Cowboy villain dressed in white and cleanly shaven.

4. Driver of a speeding car who continually faces girl while talking to her—wraps the car around a pole.

Wilson, Williams To Present Joint Recital

Selections representative of several periods in the history of music will be presented in a joint recital tonight in the First Baptist Church by Miss Dorothy Wilson and Frederick O. Williams, members of Bucknell's Department of Music. The recital will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Wilson, instructor in music at Bucknell, will play five piano numbers, including one of her own compositions. A tenor, Mr. Williams will sing 17th and 18th century classics, three favorites of Schubert and selections of the 19th century Romantic period.

Mr. Williams, who directs the Bucknell Women's Glee Club, is assistant professor of music at Bucknell. He will sing "O del mio dolce" by Gluck; "Se Florida e fedele" by A. Scarlatti; "Rendi il sereno al mio" by Handel; "Dies Illudina" by Mozart; "Hark, hark the Lark", "Who is Sylvia" and "The Shepherd on the Rock" by Schubert; "Ma" by Faure; "La Clouche" by Saint-Saens; "Evening Prayer" by Moussorgsky; "Pipes of Gordon's Men" by Hammond; and "Clouds" by Charles.

Three Bucknell students, Madeline Isaac, will assist Miss Wilson in the playing of "May Dance," a composition by Miss Wilson for two pianos and eight hands.

There are three matches left to play. One will be against Lehigh featuring the winner of the Juniata tournament. The strongest team engaged so far, has been Juniata which Bucknell lost 6-3.

About 5 different men have been used by Coach Evans. Of these there are 2 Juniors, 1 sophomore, and the rest are seniors. Fred Anderson, alternating at the 5th and 6th positions, has been the most consistent winner on a team which will need much new material next year.

Critic Forum...

with a sense of timing, a flair for money, and a complete understanding of the part.

Jane Brown added spirit and drive in a brightly interpreted role of the prank-loving Marie. Dr. Martin stated that Jane's smashing entrance into the drinking scene was to him one of the most enjoyable moments of the show.

Sir Andrew Aguecheek became one of the truly slapstick roles of "Twelfth Night" in the hands of Web Smith. "A bit too dancy on Friday night!" Web still received a lot of audience reaction for his inimitable pantomime and facial expressions.

The trio, Toby, Maria and Andrew, were especially praised by Miss Sanders for co-ordination of speech and action. Their casual actions and the rapport that existed between them put the comedy scenes over as nothing else could. They were having fun up on the stage—and it looked like it.

Fred Casciato as Sebastian was pleasant and convincing. A newcomer to the stage, Fred had a lot of hard work with diction and movement that resulted in a fine acting job.

Fabian, played by Mark Jacobson, was described as "perky" and had an easy stage presence. All his lines didn't come across, but Mark was at ways with it on stage and seemed to enjoy the part.

John Harvey as Feste the jester gave something new to the part. He added finesse and humor which put across the difficult puns and gave extra meaning to what could have been a stock character. John's impersonation of Sir Toby the curate was well done and his singing was enjoyable.

Stu Whyte as Antonio had good actions and diction but was inclined to put a bit too much poetry into his lines. His make-up made him look too fierce to be lovable.

Don Heist as Valentine, Frank Hoffman as the sea captain and Paul Jackson and John as the officers were competent and convincing.

On the production end, criticism was not as favorable. The sets were excellent but the time required for changing them took more time than that of this world.

Concert Hall Finale Presents Russell Miller

For its final program of the season, the "Bucknell Concert Hall" on May 11, presented a recital by Russell Miller, prominent violinist and teacher at the Bucknell Music School. A weekly series of programs over Sunbury station WKOK, the "Bucknell Concert Hall" will resume broadcasting in September.

Mr. Miller played four pieces solo in his violin recital two weeks ago. These works included the Chaconne in G Minor by Tomaso Vitali, A Rondo by Mozart, the Nocturne, Opus 27, No. 2 of Chopin and Giuseppe Tartini's Fugue in A Major.

The "Bucknell Concert Hall" has been a distinct success this year bringing to the microphone such groups and artists as the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, the Vagabond King, cast, duo pianists—Miss Toby and Miss Wallin, and the Chapel Choir. It is hoped that next year even more success can be achieved by this excellent program.

The scenes themselves. Scene 3, for example, took 90 seconds, while the change from 3 to 4 took 6 minutes. The audience was meanwhile brought back to reality by the discordant strains of "Come Away Death" which was original if nothing else.

Several of the distasteful jokes took place in front of the curtain were slightly interrupted by a hand reaching out to grab the microphone used to hold back the curtain and prevent the actors from falling over the footlights.

Costumes were colorful but tended to lose heavily on reds. Lighting could have been improved on the sea-coast scene in which one side of the stage was almost in darkness.

Up went in for more detail than we've seen here before and deserves applause for fine jobs, especially on Toby, Andrew, and Malvolio. To our knowledge, this is G.D.'s first trial with putty noses. Bill Billip is to be commended for all except the priest who can only be described as "out of this world."

James Hunt Appointed Engineering Council Head

James Hunt '51 is the new president of the Engineering Council for the 1950-51 fall and spring semesters, a Council spokesman said this week.

Aiding him in governing the organization next year will be Dick Panton, vice president; Mike Krivak, secretary and Frank Kelly, treasurer.

THE BUCKNELLIAN

THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1950.

Who Owns Bucknell?

Senior Chapel and the President's picnic are now history. In just a few days, graduation will also be history. History has traditionally repeated itself, in that 100 classes have graduated from Bucknell University.

You might comment, "Profound!" But did you ever stop to think that possibly we are tempting fate when we take it for granted that the University will always be here?

Just how important do you think that cherished diploma would mean if the school should enter the history books? The way modern trends are leaning to state education, it is in the realm of possibility that in 10 or 20 years, Bucknell University might become a state home for the aged, or a State College.

To that bid of fantasy, you might say, "They'll take care of it," which all brings to the front the point we're trying to get across. Who is this "they" everyone talks about when the "owners" of Bucknell are mentioned?

Bucknell University, as we see it, is merely a scrap of paper called a charter and a group of buildings. No one person or group is the absolute owner, for the real heart of the school is an abstraction.

The University is made up of five component parts: the board of trustees, the administration, the faculty, the students, and the alumni. Each group has a job to do, and each part contributes something to the whole.

For the past four years, more than 375 men and women have made up one-fourth of the student body. Their job was to learn, among other things which we won't dwell on.

For the remainder of their lives, the class of 1950 will be members of another group of Bucknellians: the alumni. The process of graduation is merely a shifting of Bucknellians from one group of "owners" to another, with a change in responsibility and function.

In the past, we are sure that the majority of our graduates felt that they lost their "citizenship" when they left the campus. Our Alumni Office is partly to blame, but most of the responsibility of becoming active alumni belongs to the individual class. It has been charged that our far-flung Alumni Clubs need new blood. The various Club officers are leaders in their communities, and lack only active members to bring their organizations up to the standards that part-owners of an institute of higher learning should set.

The 100th graduating class has done a commendable job in the past four years. They have the leaders to make the class of 1950 an active and interested alumni group. . . . Go to it, Seniors!

OFF THE EDITORIAL CUFF

The 1950 L'Agenda, besides being an artistic masterpiece, has something to say for a change. Nice going, Joe Rubinstein and the staff!

If the buildings and grounds department doesn't soon place some benches around campus, there's going to be a lot of money spent on dry cleaning.

Dr. Dale S. Spotts, president of the Philadelphia Alumni Association and recently tapped to ODK is to be commended for his interest in the student body. His open invitation to the Philadelphia alumni club dance this weekend is just one example of his strong leadership in Alumni activities.

Let's hope that the fresh regulations passed yesterday by the Student Faculty Congress will be supported by the upper-classmen next year.

This is the last issue of the "Bucknellian" for the semester. Our staff has to take final exams, too.

It was about time that someone recognized the power of the woman in helping their husbands through college. Bucknell's action in awarding the honorary degree of D.T. to wives was recognized in college papers throughout the nation.

A STATEMENT OF POLICY

Throughout the course of this past semester I have endeavored to give to you, my fellow students, an unbiased factual account of the news events of the past week. My intentions in following this pattern of reporting have been noble. I had hoped that it would enable every person who didn't have the time to read the daily newspaper to get a broad background on the current domestic and international happenings. Moreover, it had been my sincere hope that this factualized reporting of the events as they actually took place would serve to stimulate you into thinking about the happenings in the world. I believed that such stimulation was and still is absolutely necessary, because it is our future, our world which is undergoing its severest tests in history. I believed that such stimulation was necessary, because, at the expense of being trite, a knowledge of the world life about us is part of a student's broader educational pattern. It had been my opinion that I could achieve these goals by presenting the medium, news, by which we could generate within ourselves this rare thing called stimulation.

However, I have failed in creating this awareness in you. My failure is not due to your inability to generate self-interest in a column of this nature, but rather because I have been unable to create such an interest. With this full realization in mind, and working by the guideline of Emerson's famous line—"Consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds"—I have searched by attitudes concerning the principle upon which this column should be based. I have endeavored to find the solution to the problem which has plagued three writers before my time—how to get people to read the World Wide. I believe I now have the answer, but proof positive will lie in your reactions.

It has always been my belief that this column should be written by one person for the enlightenment of the group. This has been the basis of all my previous columns. In mulling over this guiding principle I have recognized a fallacy in it. It is now my opinion that the World Wide should be representative of the thinking of the students of Bucknell University, as well as for general enlightenment, because both are interested. The basis of such a revision in principle comes from the apparent interest of almost all the students in my classes about world affairs. While many were unable to quote facts and figures to back up their arguments, or were a little hazy in their thinking, nevertheless, they almost unanimously entered into the discussion with unusual classroom vigor. What have been the topics which have developed this enthusiasm within my classrooms? We have discussed among other things, the West-East "cold war", the management-labor problems, politics in general, the farm situation, racial discrimination, the dollar rate, and innumerable other problems with which I am sure you have had some contact. I have been personally enlightened many-fold by the comments of my fellow students, and have been taught to see the other person's viewpoint on any major problem.

Then, with all these factors I have mentioned throughout this column I say to you that my principle will be a one word guiding policy—CHALLENGE! When the paper resumes activity next semester, my column shall come as a weekly challenge, both to you and me. This column will become a forum of opinions, a forum of fact, and I sincerely hope a thought-stimulator. I intend to do this by giving my opinion upon major problems, and campus problems which relate to the larger whole. I shall endeavor at all times to keep away from the heated and stock comments on these affairs. Furthermore, while I proclaim to be no final authority in these issues, I at all times try to reach for deeper into the basic problems than the superficial causes of particular current and campus events. I am very hopeful that some people will agree with what I have to say, but I am more hopeful that some will disagree so violently that they will take time out to write and answer my contentions. Those people who do write me shall have their opportunity in print. After each article I write, I shall devote the next column or columns to the answers I receive. I shall enter these notes which differ more readily than affirmations, and ones, regardless of whether such differences are based on fact or emotion. Thus, you can see that in order for my column and YOUR column to be a success next semester, it will require some effort. I believe that my fellow students have enough intelligence and enough interest to do this. The success or failure of this column rests squarely on our shoulders, let's really give all our fellow Bucknellians something to think about.

Letters to the Editor

May 20, 1950

To the Editor:
I do not regard myself as being in a position to criticize any member of the faculty or administration. I would, however, like to comment on the subject of preparedness. The gripe was presented as a list of "facts"—"facts," however, which were not honored by even the mention of proof.

"Bucknell" officially fosters discrimination on the basis of scholarship and family membership. Naturally! If Mr. Fryling means that the University gives preference to high school students with a high scholarship rating, this is only as it should be. As for the family membership angle, we only do the same as other schools in favoring children of alumni, all other factors being equal.

If Mr. Fryling thinks that little is being done to promote research here, let him but take a look around him. Even a cursory glance would reveal that the Bucknell Engineer, the learned Bucknell University Studies, and the Scholars' Club. Individual work by professors goes on constantly; the results often are visible in publications in their fields. And at a recent faculty meeting, President Hildreth took a revolutionary step by stating that money for faculty research should be included in the departmental budget.

Mr. Fryling assumes fraternities to be a cross section of the men. But they are not. Their very essence is a department is underfunded or ill equipped thus contributing an additional burden to the member of that department.

If the university is at all interested in maintaining a reasonably high scholastic average they will attempt to correct this difficulty. It is not fine buildings and impressive grounds that make a college; but the efficiency of its faculty.

Production Heads, Director Chosen At C&D Meeting

Margo Rauch and Web Smith were named director and production manager respectively for Cap and Dagger's 1950 winter production of "Our Town". Jack Rickart was selected production manager for "Ah Wilderness", fall play in 1950.

Credits lists for work on "Twelfth Night" have been posted in Bucknell Hall and on the bulletin board in Larison Hall. The names of candidates for membership were presented and will be voted upon at the next meeting, Thursday, May 25. Public Relations director asked committee heads for a list of people working on their committees for the purpose of giving them membership points. At the next meeting, the Little Theater Committee for next year will be designated, and the campaign organization and general plans will be presented.

The schedule for production of "Twelfth Night" for commencement weekend will be presented in full at the next meeting. An improved performance is expected, since the critic forum has made specific suggestions which will be followed. Rehearsal will be held at 8:30, May 22 in Bucknell Hall.

Forty Members Of AIEE Inspect Westinghouse Radio Plant In Sunbury

Inspection trips to the Westinghouse Radio Plant in Sunbury were made by electrical engineering students. The trips were sponsored by the student chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Over 40 students attended and saw the production of radio and television sets, from chassis to finished product, on the assembly line.

Bucknell Greeks Entertain Orphans And Lewisburg Kiddies At Picnics

Two picnics for Lewisburg children were held on Saturday, May 20, with the Delta and the Phi Zeta and the Phi Lambda and the Phi Psi serving as hosts and hostsesses.

The Phi Pi-Phi Lambda annual children's party was held at Cowan with twenty-seven children ranging in age from five to ten as the guests, while the Delta and the Delta Zeta entertained children from the Evangelical Home.

Another Tradition Becomes Extinct

The annual freshman-sophomore scrap will no longer be a Bucknell tradition if present plans for abolition of Freshman hazing are carried out. The scrap, along with Senior Tribunal and other forms of hazing termed "degrading" by the faculty, have been outlawed for next year. Freshmen will be requested to follow tradition and wear disks, signs, ties and refrain from walking on senior path, but enforcement of these requests will be confined to social pressure.

Twenty Old, New WAA Board Members Attend Annual Inn Banquet

The annual WAA banquet was held at the Lewisburg Inn last Wednesday. Over twenty guests comprising the old and new boards attended the dinner.

John Walters, retiring president, introduced the year's president, Barbara Snyder, who welcomed the guests and congratulated the group on their successful year.

Philosophy Club To Give Hypnosis Demonstrations

Several demonstrations on hypnosis and a discussion on the relation of mind and body will be presented by John Faurenaught at a meeting of the Philosophy Club tonight at 8 o'clock in Larison Sun Porch, a group spokesman announced this week.

This meeting is not limited to Philosophy Club members but is open to all students.

The professional English honorary, Sigma Tau Delta, elected its officers for the following year at a meeting held Thursday, May 11.

Rocky Rogers is the new president. Other officers include Barbara Segel, Ken, secretary-treasurer; and Nancy Miller, historian.

To the Editor:
Last week The Bucknellian printed a letter to the editor from Edgar Fryling, in which a series of gripe about Bucknell was offered in response to an editorial for grievances. The gripe was presented as a list of "facts"—"facts," however, which were not honored by even the mention of proof.

Blanchard, Yale Professor, To Close University Course

Dr. Brand Blanchard, professor of philosophy at Yale, will address the closing session of the University Course Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Literature Auditorium in an open meeting.

Seniors To Give $1600 To Little Theater Project

Dr. Blanchard appeared here two years ago as the summation speaker for the University Course which was then in the experimental stages.

Well Received
In spite of the fact that Tuesday is the night before finals begin, the members of the course have continued to bring Dr. Blanchard here because of the enthusiasm which greeted his speech in May, 1948.

An especially honored professor of philosophy at Swarthmore, Dr. Blanchard was a member of a committee of five elected by the American Philosophical Association to study the status and function of philosophy in American education.

Results Summed
The results of this study, which were published by Harper's Magazine in 1946, were summed up by Professor Blanchard in a commencement address given that year.

Final Speaker
Class President Art Raynor stated that in contributing to the little theatre the senior class hoped to set a precedent for the offerings of future graduating classes because of the definite need for such a building.

Batmen Sweep Middle Atlantics With Double Victory

Jim Stumbaugh

COLGATE HANDS CINDERMAEN FIRST DEFEAT WHILE BLASTING SEVERAL STADIUM RECORDS

by Craig Hall

Winning in thirteen of fourteen games and amassing a total of 80 runs against 46 Colgate's Red Raiders, the Bisons swept the Middle Atlantic Conference last Saturday. Jim Stumbaugh's jump of 11 feet in the pole vault established the only first for the once-defeated Herd.

The Empire State representatives at least two stadium records, possibly two more, and came within one meter inch of tying another in the most capable track and field performance seen here since before the war. John Schulze and Charlie Powell of Colgate were both double winners. Schulze streaked to victory in the 100 and 200 dashes, while Powell triumphed in both the high and low hurdles. In record breaking performances Clifford Shuts traversed the half mile in 1:37.4, and his teammate, Calvin Stutiff, leaped 6 ft. 2 1/4 in. in capturing the high jump. Pete Salter broad jumped 22 ft. 1 1/2 in. to come within a fraction of the record for that event.

Jim Stumbaugh, Charley Steward, and Sandy Schumberg collected 20 points to lead the Bison scoring. Six Bucknell trackmen made their farewell appearances. Captain Jim Fangburn, Bill Woodcock, Jim Stumbaugh, Cappy Walsh, Jack Purnell, and Jack McMahon all graduate.

Coach Bus Blum, in commenting on this, said, "Although prospects for next year's team are fair, with approximately seven lettermen returning, the loss of these capable performers will be sorely felt."

Summary:

100-yd. dash: 1. John Schulze, Colgate; 2. Charles Stewart, Bucknell; 3. Chet Leach, Bucknell, 10.1.

200-yd. dash: 1. Schulze, Colgate; 2. Stewart, Bucknell; 3. Jim LePard, Bucknell, 21.2.

440-yd. dash: 1. Gordon McAdams, Colgate; 2. Gilbert Roberts, Colgate; 3. LePard, Bucknell, 50.6.

880-yd. dash: 1. Clifford Stuts, Colgate; 2. Jim Hess, Bucknell; 3. Joe Gallagher, Bucknell, 1:37.4.

Mile: Tied for first, George Roach

DOUBLE PERFORMERS

Bucknell has a pair of double-doubles in John Hess, Linerch, and Jack Purnell, Mifflinburg, who hope to earn letters in both tennis and track this season.

When not in tennis uniform, the two don applied shoes for running events in track. Hess specializes in the 440. Purnell has won points in the 220 low hurdles and 880, and in tennis is a member of an unbeaten doubles combination.

Wagner, Lehigh Fall In Consecutive Games, 5-3, 4-2, To Place Herd In Running For NCAA Playoffs

by Clyde McAvoy

The mighty sticks of Bill Lane's "big team" and the good right arm of pitcher Art Raynor and Dick Roush swept the field at the Middle Atlantic play-offs last Saturday with a pair of consecutive wins over Wagner and Lehigh on Bethlehem's Steeler Field.

The Herd, after downing Wagner, 5-3, in the preliminaries, drew a bye which automatically sent them into the finals where they met the Lehigh aggregation that had just beaten Albright and Moravian.

Wagner

The Lanemen, hitting beautifully behind Art Raynor in the first game, wasted no time in going to work on Wagner's Penley when he walked two men in the top of the second. Jackie Weber punched out a single to drive the first run in and when Raynor followed his example a moment later, to load the bases, the distraught Penley walked both Heglein and Conklin to force in two more tallies.

The next inning also gave up a bonus when Bill Franke, his injured left leg tightly taped from knee to hip, drilled a single past the infield. Big Al Heglein did the same and the two runners advanced to 2nd and 3rd on a pitchers balk.

Wachumuch Relieves

Fenley was thumped to the showers at this point and relieved by Ziggy Wachumuch. But the damage was done and it remained only for Weber to repeat his performance of the inning before by slapping Wachumuch's third pitch into left field to drive in Franke and make the score read 4-0 before the side was retired.

Seemingly inspired by these four fast markers, Raynor fanned the next three men in a row to dispel any ideas the New Yorkers had of rallying.

Raynor Whiffs Two

The Herd's No. 1 mound-man did find himself in trouble in the next inning, however, when a pair of inopportune errors by Weber and Shirk loaded the bases and the Wagnermen had almost as many men in the infield as we did. But Raynor relieved the situation beautifully by striking out the next two men successively to end the inning.

Again in the last of the sixth the lane from Long Island threatened after another infield error and a single placed a man on 1st and 2nd. Diminutive Flavio Nardone teamed up with Art Raynor on a pick-off play for one out, however, and Charlie Conklin raced deep into center field to make a brilliant over-the-head catch of Al Paronzo's long fly and threw all the way into cut off any further advances. Heglein grounded out to Weber to end the inning.

Another Talk

The big seventh saw the last of the scoring for both sides. The Bisons, in their half, scored when Franke who made second on an error and a balk, was driven in by Johnny Dyer's (Continued on page 5.)

Raynor & Co. To Go Against Red Raiders Tomorrow In Key Contest

Opportunity will be knocking tomorrow afternoon for the Bisons who will make their final home baseball appearance of the season against Colgate at 3:30 o'clock at Lewisburg.

Champions of the Middle Atlantic Conference, the Herd may or may not be in line for a bid to the NCAA playoffs. At any rate, Coach Bill Lane's squad will enter tomorrow's tussle with Colgate and the campaign finale Saturday at Gettysburg determined to boost the victory average for NCAA consideration.

A victory over Colgate would most certainly call attention to Bucknell's record for the chairman of the NCAA District 2 in Everett D. Barnes, of Colgate. He recently announced that Rutgers and New York University are one-two in the District 2 standings.

Art Raynor, with a record of five decisions and one loss, will be called to the mound for Bucknell. He will be making his final home appearance in a Bucknell uniform, as will senior classmate Charley Conklin and Cal Seaman.

Kappa Sigs Take Trophy In Close Intramural Race With Lambda Chi

In the closest finish in the history of Bucknell's intramural all-year competition, Kappa Sigma snared out Lambda Chi at the wire to win the All Year Trophy by half a point.

Trailing the defending champions all year, Kappa Sigma closed a 42½ gap by capturing the golf trophy and winning two more games in softball than Lambda Chi did.

Kappa Sig took championships in wrestling as well as golf, and despite Lambda Chi's sweep of four fall championships, Kappa Sigma never dropped more than 60 points behind.

Gaining steadily through the spring sports, the Kappa Sigs picked up 34 points when Lambda Chi lost their first golf match of the sudden death tournament. This made the greatest difference.

Bison Golfers Lose To Lehigh 6-3, On Home Links

Playing almost all eighteen holes in a driving rain, the Bison golf squad lost to a visiting Lehigh Team, 6-3, yesterday on the home links.

Harry Cholewicki, Russ Long, and Ben Hoffman scored the lone three points for our side.

Cholewicki lost Dave Baldwin, 1 up; Don Thomas lost to Larry Carpenter, 5 and 4; and Lehigh won best ball, 4 and 3.

John Metz beat Don Manchester, 2 and 1; Long beat Tom Dowdell, 1 up; and Hoffman beat Russ Handweck, 2 and 1; Frank Guttsell beat Van Johnson, 2 and 1; and Lehigh won best ball with a birdie on the 19th hole.

Well, it's just about that time. The office down here is getting ankle deep in old newspapers, and staff members start saying goodbye when they leave Wednesday nights instead of just so long.

But it's been a good year in sports. Some people will deny that. They'll say what's a year? How about our pushing Temple all over the field last fall? Then losing by one point. They'll say how about the Gettysburg game. How about our only winning four miserable basketball games. An how about beat State twice in a row in baseball and then losing to Susquehanna.

To hell with them. And I've got just enough headlines to lay 'em around here to say that and mean it. "Herd Sigs NYU Gridlers, 14-0", "Bisons Blast Delaware, 13-7", "Gridders Drub W&J, 62-0", "Lawracemen Rally In Final Minutes To Gory Buffalo, 21-7", "Successmen Traunce Delaware, 3-1", "Bouncing Danies Defeat Drexel", "Seacemen Go To Middle Atlantic", are a few of them.

And especially to hell with them. I will have my good season.

In the semi-final round of the intramural football playoffs, SAE faces Phi Psi while the Bisons play Phi Gamma Delta. SAE, after a string of five straight victories, was upset by Kappa Sigma in their final game, 1-0, with them in a tie with Phi Gamma Delta for the League I championship. The Phi Gans lost only to SAE. In League II, Delta Sigma won uncontested to finish with a five and zero record. Phi Psi won four while dropping two to place second.

Kappa Sigma defeated Sigma Chi 3-0 to win the 1950 intramural golf championship. In a much delayed playoff, Kappa Sigs' three man squad made a clean sweep of the 18 hole playoff after downing Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Psi, and KDB in the earlier stages of the sudden death competition.

Dick Danforth, Kappa Sig number one man beat Sig Jim Devine, 3 & 1 on the 17th hole. Van Johnson also won, 3 & 1 against Pat Carey. Bill Ward completed the sweep with a 5 & 4 victory at the 14th hole in his match with Terry McGuire.

Movie Chatter

by Mike Kravitz

Dick Powell and Evelyn Keyes do an excellent job as a Royal Canadian Mounted Police sergeant and his wife, in the film version of the popular book, "Mrs. Mike."

Powell is stationed in the frozen north of Canada, and takes his new bride back with him. After enduring many months of loneliness and losing a daughter in a diphtheria epidemic,

Keys almost runs away, but she returns after seeing the courage of other women like herself.

It is a very powerful and moving dramatization of a woman's struggle against the wilderness and loneliness of the North country of Canada.

The "Fallen Idol" is one of the best dramas produced this past season.

The acting is superb, with Ralph

Richardson, Michele Morgan and Bobby Henry in the leading roles.

Eight-year-old Bobby Henry commits a murder, which was in response to an accident. The plot is very simple. It is the excellent acting job, which produces constant tension and suspense, that has brought such great acclaim to the picture.

Backfire is a general run-of-the-mill mystery melodrama about an excog searching for a missing friend, who is mixed up in a murder.

Mr. Backfire is a very good. Virginia

Mayo, Gordon MacLus, Dane Clark,

Edmond O'Brien, and Veeva Lindfor-do ample justice to a plot which requires a bit of imagination at times.

And if the latest engineering knowledge was not embodied in the design, then Rust and Company has an underserved pre-eminence in the field of power plant design.

If Bucknell's enterprises engage in "unfair business practices" against local mechanics, it is done only to give the student a break.

Mr. Fryling seems to exemplify one of the most unfortunate traits of the student critic: thundering before thinking. For upon investigation, many gripes will be found to have no basis in fact. If students would make sure their facts are straight before they criticize, their criticism would be far more effective in an administration which, believe it or not, welcomes criticism.

by Bob Fiedler

In this last column of the year, your reporter is going to stick his neck out in telling about the best thing that happened to WVBU this year.

Nobody will contradict me when I say Harry Felt was the best thing that happened to

WVBU. Harry

the chief technical engineer, has been the person that kept WVBU on the air. Just call him

the guy with no

private life. It didn't matter what time it was, if any thing went wrong with the station, the frantic yell was, "Call Harry!"

And the most surprising part of it was that Harry always came and fixed the defect. It wouldn't be an unusual thing for you to find Harry working half the night, vainly trying to fix some damaged equipment. . .

and succeeding too.

Harry didn't have all the tools and money that he could have used. In fact, he didn't have 1¢ of the money

he needed. The WVBU exchequer was so low, that Harry bought equipment out of his own money. And his job was unrewarding. . . He worked at the station since he was a Freshman, devoting most of his time and energy to this struggling project.

And for what? For low grades?

For sleepless nights? For appreciation? No he worked because he thought here the university had something worthwhile, something worth working for. But with painfully meager appropriations, instead, he worked for a feeble organization, that he had snubbed and neglected by its patrons as if it were the Black sheep of old BU. But slowly, he watched it build up, even against its unmatchable odds. Odds that involved not only lack of money, but careless vandalism destruction. Twice this year, program personnel have destroyed valuable and costly equipment. The second time this destruction place was last week. The station had to be shut off two weeks early. In order to broadcast the Middle Atlan-

Miller, Woods Appointed New Glee Club Managers; Other Appointments Made

Appointments of officers for the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs for next semester were announced recently.

Bill Miller, who was assistant manager of the men's organization this year, and Janet Woods, a member of the girls' sextette, received top positions as managers of their respective organizations.

Reg Hubley will assist Miller, while Harry Shaley will serve as publicity manager and Bob Gibb will act as librarian of the Men's Glee Club.

The women chose the following as officers: Lynn Naugle, secretary; Natalie Isaac, treasurer, and Bobbie Daird, publicity manager.

Bill Miller and Joan Merrill will represent their organizations on the board of directors of the University Players.

Dr. Roy Tasker Is Burma-Bound To Organize Biology Department

Dr. Roy C. Tasker, head of the biology department, will take a one-year leave of absence this summer to organize the first biology department and begin teaching at the University College in Mandalay, Burma.

The University College, founded in 1947, has not had a biology department since their conception, according to Dr. Tasker. Students who desired to study biology had to travel over 500 miles to Rangoon in order to do so.

To Leave June 16
State Department negotiations were concluded Tuesday, May 16, and Dr. Tasker expects to fly from New York City on June 16 accompanied by his wife and their two children, Lois Anne, 15, and William Allison, 14.

The family will reside at the college where Mrs. Tasker plans to assist in youth activities but will not teach any courses.

Taught in China
The biology department head formerly taught at Yenching and Soochow Universities in China for three and one-half years during the 1920's, so the Orient is no stranger to him.

His professorship was awarded under terms of the Fulbright Act which permits foreign nations to purchase surplus war equipment from this country with the provision that the money remain in foreign currency and be applied to educational purposes.

Dr. Tasker and several other educators were selected from hundreds of applicants last April 15.

A native of Anglia, Indiana, Dr. Tasker graduated from Hillsdale College (Mich.). He received his M. A. degree from the University of Michigan and his Ph. D. in zoology from Cornell University. This marks the completion of his 10th year as a member of the University's biology department.

At present those going to Europe are: Sid Cohen, Carroll Barnes, Ed Black, Louise Fowle, Betty Hill, Alice Kershner, Pat Schweiker, Sue Davis, Bobby Lenox, Bobby Hoover, Diane Scott, Joe Rubinstein, Alice Schutte, Ann Cassell, Betty Jean Faust, Jan Clapp, Frances Locker, John Rosen, and Weston Jenkins. Ross Robyns will be student leader of an Experiment in International Living group in Belgium.

Faculty members are: Dr. Harold Cook, Mr. Russell Miller, Mr. Jack Kinnaird, Miss Jeanne Chew, Miss Harriet Love, and Mr. Ralph Ross.

Tollie Reed is going to Mexico, and Dick Linds leaves for Japan with plans to remain there for some time. Dr. and Mrs. Roy Tasker will be in Burma for the next year.

Typhoid shots, small rather hideous passport photos, and futile attempts to budget are the order of the day. In a few weeks many students will be leaving by train, ship, plane and mule train for Europe and point east.

The faculty, not to be outdone, are also yearning for far away places. From the looks of things there is going to be quite a sizeable group joining in a rousing chorus of "G-Bisona" under the Arch de Triomphe sometime in July.

These men included: Robert Bell, Conrad Fedenko, James Hastings, Richard McMahon, John Sippell and Albert Stance.

Wagner...

long hit to right, making the score 5-0.

Two singles by Thompson and Wachsmuth put men in scoring position for Wagner, and when Bill Silva, a 450 hitter, hit to center, Campbell's long heave to the plate was just a fraction of a second too late to cut off the run. Raynor walked fullbeam to hold the bases. Parana then hit to Weber, who batted the ball allowing Wachsmuth to score. Hall, the next batter, drew a walk also, pushing the 3rd and last run across the plate.

Weber Sparkles
And the game ended as the scoreboard still read 5-3 two innings later when Jackie Weber made a startling catch of a ball hit well over his head to make the last out.

Bucknell: 8 hits, 5 runs, 6 errors.
Wagner: 6 hits, 9 runs, 2 errors.
